South Norwalk, Conn., Dec. 10.—"No I intend to have as many drinks as I have made in my lifetime," said Harry Reed, a bartender, to-day, when he was informed that a wealthy aunt had died in Wallingford, Conn., leaving him her entire fortune, estimated at $200,000.

"'Tis be a bad boy as long as it lasts, all right, and then I can go back to making cocktails for other people," Reed went on; "as long as it lasts I won't make a drink, though. Of course I won't get the entire $200,000 right away, but I guess my credit will be good till it comes."

The bartender laid aside his towel and his apron and resigned his position as "keep" at the Hotel Clifford as he spoke.

Reed is a dapper fellow, twenty-five years old, good-looking and an athlete. He can make a living in any of a dozen ways. He was turned from the home of his birth because of his marriage with an actress. He was taken in charge by his widowed aunt, but separated from her a few years ago and he had given up all hope of being remembered by her. Mrs. Margaret Cunningham is the aunt who has thus made Reed happy.

"I will stay right in South Norwalk and will show some of the wooden men about this settlement what the real thing is," said Reed, and he proceeded to open an account at several of the best stores and to fit himself out with the best of everything. Reed says the money will last him two years.

FEASIBILITY OF THE HUDSON BAY ROUTE

Mr. Tyrrell, of Dominion Survey, Expresses His Opinion Favouring It—Says Grain Can be Shipped by That Route

GOOD HARBOUR AT CHURCHILL RIVER

Examiner Special.

Winnipeg, Dec. 10th. — Navigation by the Hudson Bay route is entirely feasible, according to the opinion of Mr. Tyrrell of the Dominion Topographical and Geological Survey. In an interview he explained that he had been sent out on two different occasions by the Government to study the question of navigation in Hudson's Strait. Again during the past summer Mr. Tyrrell was on the bay in a private capacity. When at the mouth of the river he made a complete chart of the harbour with a view of making it a railway terminus. There was no thought absolutely no question about the project of shipping grain from the Bay to Great Britain being feasible. The only really excellent harbour on the coast was that at the mouth of the Nelson River, including the so-called harbour at York. The mouth of the Nelson River was some years ago, considered to be the most likely railway terminus on the west coast, but it had now been found to be out of the question. Vessels had to anchor thirty miles from the shore and to notify the people at York factory by means of sky rockets of their arrival.

RAISE CHICKENS OR LEAVE THE TOWN

The Whole Population of Montezuma Talks and Thinks About Nothing Else Except Poultry Culture

Examiner Special.

Montezuma, Iowa, Dec. 10. — "Love me, love my hen," is the motto, which could be written with propriety over an illuminated gatewway to this little town. If you do no raise chickens you cannot live in this little town, enjoy its society or send your children to school.

A few have tried to live Montezuma without engaging in the poultry business, either for pleasure or profit, but they have always found their dislike for chickens growing into a sort of barrier against friendly intercourse with their neighbours, and they came to be almost social outcasts. Their children were hooted at school, called snobs, and told that their parents were too lazy to work or raise chickens.

HOG HELD AS PRISONER IN JACKSONVILLE JAIL

Ownership in Dispute—Porker Became First Arrest of New Sheriff

Pensacola, Florida, Dec. 10. — A 200 pound hog is actually held a prisoner in the Duval County jail at Jacksonville, in custody of the High Sheriffff of that county, and what makes it all the more interesting is the fact the "arrest" was said to have been the first official act of Sheriff Bowden, who has recently been named to fill a vacancy caused by death.

The animal was taken in custody by Sheriff Bowden because of a disagreement between Ed. Sellers and Robert Smith, both of Jacksonville, and who have put forward claims to the porker. Sellers instituted a replevin suit, making Smith the defendant. Until the courts determine the real rightful owner, the sheriff will hold the hog legally, but literally.

The question was a fine one. Sheriff Bowden considered that when a man was unable to give bail he was sent to prison. The privilege of giving bail was no one of the inalienable rights of hogs; hence to the lock up he was conveyed, although his protests were loud ones.

The hog is not behind the bars, it is true, and is separated from the other unfortunates in the custody of Sheriff Bowden. It cannot be denied nevertheless that he is in the custody of the Sheriff, is detained on the jail premises, and is therefore technically in jail, to remain until the court decrees whether he shall like the Solomon infant incident be shall be cut in twain and each litigant be given one half of him.

Dreaded Insomnia

"I was afflicted with nervousness, and dreaded insomnia so that I never knew for three years what a full night's sleep was. Heart pains and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in my stomach and limbs. Finally Dr Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me." — Mrs. Jas. MAN-BEAST TERRIFYING CINCINNATI'S RESIDENTS

A Revolting Series of Brutal Murders Committed by Fiend, who Defies All Attempts at Capture

GIRLS AND WOMEN ARE HIS VICTIMS

Cincinnati, Dec. 6.—Every woman in this city and Dayton is in mortal terror of being the next victim of the fiend of Cincinnati, the man-beast who has just added his tenth victim to the list of girls and women who have been killed and more horribly mutilated than if they had been clawed to death by an animal. Husbands and fathers are forming independent vigilance committees in all the neighbourhoods where it is feared he may strike, and at present more than one thousand men are trying to track him.

The Police Department is absolutely baffled. There is not a clue. The only thing the detectives have to work on is the horrible similarity of the murders, and from this they know they are dealing with a wild man.

For the past year and a half the murderer has struck at regular intervals, most of his victims being selected in the neighbourhood of Lovear' Lane, and no one has ever seen him except his victims, some of whom have been fortunate enough to escape by reason of the fear their screams have put into the heart of the fiend. But of the few girls who met the man-beast and lived to tell of it, every one of them was nearly frightened to death by him, and not one is able to give any adequate description of him.

All of the women are of good character. In this his crimes differ from those of "Jack, the Ripper," who visited his fiendishness only on women of low character. It is this fact that has made the women in this part of Ohio live in dread since it was first seen that the man-beast was bent on a long series of murders. The most respectable woman in Cincinnati is liable to die if she is caught off her guard in the neighbourhood he roams.

MICHIGAN ICE MEN BEFORE THE GRAND JURY

Indictments May Shortly Follow the Federal Investigations at Toledo

Toledo, Dec. 11.—The Federal Grand Jury which has been investigating the connection of the Ann Arbor and Pere Marquette Railroads with the formation of the Toledo Ice Trust, adjourned last Friday until some time this week, when its report will be made to Federal Judge Taylor.

More than a score of witnesses were examined, many of whom are Michigan agents of the Ann Arbor, or Michigan ice men. Damaging testimony is said to be in possession of the jurors, and indictments are expected.

The Federal authorities have evidence of secret rebates granted the Toledo Ice & Coal Co. It was said to-day that violations of the interstate commerce law involving discrimination, alleged to have been found by the Grand Jury, will be turned over to the United States authorities for the southern Federal district of Michigan.

TOO MUCH POISON SAVED PITTSBURG MAN'S LIFE

Enough to Kill 100 Men Wasn't Enough to End One Man's Life

Pittsburg, Dec. 11.—After taking sixty grains of corrosive sublimate with suicidal intent, enough poison to kill several hundred persons, Arthur Freeman, of Connellsville, will recover, according to the physicians who were called shortly after the man took the poison. Freeman, who is 25 years of age, has been despondent for some time, and last night, in a desperate effort to end his life, swallowed so much of the poison that with the nausea which followed, he was relieved of all its effects, and to this the physicians attribute his recovery.

AN ELDERLY COUPLE ELOPED TO WED

Pursued by Their Own Children in a Long Mountain Chase

Lexington, Ky., Dec. 11.—Fifty-three years of mountain life had put no chill on the ardour of Ballard Cole and Mrs. Nancy Jane Wiseman, of Cumberland Gap, Tenn., who ran away from the wrath of their own children and came here to be married. Cole gave his age to the license clerk as 53 years, and Mrs. Wiseman owned up to the same age. The ardent pair told that they had been forced to walk several miles across the mountains to where they could get aboard a train and escape their pursuing children, who thought that the elderly were too old to know their own minds in the matter.

HUNTING SEASON ON THE WATER SACRIFICED 74 LIVES

70 Other Persons were Wounded—Michigan Leads, with Wisconsin Second

Chicago, Dec. 10.—The casualties of the hunting season in all the States for the fall season numer 74 killed and 70 wounded. Northern Michigan and Wisconsin, where the open season for deer closed last week, went ahead of the record for last year in deaths, 28 being reported this season, against 26 for the previous one, but in the number of persons injured, this year's record falls far below that of the previous one, having only 20 serious accidents which did not result in death.

The larger part of the deaths were the result of accidental discharges of shotguns, many of them occurring while the owners were cleaning the weapons. In many of these cases the victims were children. Many of the deaths were caused by boys who were out hunting, and the mistaken-for-deer reason accounted for a large number of others.

Michigan leads the list in dead and injured, with Wisconsin a close second, the former having 15 deaths and the latter 13. Illinois had eight deaths, three of the victims being Chicagoans, but there were not a large number of persons injured.

FIFTY-FIVE YEARS' SERVICE ON BOARD OF EDUCATION IS GIVEN A FITTING RECOGNITION

An Address of Appreciation Presented to Mr. James Stevenson by His Former Colleagues on Board of Education Last Night

HAD SPENT OVER HALF A CENTURY IN THE PUBLIC SERVICE

To Mr. James Stevenson, who has hte distinction of having served as a member of the Board of Education of Peterborough, as a town and city, for fifty-five years, a presentation was made last night by his former colleagues on the Board.

An address, expressive of the appreciation of the years of public service, which Mr. Stevenson had given, was presented to him by the Board, and acknowledged in a short speech, in which he recalled some of the events of the earlier days in Peterborough, and referred to his long and pleasant association with educational matters in the town and city.

Few men in the Dominion have the distinction of having been a member of any public body for fifty-five years continuously, an honour which Mr. Stevenson has enjoyed, and in view of this fact, it was fitting that some recognition should be given, and this recognition the Board of Education made last night.

The unique feature of the closing session of the Board of Education last night was the presentation of a beautiful engrossed address to Mr. James Stevenson, an ex-member, who had been a member of the Board for over half a century. Mr. Stevenson was connected with the local Board for a period of fifty-five years during which time he has seen the city's educational interests develop from infancy. He has now reached the age of eighty-three and it was only a year ago since he severed his connection with the School Board.

Besides being given an address he was also honoured by having his enlarged photo in a beautiful gilt frame hung up in the Board room in honour of his long association with that important body.

The address which was artistically printed on gilt-edged paper and handsomely framed also contained a photo of Mr. Stevenson beneath which was written in gold letters "Fifty-Five Years a Member of the Board."

When he entered the room he was given a hearty welcome and the following address was read by Mr. W. G. Ferguson, the chairman of the Board:—

Dear Mr. Stevenson,—We, your fellow citizens and former colleagues on the Board of Education, have asked you to meet us this evening to give us an opportunity of expressing to you our respect for your many excellent qualities as a citizen and our kindly regard for you as a genial and warm-hearted man.

As a citizen of Peterborough you have always taken a prominent part in furthering whatever was likely to contribute to the public good and as a man you have ever been among the foremost in kindly consideration for the unfortunate. But it is more especially of your services as a member of the Board of Education that we desire to speak this evening. Your long connection with the Board, a connection extending over a period of fifty-five years, is, we believe, unprecedented, and we feel it fitting that such lengthened and faithful services should receive some suitable acknowledgment.

We therefore take this opportunity of asking your permission for your portrait to be hung in the Board room not that your late colleagues are likely to forget the pleasant associations of the past, but that our successors may know that we did not altogether disregard public spirit among our citizens.

That you may long be spared to your family and your friends is our earnest prayer.

WM. G. FERGUSON,
Chairman.
W. G. MORROW,
Secretary.

Peterborough, Dec. 10th, 1906.

Dr. Burnham on behalf of the Board supplemented with words of eulogy for Mr. Stevenson the sentiments expressed in the address and presented the portrait which was hung on the wall.

Mr. Hill also had some kind words for the honoured ex-member. He had been associated with him on the Board for a number of years and had always found him to be a conscientious, straightforward man. Mr. Stevenson he said had held as many public offices in the city if not more, than any other man, and he had performed his duties well. He did not think that any man in the province had spent such a long time as a member of a School Board. He believed he had always tried to do his duty and and congratulated Mr. Stevenson on his excellent health.

Mr. Stevenson in reply thanked the Board for its kind sentiments. He had always tried to do his duty when a member of the Board. He had seen the erection of all the schools in the city and had assisted in every way he could in the work. He still took a deep interest in school matters and hoped to see them continue successfully in Peterborough. He jocularly remarked that he had outlived a great number of his friends who would be much surprised if they could see him still so hale and hearty as he was.

THE KIRKFIELD LOCK COMPLETED FOR OPERATION

And the First Trip Will be Made as Soon as Navigation Opens in the Spring—A Trip from Peterborough to Orillia Planned

EVERYTHING LOVELY ON THE CANAL

The Kirkfield Lift Lock will be in readiness for use as soon as the season of navigation opens next year. All the work preparatory to opening the lock has been completed, and with the return of spring it will be placed in operation. The Dominion Bridge Company, the contractors for the superstructure, will operate the lock for a stated, period after the opening of navigation, as a guarantee that it is in perfect working order.

Peterborough to Orillia

As soon as navigation is open a trip will probably be made over the canal from Peterborough to Orillia, to signalize the opening of that section of the waterway, and to mark the completion of another link between the northwest and the east.

Matters in connection with the canal are quiet these days. Everything has been placed in good shape for the winter, and the officials are preparing plans for the work, which will be commenced as soon as spring opens, and closing up the business of the past season.

SPECIAL NOTICE

All members are particularly requested to attend the regular meeting of Peterborough Lodge No. 135, Ancient Order United Workmen to be held on Tuesday, evening, Dec. 11th, at 8 o'clock Business of importance, nomination and election of Officers.

Newspapers Cause Of More Deaths Than The Doctors

In the Case of Appendicitis Local Physician Says Newspapers are Responsible for Many Deaths—Public is Afraid.

THEY GREATE WRONG IMPRESSIONS

A local physician made a serious charge against the newspapers today. He said: "You newspapers cause more deaths from appendicitis than the doctors," and proceeded to explain what, on the face of it, appears to be an unfounded accusation.

Operations for Appendicitis

He said that, contrary to the general impression, only a very small proportion of those suffering from appendicitis, die from the effects of that disease, and that comparatively few of those who were operated upon failed to recover. The public hears, he says, of those who die, but they do not know that out of seventy cases of appendicitis operated upon at the Nicholls hospital, only about five or six died, and those patients were, the majority of them, in such an advanced stage of the disease when they entered the hospital, that they would have died in any case.

Fault of Newspapers

It is, the doctor said, the fault of the newspapers that the public has gained the idea that to undergo an operation for appendicitis, is to invite death, whereas, as a matter of fact, few of those operated upon in the earlier stages of the disease, succumb.

Afraid of the Doctors'

He explained that when people read of deaths following an operation for appendicitis, they are naturally afraid to trust themselves to the doctor who believes that to save their lives it is necessary to perform an operation, and the result is that they frequently hold out until the last moment, hoping that it will not be necessary for them to undergo what they fear will be a fatal operation, and when they finally decide at the persistent request of their physician to submit, they are frequently too far gone to pull through. This condition he lays to the doors of the newspapers, who, he states, are responsible.

Skating Rink Now For Warsaw

Warsaw, December 11th — (Special.) — It is understood that a movement is under way to erect a skating rink in the village. Although the promoters of the scheme have not taken any definite action, yet it is believed that the near future will see a pleasure resort of this description under way. There is little doubt that the enterprise would prove a success financially, as the large number of young people here would appreciate the opportunities for pleasure that a rink would offer, and the managers would be assured of a large patronage.

A meeting will be held shortly for the purpose of organizing a hockey club, which may enter a team in the Lakefield-Bridgenorth League.

WEDDING BELLS

WOOD--JUNKIN

The Toronto Globe, of to-day contains a report of a wedding which will be read with considerable interest in this city, since the bridegroom, Mr. Frank Wood, is a native of Peterborough, and one of the most popular boys from this city in Toronto. Referring to the interesting event the Globe says:—

The marriage of Miss Emma Junkin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Junkin, to Mr. Frank Porter Wood, took place at the residence of the bride's parents, Crescent road, Rosedale, yesterday afternoon, the Rev. Dr. Talling officiating. The bride was given away by her father and wore a lovely cream satin dress, with drapery of Carrick-ma-cross lace; her bouquet was of lilies of the valley, a small wreath of the same being worn in her hair under the tulle veil. Her sister, Miss Norah Junkin, and Miss Pauline Ivey, London, Ont., were bridesmaids, in pretty gowns of turquoise blue silk with garniture of lace, and carried clusters of pink roses; Mr. Wallace Wood, Peterborough, was best man. Mr. and Mrs. Wood left for New York en route to the continent, the going away dress being of becoming green cloth with toque to match.

Ideal Winter Weather Now

Yesterday's clouds and snow gave place to-day, to an unclouded sky and a stiffening of the temperature, conditions which were predicted yesterday. This is an ideal Canadian winter day, good sleighing and not too cold.

The thermometer this morning registered two degrees below zero, and conditions seem favourable to a continuance of the present weather, which, if realized will be welcome to everyone.

There will probably be a gradual moderating process in operation for the next few days, no very cold weather being anticipated for the near future. It is considered likely that some light snow falls will come perhaps to-morrow.

Readers of this paper are apparently coming to place some little confidence in the ability of the Examiner to forecast the weather and numerous telephone messages are being received for information concerning the weather prospects. Correct information may not always be forthcoming, but at any rate there is this satisfaction that the best in the possession of the paper is given.

2 LOCAL INVENTORS PERFECT A NEW WATT METER

Messrs. W. H. Collier and A. B. Cunningham, of Prepayment Meter, Have Recently Achieved Notable Success in Invention

NEW WATT METER'S VALUED FEATURES

Mr. W. H. Collier, B.A. M.E.E, and Mr. A. B. Cunningham, manager and Superintendent respectively, of the Pre-payment Meter Company, of this city have been for some months engaged in experimenting on a new type of recording watt meter They have at last perfected their invention, which embodies a number of new scientific features of practical value. The new meter weighs less than nine pounds, which is about one half the weight of any other watt meter of similar capacity in the market.

Patents have been applied for, and the new meter is now being manufactured by the Pre-payment Meter Company.

The pre-payment meter, which is being manufactured by the same comapny has been on the market only a short time but it has met with a splendid reception by the electric light and power companies, but it will require several years before the pre-paymenter meter will supersede entirely the recording meter. The new recording meter has therefore been designed to fill the present demand, and it will undoubtedly replace many of the older styles.

Description of the New Meter

Cylindrical in shape with a full bevel glass front, and nickel case, it is very ornamental. It is about six inches in diameter and five and a half inches deep, which is exceedingly small and compact for a watt meter. It is sealed so securely that it can be submerged in water without any moisture entering the case.

One of the unique features about it is the dial, which can be read at a glance. In other makes of meter there is great liability of error in reading the dials, and much annoyance has been caused between all companies and their customers. In this new meter the hands on the dial are always directly over some figure and the only error possible is in the carelessness of the person reading it.

One of the new features about the new meter is the regulator which will adapt it to circuits of any frequency and will compensate for any power factor. There are several other features that are of great value and all will be appreciated by electrical companies generally.

Conservatives May Place A Candidate In The Field Nov

Ald. McWilliams Announces Himself a Mayorality Candidate

Chairman of The Manufacturers' Committee Will Contest With Ald. Hicks The Position of The City's Chief Magistrate.

BELIEVES HE IS ENTITLED TO POSITION

Ald. R. F. McWilliams, chairman of this year's Manufacturers' Committee, this morning announced his intention of being a candidate for the mayoralty of the city of Peterborough for 1907.

"Yes, I intend to be a candidate for the mayoralty," he said to an Examiner reporter this morning. "My entering the field against Ald. Hicks is in no sense a personal matter, as we are on most friendly terms. I think, however, that I am entitled to be considered, being the senior member of the Council, and to have the first right to the mayor's chair.

"I was in the Council, and chairman of one of the committees, before Ald. Hicks entered the Council, and I had occasion to follow municipal affairs closely for several years before entering it. During Ald. Hicks' first year I was chairman of one of the committees. I have been out of the Council for one year. I dropped out to avoid the introduction of party politics into municipal elections, and as I intended to re-enter the Council, I kept closely in touch with the business done during that year.

A Short Campaign

"I do not think it is in the interests of the people or of the candidates to have a long campaign for municipal offices. A large number of people have expressed the opinion that they would like to see me elected to the chair, and I will leave it to the voters to decide.

No Three-cornered Contest

"One thing that I want understood is that I will not permit myself to be made use of for the benefit of any third candidate who may try to step in, in the expectation that Ald. Hicks and myself will split each other's vote. If a third candidate should enter the field, I reserve my right to act accordingly.

No Personal Feeling

"I am sure the election will be contested without any personal feeling, and I will certainly confine the discussion to the Council record and policy of the candidates. I have expressed in Council my attitude on every question of importance that has arisen, and at the proper time will state clearly what my views are on all the questions likely to arise during the coming year."

Ald. McWilliams stated that he had suggested to the other chairmen of this year's Council committees that they should remain in the Council another year, and agree upon the best possible man out of the Council to act as mayor. The suggestion was made in order to have the strongest Council possible at this important juncture of this city's history.

HAD FOOT CAUGHT IN A HORSE POWER AND CRUSHED

Painful Accident to Mr.Wm. Dummett, in North Monaghan Yesterday—No Bones Broken But Foot Badly Crushed

THE MISHAP WHILE CUTTING STRAW

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. Dummett, who lives on Mr. S. D. Carver's farm in North Monaghan, met with an accident which may prove somewhat serious.

Men were engaged in straw cutting, using a horse power, and in working around the power Mr. Dummett caught his left foot in the cogs of the machine, while it was in operation with the result that it was rather badly crushed. No bones were broken, but the injured member was exceedingly painful, and Mr. Dummett will be unable to use it for some time.

FORMAL OPENING OF THE JACKSON PARK RINK

Will Take Place To-morrow Night — Many Improvements Made

The formal opening of the Jackson Park rink and toboggan slide will take place to-morrow night, and there will no doubt be an enormous crowd present for the occasion. The slide, with its four chutes, is in splendid condition, and from present indications the boom in tobogganing which set in last season will be surpassed this winter. The ice on the rink is in good condition, and many will take advantage of the opportunity to skate in the open air. An improvement that will be appreciated this year is the restaurant, which will be conducted by Mr. T. Hooper. Hot drinks, etc., will always be available there.

Although the formal opening is not until to-morrow night, the public may patronize the rink and slide to-night if they wish to do so.

COMMITTEE DISCUSSED POWER CO.'S OFFER

Officers of the Company Were Present at the Meeting

The special committee appointed by the city council to deal with the offer of the Peterborough Light and Power Company, to dispose of their light and gas business to the city, held a meeting last night to discuss this most important problem. Mr. Stuart of the Quaker Oats Company, Mr. J. H. Larmonth and Mr. R. M. Donaldson, of the Light and Power Company, were present, and gave much information concerning their plant and business to the committee, which is composed of the chairmen of the various committees of the council.

Beyond talking over the matter and discussing many of the features of the offer, there was no business done last night. The question is a large one and will require a good many meetings before the final steps are taken.

SIXTY TURKEYS BRING OVER HUNDRED DOLLARS

"Turkeys is turkeys" these days. This morning Mrs. John Johnston, of Otonabee, brought to the city a load of sixty fine birds, for which she received the almost fabulous sum of $115, an indication that the householders who want to enjoy a turkey for their Christmas dinner will have to pay something for them.

A few years ago one dollar would have been considered a good price for a turkey, but that was in the good old days. Now, about two dollars is considered a small price. Mrs. Johnston sold her entire flock of sixty to-day to Mr. S. A. Oke, who guarantees that they are all young and tender.

MUST NOT SLAUGHTER CATTLE IN ALDERNY

British Government Refuses to Sanction Scheme to Kill Canadian Cattle on the Island

Examiner Special

London, Dec. 11.—The British Government has refused its sanction to a scheme proposed by a powerful syndicate to bring cattle and sheep from South America, Canada and elsewhere to the British Island of Alderney where it was planned to slaughter the animals and distribute the carcasses in Great Britain. The hides and by products were to be treated for the benefit of the British leather industry, with a view of combating the American beef and leather combines.

LAKEFIELD MAN WAS GIVEN HIS LIBERTY

Disturbed the Peace Yesterday Afternoon —Was His First Offence

Vincent McGee who was arrested yesterday for causing a disturbance on George street, was allowed to go free at this morning's court. He pleaded guilty, and declared that Canadian drink was much stronger than that in the Old Country. He had no taken very much, but little as it was it had proved too strong for him. Magistrate Dumble allowed him to depart to Lakefield, advising him to keep sober in the meantime.

TIMELY ACTION

The article reprinted from the Montreal Herald in regard to the importance of purity of milk supply for popular use, shows what an interest is being aroused among those who have the responsibility of dealing with the subject. This renewed interest in the matter emphasizes the timely nature of Alderman Mountyre's action in procuring the passage of the bylaw providing for the licensing of milk vendors, inspection of premises where milk is produced, and inspection and test of the milk supplied to the citizens. While the inspection made indicates that the premises whence the city supply of milk comes are, generally, clean and sanitary, there are exceptions, and here the benefit of the measures for inspection comes in. In one or two cases, farm or byre premises have been found unclean and unsanitary, and the license has been temporarily withheld. Possibly such conditions are due to a lack of appreciation of the importance of absolute cleanliness, or to a difference of opinion as to what constitutes cleanliness, and no doubt a little plain speaking will develop new ideas and result in improvement. At any rate, the conditions under the bylaw, under which milk is supplied to the citizens, will result in a more satisfactory article, promote the general health, and avoid the many dangers which arise from the use of impure milk, as well as impure food or water.

INCREASE BY IMMIGRATION

The figures of immigration into Canada, for the year 1905, may not appear large in proportion to the immense area to be occupied, or in proportion to the inflow into the United States, but the immigrants invading Canada last year, if they were concentrated into one area, would constitute a population equal to that of the two electoral Oxfords, the two Waterloos and the two Perths, in this province. The reords of the immigration department show that 144,612 persons arrived in Canada, during the year ending December 31, 1905. This number comprised 64,863 from the United Kingdom, 44,427 from the United States, and 35,33[illegible] from the continent of Europe, and The majority of these settled in the Northwest, but many thousands found homes and employment in the older provinces. In 1904 the total number of immigrants amounted to 134,749, comprising 55,913 from Great Britain, 43,440 from the United States, and 35,645 from Europe, and elsewhere. It will thus be seen that there is a steady increase in the volume of Anglo-Saxon immigration, and a slight decrease in the number of other nationalities. As indicating the settlement of the West, the records show that in the provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan, and Alberta, the number of homestead entries made in 1905 was 34,645, as against 26,513 made in 1904. About one-fourth of these entries were made by Canadians, a sufficient number to leaven the population with Canadian ideals of progress and good citizenship.

THE MILK AND RACIAL ADVANCEMENT

There can be no doubt whatever that the recent visit of Mr. Law, of Briarcliffe Manor, has set public and official opinion moving in the right direction in regard to the importance of a pure and wholesome milk supply. There is one point in connection with Mr. Law's address, however, that should not escape attention, and that is his statement, that the price he finds it necessary to charge for his milk, twenty cents an Imperial quart, is much higher than the average workingman can afford to pay. He has solved the milk problem for people in easy circumstances, but how about the infinitely larger and graver problem of the milk supply for the poorer classes?

Pure and wholesome milk is just as essential to the up-bringing of those who have to toil by severe manual labour as of those whose tasks are of an easier and lighter character. Apart from the general awakening and responsibility which is the first necessity in such a matter, Mr. Law's ideals and methods do not help very much. Voluntary effort may come, but it will come only when self-interest points the way. The hope of the many must rest upon the vigilance of the public health authorities.

Municipal sterilization depots have been established with remarkable success in London, and the matter of their introduction might well be taken up in Montreal. The president of the Local Government Board bore testimony to this effect, in replying to a deputation that waited upon the leaders of the British Government the other day. The cost of the maintenance of the depots had, it seemed, been surcharged because it could not be legally charged to the rates under the law as it now stands, but there is little doubt this will be speedily altered. Mr. Burns proceeded to show that in the sterilized milk fed area mortality was less than half that obtaining in similar areas without depots. Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman declared to the same delegation that it was a public duty to see that children are born under healthy conditions and properly nourished—well born and well fed was the striking phrase he used. It is unquestionably to the rearing of healthy and efficiently educated children that we must look for the advancement of the race, and near the beginning lies the milk.—Montreal Herald.

AN UNDIGESTED SCHEME

The question of power supply to municipalities through the Ontario Hydro-electric Commission is still serenely resting in the realm of theory. Mr. Whitney was loudly cheered by his supporters when he announced in the Legislature last session that towns and cities in every part of the province were applying to the Government for cheap power. This statement was made in support of the Government's power distribution policy then so recently inaugurated. But now that the Government is in a position to furnish power the demand has mysteriously diminished. Towns and cities which were announced to be applicants for power now claim that they were merely asking prices and had no serious intentions of buying. One journal published in a town where power had been applied for remarks that there has been a lot of nonsense talked and written about this power question. "No municipality will bind itself to take and pay for so many horse-power of electrical energy until it has a market for it and large manufacturers, which would naturally be the best customers, will hesitate to make their works dependent on a power over which they have not the slightest control. All kinds of interruptions might occur, and if they did, every industry using the energy would be held up. There are these and lots of other things to consider, but they should have been considered long ago." This justifies the conclusion that the Government power scheme has not been maturely considered, and gives rise to the suspicion that a desire for kite-flying and popularity on the head of interest in industrial progress were not quite absent as a determining factor in the adoption of a crude and undigested proposition. It is a herculean work to force trade out of its natural channels, and it is as arduous a task to force industrial enterprise to commit itself to the purchase of power in contravention to the law of demand. The law of supply and demand seem to be, in operation, as unbending as Medo-Persian decrees. While public control of utilities may be all right in principle there are limits to its successful operation.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is constitutional remedies. Deafness is inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

THE SCHOOLS WILL NOT OPEN UNTIL JANUARY 7

Regular Opening Day Comes Too Near to the End of the Week

The schools of the city will open next term on January 7th. This question was brought before the Board of Education last night by Mr. W. H. Hill. He stated that as the third of the month came on Thursday there would be a number of the teaching staff as well as scholars out of town who would not care to return until the end of the week. He moved that the schools be opened on Monday, Jan. 7th. This was seconded and carried unanimously.

THE CHRISTMAS MAIL AND THE WORK IT BRINGS

The Post Office in This City is Beginning to Feel the Rush That Accompanies the Christmas Season

LETTERS, POST CARDS AND PACKAGES

With the gradual approach of Christianity's, perhaps, greatest feast day, there is an accompanying rush for the business man. Christmas, a day of love, from that year when Christ was born in a lowly stable, down through all the ages, has still retained that beautiful sentiment, which fills the heart of universal man on the anniversary of Christ's birth. But as the customs and habits of the people changed in those 1900 years, so did the celebration of Christmas, so that to-day the present prevalent custom is, in the opinion of many people, a bane rather than a blessing. But let cynics and skeptics have their little say, it still remains that gift giving causes a great deal of happiness both to rich and poor.

This custom has developed into immense proportions among all classes, and to the merchants has become, perhaps the busiest season. But if one place more than another gives evidence of the great rush that occours during the Christmas season, it is the post office. Friends remember friends, and intervening space matters little when its love is to be enkindled and maintained by tokens at the happy Christmas time.

The clerks at the local office are now beginning to feel the rush that accompanies this season, and with the increased population they should be besieged, as they have never been before. But they are prepared for this, and Postmaster Rogers has an efficient staff under his supervision, so that the Christmas mails will be satisfactorily delivered.

One of the busiest departments will be, and is, the money order department, under the direction of Mr. Jno. Corkery. Between now and the 25th of this month there will probably be thousands of dollars sent from this office, and also received at it. As it is, each day's business mounts up to a very large sum. Thus far it is mostly foreigners who are remitting money to their homes and families; the general rush should occur during the first part of the week preceding Christmas. As to letters, post cards, papers, magazines, parcels, etc., it is utterly impossible to estimate, even approximately, the number of these that will have to be handled; suffice it to say, there will be tons of them.

This, too, is the season when a large quantity of Christmas stock is purchased by mail from the big stores in Toronto and Montreal. This year it is not probable that there will be a heavy run of this trade. The public of Peterborough are beginning to realize that the local merchants are by no means inferior to those of the larger cities. The prices are often lower, and the quality as good if not better—in fact cases are known when Toronto people have come to Peterborough for particular articles. Thus the merchandise mail orders are not expected to be very large.

What tales are told by the letters and presents which the post office handles! From that received by the aged parents in their humble home from their son who is in the city, to that which the innocent little child addresses to Santa Claus, they all speak of "l-o-v-e." How strangely is business and sentiment mingled! That immense machine, the post office, receives great quantities of written messages and tokens, unclassified and unknown. They are from children to parents, lovers to lovers, showered with expressions of love and tenderness, yes, and often freighted with sadness and sorrow. The machine does its work quickly and well, and hearts are made glad and love fostered, and the peace and joy of the Christmas season increased.

By this means does the post office demonstrate the mighty task it is doing, and its assistance and support to civilization.

"I heard the bells on Christmas Day,
Their old familiar carols play,
And wild and sweet
The words repeat—
Of peace on earth, good will to men!"

MR. JOHN BELL'S PLEA FOR PROTECTION

He Wants the Government to Impose Tariff Restrictions Equal to Those of the United States

To the Editor of the Examiner, —

Dear Sir, — I see on the seventh page of the Examiner of December 6th:

"Christmas gifts are being smuggled at Niagara, but Niagara Falls officials say that they will put a stop to the practice in the future."

Knowing that the Reformers of Peterborough are my best personal friends, I am sorry to point out to them the folly of the Reform Government at Ottawa, in not making the tariffs of these two adjoining countries equal. If this were done, Canada would be head and shoulders above the United States. Our people would not have to smuggle goods, but would have them as cheap as they could be got in the United States or anywhere.

Protect our farmers and our farmers would increase, and we would have farm food as cheap as it could be got anywhere. Protect our gardeners, and our gardeners would increase, and we would have garden stuff as cheap as it could be got anywhere.

Protect our factories, and our manufactories would increase, and we would have their wares as cheap as they could be had anywhere.

Protect all our mechanics, and they would prosper.

Protect all our people, and Canada being the bright star of our great Empire, we would become the greatest people in the world.

JOHN BELL,
Cedar Park.

Kidneys Affected By Sudden Change

MOST PAINFUL AILMENTS FOLLOW —PREVENTION AND CURE OBTAINED BY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

The sudden lowering of the temperature causes the pores of the skin to close, and thus throws on to the kidneys much work which is ordinarily performed by the skin. This, no doubt, accounts for the great prevalence of kidney disease during the fall and winter.

There is no treatment which so quickly affords relief to overworked and deranged kidneys as Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, because they act on the liver, as well as the kidneys, and when in healthful action the liver does much of the work of filtering the blood, which is otherwise left for the kidneys.

Bright's Disease, dropsy, uric acid poisoning, stone in the bladder, and rheumatism are among the most painful forms of kidney disease, and these ailments can always be prevented by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills to keep the liver, kidneys and bowels in healthful working condition.

Mr. W. Ferguson, blacksmith, Trenton, Ont., states: "In my work I am bending over a great deal, and this, together with the constant strain on all parts of the body, and the sudden change of temperature when going to and from the forge, brought on kidney disease and backache. At times I would suffer so that I would have to quit work to ease my back, and felt so miserable most of the time that I did not enjoy life very much.

"At last I decided that I would have to get relief in some way, and having heard of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills as a successful cure for backache and kidney disease, I began using them. To my surprise and pleasure they helped me at once, and a few boxes entirely removed my troubles. Thanks to Dr. Chase, I am perfectly cured, and hope that others may take my advice and use Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills."

Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, by their direct and combined action on kidney, liver and bowels, positively cure biliousness, constipation, and diseases of the kidneys. One pill a dose, 25 cents a box, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

PERSONAL MENTION

Dr. Morrison was in Toronto today.

Mr. F. Pullen, Lakefield, is registered at the National.

P. C. Newhall is confined to his home with a severe cold.

Mr. Fred Young, of Young's Point, was in the city to-day.

Mrs. Donald M. Potter will receive to-morrow — Wednesday — afternoon, and not again until after New Year's.

Miss Jebell Green and Miss Minnie Shipman, guests of Mrs. W. J. Green, Brock street, last week, returned to Campbellford Saturday.

Mr. John George, the G.T.R. baggage master has returned to work, after a two weeks' wedding tour in Cobourg, Ottawa, Montreal and other eastern points. Mr. George is wearing the smile that won't come off.

CHANGES TO BE MADE AT THE CROSSING

Mr. Geo. Campbell, Sr., will replace Mr. Davidson who Leaves for Lindsay

Mr. Davidson the night gateman at the Charlotte street G.T.R. railway crossing will leave in a few days for Lindsay where he will assume similar duties for the G.T.R. Mr. Geo Campbell, Sr., who has been in charge of the G.T.R. bridge over the Otonabee on the Belleville line will take his place. Mr. Davidson has been a very efficient gateman and has won the esteem of many people and should make good in the northern town. Mr. Campbell is well known in this city and will no doubt make a watchful guardian of the public's welfare at the Charlotte street crossing.

TORONTO TEMPERANCE MAN GIVES ADDRESS

Charity Board Determines to Deport One English Family in Dsstitute Circumstances

WERE LED TO EXPECT WORK AT ONCE

The Central Charity Board at their meeting last night decided to send back to England a family of five who are in destitute circumstances, and who for some time have been supported by the Board. The circumstances in connection with the case are unfortunately by no means rare. Many English families have been induced to come to Canada in the expectation that all arrangements had been made for them to start to work when they reached here. Peterborough has received a large proportion of these people who come over here with very little money and expect that positions will have been found for them by the time they reach here.

The following letter received from Rev. K. Davids, of St. John's Vicarage, England, explains why many of these families having been coming to Canada. The communication was received by the Mayor and handed over by him to Relief Officer Miller:

St. John's Vicarage,
Varley Road,
Stamford Hill,
London, N.,
June 2, 1906.

To the Worshipful the Mayor, or Chairman of the Council of Peterborough, Ont.

Dear Sir,—Under a very liberal bounty from Lord Rothschild, we have sent, this year, the men according to the accompanying list, to your town. We have taken very great care to send reliable men, and in each case we hold testimonials from the men's employers speaking highly in their favour.

In order that the men might have a good start in Canada, we sent Dr. Robbins, a gentleman who had lived some years in the Dominion, and who was very strongly recommended to us by the C. P. Ry., as having satisfactorily arranged for the settling of men for them.

He undertook to arrange with an employer for work for the men, and to secure a temporary home which was to be ready for them on their arrival, and also to obtain the help of some citizen in your locality who would see that the men had a fair start.

In order that there might be no mistake, as soon as these arrangements were completed he was to write a letter with full directions to the Post Office which the men would receive on calling for it, and the Agent in charge of the Railway Station was to be warned of the men's arrival and asked to give the people help and tell them where to go.

This scheme seemed to us complete; and Dr. Robbins came to my Parish Hall and informed the men that he had been instructed to carry out this arrangement, and that he was going to Canada to do so, and I trust that our plans have been satisfactorily carried out.

I should, however, esteem it a great favour if you would make full enquiry into the matter and would at the same time let me know how the men are getting on. I shall be glad also if you can inform me whether their employers are satisfied with the men. Any information you can give me, or advice as regards the future, I shall very gratefully receive.

We are anxious that the men we send shall have a satisfactory start and shall not be in any way a burden on the community to which we send them, and with the care we are taking to send you really good men, we hope to win your confidence and assistance in the future.

Thanking you in anticipation,

Yours very truly,
K. DAVIDS.

The family in question have nothing to live on but what they receive from charity. The husband, who is a South African Veteran, has only worked a shot time since their arrival here and was once before the Magistrate on a charge of non-support.

THE CONGREGATION OF KNOX CHURCH TO MEET

Important Congregational Gathering will be held To-morrow Night to Discuss Church Matters

A congregational meeting of Knox church membership is announced for to-morrow night, when it is expected that some important matters will be dealt with by the congregation. The separation will, in all probability be ratified by the Presbytery to-day, and the result of this action will no doubt be considered at the meeting to-morrow night.

ILL TREATMENT DROVE HIM FROM HOME

Eleven Year Boy Applies for Admission to the Children's Shelter

Complaining of ill-treatment at home an eleven year old boy visited the Children's Shelter and asked to be taken in, yesterday.

The little fellow lived with his parents on Smith street and, according to his story, has not been used in a proper manner. He stated that he had been whipped for things which he did not do, and in other ways badly treated. Mr. Henry, the superintendent of the Shelter, took the boy in, and to-day reported the case of Mr. Dennistoun, the solicitor of the Children's Aid Society, who gave instructions that he should be kept, and he is now at the Shelter. The boy when questioned as to who had ill-treated him, replied sadly, "My mother."

PARK STREET YOUNG PEOPLE'S NEW OFFICERS

Were Elected Last Night at Meeting Held in Connection with Week of Prayer

The second night of the week of prayer services at Park Street Baptist Church was in the hands of the young people last night. An address full of helpful suggestions was given by Mr. Wm. Bray, a licenciate from England, who has united with the Park Street Church. At the close of the address Rev. A. H. Brace was called to the chair, and the election of officers proceeded with, resulting as follows:

Honourary President—Rev. A. H. Brace.
President—Miss Maud Everson.
First Vice-President — Mr. Chas. Barrie.
Second Vice-President — Mr. Robt. Juby.
Secretary-Treasurer — Miss Edith Gillespie.
Organist—Miss Gertie Buntin.
Lookout Committee is to consist of five. Convenor, Miss Gertie Buntin, to nominate her committee and report for confirmation at next meeting.
Prayer Meeting Committee — Mr. Chas. Barrie, convenor, to report at next meeting.

ARE PRESENT SALARIES OF TEACHERS TOO LOW?

Other Places Are Paying Larger Salaries Than Peterborough

It is probable that the salaries of the local school teachers will again have to be augmented. The fact that Peterborough is paying smaller salaries than such towns as Lindsay was brought out at the meeting of the school board last evening, and it has been found difficult to get good teachers to come here.

THE DAILY MARKETS ARE GROWING LARGER

The Good Sleighing Has Brought the Farmers from the Country

The downfall of the beautiful during the past few days has made the local market look somewhat like it used to be in years gone by. This morning several loads of hay and wood arrived from the surrounding country, and the market clerk was kept warm for a while.

About a dozen loads of timothy hay were offered for sale at prices ranging from $12 to $14 per ton. Maple hard wood, of which there was a large quantity, sold in the neighbourhood of $6 per cord.

The New York Stock Market

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Dec. 11.—Announcement over night of more relief for the money market by the Government had the effect of a short covering movement in an overSold stock market, beginning in London and extending to this side, after which outside buying came in, and under the impulse of the manipulation and the outside absorption, the general list led by St. Paul, C.P.R. and one or two other prominent stocks, advanced to better levels than seen for some days.

The tone of the market was good. The technique continues good. We think purchases should be made on the recessions of moderate extent, however, rather than on bulges now. C.P.R. made an extreme high of 198, opening up 5 points higher.

In the afternoon some heavy selling of Reading checked the advancing tendency to some extent, although heavy buying of Atchison, B. R.T. and People's Gas gave the closing a firm tone.

OBITUARY

JESSE DEPROSE

A sad death occurred this morning when Jesse, the bright 14-year-old son of Mr. George Deprose was untimely called to rest. The deceased was taken to the Nicholls Hospital on Sunday, suffering with appendicitis for which he underwent an operation. He was unable to withstand the tax this had on his vitality and as a result he succombed this morning. As the poet Burns said:

But, Oh! fell death's untimely frost
That nipt my flower sae early.

Jesse was well liked by his little friends who will regret his sudden demise. The funeral will take place on Thursday afternoon at 2.30 o'clock, from the family residence at 27 Walnut street, and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for interment.

CANADIAN SCHOLARS WILL ERECT A MONUMENT

To the Memory of the Late Alexander Muir, the Author of Canada's National Song

LOCAL SCHOLARS ASKED TO ASSIST

A movement is under way in the Dominion to erect a monument to the memory of the late Alexander Muir, the author of Canada's national song. Last night, at the Board of Education meeting, a letter was read from the Toronto Board requesting that collections be taken up in the local schools to assist in the provision of the monument and in the assistance of the author's widow and invalid daughter. An effort will probably be made to have the scholars of the Peterborough schools aid in the great plan.

The following letter was read from the Board of Education, Toronto:

Dear Sir,—The name of Alexander Muir has long been a household word throughout Canada. He was a noble man. He was, for more than fifty years, a loving and able teacher in the County of York and in Toronto. He was an eloquent speaker. He was an ardent patriot. He was one of the volunteers who fought to defend his country in 1866, and he wrote our Canadian national song, "The Maple Leaf Forever." It is proposed to erect a monument to his memory, and also provide a fund for the benefit of his widow and invalid daughter. It has been decided that the school children of the Dominion should have the privilege of aiding in raising the necessary funds. We, therefore, request you to arrange to have a collection taken up in your schools before the end of the present year, and to give the children the opportunity of raising as much money as possible by subscription or otherwise, for the fund.

His country should recognize the great service Mr. Muir rendered by writing our national song, and we venture to hope that all parts of the country will respond promptly and cheerfully to this request for a liberal Christmas offering.

HERBERT A. E. KENT,
Chairman.

In connection with the above letter, some discussion took place. Dr. Burnham considered that it was a worthy cause for the pupils of the schools to assist.

Mr. Hill was of the same opinion. The late Mr. Muir, he said, was a man whom all the children should know, and suggested that addresses should be given by various members of the Board to first make them acquainted with him.

Dr. Morrison suggested that a day or days should be set apart for patriotic addresses in the schools, and that the late Alexander Muir's work be explained.

It was moved by Mr. Hill that the matter be left in the hands of the Supervision Committee to deal with. This motion was seconded and carried.

LITERARY PROGRAMME ENJOYABLE

Canadian Authors and Poets Were Subjects Discussed

A most enjoyable evening was spent by the members and friends of the George street Methodist Epworth League last night when the regular literary meeting of the League was held. There was a good attendance and the programme was much appreciated by the audience. Mr. Garnet Galley made an efficient chairman.

Mrs. E. Doidge read a well prepared and clever paper on "Canadian Authors," dealing with the subject in a comprehensive manner that made it most interesting.

Miss Ethel Miller's paper was also greatly enjoyed. Her subject was "Isabella Valancy Crawford" and much interesting information was given concerning the brilliant Canadian poetess, who was a resident of Peterborough.

Mrs. Jas. Kendry read selections from well known Canadian poets in a manner that brought out their full artistic beauty. Her selections were "Empire First," by John Talon L'Esperance; "Here's to the Land," William Wye Smith; "The Song of the Axe," Isabella Valancy Crawford; 'The Caughnawaga Beadwork Seller," W. A. Lightall; "Acres of Your Own," Alexander MacLachlan.

During the evening enjoyable solos were rendered by Miss Simpson and Mr. Barber.

PRESENTATIONS TO MEMBERS OF ST. LUKE'S

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers were Honoured by Congregation of That Church Prior to Their Departure from this City

GOLD HEADED CANE FOR MR. ROGERS

At the residence of Col. J. Z. Rogers, East City, a very pleasant event took place last night, when Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rogers received some tokens of regard and affection from the rector and members of St. Luke's Church, previous to their leaving for Campbellford. Deputations, representing the men of the congregation, the Woman's Auxiliary and Mothers' Guild, were present to make their presentations. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt expressed the great regret that all felt at losing such a faithful and loyal church family, and called upon the People's Warden, Mr. Frank Adams, to read the following address:

Dear Mrs. Rogers,—

As you are about to leave this parish, and thus bring to a close our pleasant associations, and our united work in the Mothers' Guild, we desire to express to you our great regret which we feel in separating from you.

Will you allow us to offer you the accompanying gift as a slight token of our regard for you. May it ever remind you of the Mothers' Guild and its work, in which you have interested yourself so much.

We bid you good-bye, hoping that it may not be forever.

On behalf of the Mothers' Guild of St. Luke's Church,

G. STRAIN, Secretary. A. MAY DENNE, President.

Peterboro, December 9th, 1906.

The Rector's Warden, Mr. G. F. Warde, presented Mr. Rogers with a gold-headed cane, on which was engraved: "Mr. R. B. Rogers, C. E., from his friends in St. Luke's Church, December, 1906."

Mrs. John Butcher, as secretary of the W. A., read the following address to Mrs. Rogers:

Dear Mrs. Rogers,—

The members of the Woman's Auxiliary for Missions of St. Luke's Branch, of which you have been for many years an honoured members, have learned with great regret that you are about to sever your connection with their organization on account of your moving to another town.

During the many years that you and we have spent together as members of the same church and in the service of our Heavenly Father, strong friendships have been formed, and many affectionate ties have bound us together in the pursuit of that work which God has called us to do. Your removal will deprive us of a true and kind friend. We shall miss your valuable counsel and your ready help in the work. Your kind and unassuming manner has endeared you to us all, and we sorrowfully take herewith leave of you, trusting, however, that some day you will come back to the scenes of your childhood and to your parish and church.

In the meantime we commend you to God's loving keeping. We know that His love and care will follow you, and though we are separated by space, we are, nevertheless, united by the bonds of a common cause and by the same purposes of life.

We ask you to accept the accompanying gift as a token of our affection and respect. May God's richest blessings abide with you and yours forever.

On behalf of St. Luke's Woman's Auxiliary,

MARGARET BUTCHER,
M. A. BOSWELL, Secretary.
President.

Ashburnham, December 10th, 1906.

Mrs. T. Gaskins presented her with a beautifully-worked centrepiece.

The Mothers' Guild read the following address:

R. B. Rogers, Esq., C. E.

Dear Mr. Rogers,—It is with much regret that we say "Good-bye" to you previous to your leaving us for your new sphere of labour at Campbellford. Since the foundation of this Church and Parish you have been a most devoted and loyal member. The Church is indebted to you for your ever ready help and support. In the years gone by you have been a Sunday School Teacher, a Member of the Choir, a Lay Delegate and member of the Advisory Board. In all departments of Church life and work we could always depend upon you for advice and assistance, both of which were ungrudgingly and readily given.

It is thus a great loss that we experience by your and your family's removal. We know well that your place can hardly be filled by anyone, for no one could be more loyal and more devoted to his Church than you are.

We ask you to accept a small token of our regard and affection, and to take with you the assurance of our hearty appreciation of all your good deeds that you have done in the service of Christ and His Church.

We sincerely trust that you and your family may be abundantly blessed of God in your new abode and work, and that you all may experience in a full measure the good hand of the Lord upon you both spiritually and temporally.

On behalf of the Men of the Congregation of St. Luke's Church.

E. A. LANGFELDT, Rector.

G. F. WARDE,
FRANK ADAMS,
Church Wardens.

Mrs. John Strain presented Mrs. Rogers with a cut-glass dish.

Both Mr. and Mrs. Rogers were deeply affected by such tokens of kindness, and expressed their warm appreciation of them.

The rector added his personal regret at losing Mr. Rogers and his family, and expressed the hope that some day they might come back again.

THE JUNIOR CORPS HAD A SUCCESSFUL CONCERT

Was a Decided Success—A Fairly Large Audience Greeted Them

The entertainment provided by the junior corps of the Salvation Army, last night, was a decided success. There was an encouraging attendance, and the financial part was also a success. The programme was provided entirely by the children with the exception of an instrumental duet by Mr. Leader and his sister, and a vocal trio by Mr. and Misses Leader. These numbers were very interesting and were much enjoyed. Another delightful number was a dialogue by five members of the Army. It might be entitled "Honesty is the Best Policy." It was carried out very thoroughly. A flag song and drill and a number of choruses by the children were also pleasing and showed that there is plenty of talent among the children.

Little Miss Northcote sang "The Cobbler Making His Shoes" in a splendid manner and responded to a hearty encore. Considering the short time in which the programme was prepared the Junior Corps should be pleased that they met with such success. Sergt.-Maj. Braund made a capable chairman.

THE AWFUL DEATH OF A HALELOCK MAN

Boiler Explosion Blew Him Over Telegraph Wires—A Havelock Brakeman Also Badly Scalded

Examiner Special

Havelock, Dec. 11th. — By the explosion of a locomotive at Whitemouth, Manitoba, caused by the crown sheet dropping, Mr. George Cromley, formerly a C. P. R. fireman here, was blown over the telegraph wires, into a bush. He was so badly scalded that he died on the way to the hospital.

Mr. E. Baccus, a brakeman, also an old Havelock boy, and brother of Mr. William Bacous here, was badly scalded, but Mr. Baccus received a message yesterday saying that he may recover.

Mr. William Baccus has gone out to Whitemouth to see his brother, and his many friends here hope to hear of his complete recovery.

Mrs. Dr. McLean of Bancroft, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Alex. Mathison.

Mrs. Alex. Rose, jr., who is a fireman on the new Sudbury branch of the C. P. R. is spending a few days at his home here.

Miss Chandler of Toronto Junction, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Henry Shaw, trainmaster's clerk, spent Sunday at his home near Peterborough.

Mr. William Mann has returned Mann has returned from Weyburn, Sask., to spend the winter here.

INTERESTED IN HIS WORK AND HAD SIDE CRUSHED

S.W.Lowrey, Porter in R. Fair and Company's Store, Injured on Elevator

Mr. S. W. Lowrey, a porter in the store of Messrs. Robt. Fair & Co., this morning met with an accident which, while it is not serious will prevent his returning to work for a few days. It appears that Mr. Lowrey was on the roof of the elevator cage, oiling the slides, upon which the cage bears. He had started the elevator moving slowly upwards, in order to place the lubrication on the whole length of the slides, and did not notice that the cage was nearing the top until too late to stop it before he had been caught between the roof of the cage and the building. His side was crushed slightly, not seriously, however, for as soon as he found that he had reached the top he closed the valve and the cage stopped.

The ambulance was called and the man conveyed to St. Joseph's Hospital, where he will be for the next few days. No blame is attached to any one in connection with the accident which was due solely to Mr. Lowrey's own action, and was not through any defect in the elevator.

He will be able to be at work again in a few days.

MERCHANTS SEEM TO BE SATISFIED WITH BUSINESS

State That Prospects for Unusually Brisk Sales Are Very Bright This Year

NOT MUCH EARLY SHOPPING DONE

Christmas is but two weeks away, and this week finds the merchants of the city in the first rush of the Christmas shopping. The reigning note at present is one of satisfaction at the glorious weather, and the merchants are congratulating themselves and each other on the climatic conditions, and fervently hoping that the fine weather will continue until Christmas, in which case a record holiday business may be expected.

An Examiner reporter called upon a number of merchants to-day, and found them well satisfied with the prevailing weather, and the prospects for the next two weeks. As far as could be learned, the business being done at this time this year is equal, and, in some cases, better than at the same period last year, and with a continuation of the present weather, the prospects are that the volume of buiness doing this Christmas will surpass last year's figures. This seemed to be the opinion of all the merchants interviewed. They were satisfied with the sales to date, and equally optimistic about the future.

One thing which was noticed was that the people of Peterborough have not yet learned to do their Christmas shopping early. In nearly ever case where the reporter asked if the people were showing any signs of doing this the reply was in the negative.

Of course, some buying is being done at the present time, but nothing like the amount that should be done now. The people seem to want to postpone the Christmas shopping until the last minute, with the result that the shops are crowded, the clerks are tired and unable to give the service they would like to, and the shoppers themselves suffer as well as the merchants and clerks. The reporter found that this condition existed in every line of business, and all the merchants approached seemed to anticipate the eleventh hour rush. This year there will be two very busy days for the clerks. The fact that Christmas comes on Tuesday will result in an immense volume of business being done on the Monday preceding, and there will be the big rush on Saturday as well, so that the merchants can count upon two unusually busy days.

CRIME TO HAND OUT ELECTION CARDS

This Practice will Not be Permitted in Future—New Law in Force on January 1st

The new law against handing out cards for municipal candidates on election day comes into effect on the first day of January for the first time. The amendment was made at the last session of the Legislature and reads as follows:

"No person shall in any city having 100,000 of a population or over, on the day of the polling, use or deliver to any other person, any card, ticket, leaflet, book, circular or other device, soliciting votes for or against any question or bylaw, or having upon it the name of any such candidate, question or bylaw, and any person violating the provisions of this section shall be liable to a penalty not exceeding $20, or in default of payment imprisonment for a term not exceeding ten days, on conviction before any justice of the peace."

A CHRISTMAS PARTY WILL BE HELD IN Y.W.C.A. PARLOURS

On Wednesday Evening—Will Consist of Games, Music, Refreshments, etc.

On Wednesday evening a pleasant social is promised to take place in the Y.W.C.A. when a Christmas party will be held. The entertainment will consist of games of which Miss Coventry is in charge, and a musical programme under the direction of Miss Bradd. Afterwards refreshments will be served and a very enjoyable time should be spent. It will take place from 8 o'clock till 10.30. All the young ladies of the city are cordially invited.

DESTROY THE CAUSE

You Cannot Cure Dandruff Without Destroying the Cause of It.

Many people wash their scalps Saturday night or Sunday to try to keep the dandruff down for the week, but on Monday night the scalp has begun to itch, and Tuesday morning will find a good supply of dandruff when the hair is brushed. There is but one real scientific way of curing dandruff; and that is to kill the germ that causes it, and falling hair, and finally baldness. There is only one preparation that will destroy the germ, and that is Newbro's Herpicide. It is an entirely new discovery and the only hair preparation that is based on the new scientific principle. In addition Herpicide is a very refreshing hair dressing for regular toilet use. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit Mich. PLEASANT TIME AT YOUNG PEOPLE'S MEETING

The Question Box Proved an Interesting and Profitable Portion of the Programme

OUTING FOR ST. JOHNS' YOUNG PEOPLE

The Young People's Association of St. John's Church met last night in regular session in the Guild room, the programme having been arranged by the Biblical Committee, of which Mr. Jos. R. Bell, is Convenor.

The meeting was well attended by the young people of the church and more especially by the officers and convenors of the different committees, which greatly facilitated the work of the president in dealing with the business portion of the programme, which was, in itself, interesting, several good reports from the various committees having been read.

After a brief intermission the chair was taken by Mr. Stanley Cunniff, the 1st Vice-President, and the second part of the programme begun, with a reading by Miss Victoria Bell, who displayed considerable ability as a reader. Her reading was listened to with keen interest and will undoubtedly be remembered by all who heard it.

Mr. R. J. Devey then gave a fifteen minute address on "The Life of Moses" which was greatly appreciated. Mr. Devey pointed out in a splendid manner the many characteristics of the figure of his address.

Mr. Jos. Bell then read a splendid paper on the "Lessons Taught by the "Services of the Church of England", pointing out the meaning of the different acts of worship as performed in the Church, which was of great value and interest to all present.

A question box was then opened and presided over by the rector, Canon Davidson, and many were the difficult questions which were asked and promptly explained to the general profit and entertainment of the association.

During the business session a joint report was read and unanimously adopted from the Fellowship and Refreshment Committees, recommending that the association take a sleigh drive on Monday night next. The sleighs to leave the church grounds at eight o'clock and drive around town till about 9.30 and then return to the Sunday School where the Refreshment Committee will have refreshments prepared. Those wishing to attend the drive are asked to hand their names to Miss J. E. Layfield or Miss Maude Roberts, and be at the Sunday School at the appointed time. A general invitation is extended to all the young people of the congregation and to all those rehearsing for the "Mikado", which is soon to be presented to the public.

There will be no more regular meetings of the Association until January 7th, when a social evening will be given.

LADIES AS SPECTATORS AT THE GUILD BANQUET

Gallery in Sunday School Reserved for Them at Baseball Banquet

The Committee of Management of the complimentary banquet which will be tendered to the baseball team of the Charlotte street Young Men's Guild on Thursday night announce that the gallery will be open to ladies for that evening. It was felt that possibly many ladies who would be unable to attend the banquet might like to participate in the function to the extent of hearing the speeches and enjoying the singing, and this means is offered them of doing so.

The tickets are selling rapidly and it is expected that the number issued, 125, will be all disposed of. The presence of Mr. Joliffe, who was a member of the team which won the championship the first year, and Mr. Van der Water, both of whom have been secured to give solos, with the formal presentation of the Examiner trophy have, no doubt, added to the interest of the affair, and the prospects are that the largest and most successful banquet ever held in this church will result.

DEBATING CLUB HAS A GOOD PROGRAMME

Arranged for the Meeting To-morrow—Debate on the Question of Immigration in Canada will be Held

The Y.M.C.A. Debating Club will hold its regular fortnightly meeting on Wednesday evening, Dec. 12th at 8 o'clock.

The following programme, one of the best, is offered:—

Current Events—Mr. H. Cooke.

Review, "The Man From Glengarry," by Mr. Byrd.

Review, "The Prospector" — Mr. Howarth.

Open debate—"Should Canada Encourage Immigration"

Affirmative—Chas. Coleman.

Negative—Frank Simpson.

A hearty invitation is given to young men to attend. So successful has been the first part of the season that the Club will probably meet weekly after Jan. 1st.

WEDDING BELLS

KINGDON--WILLIAMS

A wedding ceremony of more than usual interest took place yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's church, when Miss Anne Williams, who arrived yesterday morning from England, became the bride of Mr. Arthur Kingdon, of this city. There is a touch of romance associated with this wedding. The friendship, which has now reached its fulfillment in their marriage, began before Mr. Kingdon left England for Canada, and has been gradually developing in the interval which followed.

Mr. Kingdon's father, Mr. William Kingdon, and his brother, Mr. Sidney Kingdon, have been in England visiting during the fall and on their return Miss Williams came with them. They arrived in the city yesterday morning and the wedding took place at 3.30, the ceremony being performed by Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, in the presence of the friends of the contracting parties. The bride, who was dressed very tastefully in a brown travelling suit, of broadcloth, with silk blouse was given away by Mr. Wm. Kingdon, and was attended by Miss Maude Kingdon, sister of the groom, while his brother, Mr. Sidney Kingdon acted as best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Kingdon will reside for the winter with the latter's father on Hilliard street. The groom is a prominent member of St. Luke's church, and is director of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, as well as Vice-President of the Men's Guild, of that church. He is also a teacher in the Sunday School.

HIGH LIFES ORGANIZE HOCKEY AND BOWLING TEAMS

Enthusiastic Meeting of the Members of Club Was Held Last Evening

THE OFFICERS WHO WERE ELECTED

The High Life's at a largely attended and enthusiastic meeting at Mac's cigar store organized their hockey and alley bowling clubs for the season last night. The prospects before both are of the brightest.

The hockey team will be found in the City League again this year and should make a good showing. They have secured a number of fast players and will make things interesting for the rest of the league teams. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—J. L. Lawless.
President—H. Lacheur.
Vice-President—John Sheridan.
Secretary-Treasurer —T. W. McDonough.
Manager—F. J. Whitcroft.
Team Committee—Geo. Lynch, H. Morgan, and Jas. Houliman.
Representatives to City League meeting—H. Morgan, F. J. Whitcroft.
Auditors—W. J. Crowley and A. M. Regan.
Trainer—E. Dillon.

The colours decided upon were orange and green.

The Bowling Club

The High Life's have developed a large number of proficient bowlers and now that they have formed a club will be able to pursue the pastime in a more systematic manner. The following officers were elected:—

Hon. President—J. Knox.
President—W. Wartham.
Vice-President—W. Hillhouse.
Secretary—A. McDonald.
Captain—J. Connors.
Team Committee—F. J. Crowley, H. Lacheur, H. Morgan.
Trainer—E. Hurtubise.

SENIORS HAD RATTLING PRACTICE LAST NIGHT

Two Full Teams Out and a Lively Game Resulted

Judging by the way in which they got to work last night the Peterborough hockey team are determined not to lose any time in getting into shape. Two teams were on the ice and a lively half hour's game was played considering it was the first good practice of the season, the speed and form shown was remarkable. The senior line-up led in some great combination but the juniors made them hustle all the time. Glover and Morgan made their first appearance of the season last night.

The teams lined up as follows:—

	Goal.
Denocher		Lang
	Point.
Glover		Winch
	Cover.
Ferguson		W. Parnell
	Rover.
Whitcroft
	Centre.

ARROWS EASILY WIN THE POSTPONED GAME

Defeated the Alerts by the Score of 63 to 40

Last night in the Y.M.C.A. the Arrows and Alerts played their postponed game in the Y.M.C.A. League, the Arrows winning out after a hard game, by 63 to 40. Up to half time the play was even up, the Arrows leading by 3 points at the finish of the first half, and it looked like anybody's game. But when play re-commenced, the Alerts went up in the air, and the Arrows scored several baskets in quick succession.

The line-up of the teams was:—

Alerts—Defence, Fitzgerald, Green; centre, Downing; forwards, Telland, Emmerson.

Arrows—Defence, Dobson, Darling; centre, Richardson; forwards, Miller, Preseman.

Referee—H. Dingman.

The first half of the schedule is now finished and the teams stand as follows:—

	Won.	Lost.
Harriers	4	0
Arrows	3	1
Alerts	2	2
Tigers	1	3
O. T. C.	0	4

SOME LIVELY GAMES AT THE CURLING RINK

Four Rinks were Played Last Night—All Are Now Ready

The curling rink has again begun to attract its quota of enthusiastic broom wielders and last night four rinks were utilized. The ice was keen and some good work was displayed. Five rinks are now ready. On account of the lack of lights the west rink was not in commission last night but it is now ready for the game. The skips and scores of the games were:—

D. Hall	6	G. H. Giroux	17
C. N. Brown	12	R. Neill	6
M. C. Tooley	10	R. Winch
S. Clegg	10	C. Rutherford	6

O.H.A. EXECUTIVE WANTS LIST OF OFFICERS

Of All Clubs in the Association —Secretary Issues Letter

The following circular was issued yesterday to the clubs of the Ontario Hockey Association:—

Secretary Hockey Club,—I have been instructed by the Executive Committee to secure from your club a full list of officers, for the purpose of keeping a permanent record of all clubs connected with the Association. I also desire to notify you that all club colours must be registered with me by the 15th inst. Also kindly furnish ice area of rink.

Enclosed find certificates for players, which must be signed by the players themselves and the president and secretary of the club and forwarded to me. They will then be passed upon by the committee, and, if considered satisfactory, will be returned to the secretary of the club. It is imperative that these certificates be sent in at an early date, as none will be returned to the club at the last moment.

No player will be allowed to compete in any series without a certificate under any circumstances whatever. In the junior series age declarations must be made by the parents or guardians of the players on forms supplied by the association. Sincerely yours,

W. A. HEWITT,
Secretary O. H. A.

The certificates are in colour as follows:—Senior, blue; intermediate, pink; junior, white.

BAND AT BROCK ST. RINK ALL THIS WEEK

It Has Been Engaged to Furnish Music for Skating During the Present Week

The attendance last night at the Brock street rink was again large, and the ice was in splendid condition. The 57th Band was present and furnished a good programme, which the skaters evidently appreciated. Arrangements have been made by which the band will be in attendance every night this week, enterprise which the patrons of the rink will appreciate.

Judging by the number of season tickets sold this year, the number of ticket-holders this year will be larger than in any former year, in the history of the rink.

HOCKEY

All officers and executive members of the Peterborough City League are requested to attend the meeting of that body which will be held to-night in the Y.M.C.A. at 8 o'clock. Some very important business is to come up for discussion among other things there is to be taken up the question of proposed changes in the constitution of the City League.

CURLING

A meeting of the skips which were appointed at the last meeting will be held at the rink this evening. The skips will to-night select their rinks for the season and if they cannot be present they are urgently requested to send a representative.

BELLEVILLE IS STILL HARPING ON THE OLD STRINGS

Has no Forgiveness for the O.H.A.—Recalls Expeciences of Former Years

WHEN BELLEVILLE PLAYED IN SERIES

The Belleville Intelligencer has not forgiven the O.H.A. yet, and probably never will. Yesterday it had something to say of the prospects in the senior series this season, but perhaps if the sporting writer of that paper happened to drop in to the Brock street rink some night this winter when, say the Peterborough and Midland teams are playing he would be convinced that it is not absolutely essential to fast hockey that the Belleville team be one of the contesting teams. The paper referred to says:—

It would appear that the O.H.A. is losing its hold on hockey in Ontario. There are only two groups in the senior series. Kingston is in group one, and must play a sudden death game with Midland on neutral ice. Sudden death games, in the first round, do not make for large accumulations of revenue. But then what do the "amateur" teams in the O.H.A. care for revenue?

The above state of affairs, as this paper has made the remark before, shows that hockey in this district will never be what it used to be when Belleville, Port Hope, Kingston and Peterborough were all in the game with strong teams. The O.H.A. jumped on Belleville two years in succession, and killed the game in this city. With Belleville out, Port Hope, Kingston and Peterborough have found it difficult to keep up interest in the game. This would all have been different had Belleville been treated fairly.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

CHARLEY'S AUNT

A fairl ylarge audience greeted the re-appearance of that famous comedy, Charley's Aunt, at the Grand last night. For over two hours, Etienne Girardot and his company, gave the gathering in the best of good humour with the laughable situations that occur in his refined comedy. The audience was an appreciative one and thoroughly enjoyed the production. The company, although not a large one numerically added force to the play by the natural way in which the individual players took their roles. As on a previous occasion, Etienne Girardot played the part of Charley's Aunt in an amusing and refined manner. In fact the whole company is strong and well balanced and deserves good houses in any city.

THE COUNTY CRIMINAL COURT

Criminal Case Against Herbert H. Hillier the Only One on the Docket

The County Judge's Criminal Court opened this afternoon at 2 o'clock, Judge Weller presiding. The only case on the list is that against Herbert H. Hillier, who is charged with unlawfully appropriating money belonging to his brother's wife.

The personnel of the Grand Jury which was empanelled is as follows: Thos. Brown, R. W. Burgess, Albert Carpenter, Samuel Deyell, Hiram Fry, Henry LeBrun, D. H. Moore, F. C. MacMaster, Harry Molbmoyle, Wm. F. Nelson, Thos. J. Parker, David Weir, Byron Williamson.

The Hillier case, it will be remembered, came up in the Police Court a short time ago before Magistrate Dumble, when Hillier was committed for trial before the County Judge. He was accused of placing money to his own credit in the bank, which had been left to Mrs. Hillier by her late husband, and brother to the defendant.

In addressing the Grand Jury, the judge said, in part, that there seemed to be very little work for the jury to do at this court. There were a number of persons confined in jail as vagrants, and two others whose cases were now being investigated by the County Magistrate. In regard to the vagrants, he said that some years ago the law provided that counties should erect Houses of Refuge in which to confine such persons as vagrants, who have not committed any criminal offence, but who have wandered about with nothing to do. A county House of Refuge, which was now approaching completion, would soon be in commission for such people as he previously referred to. To a large extent, this House will be self-sustaining, as those committed to it will have to contribute to its maintenance. It is not probable that, hereafter, there will be any of these vagrants incarcerated in the County Jail. There was only one case, he said, which would be investigated,—that against Henry H. Hillier. The charge is that he received money for certain purposes, and that he did not dispose of it as he had agreed.

The judge concluded by defining the duties of the Grand Jury with regard to the trying of the defendant, and the visitation of the various public institutions in the city.

The Hillier case will be investigated to-morrow morning.

NEW LAMP BUILDING FOR GENERAL ELECTRIC

Report That Work will be Commenced in Spring on New Building to Extend South to Albert Street

LOCAL CONTRACTORS DO THE WORK

That the Canadian General Electric Company will conduct some extensive building operations next year, is the statement made to-day from a reliable source. In addition to completing the transformer building, work on which was commenced this fall, a new lamp building will be erected. When work is resumed on the transformer building next year, it is probable that it will be by a firm of local contractors, it is reported, and not under the Construction Company. It is stated that Messrs. Finnie and Gordon will complete the work, and that this firm has also been given a contract for the erection of the new lamp building, which will extend from the southern end of the present building to Albert street.

An order has been placed with A. McDonald Estate for $5,000 worth of sashes, doors, etc., for the transformer building and for the lamp building.

KNOX CHURCH GETS A $5,000 GIFT

Executors of the Nicholls Estate Made Donation which Pleased the Congregation

The pleasant news was broken to Knox Church congregation last night that an unsolicited donation of $5,000 had been made to the church by Messrs. Richard Hall and Chas. McGill, as executors of the Nicholls estate. Mr. J. W. Bennett presented this matter to the congregation at their congregational meeting last night, and it was received with much favour.

Mr. Bennett thought that Knox Church should be grateful for this handsome donation, which had been given without solicitation. When the late Mrs. Nicholls made her will, he said, Knox Church was unheard of, but yet it was not forgotten by the executors of the estate. The amount, he said, would place the church on a firm footing and should prevent it from going to the Presbytery for funds.

Mr. Bennett had in his possession the bank book showing that the money had already been placed to the church's credit in the Dominion Bank. He considered that since these men had made the donation of their own free wills, some recognition of their kindness should be made.

A committee, consisting of Messrs. Campbell, Morrison and Bennett, was appointed to extend the appreciation of the congregation to Messrs. Hall and McGill.

THE EVIDENCE CONCLUDED AGAINST HILLIER

Case of a Particulary Interesting Character Brought to a Close

The evidence in the criminal case against Henry H. Hillier was concluded this morning shortly after eleven o'clock, after having been in progress since yesterday morning at 10 o'clock. Mr. F. D. Kerr, counsel for the defence, then made a strong appeal for the prisoner, reviewing in a concise form the evidence which had been given in favour of and against him. His argument was based chiefly upon the testimony that Hillier and his sister-in-law had been on particularly good terms for some three years, during which time the prisoner had paid over moneys to the complainant.

Mr. R. E. Wood then addressed the jury on behalf of the Crown, stating before them the complete evidence in the case.

After the judge addressed the twelve they withdrew and at the time of going to press had not brought in their verdict.

Cold Weather In The Near Future

The rain predicted for last night arrived, according to schedule, and as a result, this morning the walks were in an unsafe condition for walking. The higher temperature forecast yesterday is still with us, and there is not much prospect of any material change in the temperature for twelve hours, at least. The probabilities are that we shall have some more rain and sleet, perhaps some snow as well, and to-morrow the wind will likely veer around to the north and east, after which we may look for some colder weather again.

The present prospects are that during to-day and to-night, and probably the greater part of to-morrow, about the same kind of weather may be expected, but those who were afraid that winter was going to take its departure may rest assured that there is no immediate prospect of such a calamity befalling. By to-morrow night the thermometer will have dropped considerably, and Saturday morning we shall probably awaken with freezing weather again.

BROKE HIS COLLAR BONE COASTING

Painful and Serious Injuries Which Young Son of Mr. Henry Smith Met with This Morning

The five year old son of Mr. Henry Smith, 63 Hunter street, west, met with a serious accident this morning while coasting on the street. It appears that the lad was riding his sled down hill, in company with some other boys of about his own age, and while coming down the hill at a rapid pace the sled swerved, throwing the boy against a telephone pole with such force that his collar bone was broken. Dr. Young and Dr. Grey were called to attend to the young lad's injuries, which are of a serious nature, probably resulting from an internal injury as well as his collar bone's fracture.

DEBATING CLUB'S FINE PROGRAMME

"Should Canada Encourage Immigration?" was the Subject

The last session of the Y.M.C.A. Debating Club for this year was held in the building last evening, with a good attendance. The evening was another addition to the splendid programmes given by the club this season. The first session for 1907 will be held on January 2.

Vice-President Reid was in the chair at last night's meeting. The quotations in response to roll call were of a high order. Mr. H. Cooke gave an able review of the current events of the world.

Mr. A. T. Byrd presented a synopsis of "The Man From Glengarry," dealing in a decidedly interesting way with the chief characters portrayed by Ralph Connor in this book.

The main feature of the evening was the open parliament on the question, "Should Canada encourage immigration?" The leaders were: Affirmative, Mr. Chas. Coleman; Negative, Fred Ray, while Mr. J. E. Hodgson was elected speaker. All the members present were chosen on the sides, and the seats were arranged in parliamentary form. The discussion was one of the liveliest yet held, and while many of the negative had to argue against their convictions, yet many of the evils of the present immigration system were pointed out.

In summing up the critic, Mr. Hodgson, gave an able review of the evening's programme and a fair summing up of the points brought out in the open parliament.

He decided in favour of the negative.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS DEFEAT T.A.S. AT 45'S

Score was a Very Close One—Return Game to be Played Next Year

The Knights of Columbus defeated the T.A.S. last night in a great game of forty-fives by the close score of 123 games against 121. The games were played in the T.A.S. parlours where a very pleasant couple of hours were spent by the interested contestants. Six tables were utilized and the closeness of the score indicates the keenness of the games. The return game will be played some time after the New Year.

FORMAL OPENING OF ART ASSOCIATION STUDIO

Some Interesting Exhibits are Shown and Rooms were Thronged This Afternoon

FINE HOMESPUNS BY QUEBEC WOMEN

The formal opening of the studio of the local branch of the Woman's Art Association of Canada took place this afternoon and the cosily fitted rooms in the residence of the late Mrs. Dunsford, on Simcoe street were thronged all afternoon. The Association has secured two commodious rooms in the building which are admirably adapted for studio purposes. They are tastefully furnished and their appearance is decidedly inviting.

Some Fine Work

The function this afternoon was more in the nature of a formal opening than of an art exhibition. Some very fine work by local artists is, however, on view and the display is well worth a visit. The walls are decorated with still life pictures by Peterborough ladies and some decidedly uneven work is to be seen. The exhibitors are Miss Bertram, Miss Hatton, Miss Bennet, Mrs. Palmer and Miss Munn, of Indian River. Several students of these ladies also have some sketches on exhibition. Miss Bertram shows some clever china painting and a clever exhibit of wood carving is made by Miss Hall.

Homespun Display

An interesting exhibit is the display of homespuns made by the peasant women of Quebec. These are supplied by the Woman's Art Association and comprise some beautiful samples of the skill of the habitants. There is also to be seen some of the work in embroidery done by the Galacian, Doukhobor, Russian and Persian women of the Canadian Northwest. The encouraging of this work is one of the most important objects of the Association which is doing everything in its power to develop the talent of these foreign women.

Mrs. Dennistoun presided at tea this afternoon, Mrs. (Hon.) J. H. Stratton, will be hostess, to-morrow afternoon and Mrs. Campbell and Mrs. Gardiner on Saturday. The studio will be open to-morrow and Saturday afternoon from 3 to 6 o'clock and a cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of the city to be present. No admission fee is charged.

ACKNOWLEDGES THANKS TO FRIENDS

Wish to Thank Auburn Mills Employees for the Assistance Given in Times of Trouble

Mrs. Emily Webb, who recently received injuries resulting in the loss of a limb, and her son who was also injured a short time ago, wish to publicly thank her friends at the Auburn Woollen Mills for their assistance and have taken the following means to do so:—

December 12, 1906.

To my kind friends at The Auburn Woollen Mills.

To say "thank you" to all, for so generously helping in giving me such a handsome present, seems a very poor way of thanking you all.

It will indeed be a great help to me and I am truly grateful to you all.

I feel very proud to think I have so many kind friends.

My children and I hope you will all have a very Merry Christmas.

Again thanking you, I am,

Sincerely yours,
EMILY WEBB.

397 Water street, Peterborough.

To my kind friend at The Auburn Woollen Mills,

I would like to thank you for your kind present to mother. It will indeed be a great help to her, and she is very grateful to you all.

I hope I will soon be able to go back to work with you again.

Gratefully yours,
CHARLIE WEBB.

THE CHINESE CAFE WILL BE OPEN ON SATURDAY

A Most Modern Restaurant and Bill of Fare

The Dominion Chinese Cafe, to be conducted by George Thomas in the market block, will open on Saturday. The store formerly occupied by Mr. S. J. Sheridan has been transformed into a most modern restaurant, composed of a large dining-room, lunch counter and private rooms for ladies. Patrons may take their choice of three different bills-of-fare—Chinese, American or European. One of the features will be the famous Chinese dish, chop suey.

TWO BICYCLISTS WERE BADLY HURT

A Serious Accident at the Madison Square Garden's Six Day's Bicycle Race at New York To-day

Special Wire to Heintz & Co.

New York, Dec. 13.—There was a big smash-up at Madison Square Garden this morning. The bicycle riders are all off the track for the time being, and two of them are probably fatally hurt. Root was relieving Fogler. He cut off the other riders when he was coming down the embankment, and Downey struck his rear wheel. Root went flying into a box and Hollister went down. All the others except two fell over Hollister's prostrate body.

AGED BELLEVILLE LADY'S DEATH

Mrs. Clancy Instantly Killed by Grand Trunk Train at Belleville Yesterday—Did Not Hear the Whistle

Belleville, Dec. 12.—A fatal accident occurred about 5 o'clock p.m., resulting in the instant death of Mrs. Bridget Clancy, a well known resident. The old lady was crossing the Grand Trunk tracks on Geddes street, when she was struck by a light engine going west. She was thrown a considerable distance and alighted with great force against the fence post, killing her instantly. The remains were taken to Tickell's undertaking rooms and it was several hours before the body could be identified.

She was a life-long resident here, and for some time has been a companion to Mrs. David McDermott, another aged and invalid woman. Her ears were bundled up and she did not hear the engineer's warning. Coroner Yeomans will consult the Crown Attorney in reference to an inquest.

How to Start Off the Day

Students of Hygiene All Agree That the Right Kind of a Breakfast Is Essential.

Thinking people are giving more and more earnest thought as to how to start off each new day so as to put themselves in the best possible physical and mental condition for the work of the day. It is an interesting subject, so interesting indeed that it has attracted the attention of a host of the world's leading scholars and authors on hygiene and many different opinions have been written for the guidance of the people. On one point, at least, all are agreed. This is that the right kind of a breakfast is essential.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, that delicious, crisp, vitalizing, whole-wheat food.

In making Malta-Vita the whole of the wheat, after being cleaned, is thoroughly steamed and cooked in absolute purity and then mixed with malt extract, a powerful digestive agent, which converts the starch of the wheat into maltose, or malt sugar. Maltose is great food and the weakest stomach digests and assimilates it without effort. After being rolled into thin, wafer-like flakes the malted wheat is baked under such intense heat that it comes from the ovens crisp and brown—positively the most delicious, most healthful food in the world. Always ready to eat. All grocers, now 10 cents.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society of Peterborough, whose proceedings are reported in another column, renews public attention and interest in respect of one of the most deserving and beneficent of provincial enterprises. A careful perusal of the report should be made by all good citizens. It will be noted that the address of the President, Mr. Burnham, directs attention to one or two matters well deserving the practical attention of the government. It is to be noted and regretted that the Children's Aid Society is not on the schedule of charities in receipt of government grants. There seems to be no good reason why this Society should not be treated in the same manner as, say, the Peterborough Protestant Home and the House of Providence, both in receipt of annual grants of government funds. Both are eminently deserving of this distinction, a distinction which should not exist as in relation to the Children's Aid Society, which, from the nature of things, is more deserving. In the case of the favoured institutions, the money paid is a mere donation whose value in one sense, ceases with its expenditure. On the contrary a grant to the Children's Aid Society is an investment. The chief function of the Society is to rescue neglected and dependent children from vicious environments, and, by placing them in foster homes, provide for their growing up honest and useful members of society. But for this saving work, such children would, in ninety-nine cases out of one hundred, grow up criminals, and prostitutes, enemies of society and burdens upon the state. In this way the work of the society, is saving, has saved, and will save the province thousands of dollars of expenditures to maintain criminals, (recruited from the ranks of neglected and dependent children) in prisons and reformatories. This is merely the material saving. The moral saving is infinitely more important. An annual grant, of liberal, or even, moderate, proportions would encourage and help the charitably disposed, whose work and voluntary contributions are all that stands between thousands of neglected, dependent, ill-treated, starved, beaten, bruised and brutalized children, and a future life of suffering, crime and shame.

A second necessity is a Provincial Shelter, for the housing and training of children coming from homes—rather habitations—of squalor and destitution, in order to make them acceptable inmates of foster homes. Such training is palpably, as a systematic condition, beyond the financial ability and accommodation capacity of the ordinary local shelter.

It would appear that the powers that be have failed to grasp the significance and requirements of the Children's Aid movement, and that the Department of Neglected and Dependent Children is itself neglected and dependent—upon private enterprise and liberality for undertaking unassisted what should proceed, in reasonable proportion, from government initiative. If the present Superintendent maintains a disposition to run the Department over which he is placed on the cheap scale—if he is afraid to approach the government in support of the claims of his department he is not doing his duty. His attention has been called, as President Burnham's report states, to these things year after year without the results that the importance of the work demands. Provincial money is certainly now spent in ways, though proper, far less important than if devoted to promoting the interests of the beneficient and fruitful work of the Children's Aid Society, which is deserving of more liberal and more practical government recognition.

DAIRY INSPECTION DONE BY NOVICES

To the Editor of the Examiner:

Dear Sir,—I have remained silent for some time wondering what the Council or Board of Health were going to do after all this unnecessary hubub re milk supply. It seems to me that the only proper person to inspect cow byres and last, but by no means least, the source of supply, would be a veterinary surgeon. The cow owners then would get information as to the proper and most sanitary way in which to keep the animals and their surroundings. Imagine such a farce as sending ex-mechanics and policemen around giving advice as to how cows should be handled, etc., as a client of mine informed me yesterday. I wonder if these gentry could tell if a cow had a tuberculous udder, or would know, when, how, and where to test a cow with tuberculine. The Board of Health and City Aldermen may be following the example of some of our M. P's who appoint any political parasite to positions of importance when they are totally unconversant with the subject. Let the council recognize the services of the veterinary surgeon in this matter at least, and remember that they are educated intelligent members of this profession, who would be capable of assisting beneficially in the public interests.

Yours faithfully,
BERNARD R. POOLE.

A TRIANGLE TARIFF IS ALL THE GO

A triangle tariff is all the go
Free trade as they have it in England, no,
Commercial union and free trade, no, no,
No running to Washington begging, no,
A triangle tariff is all the go.
The rainmaker has gone home on the train,
Our Agricultural expert may again
Send for the rainmaker to make more rain,
To help our farmers to grow more good grain,
So the farmers' votes thus he can divert,
And fatten their chicks with his expert squirt.
Sir Richard is now in the Senate chair
His job is awful for a man to share
He was a commercial unionist rare
A good free trader I do declare
Sir Richard is now in the Senate chair
A triangle tariff is a'l the go,
A triangle tariff is Fielding's foe,
A triangle tariff Canada's woe,
A triangle tariff not high or low,
Foster's tariff coat Sir Richard did don
The best tariff coat he ever put on.
With the freest trade throughout our Empire,
Would be the best thing we could desire,
Our commerce would find the highest buyer,
Our Empire trade would be much higher,
With the freest trade throughout our Empire,
Mr. Mackenzie was one of our honest men,
He gave us a free trade Government then,
But he had to guard the Government pen,
To keep the chickens safe for the old hen,
At that time Sir Richard was chief expert,
There was no such thing as a chicken squirt.

Take LAXATIVE BROMO Quinine Tablets. Druggists refund money if it fails to cure. E. W. GROVE'S signature is on each box. 25c.

At the annual meeting of the British Cotton Growing association, Sir Alfred Jones said they had a good deal to thank Mr. Winston Churchill for, and if he left the colonial office it would be a great loss to the association. As a compliment to him they had called the last ginnery which had been erected at Lagos the Churchill "ginnery."

For Family Colds.

A reliable cough and cold cure should be always in the house ready for use the moment the first symptoms appear.

It is always easier, cheaper and better to check a cold in the very beginning.

It is safer, too.

Shiloh's Consumption Cure, the Lung Tonic, has been tested for thirty-three years, and tens of thousands of homes in Canada and the United States to-day are never without it.

A dealer writes: "Shiloh's Consumption Cure is without doubt the best remedy for Coughs and Colds on the market. Once used, my customers will buy no other.—L. Elsley, Nassagaweya, Ont."

If it were anything but the best would this be so? Try it in your own family. If it does not cure, you get back all it cost you. We take all the chances. Neither you nor your dealer can lose. Isn't that fair? 25c. is the price. All dealers in medicine sell 523

NO NORMAL SCHOOLS UNTIL 1908

The Building will Not be Ready for Use Until September of That Year

The Toronto News is officially informed that owing to unavoidable delay in obtaining sites and completing arrangements for the building of the four additional Normal Schools at Hamilton, Stratford, Peterborough and North Bay, respectively, they will probably not be opened until September, 1908.

In the meantime, the Education Department expects to promptly commence the remodelling of the old Normal Schools, all of which will be enlarged to accommodate twice the present number of students.

The recent visit of Mr. A. H. U. Colquhoun, Deputy Minister, and Dr. John Seath, Superintendent, to London, had, it is understood, to deal with this matter. The work of reorganizing and enlarging the London Normal School will commence at an early date.

New Cure For Rupture

New Scientific Appliance, Always a Perfect Fit—Adjustable to Any Size Person—Easy, Comfortable, Never Slips, No Obnoxious Springs or Pads—Costs Less Than Many Common Trusses—Made for Men' women or Children.

I Send It on Approval—You Wear It If You are not Satisfied, I Refund Your Money.

I have invented a rupture appliance that I can safely say, by 30 years' experience in the rupture business, is the only one that will absolutely hold the rupture and never slip and yet is cool, comfortable, conforms to every movement of the body without chafing or hurting and costs less than many ordinary trusses. I have put the price so low that any person, rich or poor, can buy, and I absolutely guarantee it. I make it to your order—send it to you—you wear it, and if it doesn't satisfy you send it back to me and I will refund your money. That is the fairest proposition ever made by a rupture specialist. The banks or any responsible citizen in Marshall will tell you that is the way I do business—always absolutely on the square.

Jas. Britton, Cured of Rupture by C. E. Brooks.

Here is what Mr. Jas. Britton, a prominent manufacturer of Bethlehem, Pa., writes:

"C. E. Brooks, Esq., Dear Sir, — I have been ruptured six years and have always had trouble with it till I got your appliance. It is very easy to wear, fits neat and snug, and is not in the way at any time, day or night. In fact at times I did not know I had it on. It just adapted itself to the shape of the body and clung to the spot no matter what position I was in. It would be a veritable God-send to the unfortunate who suffer from rupture, if all could procure the Brooks Rupture Appliance and wear it. They certainly would never regret it. My rupture is all healed up and nothing ever did it but your appliance. Jas. Britton."

If you have tried most everything else, come to me. Where others fail is where I have my greatest success. Write me to-day and I will send you my book on Rupture and its Cure, showing my appliance and giving you prices and names of people who have tried it and been cured. It is instant relief when all others fail. Remember I use no salves, no harness, no lies. Just a straight business deal at a reasonable price.

Membership also includes many other features. The officers would be pleased to confer with parents who have boys of membership age.

Breakdown of Nervous System

TOO FREQUENT THESE DAYS—PREVENTED BY USE OF THE GREAT RESTORATIVE

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

The keen competition of life is now felt in all grades of society, and as the result prostration, paralysis, and insanity are becoming more and more common as the natural outcome of exhausted nerves.

Sleeplessness, irritability, indigestion, headache and general lack of energy and ambition are among the early indications of nervous troubles, and with women the result is not infrequently derangements and irregularities of the feminine organism.

If a committee of experts on diseases of the nerves were to prescribe for you they would give you just such a formula as that of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, for this medicine is composed of the most powerful nerve restoratives known to medical science.

This is no idle boast, as we shall be pleased to prove to you if you will have your physician call at these offices and examine the formula.

What we consider as better proof of what Dr. Chase's Nerve Food will do for you is to be found in the letters of recommendation published from time to time in Dr. Chase's Almanac and in the newspapers of this country.

Mr. Alexander Hounsberger, 10 Moore street, St. Catharines, Ont., writes, "For some years I was severely afflicted with nervousness, which grew on me and developed into paralysis of the limbs so that I became helpless. The best efforts of three doctors failed to even relieve me, and, though I tried a Buffalo specialist, he, too, was baffled in my case. I gradually grew worse and was in such a bad condition that I despaired of being well again.

"After having taken five boxes of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food I was able to resume work and am now feeling better than I did for twenty years. I consider Dr. Chase's Nerve Food the king of all medicines, for through its use I recovered health after long suffering."

A PETERBOROUGH MAN DIES IN MONTREAL

Late Charles Davis Lived Here Nearly All His Life

News of the death of Charles Davis in Montreal reached his friends in this city to-day. The late Charles Davis had for many years been a resident in Peterborough, and it was only a year ago since he left for Montreal, having been injured while at work with the Dickson Company. Although he has been doctoring with a specialist since that time in Montreal, the injuries were so severe that he never recovered.

His death occurred yesterday afternoon, at 1.30 o'clock, at the age of 64 years, and his body will arrive in the city on the 5.15 o'clock C.P.R. train to-morrow morning. His wife pre-deceased him about thirteen years ago. Surviving him are four daughters, Mrs. Bird, Mrs. Woodard and Miss Mabel, of Montreal, and Mrs. Henderson, of Belleville, and six sons: John, Nathaniel and George, of Detroit; Harvey, of Montreal; Elmer, of Peterborough, and William, of Belleville.

The late Mr. Davis is well known to many Peterborough people, who will regret to learn of his death.

The funeral will take place tomorrow afternoon from the residence of his niece, Mrs. Walters, 20 Stewart street, to the Little Lake Cemetery.

The New York Stock Market

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Dec. 13.—Stocks were highly irregular to-day, the general list declining from one to ten points, while St. Paul rose four. The weak features were Gt. Nor. pfd., Nor. Pac., U.P., Reading and Copper. They showed weakness from the start on further liquidation by commission houses which was a continuation of that started yesterday. Money rates were stiff, call rates ranging from 12 to 16 p.c., and this was probably the reason for the break. The buying of St. Paul was persistent and without explanation, the rapid rise in it undoubtedly contributing to the weakness elsewhere. There was no rally worthy of notice and the close was furiously active and quite weak. Stocks are getting down where they look cheap again and should be picked up on any further break of a couple points. The market will have to ease, however, before any prolonged rally can take place.

SCHENECTADY STRIKE IS ENDED

5,000 Men Employed by General Electric Works There Will Return to Work—Trouble Ended

Schenectady, N. Y., Dec. 12.—The second day of the strike at the plant of the General Electric Company was ushered in with a statement from General Manager Emmons of the company to the effect that many members of the Industrial Workers of the World, the labour organization which ordered the strike, were returning to their places in the shops.

This statement was denied by the strike leaders, who declared there had been no desertions from their ranks. While the Industrial Workers of the World claim that 5000 men are on strike, semi-official figures from the company places the number at about 2000.

OPENING OF TOBOGGAN SLIDE IS POSTPONED

Mild Weather Makes it Necessary to Delay the Event

The unexpected mild spell of weather has made it necessary to postpone the formal opening of the Jackson Park toboggan slide. An announcement of the date of opening will be made later. There was a big crowd at the rink last night, and the ice was in good condition considering the weather. The opening of the slide will be awaited with interest by the many devotees of tobogganing in Peterborough.

REV. A. BRIGHT WILL NOT BE FIRST PASTOR

Wanted by Majority of Knox Church Congregation But He Declares Call Must be Unanimous

CONGREGATIONAL MEETING LAST NIGHT

The congregational meeting at Knox Presbyterian church last night brought out the fact that the Rev. A. Bright, assistant pastor of St. Paul's will not be the first minister of the church which has recently been separated from St. Paul's. Although there was an evident desire on the part of many that a call should be extended to Mr. Bright, he stated he was not open for one as a number of the congregation had voted for the appointment of a supply committee whose purpose was to extend invitations to ministers to preach in the church, one of whom would be called by the congregation as pastor. From the fact that some voted for this, Mr. Bright considered that his services were not satisfactory to them and he therefore declined to become pastor of the church unless his call was an unanimous one. For this reason Rev. Mr. Bright has stated positively to the Examiner that he was not open for a call as pastor of the newly separated Knox church.

The meeting last night which was a congregational one was largely attended and the discussion on the important question of what steps should be taken with reference to the call of a pastor, was keenly followed by all. After devotional exercises, Rev. Dr. Torrance, who presided, explained fully and concisely the events in the history of Knox church leading up to the meeting last night.

He referred to the acceptance of Rev. A. Bright to become assistant to the pastor of St. Paul's with the recommendation that he become the ordained missionary over Knox church. The Presbytery had passed a resolution at one of its meetings to the effect that it deemed it advisable that the separation of St. Paul's and Knox churches should take place so that one minister would be in a position to look solely after the work at the latter church. At a congregational meeting held recently it was found that the congregation was in favour of separation. On Tuesday this agreement was ratified at the Presbytery meeting in Port Hope. He also explained the different steps which were open to the congregation in order to proceed legally with the selection of a pastor.

Committee on Supply

Mr. J. W. Bennett was the first speaker. He suggested that a committee on supply be chosen as it was probable a number of ministers would be heard within the next few weeks. He thought a committee of three should be appointed and moved that the committee consist of Messrs. Morrison, Savigny and Goodfellow.

Mr. Morrison said he was glad to see such a number of the congregation present and he hoped to see unanimity existing throughout. He believed the congregation should call the man whom the Lord directed and considered Mr. Bennett's motion a good one.

Motion Was Defeated

Mr. Bennett's motion that a supply committee be appointed was then voted upon but was defeated by a majority of nine, twenty voting for it and twenty-nine against.

Mr. Campbell considered that the reason so many had voted against the motion was that they did not desire to hear candidates but that they had made up their minds already with reference to a call. He thought that a vote should be taken to find where their wishes were. The vote showed that 18 were in favour of hearing prospective ministers and and 28 against. Rev. Mr. Bright's name was mentioned as the wish of some and he was warmly welcomed when he arose to speak.

Would Not Accept Call

Mr. Bright stated he took it for granted that the reason why some were in favour of hearing various candidates was that his services were not suitable to them and stated positively that he was not open for a call. He did not care to throw himself open to competition and advised that the committee on supply be given permission to listen to others to avoid delay. He had been led to believe when he accepted the call as assistant pastor that the separation of the churches would soon be effected and that his ordination would be considered. He had a letter, he said, in his possession from a member of the committee in charge to this effect.

To Talk of Separation

Mr. Morrison stated that he was one of the members of the committee when Rev. Mr. Bright was called as assistant and there was nothing said about ordination or separation at the meeting. He heard something about the latter matter after the meeting was over. He did not consider that such a course as had been suggested by Mr. Bennett was putting Mr. Bright up for competition.

Mr. Bennett also explained the circumstances in connection with Rev. Mr. Bright's ordination as missionary over Knox church and stated that

REV. A. BRIGHT,

Who Expresses His Intentions Not to Consider a Call to Knox Presbyterian Church.

at that time the office bearers had no intention of asking for separation.

Mr. Bright again declared that he was not open for a call and advised the original motion be carried. This, however, was not done, and it is probable another meeting of the congregation will be called to arrive at a more definite decision. The meeting closed with the singing of the Doxology and prayer.

The session of Knox congregation have to-day decided that in view of the expressed wish of the congregation, a notice will be read from the pulpit on the two succeeding Sundays, calling a meeting of the congregation for the 27th inst., to moderate in a call.

HAIR PULLING CONTEST CAUSES SOME EXCITEMENT

Some excitement was furnished on Hunter street, east of Water, last evening to the many pedestrians who passed that way by a terrorizing hair-pulling game which lasted some minutes. There were four contestants in the afield and all were of the weaker sex. The origin of the quarrel is as yet unknown nor has the identity of the participants yet been made public.

After a lively time on the street the contest was brought to a close with the victory in doubt.

ARE DISSATISFIED WITH ACTION OF COUNCIL

Trades and Labour Council Believe Few of Aldermen Have Made Efforts to Carry Out Wishes of That Body

THEY WILL HOLD A PUBLIC MEETING

There was a very good attendance at the meeting of the Trades and Labour Council last night, the chief topic for consideration being the report of the Municipal Committee, who have been watching the ratepayers' interests as dealt with by the City Council in general, and by certain members in particular.

In their report, the Committee pointed out that the greater number of the Aldermen had made very little effort at carrying out the plainly expressed wishes of the Trades and Labour Council as to building of sewers by day labour, and complained of the unnecessary and haughty gruffness of President Hicks of the Board of Works, when they appeared before that body to present the suggestions of the Trades and Labour Council.

The City Council, it was deemed, had been rather extravagant in sending out so many deputations and committees on matters of small import to the great mass of the ratepayers.

The milk bylaw was progressing favourably, but better results were hoped for from next year's Council.

As to the heating proposition, the Committee preferred to wait until the engineer had sent in his report, and all information concerning the project had been secured.

Issue was taken with the Coates Company agreement on the ground that it would be unfair to the company already here who had received practically no aid from the city.

The Committee noted that the system of bonusing industries by municipalities was on the increase in Canada, and urged that all Trades and Labour Councils in the Dominion should memorialize the Government to put a stop to a practice which only meant taking from the man who had little to give to the man who had much.

All labour organizations in the city were urged to unite in support of men who will pledge themselves at the coming election to support or at least give a fair hearing to the interests of organized labour in this city. In this connection it was decided to hold an open meeting under the auspices of the Trades and Labour Council between the day of nomination and polling day, to give all candidates for Aldermanic or Mayoralty honours an opportunity of placing themselves squarely before the labouring masses of the city. (Time and place of meeting to be announced later.)

The report was unanimously adopted.

A petition from the Stone Cutters Union of Kingston was read, objecting to the unfair competition of prison labour. The secretary was instructed to notify Premier Laurier, the local member of parliament and the Minister of Labour, of the situation and to urge their immediate attention in behalf of fair play to the journeymen stone cutters of Kingston.

BULLDOG CAUSES ALARM IN HOG PEN

Could Scarcely be Driven Away by the Sticks of the Bystanders at the Market

The market bystanders became much excited yesterday over the possible annihilation of a pen of hogs by a tenacious bulldog. The hogs were purchased by Mr. Thornton, one of the local buyers, and after being weighed at the market were placed in the pens awaiting removal to the packing house. Various members of the canine family had gathered round to listen to the music of the swine. One of the latter more curious than the others protruded its nose through the bars of the pen to make some investigations whereupon a white bull dog seized him by the nose and refused to release its hold and it was fully two minutes before the two forces could be separated.

The dog was not at all satisfied with the result of the little encounter and jumped over the bars among about twenty of the hogs which gave unquestionable evidence of their presence on the market. Several were bitten severely and the others badly frightened. A number of the drovers jumped into the pen with sticks to drive the bulldog away, but these weapons were too frail to make any impression on the canine's head and were left broken and splintered in the pen.

At last one was procured stronger than the others and the dog was stunned by a well aimed blow on the head and carried triumphantly out of the pen.

A noteworthy discovery of papyri is reported from Egypt through the efforts of Dr. Grenfell and Dr. Hunt of the Egyptian Exploration fund at Oxyrhynchus, west of the Nile, and about 5 0miles below the first cataract. It consists of 138 boxes of literature, ranging from 600 A. D. to 200 B. C., and includes a fragment of a Gospel giving a story of Jesus arguing with a Pharisee in the Temple, and a leaf of the best Greek original of the Acts of St. Peter, hitherto known only in the Latin.

AN ENJOYABLE PARTY IN CANDLE LIGHT

An Interesting and Successful Christmas Party at the Y. W. C. A.

More than two hundred ladies were present and enjoyed the Christmas party at the Y. W. C. A. last night. The rooms were prettily decorated with evergreens and the big log fires burning cheerily in the open grates gave a bright warm glow to things. Some confusion was caused by the light going out just as the people were coming in, but candles were immediately procured and the girls sat in the firelight and enjoyed the fun until the lights came on again.

The programme opened with a violin solo by Miss Marguerite Burnette, followed by solos from Miss Manning and Miss Reesor, and another violin solo by Miss Maud Crothers. Miss Reesor is the new soloist of George Street Church and her singing was much appreciated by all. Much thanks is due to Miss Bradd, who arranged this part of the programme and who is always so ready to come to the help of the association.

Refreshments were then served, after which they all wended their way to the gymnasium, where Miss Coventry had a programme of games arranged, but just as the games were starting the lights went out for the second time and there was another scramble for candles and matches, and for some time the games went on by candle-light, which really had a very pretty effect among the branches of spruce and cedar which had crept into every available space.

One very interesting part of the entertainment was the buying of toys by nearly every visitor. These were arranged in one of the small rooms and caused endless amusement to the grown-up children. These gifts will be distributed amongst the different churches to be given to the poor children for Christmas, and we are glad to think that as a result of the Christmas party many little hearts will be gladdened and their Christmas made brighter.

WEDDING BELLS

McMILLIAN---BROWN

Last night the home of Mr. and Adam Frick, Jackson avenue, was the scene of an interesting event, when the wedding of their niece, Miss Martha Alberta Brown, of Port Granby, to Mr. W. Wilbert McMillan, of Peterborough, was solemnized, in the presence of a number of the friends of the contracting parties. The ceremony, which took place at 8 o'clock, was performed by Rev. A. H. Brace, pastor of the Park Street Baptist Church, in the drawing room, which was prettily decorated for the occasion.

The bride was prettily dressed in cream silk contolio, trimmed with oriental lace, and carried white carnations and smilax. She entered the drawing room to the strains of Mendelssohn's Wedding March, played by Miss Edna M. Pratt, leaning on the arm of her father, who gave her away. The bridesmaid, Miss Cormie Bucknell, who wore cream taffeta cloth and carried pink carnations. Mr. Fred McMillan, of Toronto, brother of the groom, acted as groomsman.

After the wedding the usual dejeuner was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. McMillan left for their new home on the boundary of the city, in Otonabee. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome presents, that of the groom being a cheque of ample proportions, while to the bridesmaid he gave a pearl crescent, to the pianist a gold bracelet and to the groomsman, a pair of gold cuff links. The bride's going away costume was of green ladies' cloth, with white velvet hat.

Among the guests present were many from Port Granby, Oshawa, Cobourg, Newcastle, Port Hope and Toronto.

IS NOW THE MANAGING DIRECTOR

Mr. T. H. G. Denne Elected to This Position by Directors of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Limited

At a meeting of the directors of the Peterborough Hockey Club, Limited, held last night, a new office that of managing director, was created, and Mr. T. H. G. Denne was elected to that position by his fellow directors.

Mr. Denne is largely interested in the rink, and under his management it will be conducted in a thoroughly businesslike manner. It is understood that some new regulations, which will conduce to the better management of the rink will be placed in force.

Arrangements will be made to establish a reserved seat section in the centre of the west side of the rink, and seats in this section may be reserved, the holders being admitted by a new entrance, which will be made under the seats on the west side. By this means, the reserved seat ticket holders will be able to come at 8 o'clock and be certain of a seat, instead of standing in line and awaiting their turn.

With the new interior arrangement of the rink this season the patrons will be able to see the hockey games with much more comfort, and the rink will be more modern.

HARD ON LITTLE HOGS AT THE MARKET SCALES

Gentleman Registers a Complaint Against the Conditions There

A gentleman, whose office is near the market square, considers that he has a case for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. His complaint is in reference to the hogs which are brought to the market scales to be weighed. He states that small hogs are put in the same pen with the big ones, and the latter attack the little fellows ferociously, with the result that the air is constantly filled with discordant squeals while the smaller pigs are being assaulted.

TO ADVERTISERS.

As announced, copy for changes of advertisements MUST BE in this office before 5 o'clock of the day preceding the intended publication. It is in your interest as well as the publisher's that all mails be caught by the Examiner and to do this the above rule MUST BE enforced.

ITALIAN WAS FINED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Was Tried Before County Magistrate Edmison This Morning—Drew a Knife on Foreman

A large representation from the Italian Colonoy at Lakefield was present this morning at the trial of Dominico Tamborino before County Magistrate Edmison, who fined the prisoner on an assault charge. It will be remembered that on Sunday night last, Tamborino struck a fellow-workman, Camillo Di Ilio at the Cement Company's establishment and drew a knife on the foreman who attempted to stop the row.

The injured man appeared in court this morning and swore that he was unintentionally struck by the prisoner and exonerated the latter from all blame.

Fred Bolton, the foreman, however, gave evidence that when he attempted to part the assailants, Tamborino drew a knife on him and that the latter was arrested by Constable Doidge.

The prisoner was fined $2.00 and costs, amounting to $16.60 for assault upon the foreman. The case was disposed of without counsel.

THE C.P.R. DECIDES TO BUILD ROAD

To Run from Campbellford to Toronto, and Serve All the Important Towns Along the Route Surveyed

That the Canadian Pacific Railway will construct a new line from Campbellford to Toronto, passing through all the chief towns between these points, entering the city farther east than the Grand Trunk line, and crossing the Don at some point south of Queen street, was the statement made yesterday afternoon before the Railway Commission by Mr. Angus MacMurchy, solicitor for the Canadian Pacific Railway, when arguing that his company should only be called upon to pay a small part of the cost of erecting a high level bridge across the Don at Queen street.

Mr. F. Gautillus, engineer for the C.P.R., said the route had been surveyed and without doubt the best entrance was east and south of the Grand Trunk tracks. The Don valley entrance was unsatisfactory and costly. Near the lakeshore was the proper route when approaching Toronto.—Globe.

MR. AND MRS. HENRY CAPABLE CARETAKERS

The Shelter in a Healthy and Happy Condition Under Their Supervision

At the meeting of the Children's Aid Society yesterday, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Henry were complimented upon the satisfactory manner in which the shelter is progressing under their care. Mr. Denniston and others said that they were as parents to the children, so that many of the latter were always delighted when they returned to the shelter. This place is also in a first-class condition, is always clean and comfortable, and the children well trained and cared for. Mr. and Mrs. Henry are devoted to the work and thus are successful in managing the children.

A HIGHLY RESPECTED RESIDENT DEAD

Late Mrs. William Swanston Had Lived in Peterborough More Than 50 Years

Few, if any of the older residents of East City were as well known as Mrs. William Swanston, whose death occurred last night, after a comparatively brief illness, at her home, Hunter street, East, and news of her death will be received with deepest regret by her friends in all parts of the city. Many of those who have now grown to man's estate have very kindly recollections of favours shown them by the lady, whose death is today recorded, and they, with all who knew her will mourn her demise.

The late Mrs. Swanston, whose maiden name was Annie Pringle, was born in Berwickshire, Scotland, 84 years ago, and, after her marriage to her late husband removed to Canada, fifty-four years ago. They remained one year in Hamilton, and later came to Peterborough, then Ashburnham, and settled in the house in which Mrs. Swanston has lived ever since. Mr. Swanston died on January 4th, 1878.

There were born to Mr. and Mrs. Swanston, ten children, five sons and five daughters, and of these six are still living, Mrs. S. H. Craig, Hespeler; Mrs. C. E. Wright, Toronto; Miss Annie, at home, and William, John and James, all of Peterborough. The deceased had two brothers, James Pringle, of Stratford, and Robert, of Scotland.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, from the family residence, Hunter street, east, to the Little Lake Cemetery, where interment will take place.

COAST LIFE SAVING DISCUSSED

Recent P.E.I. Wrecks Discussed By the House of Commons.

OFFICIALS ARE CRITICIZED

Loss of Life at Souris, P.E.I., and In Toronto Harbor—Mr. Brodeur Explains That Government Has Already Increased Estimates For This Service—Heroism of Two Fishermen and a Pelee Crew.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The question of a life-saving service for the sea coast and lakes of the Dominion occupied the attention of the House yesterday afternoon. Mr. Brodeur, Minister of Marine and Fisheries, assured the members that the Government were alive to the necessity of the situation, as shown by the fact that the estimates brought down increased by one-third the amount voted for this purpose.

Centres On Recent Wreck.

The debate centered on the recent wreck, with loss of life, at Souris, P. E. I., and the alleged neglect of the Government officials to promptly respond to the call for assistance. Mr. Brodeur paid a high tribute to the heroism displayed by two fishermen in going to the rescue in the face of heavy sea, and intimated that their services would be rewarded. With regard to the refusal to send the lifeboat of the Minto by special train, he stated that the agent of his department had ample authority to act, but had not done so, as the steamer Stanley, with a lifeboat, was much nearer the wreck, and had been sent to the scene.

Officials Negligent.

Several members on the Liberal side held that the officials had been negligent. The loss of life by the foundering of the steamer Resolute was also referred to, and Mr. Brodeur defended Capt. Ward of the life-saving crew from criticism, pointing out that at the time of the wreck he was engaged in life-saving operations in the harbor. Mr. A. H. Clarke took advantage of the opportunity to call attention to the striking example of devotion to duty shown by the crew of the Pelee life-saving station.

Members' Transportation In Boats.

Mr. Lavergne (Montmagny) introduced a bill entitled "An act respecting navigation," the object of which, he explained, was to compel navigation companies to give free transportation to members of the House of Commons and Senate, and so prevent such companies offering free transportation to members as an inducement to support bills promoted by them. He understood that the Richelieu & Ontario Navigation Co., which received a subsidy for the transportation of mails, offered free transportation to certain members on condition that they supported the company's bill. The effect of the bill which he now introduced would be to protect members.

The Colonial Conference.

The Prime Minister stated that the 15th of April next year had been fixed for the opening of the Colonial Conference, to which Canada had been invited to send representatives by his Majesty's Government. The Imperial Government had not communicated the questions to be discussed.

In answer to Mr. Monk, the Minister of Finance said numerous delegations had interviewed the Government with regard to the new tariff, but considering the large number of items in the tariff the objections were comparatively small. If as a result of an inquiry on the points raised it was found any industry had failed to receive the greatest possible consideration, or if any mistake had been made, the Government would not be too proud to correct it.

Sir Frederick Borden informed Mr. Monk that the cost of the fortifications at Halifax was $25,000 per annum and at Esquimalt $10,000.

Tariff Deputations.

Deputations by the dozen were here yesterday to lay their views before the Finance Minister on tariff matters. Among those who saw Mr. Fielding yesterday morning were a large deputation from the Montreal board of trade, including wholesale drygoods, grocery and hardware dealers; a deputation of leather manufacturers from Brockville, and the west and another from Hamilton, representing manufacturers of bolts and nuts. The chief cause of complaint is indefiniteness in the new schedules of duty.

The needs of Toronto were brought to the attention of the Government by a large deputation from the Queen City yesterday.

Eddy Estate Pays $75,000.

Ottawa, Dec. 13.—The trustees of the E. B. Eddy estate have paid into the treasury of Quebec Province the sum of $75,000 in succession duties. The province claims a quarter of a million and has returned a receipt to the trustees for $75,000 "on account."

THERE IS NO PEACE IN FRANCE

France and the Vatican Still At Odds Over Church Law.

PAPERS MAY EMBARRASS

Documents Seized at Nunciature May Prove Existence of a Conspiracy—Important Evidence In Case War Between Church and State Proves to Be An Open One—Laymen to Hold Services.

Paris, Dec. 13.—The papers seized at the Papal Nunciature Tuesday, placed in the Government's hands important evidence which may prove embarrassing to the Vatican if open war ensues. They include the diplomatic records covering the correspondence before the rupture with the Vatican, recent instructions from Cardinal Merry Del Val, the Papal Secretary of State, a mass of letters from prelates all over the world, and letters in the handwriting of deputies of the Right party. Mr. Jaures, the Socialist leader, asserts in his paper that the seized documents even prove the existence of a conspiracy.

Delay Increases Excitement.

The day of grace granted to local churches in the execution of the law providing for the separation of Church and State postpones until today the measures for its enforcement. The delay, however, has only served to increase the excitement caused by the expulsion from France Tuesday of Mgr. Montagnini, secretary of the Papal Nunciature at Paris.

Prosecutions have been begun against the ultramontaine abbes of the Churches of St. Pierre du Gros Caillou, St. Augustin and St. Roch, where the greatest resistance to the taking of the inventories occurred, and it has been decided immediately to take over the buildings belonging to the ecclesiastics, stop the pensions of the clergy, compel aspirants to the priesthood to fulfill their military obligations, and, if necessary, treat the clergy as subjects of a foreign power.

Catholics Disapprove of Rome.

That the rank and file of the liberal Catholics disapproved of the intransigeant attitude of the authorities at Rome is evidenced by the fact that the editor of the Renaissance, Felix Robin, has filed with Prefect of Police Lepine an application under the Public Meetings Law of 1881 for permission to hold religious meetings in all the churches. This affords the single ray of hope in the situation: The Figaro says that Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, at first declined to approve of Mr. Robin's action, but that later he changed his mind. The application has been accepted as being in accordance with the law.

Vatican Forces Mobilized.

Rome, Dec. 13.—It is believed even now, that notwithstanding the gravity of the situation, France would not find it difficult to conciliate the Vatican if negotiations were opened. In the meanwhile, all the Vatican forces have been mobilized to take part in the campaign. Even Father Wernz, the general of the Jesuits, has joined the belligerents.

THE SENIOR SCHEDULE FOR THIS DISTRICT DRAWN UP

Meeting of the Representatives Was Held in the Oriental Hotel Last Night

LOCALS' FIRST GAME ON JANUARY 11

At a meeting of the representatives of the different clubs in No. 1 group of the O.H.A. senior series held last night in the Oriental, the schedule for the first round was drawn up and adopted.

Convenor C. G. Graham was in the chair and the following representatives were present:—T. A. Walsh, Marlboros; J. L. Begley, Argonauts; P. Fletcher, Midland; F. A. MacNee, Kingston and J. T. McCabe and Harry Morgan, Peterborough.

The following schedule was agreed upon:—

January 4—Argos at Kingston.
January 5—Midland at Marlboros.
January 11—Kingston at Peterborough.
January 12—Marlboros at Argos.
January 16—Peterborough at Marlboros.
January 16—Argos at Midland.
January 21—Midland at Peterborough.
January 23—Midland at Argos.
January 23—Marlboros at Kingston.
January 26—Peterborough at Argos.
January 28—Marlboros at Midland.
January 30—Peterborough at Kingston.
February 2—Argos at Marlboros.
February 6—Kingston at Marlboros.
February 8—Argos at Peterborough.
February 12—Peterborough at Midland.
February 13—Kingston at Argos.
February 15—Marlboros at Peterborough.
February 18—Midland vs. Kingston at Peterborough.

It will be seen that the Marlboros, Argonauts, and Peterborough each play eight games, four at home and four away, while Midland and Kingston have only seven. This is accounted for by the fact that to avoid heavy travelling expenses Kingston and Midland will play a sudden death game here, a victory to count two games for the winning team.

Peterborough's first game is at home with Kingston. The away from home dates are January 16th, 26th, 30th and February 12th, and they play at home January 11th, 21st, February 8th, and 15th.

The following referees were suggested:—By the Argonauts, Percy Quinn and Fred. Thomas; Marlboros, F. C. Waghorne, Herb. Birmingham; Midland, W. H. Duncan; Kingston, Hugh McDonald; Peterborough, E. Ford and W. E. Wasson.

BELLEVILLE IS STILL KNOCKING THE O.H.A.

Intelligencer Has a Few Words With the Toronto Telegram Over the Matter

SOME OF THE OLD MEMORIES RECALLED

The Belleville Intelligencer has been having a little duel with the Toronto papers papers and here are some of the interesting things that they are saying about each other. Its about time the Belleville paper had forgotten the year they were justly punished by the O.H.A. for playing a bunch of professionals under the guise of simon pure amateurs:—

Toronto Telegram.—The Belleville Intelligencer has never forgiven the O. H.A. for exposing its bunch of paid amateurs when they were apparently on the eve of landing some large cash bets for their supporters. And it takes out its spite by picturing the big association headed towards ruin on a toboggan, with slide all nicely iced. But it's the Intelligencer's size that bothers it. It's so small that it can't see outside the window in its one-storey office. It should try to expand enough to take a paper. It would then learn that the O.H.A. keeps right on growing. If The Intelligencer keeps on talking in its present tone people will soon be prepared to present it with a scholarship in the Deaf Mute Institute.

The Intelligencer says:—Ha! Ha! How it does hurt those Toronto tin-canners when somebody tells them a little bit of truth. Oh! yes. The O.H. A. is growing—like a snowball in the merry month of May. No doubt some Toronto "purists" would be glad if Belleville people were all dumb. They would not then be able to tell how, once upon a time, the rig guns of the O.H.A. fired a Belleville player for professionalism, and the next season coolly said "there was nothing against" him last year but a violation of the residence rule." Neither would they be able to tell how the Belleville club was told, at the beginning of the season, that its players were all O. K., but when the boys got into the finals they were pitched out neck and crop. A member of the O.H.A. executive, at the meeting when McMillan was professionalized said "he would not condemn a dog on evidence such as that produced against the Belleville club". Honestly, has not hypocrisy always been the watchword of the O. H. A. Have they not always played favourites? But Belleville was not one of them, and can any man truthfully say that Belleville was any worse than other clubs in violation of amateur principles? Not on your natural life. This is an old story now, but it hurts those Toronto four-flushers to hear it retold. The truth is, the O.H.A. is pretty nearly all in. It might have more of a future if it did not have so much of a past.

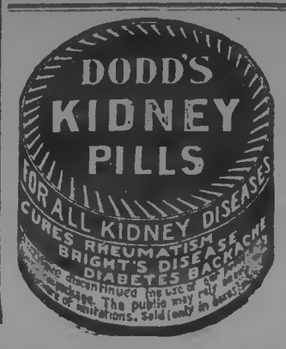
TWO MORE FAST BASKET BALL GAMES PLAYED

Arrows and Alerts were the Y. M. C. A. League Winners Last Night

Two more basketball games in the Y.M.C.A. senior league were pulled off last night in the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium when the Arrows won from the O.T. C. and the Alerts won from the Tigers. In the first game the O.T.C. surprised their friends by putting up a great argument, especially in the first half, when for a time they had the lead on the speedy Arrows. Had their shooting abilities been equal to the Arrows, the score would have been a very close one. Good combination plays were made by both teams, and at times the play was even brilliant. The Arrows, by their good shooting, managed to win out by 67 to 33.

In the second game the Alerts won from the Tigers by the score of 49 to 38. Close checking marked this game all the way through, thus preventing the accurate shooting which marked the first game. The teams were evenly matched, the score at half time standing 21 all. For the first few minutes in the second half, the Tigers were lost, and when they settled down towards the end of the game, they made a great spurt, but were unable to overcome the lead which the Alerts had secured. Staunton, for the Tigers, was a dead shot on the basket. The Alerts all showed up equally well, and played a steady game. This is the Tigers' first year out, and they have certainly showed up remarkably well.



SOME EXHIBITION GAMES HAVE BEEN ARRANGED

Queens and Princeton will Play Here—Locals will Meet Marlboros

The Peterborough hockey team will open the season with an exhibition game in Toronto with the Marlboros on Christmas night. On the following Friday, December 28th, the Queen's University team will play here and on Monday, December 31st the Princeton team will be seen in action. These three games should put the team in good shape for the opening schedule game with Kingston on January 11th.

HOCKEY

Fred. Whitcroft, rover of the Peterborough hokcey team, had a finger broken during last night's practice and the accident will keep him out of the game for a short time.

• • • •

The Peterborough team had a good practice last night, nearly a score of men being out in uniform. A good workout was the result. Among those out were Whitcroft, Morgan Graham, McStravick, Crowley, Glover, VanEvery, Watson, Easton, Rose, Parnell, Moore Ferguson, Myers, Long, Winch and Lang.

CURLING

The ice at the curling rink is now in excellent shape for the game. Last night three rinks were in motion but only two of the scores were left on the blackboards. The other game was so much one-sided that the losers erased the score before the scribe had an opportunity to see it. The following were the other scores:—

C. N. Brown, 10. T. S. Medd, 9.
G. W. Morrow, 11. J. S. Knapman, 5.

ANNUAL MEETING OF CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY

Mr. J. H. Burnham Re-elected to the Presidency—Society to Again Seek Help From the Government

MR. COCHRANE RECEIVES $100 INCREASE

"To pity distress is but human; to relieve it is Godlike."—Horace Mann.

The annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held yesterday afternoon in the Council Chambers, when the officers of this year and a fairly large gathering of interested ladies and gentlemen were present. This society has done a great work during the past in relieving distress among the young and placing them in foster homes where they receive kind treatment. It has been assisted in this work by the charity of the people of Peterborough, as it is not an institution which is subsidized by the Government. At the meeting yesterday this subject received some consideration. It was thought by all that the Government should assist the society in some manner. At this time of the year, especially, the financial resources of the Children's Aid Society are severely taxed, and substantial funds are required to tide it over this season. The president, Mr. J. H. Burnham, dwelt on this and also said that the Government should erect and maintain a shelter for the whole Province for particular cases in which a child is a greater burden than usual to the local society. Accordingly, it was decided on motion that a strong recommendation be made to the Government, advising the erection of such a shelter.

The Attendance

The following showed their interest in the society's affairs by their attendance: Mr. J. H. Burnham, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Messrs. R. M. Dennistoun, P. Campbell, John Butcher, Wm. Henry, Geo. Cochrane, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. Canon Davidson, Meadames Birdsall, Garvin, Beat, Warde, Poole, Lloyd and Miss Gow.

Mr. Burnham, the president of the society, called the meeting to order and gave his address, or, rather, report, dealing with several very important subjects.

Mr. Burnham's Report

The Children's Aid movement has been of such practical and sympathetic value that those most in touch with the results, and best in position to judge impartially, viz., Magistrates, County Councils and City Councils, agree in praise of it.

The various councils have from time to time increased their subsidies simply because they found it paid them to do so. Why is it, then, that, in spite of repeated requests and in spite of the fact that, in numbers alone, the rescued testify to the preeminence of that sort of work, the Government, at Toronto has not put Children's Aid Societies on the list of those institutions entitled to subsidies. It is not fair to lay the whole burden of the expense of the work upon a locality, when other institutions doing similar work in that locality are subsidized, and rightly so, by headquarters.

Government Neglect

Then there is another respect in which the Children's Aid work is seriously hampered by Governmental neglect. The need of a Provincial shelter is, and has been for many a day, an obvious one. One instance will illustrate our meaning. A young girl, healthy and otherwise acceptable, is in need of training in the ordinary ways of elementary civilized life. Foster homes have been found for her time and again, but she has always been returned to the local shelter for the reason I have given, and no other. This child has cost us, the agent says, not less than $150, whereas the ordinary child, taken and put out in the usual way, does not cost over $20. Here is a clear and unnecessary waste of enough money to provide for six or seven children in need of immediate attention. Multiply this case by five and we have a direct charge against the Department of compelling us to neglect thirty children in a year. Why are these requests not listened to? The suspicion has gone about that the reason is that it is desired by the department to make the expense of this movement as light as possible to the Government. This is fundamentally wrong, and the time has come, in our opinion, for an energetic protest. We cannot allow inefficiency or neglect at headquarters to check the great work of child-rescue. Public opinion demands greater consideration of the difficulty, and once more we draw attention to it with the earnest hope that by next year a sympathetic and satisfactory solution of it will be found by the Government.

This report was adopted.

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, the society's agent, then presented his report, as follows:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—I take pleasure in presenting my Seventh Annual Report as Agent for your Society, and in doing so will give you a brief outline of the work done during the past year in my department.

The Shelter has been under the supervision of Mr. and Mrs. Henry, and I think you will agree with me when I state they have performed their duties in a most satisfactory manner. Although we have had a larger number of children to care for during the past year than any year since the Society was organized, still they have all been looked after by Mrs. Henry in such a kind, motherly way that there has been no cause for complaint, which certainly speaks well for the Matron. Mr. Henry has spent considerable time in painting and fixing up the Shelter which makes it look much more home like.

I am pleased to be able to report that our worthy Vice-President, Mrs. Birdsall, has re-organized the Sewing Society. She has been ably assisted by a few ladies of the city. We hope that more ladies will take an interest in this very important work, for in so doing it will be a saving of our very limited income.

Had our income been greater during the past year we could have done more work both in City and County, as it was we could only attend to the most urgent cases, for you must bear in mind that it takes considerable money to supply the wants of a family of 5 children. We also gave temporary help to a large number of poor families, and this help has always been acceptable, and we would rather do this in some cases than break up a home, which is only done as a last resort.

I would like to ask the question right here. Have we not got some wealthy citizen or citizens in our city who will give us the means we require so that we may do our work in a more efficient manner?

Some children, otherwise acceptable, having had no training in their very early days, are, on account of their peculiar habits, returned to the Shelter from their foster homes. We are compelled to retain them there for a long period and this means a heavy expense. The expense of the training of such children at the Shelter deprives the Society of the wherewithal for providing for many cases of actual misery. Re these and similar cases it would be very helpful no doubt to Societies everywhere, if the Government would provide a reasonable solution of the difficulty.

In the last twelve months I have visited all parts of the County and have made 127 official visits, investigating complaints from responsible parties, and action has been taken when deemed necessary.

Persons giving such information need have no fear in doing so, as they may rest assured that it will always be treated as confidential.

Following the custom pursued in other years at Christmas time we distributed from the Shelter, which was well filled with Christmas cheer, besides a large amount of clothing, toys, etc., that had been brought in by friends, and a number of families have also been supplied with clothing.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

Secretary's Report

Mr. R. M. Dennistoun, secretary of the society, presented his report, which, as published in yesterday's issue, was adopted.

Treasurer's Report

Mr. Peter Campbell, the society's treasurer, gave an account of the finances. It showed that the society is in a healthy condition, but is still dependent upon the public for assistance.

Election of Officers

The election of officers for the coming year then followed, the general opinion being that those of the last year have satisfacorily attended to their duties.

The officers for the year 1907 are as follows:

Honourary President—Hon. J. R. Stratton.
President—Mr. J. H. Burnham.
Vice-Presidents—Mrs. Birdsall and Mr. T. F. Matthews.
Secretary—Mr. R. M. Dennistoun.
Treasurer—Mr. P. Campbell.
Agent—Mr. Geo. Cochrane.
Representative to Charity Board—Mr. Geo. Cochrane.
Management Committee—Meadames Peck, Beat, Davis, Warde, O'Sullivan, Potter, Hughes Charles, Ritchie, Garvin, Montgomery, Harding, Dr. Jessie Bernie, Loyd, Dickson, Misses Gow and Halliday, and Rev. Father McColl, Rev. Dr. Torrance, Rev. J. G. Potter, Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, Rev. Canon Davidson, Rev. Dr. Crothers, Rev. H. M. Manning, Rev. Wm. Major, Rev. Mr. Webb, Rev. J. G. Lewis, Rev. A. H. Brace, His Worship the Mayor, Dr. Geo. Burnham, Mr. D. Hughes Charles, Mr. Jno. Butcher.

Rev. Canon Davidson moved a vote of thanks to the officers who have done duty during the past year. Their work has been faithfully and well done and the results they have attained is a credit to them and to the citizens who take an interest in the Society.

Rev. Dr. Torrance seconded the motion.

Mr. Burnham on behalf of the officers, expressed his gratitude for the appreciation that had been shown towards their efforts. This was his second term as President and a continuation of any one in the same office, he said, was usually detrimental to the Society's advancement. The speaker said that next year he would not stand for election. He also referred to the loss the Society was sustaining in the departure of Mr. and Mrs. K. Eardley-Wilmot. The latter had always shown a deep interest in the Society's work and lent valuable assistance on numerous occasions. The members extended their hearty thanks to them for past help, and their wishes for future success.

Agent's Salary

The question of increasing Mr. Cochrane's salary from $100 to $200 per year came up for some discussion. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt thought that Mr. Cochrane had performed his duties in a most creditable manner and owing to the increased amount of work he fully deserved a raise. Mr. Burnham spoke along similar lines and Mr. Peter Campbell also. Mr. Dennistoun re this matter suggested that the Police Commissioners should appoint Mr. Cochrane Truant Officer and the income derived from this position together with his present one would be sufficient to enable him to devote his entire time to city affairs. It was decided that the officers of the Society should approach the Police Commissioners with this object as a subject for consideration.

Rev. E. A. Langfeldt moved a vote of thanks to the press for its assistance in Children's Aid work.

WM. LYON MACKENZIE HIS LIFE AND TIMES BY W. H. MOORE

An Interesting Address on One of the Foremost Men of Upper Canada in the Early Eighties

ACCOUNT OF EVOLUTION OF GOVERNMENT

The Young Conservative Club rooms were well filled last night on the occasion of the second of a series of lectures given by prominent men on important subjects. The meetings are non-political, and thus there is generally a good number of both parties present. Mr. W. H. Moore was the lecturer last evening, his address being on the "Life and Times of William Lyon McKenzie," which he treated in an interesting and exhaustive manner. Mr. Moore showed that he is thoroughly conversant with the early political life of Canada by the minute way in which he detailed Mackenzie's life. Mr. Moore was handicapped in preparing his address owing to the dearth of books dealing on the subject, and it was only through friends here and in Toronto that he was able to secure the necessary information. However, he made a great success of his address insomuch as it was very interesting and instructive, and also very entertaining.

Messrs. Cranfield, Holland and Theobald provided instrumental music before and after the lecture.

Mr. J. H. Burnham introduced the speaker and referred to the gratification the club felt at the large attendance. These meetings will be held at different times throughout the winter, and should prove more attractive and successful as the season advances. As Mr. Moore's address contained many quotations which he had to use to support his statements, and as it was a very long discourse, he read the most of it from his manuscript. For the same reasons it is not possible to give herewith a detailed report of the address, of which the following is but a synopsis.

Mr. Moore's Address

Mr. Mackenzie has been described by an able writer as an independent Reformer, though, by way of reproach, he was called by his opponents a Radical. Lieutenant Governor Sir Francis Bond Head referred to Mr. Mackenzie and his followers as "the traitors," and the Tories followed his example. Mackenzie's life work may be stated as a long struggle for the recognition of the people's rights in Parliament by a Government which should be responsible to them.

Born in Dundee, Scotland, in 1795, with his widowed mother he often experienced straitened circumstances. He received a fairly good education, which he improved in later years by home study and reading. He arrived in Canada in 1820, and after a short and fairly successful business career, he went into journalism and founded The Colonial Advocate, and thus opened his public career. Wholesouled in every task he took up, he became a master of direct and effective literary style. He assumed the role as critic and his scathing editorials at all times (for there were many causes for his censure) won to him the deep hatred of those whom he assailed. He railed at the Family Compact with a vehemence of language never equalled in Canada. The party in power had a bitter hatred for him, as was evidenced when his paper was taken from a hole in the rock at the base of the Brock monument at Queenston Heights, where it had been placed "that the ghost of the immortal warrior might not be disturbed by its presence." There were other attacks made on him. Once his printing press was destroyed, and again he was assailed by a band of ruffians and severely treated by them.

Condition of Government

At this period the Government was in a very bad condition. The Governor and the Council had full control and did practically as they pleased. The Legislative Assembly had no voice in public matters at all, at any rate it did not realize anything because the Council paid no attention to the people's needs, but sought after their own personal gain. In fact, these long years of misgovernment were the direct cause of the Rebellion of 1837.

Mayor of Toronto

In 1834 Mackenzie offered himself as a candidate for the Mayoralty of Toronto, then the town of York, known as "Muddy York," and was elected, being the first Mayor of Toronto, as well as the first in Upper Canada. He was very successful and was publicly thanked for the faithful discharge of his arduous duties. Mr. Moore here gave a detailed account of the condition of Toronto in those days, which was certainly very primitive. Our grievances led to another, and resulted in open rebellion, which brought ruin to Mackenzie, but ultimately won for Canada the boon of responsible government, largely as we have it to-day.

In the Legislature

In 1828 he sought a seat in the Legislature, and was successful. In his newspaper he published the following characteristic announcement: "If I go into the Legislature it must be in my own way, or not at all. For I mean to break through all the old established usages, to keep no open houses and administer to the wants of no publicans, hire no vehicles to trundle freemen to the hustings to serve themselves, nor even to court the favour of leading and influential men."

Shortly after his entry to the House he was charged with publishing its proceedings without permission from the House. He was unseated, but public opinion was so much in favour of him and of his cause that he was re-elected. He was again unseated, and the farce continued until he had been re-elected and unseated five times and his popularity thus increased five-fold.

The rebellion resulted disastrously for the revolters, Mackenzie himself being outlawed. It left a deep impress upon his countenance and character, as was seen when he returned, on being pardoned in 1849. He was still, however, as energetic as ever, and presented himself to the electors of Haldimand against the Hon. George Brown, and was elected, representing that constituency for seven years. He resigned in 1856 and passed to his eternal rest in 1861, at the age of 66 years.

Mr. Moore then detailed the policy of Mackenzie, the chief results of which are in force to-day, thus showing his insight into the future of political life. Rev. Dr. Ryerson said of him: "Whatever measures Mackenzie originated and pursued, and whatever influence he acquired, were due to his unparalleled industry, financial taste and talents, and his extraordinary public exertions; that he found Mr. Mackenzie, as a man, open, generous, ardent, punctual and honourable in all his engagements, and that the tendency of his measures was to secure rigid economy in the public expenditure."

Mr. Mackenzie died as he had lived in rather straitened circumstances, for he never was a gatherer. He served his country first, and his name has gone down into history as one of the foremost men, who assisted in making Canada what she is to-day.

After the address, Mr. Jas. Stevenson, Mr. D. W. Dumble, Mr. R. M. Bennistoun and Mr. J. H. Burnham all referred in a complimentary manner to the splendid address that has been given. They related anecdotes of Mackenzie which were very interesting. Mr. Moore was thanked by the club for his kindness in preparing his address, and was complimented upon the success he had made of it.

A HINT OF INSIDE HISTORY

Frustration of an Attempt to Steal the Semi-ready System

A year ago the Semi-ready tailoring encountered an experience which might be likened to the history of a gold mine. Years of effort, and of splendid energy had been spent in promoting the Semi-ready system now so generally accepted by gentlemen.

One can recall instances where years of labour and thousands of dollars had been spent in developing many a gold mine before the true vein of quartz is uncovered in all its richness—the rich strike to be quickly followed by the quarrels and law suits which follow the quest of gold.

The Semi-ready tailoring, its physique type measurement system, and its valuable trade-mark passed through the same stage of hot warfare when some onlookers saw that the vein of popular acceptance had been reached. An attempt to separate the workers who had carried it to success was frustrated. The Semi-ready Company to-day is one of the most successful industries in Canada. With finely equipped shops, built expressly for their tailoring, and with 69 Semi-ready Wardrobes established throughout the Dominion, their international trade emblem has been estimated to be worth a million dollars.

But the gold mine allegory is complete only when a gentleman realizes that he can clean up a five or ten dollar nugget every time he saves that amount by preferring a Semi-ready suit or overcoat.

Cressman's have all the new Semi-ready styles, and the exclusive agency for Peterborough and district.

HAROLD SPENCER TO BEAT OFFICIALS AFTER ALL

Was Turned Back Once at Buffalo, but will Make Another Attempt to Get into United States To-morrow

HAD NO MONEY AND WAS STOPPED

Harold Spencer's efforts to get into Uncle Sam's domains from Peterborough the other day did not meet with very great success according to the story of the Toronto World. The determination of the vigilant officials at Buffalo, however, is to be checkmated after all, thanks to the kindly offices of the manager of A. Martin Uncle Tom's Cabin, which plays here to-night. Mr. Spencer is joining the show for one night, and will go with the company to Kingston to-morrow morning, and will, from there, work across the border, and go to his new place of abode, where he has a position at $21 a week waiting for him. The World, telling of his experience a Buffalo and Toronto, says:—

"A chilled and hungry looking young Englishman named Harold Spencer wandered around the streets rather disconsolately all day yesterday for he had happened upon peculiarly hard luck within the subsequent 24 hours, and had travelled a long distance, partly against his will. He had been on his way from Peterborough to Amsterdam, N. Y., but was not allowed to proceed into the United States, because he did not posses the $2 for the fee necessary for the admission of aliens, and the authorities provided him with a ticket back to Peterborough.

It was on Monday morning that he left Peterborough for Uncle Sam's country. He got, he says, as far as Buffalo, where, with an Italian from Toronto, whom he could not understand, he was detained and told that his ticket to Amsterdam and his two baggage checks would not help to admit him to the country unless he had some money. He hadn't. The two men were put in a barn-like place, locked up and told to be ready for the return train in the morning. Spencer says he had been fasting all the previous day, but he got nothing to eat. He reached Toronto at 11.00 a. m. yesterday and had to stay over till 5 o'clock for the Peterborough train. The young man is pronouncedly English, having left his native land less than three months ago. He has been working as a carpet-weaver in Peterborough and decided to go to Amsterdam in response to a telegram from his uncle, named Moran, who lives there. Some good fellows got acquainted with him and his story on Yonge street and he looked lighter after they had provided him with a sandwich, a glass of beer, some cigarets and some small silver sufficient to feed him till he gets back to Peterborough."

A PRESENTATION TO A SCHOOL TEACHER

Honoured Before Leaving South Burleigh Section—Latest News from the North

Examiner Special

Apsley, Dec. 14.—Mr. Frank Young, the Government scaler for the Rathbun Co., arrived in the village on Monday.

Miss Hattie Eastland spent a few days in South Burleigh the guest of Miss Jessie Reid.

Mr. M. Tucker and Dr. Bell attended Voters' List Court at Burleigh Falls last Saturday.

The young people of the Methodist Church held a meeting in the church Monday evening for the purpose of making arrangements for their Christmas tea and entertainment, which takes place December 25.

Presented with Purse

The children of South Burleigh held a very enjoyable concert in the school house last Friday, at which they presented their teacher, Miss F. Simpson, of Lakefield, who is leaving at Christmas, with a purse containing $10.50, and the following address:

Dear Teacher,—The pleasant duty has been assigned me by my schoolmates of presenting you with this token as an evidence of our lasting esteem, friendship and love. We could not consent to part with you without leaving in your hands some memorial, however trifling, of our deep and abiding gratitude for your unceasing efforts to benefit us. When in future days you look upon this memento, let it be a pleasant token of the deepest love and reverence of our young and faithful hearts.

Signed on behalf of the School.

Annas Patterson.
Joseph Church.
Irene Thompson.
Percy Northey.

The last meeting of the Township Council for this year will be held in the town hall on Saturday, December 15.

Misses Jessie Reid and Florence Simpson spent Sunday in the village the guests of Miss Hattie Eastland.

Hunter in Hard Luck

Kansas City Star.

THE Burlington agent at Tina went rabbit hunting Thursday morning. He only took 25 shells with him and after shooting 24 times he had not killed a "bunnie." He knew it would not do to go to town without some game, so he gave a negro boy a nickel for a live rabbit. He then tied a string to the rabbit's leg and tied the other end of the string to a cornstalk. Stepping back about fifteen feet, he took deliberate aim and fired the last shell he had. But, instead of hitting the rabbit, he cut the string and the rabbit hopped away, wiggling and grinning as he went.

Award For Champion Steer Goes to I. & A. Groff of Alma For Their Animal Which Tipped Scales at 1,700 Pounds—Awards In Dairy Test—First Goes to Holstein Cow, Owned by A. Bollert.

Guelph, Dec. 13.—There were a large number of entries in the dairy test that was commenced last Friday, Ayrshires, Holsteins, Jerseys, Shorthorns and Grades, entered into the competition, and great interest was evinced in the results. The grand award has gone to a Holstein cow owned by H. Bollert of Cassel-Tidy, Pauline de Kohl. Her yield was 131 pounds of milk in two days, testing 3.4. Her placing gave her about 140 points.

The award in the class under 48 months went to any Ayrshire heifer, 2 years old, owned by Alfred E. Hulet of Norwich. This one gave 77.2 pounds of milk in two days, and the very high test of 4.6, making 101.96 points in all.

The Ayrshires were out in large numbers, and sustained the credit of the breed admirably. The Holsteins also were in fine form, and their admirers were never tired of viewing the well-cared for cows from the Tillsonburg and Norwich stables. But the Shorthorn men have reason to feel elated over the winnings of the small herds that competed. A red cow of no very special appearance, stood ninth in the test, and a 2-year-old heifer also showed to a big advantage over many of her sister breeds of greater repute in the dairy building.

Jersey Entries Few.

Unfortunately the Jersey entries were too few to do the breed justice. Four in all appeared, and these were so far advanced in milk that their returns in the flow did not score them enough points to qualify.

As H. Bollert of Cassel sat down and took at noon a flowing pail of milk that weighed 22 pounds 14 ounces, the admiring crowd were heard to make very unfavorable comparisons of the average milking cow that is to be found on the Ontario farms. This cow comes from a deep milking strain, and shows the advantage of breeding to stock with performance pedigrees.

Galloways and Devonshires.

The following are further judging awards, as posted:

Steer or heifer, 2 years and under 3—1st, C. S. Rudd, Eden Mills; 2nd, D. McCrae, Guelph.

Steer or heifer, 1 year and under 2—1st, Robert Shaw, Brantford; 2nd, Robt. Shaw; 3rd, D. McCrae, Guelph; 4th and 5th, C. C. Rudd, Eden Mills.

Steer or heifer, under one year—1st and 2nd, Robert Shaw, Brantford; 3rd, D. McCrae, Guelph.

Cow or heifer, 3 years and over—1st, C. C. Rudd, Eden Mills; 2nd, D. McCrae, Guelph.

Cotswolds.

Ewe, under one year—1st, Rawlings & Bailey, Forest; 2nd, E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown; 3rd and 4th, Rawlings & Bailey, Forest; 5th, E. Brien & Son.

Three ewes, under one year—1st, Rawlings & Bailey; 2nd, E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown; 3rd, Snell & Lyons, Norval.

Wether, 1 year and under 2—1st, E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown; 2nd, Snell & Lyons, Norval; 3rd, Rawlings & Bailey, Forest; 4th, Snell & Lyons; 5th, E. Brien & Son.

Wether, under 1 year—1st, E. Brien & Son; 2nd, Rawlings & Bailey; 3rd, Rawlings & Bailey; 4th and 5th, E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown.

Three wethers, under 1 year—1st, E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown; 2nd, Rawlings & Bailey, Forest; 3rd, Snell & Lyons, Norval.

Best wether under 2 years—E. Brien & Son, Ridgetown.

Lincolns.

Ewe, under 1 year—1st, J. T. Gibson, Denfield; 2nd and 3rd, L. Parkinson, Eramosa; 4th, J. T. Gibson; 5th, L. Parkinson.

Three wethers, under 1 year—1st, J. T. Gibson, Denfield; 2nd and 3rd, L. Parkinson, Eramosa.

Best wether under 2 years—L. Parkinson.

Big Steer Award.

"I never saw the equal of that steer in Chicago, for he carries so great a percentage of high-priced meat," were the warm words used by John Gosling of Kansas City, as he concluded the award for the championship steer. The award went to I. & A. Groff of Alma for their 2-year-old roan steer, that tipped the scales at 1,700 pounds. The reserve went to his stallmate—almost his counterpart.

The judging of the fat stock classes was concluded yesterday, and the fat bacon hogs are not hanging on the dressing frames of the cooling room.

The judging of the export steers was a lively one. Five contestants had three each in the ring. First place went to John Brown & Sons of Galt on three big steers. James Leask of Greenbank came second, with three yearling steers of exceptional merit.

Seed Lectures.

One of the most educative sessions of the show was held yesterday morning, when J. Buchanan of the O.A.C. gave an illustrative lecture on the "Cultivated Barleys." The lecturer dealt with the work of the Experimental Union, and the results obtained in the few years, which are now nearly familiar all over the province.

A very interesting address was delivered by L. S. Kilnock on the "Point to Be Observed in the Selection of an Ear of Seed Corn."

Selecting Feeding Steers.

Prof. Day's lecture on selecting feeding steers was much appreciated, the large, overcrowded auditorium that struggled to hear his lecture testified.

Leicester Breeders Meet.

The American Leicester Breeders' Association met in the City Hall and elected officers as follows: President, James Snell, Clinton; vice-president, C. E. Wood, Freeman; secretary-treasurer, A. J. Snell, Cameron; board of directors, A. Whitelaw, Guelph; James Douglas, Caledonia; G. B. Armstrong, Teeswater; William Grimes, Melvin; Alexander Crosshill.

Notes.

Hon. John Dryden was at the fair and was greeted by his old friends. His painting was unveiled at the college Tuesday evening with appropriate speech-making.

Over 300 delegates were at the Women's Institute at the college yesterday. Splendid addresses on practical topics are being delivered.

At the city luncheon yesterday J. P. Downey, M.P.P., Hon. Nelson Monteith, Arthur Johnston, President A. F. H. Jones, Col. Davidson and Jas. Tucker, M.P.P., made congratulatory speeches.

BATTLE FOR CHEAP FARES.

W. N. Robertson Asks Mandamus to Compel G.T.R. 2-Cent Rate.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—The "two-cents-per-mile" suit, in its evolutionary process, has reached another stage of progress. Yesterday morning W. N. Robertson applied, through his solicitors, Curry, Eyre & Wallace, to Chief Justice Meredith, for a mandamus to compel the Grand Trunk Railway Co. to put into effect, for the benefit of himself and the general public, that section of their original charter which requires them "to run every day, throughout the length of their line, at least one train having in it third-class carriages, as provided by 16 Vic., chap. 37, sec. 3."

After hearing the argument the chief justice intimated that although he could order that the notice be served at once, it would be no more than fair and courteous to the defendant corporation to defer the so-doing until Monday, Dec. 17.

C. P. R. Reduces Fares.

Winnipeg, Dec. 13.—The Canadian Pacific Railway has decided to reduce local passenger rates in the west over a considerable area from four cents a mile to three and a half or a reduction of half a cent per mile. The territory which will benefit by the reduction is that lying between Macleod, Calgary and Dunmore Junction, a short distance from Medicine Hat and Edmonton.

REACH OPEN WAR STAGE.

House of Commons Votes Down Lords' Education Bill Amendments.

London, Dec. 13.—The hostility between the House of Lords and the House of Commons has now reached an open stage. The Lower House, after debating the matter all day, last night rejected all of the amendments of the House of Lords to the education bill by a vote of 416 to 107, the Irish members voting with the Government.

Senator Brown Is Dead.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Former-United States Senator Arthur Brown of Utah, who was shot in his apartments at the Hotel Raleigh Saturday afternoon by Mrs. Anna M. Bradley of Salt Lake City, died at midnight last night in the Emergency Hospital. Mrs. Bradley will be arraigned in the police court to-day on the charge of murder. Her attorneys will set up the defence that she was justified, under the "unwritten law," in shooting Mr. Brown.

Level Crossing Victim.

Belleville, Dec. 13.—The deadly level crossing has claimed another victim in this city, the fourth in the last three years. The latest victim is an old lady named Mrs. Comerford, who about five o'clock last evening was walking along the G.T.R. track near the Gedes street crossing. A pilot engine, which was backing down the track, struck the old woman, throwing her against a post, killing her instantly.

Mayor Judd to Probe.

Toronto, Dec. 13.—Mayor J. C. Judd is to be the commissioner to investigate the charges preferred against Governor Van Zant of Toronto jail. The announcement was made at the Parliament Buildings yesterday.

Dies From Old Accident.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 13.—Dr. George H. Duncan, a prominent Victoria physician, died yesterday morning as the result of an accident 18 months ago, when he was thrown from his carriage in a runaway.

Chronicles of Don Q.

BY K. AND HESKETH PRITCHARD.

(Copyright by Pearson Publishing Company.)

A THREE-CORNERED GAME.

It is not too much to say that there were two Don Q.'s The one a sneering, vengeful, tiger-hearted brigand, who dealt in death, pain and blood-stained money; the other a charming, soft-spoken gentleman, full of courtesy and culture. But one quality remained always apparent, whichever side of his character happened to be uppermost—the man was a most terrible enemy. "He knows no fear, wrote a prisoner of his on one occasion, "nor do I think he has ever known it. Yet he owns an imagination that cuts like a knife to the heart of things. It is this faculty of placing himself in the position of his foes that has so long enabled him to baffle all designs made against his liberty and his life."

But of this particular point in Don Q.'s character Don Felipe Majada thought not at all as he lay at ease in a long chair and gazed up at the glorious blue sky of Spain—that country which only smiles when the sun shines. An ultimatum had that morning arrived from Madrid which said that if Don Q. was not captured or effaced within seven days, the governorship would be given into more capable hands.

"Ah, most beautiful," said Don Felipe aloud, "life has many trials, but it is only when the heart is broken that one tastes despair."

The woman he addressed moved her fan a little faster. She looked handsome and defiant, this full-throated, deep bosomed Andalusian with magnificent sulky eyes.

"Have you no words, my Rosita?"

"What shall I say?" She raised her heavy eyelids. How does one show despair? Does one grow fat upon it?"

"Do not mock me, I implore you!" continued Don Felipe. "It is on account of this carrion bird of the sierra that I shall be thrust from my place. To-day I am one of the highest officials of the state, in seven days—caramba!—I shall be—"

"Without money, position or credit," concluded Rosita.

"Unless I get rid of Don Q. within seven days!" Don Felipe repeated: "Don Q., mark you, Rosita, the abominable brigand who has defied all efforts to capture him since before I became governor, for years, for decades."

Rosita's lip curled, showing her pretty teeth.

"Some men would not accept defeat so easily," she remarked. "Sooner than that you would go single-handed into the sierra."

"I? Single-handed into the sierra? The saints forbid!"

"But think," she urged, still smiling, "how life will appear to you without money, position, honor, credit! Is it not worth the risk?"

"Ah, my most beautiful you do not understand!" he repeated heedlessly. "You are far from understanding. This vulture hates me. If I were in his grip"—he shuddered—"he would kill me. Not by an easy death, Rosita, by inches. He is a terrible man."

"He is at least a brave one!"

"Brave?" echoed the governor. "He was born lacking the nerve of fear! He would face an entire army alone."

"Whereas you," she pointed her fan at him with a little mocking gesture, "would head the army in running away. Is it not so?"

The governor sat up, puffing out his cheeks, with some idea of protesting.

"Dona Rosita, you forget that I—"

She took the words from his lips, laughingly shaking her head.

"On the contrary, my Felipe, I remember that you—"

Don Felipe occupied himself in rolling another cigarette with care, reflecting meanwhile that he had made a false step in confiding the state of affairs to Rosita, towards whom his feelings, though strong, were so annoyingly divided. He half feared, half loved her. Long ago, in the early flush of his admiration, he had spoken of marriage; now he had not the smallest intention of binding himself irrevocably to that compelling will.

"What am I to do? You, who have so often counseled me, do not desert me now, my beloved! You, who are my Minerva and Venus tell me what I am to do."

"But why should I?"

"Because our destinies are bound together," he responded with fervor, hoping to pass an awkward point with a pretty paraphrase.

"That promise of marriage—you will fulfill it?" Her dark eyes flashed out on him.

"The day of Don Q.'s death, I swear it."

"Is that true?" Rosita asked, rising from her seat and standing over him.

"On the honor of a Majada."

Perhaps this warrant was less satisfying than it sounded, but Dona Rosita accepted it. Her fan waved rapidly for a few moments.

"As you will not take my suggestion of going into the sierra—"

"Which is impossible!" interjected Don Felipe resolutely.

"We must turn to some trick to tempt Don Q. down into the plains—into your power," she continued.

Majada pursed his lips and shook his head in disappointment.

"Tricks have been tried times without number—and failed. No trap can tempt him," he asserted dolefully.

"Not if baited with a woman?" Rosita's splendid eyes looked coquettishly at him over the edge of her fan.

"But Don Q.—" he snapped his finger and thumb, "he cares no more than his own mountains even for beauty as glorious as yours!"

"That may be," she replied. "For all that I will tell you a plan by which you may draw the chief out of the sierra within three days?"

"Draw Don Q. into the plains within three days?"

"Yes—if you do exactly as I say."

"Then we can capture him easily," cried the governor. "Jewel of a Rosita! Are you sure you can perform this miracle?" She nodded, smiling.

"How, how?"

"By playing upon what is best in him."

"Best in him? He is a bloodthirsty ruffian."

"He has never harmed a woman."

"True, true."

"Your country house is empty. You must imprison me there—because I refuse to marry you."

"O!" commented Don Felipe, dubiously.

"I will implore the assistance of Don Q. by a letter. He will come down in person to release me. I will tell him in the letter that you are sending some wine through the mountains, in the hope that he will intercept it, and so die, for the wine will be poisoned. This you must also do, and so prove my good faith in the eyes of the chief."

"It is a magnificent plan, my Rosita, and worthy of you," exclaimed Don Felipe in genuine admiration. "I have but to conceal two or three score men in the gardens of the Casa de Segil—we will seize him."

"And you will remain governor," she added.

"With the most beautiful wife in Spain!" He gazed at her fervently.

So it came to pass that the letter of Dona Rosita de Rivero, which betrayed the plot of the convoy of poisoned wine intended to fall into Don Q.'s hands, lit in his mind a cold and deadly fury against Don Felipe.

"This over-gorged carrion would endeavor a second time to poison me!" he reflected. "Am I a rat or a dog that he should do this? He must be taught. He has imprisoned this girl moreover. Yes he must be taught."

So for many hours the chief brooded in his cave, for when time permitted he liked to consider every possibility of the game.

After these hours of silence, he went to a table that stood in one corner of his cave and began to write. They were but a few lines which ran somewhat as follows. He kissed the hand of the lovely Dona Rosita. He thanked her for the hint she sent him, and he would take steps for her deliverance on the coming Friday evening. He paused for a moment as if about to add more, then sealed the letter and called Robledo.

The young fellow came running up the pathway to the cave-mouth.

"Bring also Antonio," was the order. Don Q. looked keenly from the worn, handsome face of Robledo to his companion's.

"I am about to trust you. I pray you may prove yourself worthy of the honor. I am about to put my life in your keeping. This letter must be placed in the hands of the lady whom you will find detained at the Casa de Segil. Take care that by no chance it falls into the hands of Don Felipe Majada—my life would pay the penalty. You understand?"

"Yes lord."

"Then go."

Don Q. looked after the man with that quiver of his drooping eyelids which with him betrayed amusement or anger. 'A very meager intellect," he murmured. "That insect will do exactly as I calculate; he will endeavor to betray me."

Then he turned to the second of his followers, who stood waiting meekly.

"For you, Robledo, I have a double mission, the chief resumed, in his soft, sibilant tones. "Go down to the shrine of San Pedro and beg one of the good fathers to come up into the mountains to the gorge of the torrent. Say that his presence will be urgently needed on Friday evening."

The sun had already passed overhead and was dropping in the fierce blue sky when the chief mounted his fragile frame on an ambling mule and led a body of his followers downward toward the plains. By many bridle paths they passed, over wild scrub-grown areas, through glimmering summer woods, until in the splendid glow of evening they came to where a rugged path wound and tumbled through the lower ravines. Here a charcoal-burner rose from a thicket in which he had been crouching.

With his eyes on the ground he told of the passing of the convoy with wine for the Casa de Segil. That was 16 hours ago. He had kept watch ever since.

"We have secured the convoy. And the soldiers?" inquired Don Q.

"They also passed, my lord, in the dark before the dawn. I could count 60, but others went by in the gloom. There were more than 60."

"Good. You shall be rewarded, Tomas."

"And now, my children, forward. The soldiers will enjoy a quiet evening in the pleasant gardens of the Casa de Segil. We will not disturb them."

It was deep in the night in the streets of that white and ancient city where Don Felipe held office. The watchmen had just cried the hour with the facts that the night was black and the stars hidden, when six men in Indian file slipped noiselessly through the shadows under the sleeping houses, and paused by the wall of the governor's residence. Then their leader, drawing on more tightly his long muffling cloak, delivered an order or two, something flopped softly down from the balcony above, and a slender figure passed by a rope ladder into the window overhead.

History is uncertain as to whether it was a man or a woman who met him, but, in any case, the accomplice—for Don Q. had friends everywhere, equally in the little local courts of officials as in the huts of the goatherds—holding the thin hand of the chief drew him through a passage or two, and left him before a high closed door.

Don Q. took from his belt a knife, turned the handle of the door, and walked in. A faint lamp burned beside the bed. The brigand stepped up into the circle of its light, and tapped the sleeper sharply on the ear.

The governor awoke.

"Rise at once and come with me," went on the urbane, inexorable voice. "Dress warmly for it is chilly in the mountains, and I should never forgive myself if you were to contract pneumonia."

At the word "mountains" Don Felipe's jaw fell. He found his tongue at last, but the sound it sent forth was like the bleating of a kid.

"Wh—who are you?—I refuse to go with you."

"You will not I am sure do anything so rash as refuse. You cannot know that it is Don Q.'s shadow which lies across your face. Corpse of a scullion! Do not keep me waiting! My patience has its limits. I have ripped up a man for less."

Sunrise saw the governor woe-begone and chilled, bound on a pony with rough paces, mounting higher and ever higher into those sierra he had hitherto beheld only in terrified visions of the night.

This was Friday—what had happened? It was the day on which Don Q. had promised in his letter to deliver Dona Rosita. What was going to become of him, Felipe?

They encamped in the gorge of the Torrent, a remote and lonely spot, seldom trodden by the foot of man.

Soon a sibilant voice called from the choza.

"Bring the prisoner here, Robledo."

"You are Don Felipe Majada?"

The fat captive quaked and bowed.

"I have received some complaints of your conduct toward a lady," went on Don Q. politely. "I trust you will find yourself able to demolish these accusations."

Don Felipe feebly shook his head.

"It pains me greatly," resumed the brigand, "to be obliged to touch on so delicate a subject, but I am given to understand that you have pestered a lady with your attentions. I trust for your own sake that gossip rather than truth lies at the root of these reports?"

"They are false, senor," gasped Don Felipe in an agony of apprehension. "I swear they are false!"

"Then how can you explain this?" demanded Don Q. handing him the letter that he and Dona Rosita had concocted together only four days earlier.

Majada read it, wagging his head and grimacing in sheer terror as he strove to speak.

"It is all false. She loves me!" he blurted at last.

"And the wine?" questioned Don Q. "Bring here a bottle, Robledo."

It was laid at his feet.

"Do you recognize this bottle?"

"No, no!" Majada almost screamed.

"Then will you gratify me by taking a glass with me. You appear overcome. A glass of good wine is a restorative." Don Q. urged with suave gravity. "Come, let us drink to our happy meeting."

"It is impossible! Hearken to me, senor. Have mercy on me!" and there on his knees with his hands stretched for mercy Don Felipe gave his rendering—the ancient rendering of Adam—of all that had passed between himself and Dona Rosita.

A long and heavy silence fell upon the group. Don Felipe exhausted by his efforts found himself crying dumbly. At last Don Q. spoke.

"This lady loves you?"

"She adores me! She would marry me in spite of myself," mumbled the other.

"How fortunate . . . for you."

"What do you mean?"

A THREE CORNERED GAME

that I am about to send for her, Don Felipe. If she loves you, she will come."

"It is impossible. My servants have her in charge."

"Take a pen and write to your major domo, or whoever happens to be in command at the Casa de Segil, ordering that the Senorita de Rivero be allowed to accompany the bearer of your letter. No more."

"I repeat," stammered Majada, "that it is impossible."

"How unlucky for you!"

"You are chivalrous—she is a woman," pleaded Don Felipe.

"Senor," said Don Q., in his softest manner, "write the letter; and if you have any influence with Dona Rosita, as you say you have, use it to bring her here."

Resistance was hopeless. Majada's shaking hand produced the words.

"You have finished?" demanded the chief gently.

"Yes," puffed Don Felipe.

"Then add this postscript. If she loves you it will cause her to fly to your side." The exquisite courtesy of the brigand's manner only deepened with each sentence. "Write, senor: 'Don Q. desires me to add that if you are not here by 8 o'clock I shall be buried at a quarter past.'"

"Senor," protested Majada miserably. "this—is—"

"The truth—no more."

"When she comes, we will have a talk and apportion the guilt," returned the chief agreeably. "She is an important witness. Now, senor, you know the course that events will take. Let us dismiss all thoughts of the future; the future will take care of itself. In the meantime the air of our mountains is excellent. I have packets of tobacco from Havana, also excellent; and most excellent of all, some wine of the doradillo grape. I foresee that we may sing a song together, and gossip of the old romances. You shall tell me of the life from which I have divorced myself, and I will relate to you now many of your old acquaintances came to me in the mountains, and—how some of them left me."

But not even this program appealed to Don Felipe Majada. He drank wine, but more and more he steeped himself in the gloom of terror. Talk he could not, and the chief presently excused himself, saying he would indulge in a siesta. But no sleep came to the tired eyes of the governor. What would be the result of Rosita's arrival? How much would she betray?

Soon the slight bustle of some arrival on the little plateau under the ilex trees reached Don Q.'s ears. He waited but a moment before he called to Robledo. The young bandit, handsome, panting, travel-worn, appeared at the opening of the choza.

"You have done my bidding?"

"The lady is here, lord."

"Good," The chief pondered a short time, and gave some orders before he commanded that Don Felipe Madaja and the lady should be brought before him.

Dona Rosita had never looked more handsome.

Don Q. rose and bowed before her, sweeping his sombrero to the ground.

"I crave your pardon, fairest senorita," began the chief with sibliant fluency. "I am to blame. This lovelorn gallant implored me not to put you to so much inconvenience for his sake. But a certain story he has told me requires to be investigated. Without your delightful presence I could do nothing. The sight of your beauty has refreshed my dim eyes, your amiability my poor heart." Again the sobrero swept the dusty floor.

"What would you know of me? Ask your questions and let me be gone. Give me my liberty, senor."

"But certainly. It will be my happiness to secure the liberty of the lovely Dona Rosita. Condescend to hear me."

Don Q. recited the story of the plot as it had been told him by Majada.

The lady did not speak for a long moment, she pierced the unhappy governor with a silent gaze.

"Grant me a moment, senor," she implored, "out of the hearing of all these ears," she waved a contemptuous fan at the guards who had accompanied her. "Let me enter the choza and tell you all the truth."

Don Q. signified his acquiescence, and bade his men draw off.

"Order this traitor to come, too. Dona Rosita touched Majada on the shoulder. "He shall be forced to tell the truth."

"So," she cried, "this false man has dared to say many things to prejudice me in your eyes? He would save himself by throwing the guilt upon me! O, noble caballero! O, chivalrous gentleman! I thank you!" She turned to spurn Majada.

"O, Rosita, Rosita!" moaned the governor.

"I hate you! You have torn me from my home. You would force me to marry you!—Lord of the sierra!"—she turned to Don Q. with a magnificent movement—"what is such a traitor worthy of?"

"It is indeed a most shameful affair, senorita. Shall I punish him? Pray command me," replied the brigand with an air of respectful sympathy.

"No!—I will deal with him myself." Then springing to the side of Don Q. she added passionately; "Give me your knife, senor—and I will show you how we Spanish women deal with such a one!"

Don Felipe cowered, his hands over his blanched face, as the chief handed the weapon to Rosita. She took it and faced Majada.

"Felipe," she said, with a sudden break into a caressing tone, "Felipe, look up and listen to me."

The governor, struck by the change in her voice, peered up at her, his hand only half withdrawn from his face.

"Felipe, you swore to marry me in seven days if—something happened. Is that not so?"

"If," repeated the man, sullkily. "What's the good of talking of it now?"

"Because it is going to happen! Help me, Felipe, help me!"

Lithe as a wild creature, she flung herself round upon Don Q. as she spoke, stabbing viciously at him with the knife. The chief flung up his arms and his dark cloak swirled about his head like the flapping of huge wings; but she pressed upon him, driving her knife deep as the folds of the cloak closed and settled in a heap upon Don Q.'s falling body.

Terrified by success, Rosita stood spellbound, gazing at the motionless and shapeless heap of black clothing, under which lay the body of the famous brigand. At last she drew a long breath.

"I have won! I have defeated even Don Q! There he lies, your unconquered thief, killed and out-maneuvered by a woman! You allowed my first plot to fail—I don't know how—but my second has mastered him."

But Majada only moaned.

"You coward! You thought all was lost before, but I would not yield! As soon as I saw the wretch's weakly body, his thin wrists, his pallor, the idea of this trick darted into my mind. I told myself I could not fail! I have won in spite of his subtlety and power. Felipe, you will remain governor, and I shall be your wife! Are you not happy now?"

But Majada made no response, he only gaped at her as she stood over him flushed and splendid in a storm of triumph. Suddenly an odd expression crossed his face, his mouth fell open blankly, and, before she could comprehend what this meant, her wrists were seized from behind. She wrenched her hands towards her breast to free them, and looked back over her shoulder into the face of Don Q.!

"Help, help, Felipe!" this time the cry was an agonized appeal. But Majada stood heavily apart.

A shrill whistle from the chief brought his men up. He charged them to strictly bind both prisoners.

"You have condemned yourself, senorita," Don Q. said. "Had I not been on my guard—" he stooped and raised his hat from the ground, the knife transfixed through crown and brim.

She shrugged her shoulders and laughed bitterly: "I had hoped it was your heart!"

"It would seem that you and Don Felipe have been partners in a conspiracy against my life," pursued the chief. "Down in the plains you permitted yourselves to compass my death. I am able to inform you that the soldiers still wait my coming in the gardens of Segil."

Dona Rosita's eyes flashed.

"I should have retrieved that disaster, if the blood running in this creature's veins were not milk," she pointed at Majada. "Now do as you like with us.

"What does Don Felipe deserve at my hands?" asked Don Q.

"Spare me, spare me!" cried Don Felipe, given over to fresh apprehensions.

Don Q. held up his hand for silence.

"You deserve to die." He paused, "but this lady loves you."

"No! He is a coward. I would kill him rather than marry him!" Rosita cried hotly.

"Lady, you have courage enough for two; thus, when you and this poltroon are made one that will be no hindrance. To become his wife has been your desire. You deserve punishment as certainly as he."

"But I have heard you never hurt a woman," she protested.

"True. But when I can give them their heart's desire, which occasionally serves my purpose equally well." He turned to Robledo. "Bring hither the good father.

"I will not submit! I will not be the wife of Don Felipe!" she exclaimed.

"Will you permit me to kill him instead?" inquired the chief sadly.

She turned away from her fellow-captive with a cold aloofness.

"I pray you to do so."

Don Q. considered her for a long moment.

"You have shared his guilt; you must, therefore, share his punishment," he said. "Choose, and remember in choosing for him you choose for yourself."

She met his eyes; a red spark seemed to glow under the drooping lids. The fiery spirit died within her. This terrible man was capable of anything. She shrank back with a gesture of compliance.

An hour later the couple were about to start for the lower passes. As they mounted Don Felipe approached the chief.

"You have forced me to marry a tigress!" he complained.

Don Q. was once more the amiable gentleman.

"But a beautiful tigress," he amended. "Pray accept my warm congratulations. I cannot answer for her qualities as a wife, but I am very sure the Senora Majada will make a very charming widow."

WAS A GREAT SUCCESS THIS YEAR

Guelph Winter Fair Retained Standard of Excellence.

OVER 10,000 IN ATTENDANCE

Interest, Attendance and Educational Value Continue to the End — Fat Stock Club Banquet—Speeches by Messrs. Monteith, Hanna and Downey—New Officers of the Western Poultry Association.

Guelph, Dec. 14.—The Provincial Winter Fair, which practically closed last night, although the exhibits will not be withdrawn until this afternoon, has maintained until the end this year's record standard of attendance, interest, and educational value. Over ten thousand agriculturists and live stock raisers from all sections of the Province have visited it. The results of that visit will appear later in increased incomes, better farms, better farm houses, and better live stock throughout Ontario.

At the Annual Banquet.

The Guelph Fat Stock Club held their annual banquet at the Royal Hotel last evening. As it is the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the club, many congratulatory addresses followed the dinner.

Hon. Nelson Monteith traced the history of the club during that time and rejoiced in the progress of Ontario agriculture.

Hon. W. J. Hanna was glad that in the agriculture of older Ontario they had as much lands as were to be found in the newer and rockier parts of the province.

J. P. Downey, M.P.P., was in usual glee over the success of the show.

The officers of the club of the Winter Fair board, prominent members of Guelph City, J. Lockie Wilson, the new superintendent of fairs; Dr. Rutherford of Ottawa, and many visitors from a distance enjoyed the hospitality of the club. The speeches were all filled with jubilation over the results of the present show.

Poultry Officers.

The Western Ontario Poultry Association elected their officers yesterday. They were: Hon. president, Dr. A. W. Bell, Winnipeg; president, William McNeill, London; first vice-president, A. Bogue, London; secretary-treasurer, A. P. Westervelt, Toronto; directors, A. W. Tyson (Guelph), J. N. Gladwin (London), G. G. Henderson (Hamilton), T. H. Scott (St. Thomas), P. Green (Owen Sound), R. Oke (London), A. K. Cornwall (Thamesville), C. H. Wilson (Hawkesville).

The interest largely centred yesterday in the dressed carcasses of the magnificent animals that were here for show.

Do Sheep Pay?

In the lecture room yesterday morning the question as to whether sheep on the farm were paying animals, was threshed out by John Jackson of Abingdon, Robert Miller of Stouffville, H. S. Arkell, O.A.C., and representative farmers from the province. The general opinion favored the presence of a few sheep on each farm.

A resolution moved by John Campbell of Woodville, and seconded by Col. McEwen of Byron, was passed unanimously, urging the Provincial Government to strike out that portion of the statute which enables any 25 electors to set aside the taxes on dogs. Dogs were regarded as the enemy of the sheep, and while the dog is regarded as a good friend of men, yet the mongrel dog should be destroyed. A motion by Mr. Everett to acquire the passing of a law to kill all dogs unattended by the owner, met with a vigorous storm of criticism. Mr. Gardhouse of Highfield discussed the difficulties councils had in dealing with the question.

Farm Labor Problem.

Last evening Capt. McGillivray of the Salvation Army of London, gave an address on the farm labor problem in Ontario. He outlined the work of the Army during the past year and spoke of the many valuable European immigrants who adapt themselves easily to the situation, and make valuable farm helpers.

William Armstrong of Queenston, in speaking of his experience with men this year thanked the Salvation Army for their efforts.

Another farmer told of the avaricious methods of some of the farmers of the province.

Prof. Grisdale Talks.

Can a man increase the usefulness of his dairy returns by a more liberal feeding? This was the question that Prof. Grisdale set out to answer in the affirmative. From returns received from the whole of the province, the dairy department have to conclude that the more liberal feeding will give profitable returns. The average cow does not appear to be well enough fed. Some herds give 8,000 pounds per cow per annum, and others give only 2,000 or 3,000 pounds. Letters are sent to those who have low returns and the results show that low returns are caused solely by poor feeding.

What He Saw In Quebec.

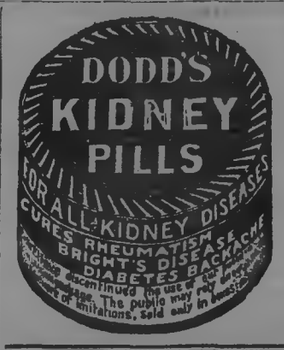
During the past year the professor made trips through Quebec and saw that while the June returns were good, September showed an immense falling off through poor pastures. No provision had been made for this and the farmers had to suffer.

Prof. Grisdale then related an experience of his own. He took twenty-five head and fed generously and got 5,000 lbs. of milk next year. He fed scientifically and according to the tastes of the individuals. The results were astounding. The milk was 6,500 lbs., and the cost was lessened.

Milking Machines.

Prof. H. H. Dean of the O.A.C., in introducing the question of the success of the milking machine, told of the 130 patents that had been taken out in Canada since 1870 for milking machines. He thought that the successful milking machine will be modelled after the hand milking of cows. The machine must be simple, cheap, minimum amount of power to operate, and be able to milk five or six cows at once.

Much discussion took place at the close of the lecture.



Ensilage in the Dairy.

C. F. Whitley of Ottawa delivered an address on the shrinkage in milk obtained from a record of two herds of cows in Oxford and Brockville. One herd was not cared for carefully and the shrinkage in the hot months was very much greater than where ensilage was fed.

Prof. Grisdale, in answering a question as to the feed of a dairy cow, said that a cow had better receive 30 lbs. of ensilage, twice a day. A good rule is to give one lb. of meal for five lbs. of milk produced, and the character of the meal will have to be considered. The digestible constituents must be known. Crushed oats, oatmeal and bran give the best results for dairy cows for winter feeding. The proportion for a cow giving 32 lbs. of milk per day would be two lbs. of oil cake, four lbs. of bran and two lbs. of crushed oats.

CARNEGIE'S IDEA.

Major Portion of Enormous Estate Should Go to State Upon the Death of Their Holders.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Until the Legislature is convened the Provincial Cabinet will meet every Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Another water-power lease was canceled yesterday by the Government for non-fulfilment of the conditions attached.

Detroit, Dec. 14.—May Elsie Fitzell, the young girl from near Kincardine, Ont., who drank corrosive sublimate after a quarrel with her lover here, is dead.

Belleville, Dec. 14.—The alien labor case against the Corby Distillery Co., which came up again in the police court yesterday, was enlarged till Saturday.

Berne, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—M. Edouard Muller of Berne, vice-president of the federal council, yesterday was elected president of the Swiss confederation.

Ingersoll, Dec. 14.—The office of the Ingersoll Packing Co. was almost totally destroyed by fire yesterday morning. The loss is estimated at between $3,000 and $4,000.

Ste. Agathe, Que., Dec. 14.—The Hotel Belmont was totally destroyed by fire Wednesday night. Fire broke out in the upper storey at 10.50 p.m. Loss about $8,000; insurance, $6,000.

Roudout, N. Y., Dec. 14.—The plant of the New York Cement Co. here was destroyed by fire yesterday. The loss is estimated at $250,000. As a result of the fire 200 men are out of work.

Pittsburg, Pa., Dec. 14.—Clifford Hooe, the negro convicted of perjury for statements made before the trial of the Hartje divorce case, yesterday was sentenced to six years in jail and fined $50.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—After talking over the evidence given in the trial of Alex and Adam Nelson, of the Rossin House, charged with stealing current from the Toronto Electric Co., the jury disagreed.

New York, Dec. 14.—Fines aggregating $168,000 imposed upon the American Sugar Refining Co., and the Brooklyn Cooperage Co., in connection with accepting rebates on sugar shipments, were paid yesterday.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—The Toronto Street Railwaymen's Union, yesterday applied to the provincial railway board for an order to compel the Street Railway Co. to place doors on the vestibules, as required by the act.

New York, Dec. 14.—The appeal of Albert T. Patrick, under sentence of death, was dismissed in the Supreme Court yesterday in order to clear the way for Governor Higgins of New York to commute Patrick's sentence to life imprisonment.

Port Hope, Dec. 14.—After a long controversy, the Port Hope Town Council has granted a telephone franchise to G. W. Jones and W. H. Burley of Newtonville, representing the Rural Farmers' Telephone Association, which has lines throughout Clarke and Hope townships.

New York, Dec. 14.—Andrew Carnegie, in an address before the National Civic Federation, yesterday said he believed that the major portion of the estates of enormously wealthy men should go to the state upon the death of the possessor of the fortune. Mr. Carnegie opposed a graduated income tax.

Commission Will Go to New York.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Judge Winchester yesterday granted the commission to New York to procure evidence to strengthen the crown's case in the charge against Charles McGill of theft of $1,000,000, the last one preferred. George Angus will be the commissioner, and Mr. McKay will represent McGill, and Edward Bayley the crown. They will leave Dec. 26.

Overcome By Coal Gas.

Port Hope, Dec. 14.—Mrs. William Tailby, on going into her kitchen early yesterday morning, fell senseless from the fumes of coal gas from the kitchen stove. Her husband, who went to her assistance, also became senseless soon afterwards. Dr. Aldrich was summoned, and Mr. and Mrs. Tailby have recovered.

1,200 Passengers Sail.

St. John, N.B., Dec. 14.—The Empress of Britain, which set sail for the Old country from St. John yesterday carried over 1,200 passengers, the largest number ever taken by one boat from the shores of the Dominion.

Vanderbilt's Escape.

New York, Dec. 14.—W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., had a narrow escape from death yesterday. His 60-horse-power racing auto collapsed at high speed throwing him into a lake. He sank through the ice, but swam ashore.

LAW OF SEPARATION IN REPUBLIC

Execution Unmarked by Sensational Incidents in France.

LAYMEN MAY SAVE THE DAY

Spontaneously File Declarations For the Holding of Services In Designated Churches During Coming Year—Believed That If This Generally Prevails It Will Be a Distinct Government Victory.

Paris, Dec. 14.—Yesterday was marked by the total absence of any sensational incidents in connection with the execution of the law of separation.

The parish priests everywhere celebrated mass in the presence of unusually large congregations, but the actions of the authorities were confined to noting infractions of the law.

Everywhere legal notice have been served for the evacuation of the ecclesiastical buildings. Several of these buildings were abandoned without further ado, but a majority of the prelates, while fully prepared to go, announced that they would not depart except under duress.

Victory For the Government.

In many parishes laymen came forward yesterday and spontaneously filed declarations for the holding of services in the designated churches during the coming year. If this practice is generally followed it will be a distinct victory for the Government.

In the meantime the Cabinet was preparing measures to be introduced before Parliament to-day.

The net result of the uncompromising attitude assumed by the Vatican in this conflict with the French Government seems to be the clergy will lose its pensions, that all aspirants to the priesthood will be compelled to perform military service, and that the taking over of the episcopal buildings by the State Department and the communes will occur immediately instead of in December, 1907.

RUN WITHOUT INSURANCE.

Fleet of Forty Ships Rush From Soo For Home Ports.

Detroit, Mich., Dec. 14.—A fleet of over forty steamers, delayed at the Soo by the ice blockade, are now in Lake Huron in a mad scramble down the lakes to the unloading docks at Erie ports. All are now running without insurance.

Eleven up-bound steamers held in Mud Lake got through the locks yesterday. There are yet about a dozen downbound boats to pass through the Soo locks before navigation will be officially closed.

A year ago the last boat downbound passed Detroit Dec. 16, but this year the date will probably be much later, as vesselmen are yet sending vessels up to Lake Michigan ports with coal.

HINDOOS IN CANADA.

Repatriation of East Indians Discussed In House of Commons.

London, Dec. 14.—(C.A.P.)—In the House of Commons yesterday, Mr. Ellis, replying to Mr. Rees, said he could make no statement as to the possibility of East Indians without occupation in Canada being repatriated.

Winston Churchill added that steps had been taken to deter further East Indians proceeding to British Columbia. The Secretary of State did not think it necessary to suggest to the Dominion Government the appointment of a special officer to protect the East Indians' interests.

Instantly Killed.

Sturgeon Falls, Dec. 14.—About 9 o'clock yesterday morning, at the Springer Lumber Co.'s mill, Ivan Joanisse, foreman, was almost instantly killed. About 15 men were engaged in taking down a smokestack when the pole gave way, striking the unfortunate man, killing him instantly. Joanisse came here from Buckingham three years ago. He leaves a wife and six children.

Child Burned to Death.

Yorkton, Sask., Dec. 14.—The two-year-old son of Ed. Walls was standing before an airtight heater when its clothes were drawn into the stove and caught fire, causing such injuries that the child died before medical assistance could be procured.

$10,000 Damages.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Justice MacMahon has awarded $10,000 damages against the Wabash Railway, to the widow of Eugene John McKay, fireman, killed in a wreck at St. Thomas.

King Oscar Failing.

Stockholm, Dec. 14.—King Oscar, whose health for some time has occasioned anxiety, and who Wednesday exhibited symptoms of heart weakness, yesterday was failing fast.

Denmark is one of the most predominantly Protestant countries in the world, having, a few years ago, among all its 2,000,000 inhabitants, only 9,000 Catholics. But nowadays the monks and nuns expelled from France are flocking into Denmark, finding, apparently, a ready welcome. Denmark, 40 years ago had only three Catholic priests; she has now 70 besides 400 nuns.

BLIND MEN TO PLAY FOR CHECKER TITLE

New York's Sightless Wonder Answers Defi of Quaker Expert

Examiner Special

New York, Dec. 11.—Aroused by the sweeping challenge of John Thompson, the blind checker player, whose might at the ancient game is legendary in his native city, Philadelphia, Benjamin F. Scully, a sightless player of extraordinary skill, who resides at 558 West Forty-second street, has secured a backer, said to be a well-known politician, who has unlimited confidence in the ability of his protege, and has issued a defi in which he declares that he is willing to meet the Quaker champion in a series of games to decide the blind man's championship.

The terms are to be left to the decision of the Philadelphia man, except that Mr. Scully will insist on using a board and a set of men which shall not differ from the regulation board and men in any way.

Mr. Scully learned to play checkers at the New York Blind Institute, of which he was an inmate for ten years. He showed great skill and soon won the school championship.

In the summer season the blind inmates of the institute were taken to the country on a vacation outing. Here it was that Mr. Scully astonished the farmers by defeating their best players with the utmost ease, although he was obliged to play entirely by touch.

The Philadelphian, Mr. Thompson, uses a sunken board with round and square checkers, which enables him to easily locate his own men and those of his opponent. The New Yorker long ago discarded this system and plays solely by the aid of his memory.

Mr. Scully numbers among his former antagonists practically every player of repute, with the single exception of Mr. Barker, of Boston, who is regarded by many as the American champion.

THE SENATE'S REJECTED BILL UP AGAIN

Mr. Lancaster's Bill Supported by Minister of Railways.

LEVEL CROSSING SAFETY

Upper House Will Have It Again—Discussion on Mr. Maclean's Bill to Legalize Railway Ticket-Scalping Also Referred to Committee—Recent Decision re. Grand Trunk Manager Referred To.

Ottawa, Dec. 14.—Railway matters occupied the attention of the House yesterday afternoon. Mr. Lancaster's bill to restrict the speed of trains at unguarded level crossings in thickly peopled portions of cities, towns and incorporated villages to ten miles an hour was advanced a couple of stages and stands for third reading. The bill was accepted by the Minister of Railways and embodied in a Government bill last session, but the Senate rejected it. Mr. Emmerson supported it as the best solution of a difficult problem, and it will be forwarded to the upper Chamber at an early stage of the session in order that the Senators may have ample time to consider its provisions.

Mr. Aylesworth moved the first reading of the bill respecting the Revised Statutes, sent down from the Senate.

The bill to incorporate the Masonic Protective Association of Canada was introduced.

To Legalize "Scalping."

Mr. W. F. Maclean moved the second reading of his bill to amend the law respecting the sale of railway passenger tickets, passed in 1886. He explained that the act he proposed to repeal was designed to prevent the sale of railway tickets by persons who are not authorized by the railway companies; in other words, it prevented "scalping." Tickets for bread, milk, and other commodities might be sold by anyone holding them, and he did not see why railway companies should be given a protection which was not extended to any other class of the community. Mr. Maclean contended that the holder of an unused railway ticket, or portion of a ticket, should be allowed to dispose of it instead of being compelled to sell it back to the company from which it had been purchased, accepting, Mr. Maclean asserted, less than it was worth, and even in that event being required to wait a considerable period before obtaining the refund. It was not, he argued, a crime in any other country than in Canada for a passenger, who, having bought a ticket for a certain point, changed his mind and only traveled a portion of the distance, or taking another route, to sell it to someone who could use it. A railway ticket should, like a bank note, be worth its face value to anyone who held it. People wanted cheap transportation, but they wanted also that when they paid to be carried a certain distance there should be no limitation as to the use of that ticket by the person purchasing it.

Grand Trunk Rates.

Incidentally Mr. Maclean again referred to the fact that the passenger rate charged on the G. T. R. east from Toronto was 3 1-3 cents per mile, and that the G. T. R. had given notice of application for an amendment to their charter by repealing the clause requiring them to run one third-class carriage from end to end of their line each day. Mr. Hays had been found guilty in the Police Court at Toronto of having violated the criminal law of the country by failure to comply with the fundamental clause of the charter, yet the G. T. R. wanted the citizens of Canada who sold an unused railway ticket to be held as criminals, and at the same time asked Parliament to relieve them from the obligation imposed by their charter. The railways even gave coal to Toronto at a freight rate half what they charged for intermediate places between Toronto and the coal fields. He pointed out that in the United States the Government were definitely required, under the railway legislation, to see that the law was enforced, while in Canada these matters were left to the general public. He would ask the Minister of Railways whether he intended to enforce the law and make the G.T.R. give a two-cent-a-mile service. That was all the Government had to do to bring about a revolution in railroad traffic.

The Minister of Railways.

The Minister of Railways said the object of the bill had only been lightly touched on by the mover of the motion. The question of a two-cent fare was one thing and ticket-scalping was another. In the United States there was nothing similar to the Canadian return ticket. A railroad company in Canada would agree to convey a passenger over a certain route at a certain rate, the rate being graded according to the distance. The railways offered to discriminate in price if a passenger engaged to return by the same line, and the issuing of the return ticket was, therefore, a matter of contract and arrangement, and the legislation of former days was to prevent fraud.

Dr. Sproule and Mr. Maclean took issue with the Minister with regard to return tickets in the United States, and Mr. Borden remarked that possibly the return tickets as issued in the United States carried no discriminating advantage.

Mr. Emmerson, proceeding, said that what the leader of the Opposition indicated was the position in the States. It was, on the other hand, the universal practice in Canada for railway companies to issue return tickets, giving an advantage in order to recall the passenger's patronage. When that contract was violated by ticket-scalping the passenger saved money by defrauding the railway company. Railway companies had a right to some protection, and possibly the former legislation had the prevention of an abuse in view when the existing law was passed. He thought, however, that the bill was entitled to consideration, and should receive its second reading, and be referred to a committee. In conclusion the Minister pointed out that the value of the unused portion of a ticket was recognizable in Canada, but not in the United States.

Dr. Sproule supported the resolution.

Col. Tisdale Opposed.

Col. Tisdale (South Norfolk) opposed the repeal. He submitted that the ticket was a contract and the purchaser should not be allowed to sell it. This country owed a great measure of its prosperity to the C.P.R. and the G.T.R. They were splendid institutions, and they were the creditors of Canada.

Mr. McCarthy (North Simcoe) thought that no one in his constituency cared for the right to sell railway tickets. The present statute making it a crime to sell railway passenger tickets, in his opinion, ought not to be repealed. It would result in depriving the railway companies of profits to which they were justly entitled.

Mr. Maclean, in reply, said that he wanted a railway ticket to be without limitation at the lowest possible price.

Mr. Emmerson—You're a free trader in railway tickets and a protectionist in everything else.

The motion was carried, and the bill was referred to committee.

The House adjourned at 6 p.m.

Sir John Leng Dead.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—Word was received last night by Edward Gillis, barrister, of the death at Monterey, Cal., of Sir John Leng, M.P. of Dundee, Scotland. The cause of death is unknown. News came as a distinct shock, for Sir John was in Toronto only a few weeks ago, and was then apparently in the best of health and spirits. He was accompanied by Lady Leng and Miss Leng. Sir John Leng was 78 years of age. From humble beginnings he achieved fame and fortune in journalism. For over 50 years he was editor and proprietor of The Dundee Advertiser, one of the most influential newspapers in Britain. He also established The People's Journal, People's Friend, and Evening Telegraph, publications which are popular. In 1889 he was elected as Liberal M.P. for Dundee, and had represented the constituency ever since. A brother, Sir Christopher Leng, editor of The Sheffield Telegraph, died some two years ago.

Injuries Result Fatally.

London, Dec. 14.—George Jones died in Victoria Hospital yesterday morning from blood-poisoning, the result of injuries sustained at the Wellington street crossing of the Grand Trunk on Nov. 28. The G.T.R. is to be sued for $8,000 by the family of the deceased. Jones leaves a widow and three small children.

Alexander Murray of 583 King street died at his home yesterday morning as a result of injuries received through the bursting of an emory wheel at the factory of Wortman & Ward on Tuesday.

Observatory Burned.

Toronto, Dec. 14.—The meteorological office at White River, Ont., was destroyed by fire yesterday, according to meagre information received at the observatory here. White River is on the C.P.R., about midway between North Bay and Port Arthur. According to advices, the instruments, worth about $300, and the records were destroyed. The records, fortunately, are duplicated in Toronto.

Big Fire At Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Dec. 14.—Damage to the extent of $60,000 resulted from a boy stepping on a match in the sweat pad room of the Winnipeg Saddlery Co. yesterday morning. Nineteen had narrow escapes, being rescued in the nick of time from the fifth storey by the firemen. Highly inflammable material caused the fire to spread rapidly.

Australian Elections.

London, Dec. 14.—According to The Chronicle, the constitution of the new Australian Parliament, on present figures, is: Labor, 25 seats; Reidites, 20; Liberal Protectionists, 18; Conservative Protectionists, 12. The new Senate will probably contain 16 Laborites.

Reichstag Dissolved.

Berlin, Dec. 14.—Emperor William dissolved the Reichstag yesterday and ordered new elections in consequence of the Government's defeat by 178 to 168 votes on the bill authorizing what the ministry contends is a inadequate number of troops to end the insurrection in German Southwest Africa, and hold the colony against a recurrence of rebellion.

A PHYSICIAN LOSES FAITH IN HIS FELLOW MEMBERS OF THE HEALING PROFESSION

Says That if There Were No Doctors There Would Not be 25 Per Cent. of the Present Record of Deaths Among the Young

APPENDICITIS AND OPERATIONS

The statement made in the Examiner the other day by one of the local physicians, that the newspapers more deaths than the members of the profession represented by himself, so far as cases of appendicitis is concerned, is not endorsed by all the members of the profession in the city.

Hard on Doctors

A doctor in the city called the Examiner up by telephone to take the part of the press, and made the statement that if there were no doctors in the world there would not be 25 per cent. of the deaths among the younger portion of the community that there are now. Of course, the older persons must die, he said, but his opinion was that the young would be better off without the presence of the members of the medical profession.

Out of Fashion

Appendicitis, he said, was going out of fashion now, and there were not nearly as many cases of that disease at the present time as there were a few years ago.

Appendicitis, he remarked, existed largely in the imagination of the doctor and of the patient, but, happily, the lad, he called it, was dying out, and, as a result, the people were not dying.

Appendicitis a Myth

He was inclined to the belief that, while there were undoubtedly isolated cases of genuine appendicitis, the great majority of persons who thought they were suffering from that disease were labouring under a delusion and a snare. Operations were sometimes necessary, he thought, but not nearly as often as they were performed.

The Examiner, of course, does not pretend to be an authority on this subject. It is simply the medium through which those who have studied the matter and are, or should be, in a position to speak with authority, express their opinions.

OTONABEE MAN MAKES GOOD IN THE WEST

Mr. James Beam is one of the prosperous men of Western Canada, who originally came from Otonabee and who went to the west to settle and to make his fortune, which he evidently has done. Mr. Beam is back for a few weeks' visit with his friends in this county, and is being greeted heartily after his fourteen years' absence in the west, during which time he has acquired considerable land and is now looked upon in his section as one of the most substantial men.

Mr. Beam, as is to be inferred, is pleased with the west, and he has good reason to be—his fourteen years residence there resulting in placing him in a position of independence—and, after spending a few weeks here visiting his friends he will return to the west.

Mr. W. J. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jeavery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price. cod

EXAMINER'S SPECIAL CHRISTMAS SHOPPERS' EDITION TO-MORROW

To-morrow the Examiner will issue a Christmas Shoppers' edition, of 24 pages, one section of which will be printed on coated paper and elaborately illustrated.

The success of the Examiner's pioneer efforts last year, in issuing a special Christmas number a week before the holiday, and thus affording advertisers an opportunity of presenting their goods in an attractive manner before the buyers, has resulted in the establishment of this special edition as a regular Christmas feature of the Examiner, and one, it is felt, which not only the advertisers, but the readers will appreciate.

There will be two regular news sections, eight pages each, and in addition an eight page illustrated section will be issued to-morrow.

Subscribers are asked to see that they get their full 24 pages, because there is no possibility of issuing a second edition, the plates for the illustrated section having been destroyed. Orders for to-morrow's edition have been received practically up to the limit of publication, and although a large number of extra copies are being printed, the demand is so much greater than was anticipated that those who wish copies to send to friends are advised to secure them early.

The special edition will be issued to subscribers without charge, and single copies will be sold at the regular price, two cents. See that you get a copy.

MR. JAS. BAPTIE'S SUCCESS AT THE WINTER FAIR

A Progressive Springville Man who Won Prizes for Poultry at Guelph Stock Show Peterborough Contingent Visit Show

SHOW A REVELATION TO 6,000 DAILY

(Special Staff Correspondence)

Guelph, Dec. 14. — Peterborough people, evidently, do not appreciate the value of the Winter Stock Show, here, for comparatively few persons from that section visit it. Some, however, come, and these are well repaid for the time and expense incidenta lot the journey.

Peterborough People There

Yesterday a number of people from Peterborough visited the show, and were delighted with what they saw, and it is probable that in future years there will be a much larger contingent of eastern Ontario farmers to visit the show, which is a great educator.

Mr. Jas. Baptie, of Springville, is here this year, and he has taken a number of prizes in poultry. His success will no doubt be an inspiration to others in that section to not only attend the show, but to become exhibitors.

A Revelation

The show, which opened on Tuesday, is being attended by about 6000 people daily, and to the majority of these, what they saw was a revelation to them. Few, indeed are prepared for what is revealed to them by their visit here. There are on exhibition, 340 hogs, 370 sheep, 40 dairy and 128 beef cattle, all the very best in their respective classes.

The show of poultry is very large, about 5000 members of the hen family—the artocrats—being present. In addition there is a great display of pigeons, and competition amongst the different varieties has been exceedingly keen. Song birds are not largely shown.

The display of poultry is easily the best ever seen in Canada, Barred Rocks and Wyandottes being here in great numbers, and easily outnumber those in other classes.

Many Exhibits

There are exhibits not only from Canada—from Ontario and Quebec provinces—but from the United States as well, but it is a fact worthy of note and congratulation that in the majority of cases, (in fact almost invariably) the prizes are being won by Canadians, who are asserting their superiority in agricultural pursuits.

The honours however are not easily won. Those who take prizes do so, only after the hottest kind of competition; consequently to obtain a red ribbon from the Guelph show means something.

It is quite probable that next year will see a number of exhibitors from Peterborough and the eastern section of the province. [illegible]

ARRANGEMENTS FOR CONVENTION OF MACCABEES

Big Gathering Which Will be Held in City Next Month—Local Tent Making Preparations for This Event

ELECTED OFFICERS FOR COMING YEAR

At the regular meeting of Peterborough Tent, No. 69, K.O.T.M., last night, the officers for the coming year were elected, the installation to take place on the first Wednesday night in January, in Court Langton, Foresters' Hall, in which hall the K.O.T.M. will meet after the beginning of the new year. The officers for the year as elected last night, are as follows:

P.C.—Sir Kt. R. Morrison.

Phys.—Sir Kt. Dr J. A. Morgan.
Sargeant—Sir Kt. A. M. Fletcher.
Master at Arms—Sir Kt. D. Minicola.
1st M. of G.—Sir Kt. A. E. Morrison.
2nd M. of G.—Sir Kt. W. J. Sherwood.
Sentinel—Sir. Kt. H. Miller.
Picket—Sir Kt. J. A. Dodds.
Auditors — Sir Kts. R. Morrison and A. M. Fletcher.
Sick Com. — Sir Kts. W. T. Arnott, A. M. Fletcher, O. S. Matchett.
Hall Trust—Sir Kts. W. L. Mitchell, R. Morrison and Jos. Simons.

A strong committee was also appointed last night for the purpose of making arrangements for the convention of the order, which will be held in this city during the next month, and which the members of the order are looking forward to with considerable pleasant expectations, in the belief that a more than usually successful gathering will result.

Unsettled But Colder Again

Readers of this column will not need to be told that the weather these days is very changeable, cold weather succeeds mild, but soon changes to cold again. Yesterday the thermometer went up above freezing point in the morning, and, in the face of these conditions it took some courage to predict that we were on the verge of another cold spell, but at night it was down close to zero again, while the majority of persons who did not consult the thermometer thought that it was even lower.

The precipitation here, in the form of snow yesterday was rain west of Toronto.

The outlook is for more unsettled weather, but it is considered strongly probable that the tendency will be to colder weather, notwithstanding the predictions of the Toronto observatory, in today's globe, to the contrary.

A COPPER THIEF IS ARRESTED, TRIED AND SENTENCED IN LESS THAN ONE HOUR'S TIME

Toronto Detective Captures Robt. G. Baker, a Systematic Brass and Copper Thief, Who Gets Six Months in Cental

GAVE OFFICER A LIVELY CHASE

Arrested on a charge of theft this morning at twenty minutes to eleven, Robert G. Baker was sentenced to six months in the Central Prison three-quarters of an hour later. The officer of the law arrived in the city from Toronto last night, and after shadowing his man for a short time, placed him under arrest in the postoffice, where he was just on the point of posting a letter. Before, however, the active prisoner was placed behind the bars, the detective was given a lively chase, which was witnessed on the main street by a large number of citizens.

The trouble arose from the suspicion that Baker was stealing brass and copper from the Canadian General Electric Works during the past few weeks. The brass and copper was shipped by him through the Dominion Express Company to the Franklin Bros., of Toronto, who handled it there. It was from the purchasers that Baker was known to have shipped the material, and from where the detective began his operations, which led to the sentence by Magistrate Dumble this morning.

Arrived Last Night

The detective, who is a member of the Thiels Secret Service Force, of Toronto, arrived in the city last night with some strong evidence against the prisoner. After getting the description of the man he sought, he began his pursuit this morning. Between 10 and 11 o'clock he arrested him in the postoffice and quietly asked him to go with him to the police station to unravel a little mystery about a copper deal.

Claimed Innocence

Baker protested, claiming that he was innocent, but on the officer's persuasion, both walked down Water street towards the station. The prisoner, however, evidently thought the fun had gone far enough, and, after two attempts, broke away and displayed his ability as a foot-runner. His course was up Water street to Hunter street, and down Hunter to George street, with the detective in full pursuit.

The Horse Wins

The officer, being a much stouter man than his fleet-footed adversary, saw that he was not competent enough in a foot race, and, demanding the services of a horse and cutter on Water street, he managed to capture the elusive prisoner on George street, just above Hunter street, the former losing his hat and the latter his gloves.

With the assistance of Mr. Reid, mail carrier, and his sleigh, Baker was taken to the police station and searched. While this action was being performed, the prisoner was quite garrulous and intimated that he would not have been caught so easily had it not been for the horse and cutter.

Thought Police Were Excited

P. C. Adamson ran his nimble fingers through the prisoner's pockets, pulling out, among other things, a cheque and an unstamped letter, which were afterwards produced in court. He considered that the policeman was getting too much excited because he was so particular about getting everything, but from his own countenance it could easily be seen that his own mind was a little restless.

Before the Magistrate

Shortly afterwards he was sitting in the prisoner's box before Magistrate Dumble. The charge of theft against him was read, but he pleaded not guilty and was very anxious to explain matters and regain his freedom. Although advised by the Magistrate to say nothing, he stated that he had been working on the Construction Company's building at the C. G. E. Works and had been in the habit of picking up scraps of copper and brass, which he believed to be of no value to the company. He wrote to the Franklin Bros., in Toronto, for prices, and had shipped some goods by the Dominion Express Co., and had received a cheque amounting to $15 10.

Letters Were Produced

Mr. E. G. Patterson produced a quantity of the stolen goods which had been brought from Toronto as evidence, but without any difficulty the prisoner acknowledged that he had taken it, believing it to be old refuse. Letters were also produced which showed that Baker had written the Franklin Bros., asking for prices of copper and brass, and stating that he had about 100 pounds of the former on hand and about 10 pounds of the latter. Another indicated that he had shipped 75 pounds of copper, in which he had asked for the money.

The one in his possession, which had not been posted, referred to the fact that he had a large quantity on hand after cleaning up the shop, and that he would ship it soon.

His Own Statement

When asked if he had anything to say before sentence was passed, he stated that he knew this trouble was impending, but had satisfied himself that he had done no wrong and was prepared to "face the music." He said it was the first time that he had ever been in trouble in his life and was very much affected when the Magistrate sentenced him to six months in the Central Prison. He pleaded for a shorter term, but the Magistrate's sentence was not recalled. Before leaving the box for the cell below, he intimated that a much shorter term would prevent him from duplicating his actions which launched him into such trouble.

Brilliant is the word that most fittingly describes the banquet given by the Young Men's Guild, of the Charlotte street church, last night, to their ever-victorious baseball team, which has for three years captured the championship of the Guild League, and are now the owners of the Examiner cup donated by Hon. J. R. Stratton for competition among the teams of the Guild Baseball League.

The function was a graceful tribute to a branch of the Guild which has done much for that organization. Congratulations for the winning team and the importance of athletics in developing all that is best in young men, were the prevailing features of the speeches, and many were the compliments that were paid to the victors, of whom it may be truly said that they were worthy of all the honours done them. They have not only shown remarkable skill on the diamond, but in all their games they have displayed the qualities of manly sportsmen, and they are deserving of all the tributes paid them last night.

Decorations Artistic

The affair was held in the lecture room of the church, which was most artistically decorated for the occasion. Flags and bunting were displayed everywhere, and the colours of the heroes of the evening played a prominent part in the decorative effect. The champions occupied a place of honour in the centre of the room, while the other tables were arranged around them. Their table was adorned with their colours, while the Examiner cup, emblematic of their three years' victories, occupied a prominent position.

The gathering was a most representative one in every respect. Assembled around the festive board were visitors from the other Guilds of the city, and many gentlemen, prominent in business and civic affairs, were present to do honour to the champions.

The fair sex were also well represented by a large and able staff of charming waitresses, whose untiring efforts were greatly appreciated by the sterner sex. A large number of ladies also took advantage of the invitation to occupy seats in the gallery from which point of vantage they heard the many clever speeches which were made.

The Menu

A most tempting repast had been prepared to which ample justice was done. The menu was as follows.

Roast Turkey. Cranberry Sauce.
Sugar Cured Ham.
Beet Salad. Cabbage Salad.
Pickles. Spanish olives.
White Bread. Whole Wheat Bread.
Tea Biscuits.
Lemon Jelly. Cherry Jelly.
Ice Cream.
Maple Cake. Chocolate Cake
Coffee. Lemonade.
Salted Almonds. Bon Bons.
Fruit.

The Toast List

The toast list which followed was a long one, covering many subjects and giving many opportunities for a display of eloquence, of which, it may be said, full advantage was taken. Dr. M. A. Morrison, in the absence of Mr. Robert Neill, the president of the Guild, presided, as toast-master, and performed the duties of that important office in a very efficient and graceful manner.

The first toast was that to the King, which was honoured in the usual way, the gathering rising and heartily singing the National Anthem.

The Church

The next toast was to "The Church," which was proposed in an eloquent speech by Mr. R. J. Kidd, who referred to the early history of the church. He paid a high tribute to the Young Men's Guild, and stated

LETTER OF CONDOLENCE TO MR. J. WARBOY

Was Sent by Members of Lansdowne Lodge, S. O. E., to Fellow Member Bereaved

Mr. J. Worby, who recently suffered bereavement in the death of his wife, has received the following letter of condolence from the members of Lansdowne Lodge, S. O. E.:

Peterborough, Dec. 8, 1906.

Dear Sir and Bro.—I am requested by the brethren to extend to you the following letter of condolence in your sad bereavement:

Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God to call away by death your beloved wife, we wish to extend to you our deepest sympathy in this your very sad bereavement, and pray that it may please Almighty God to give you grace to prepare for the happy re-union where partings are no more.

On behalf of Lansdowne Lodge,
Yours fraternally,
A. KINGSCOTE.

BAND AGAIN TO-NIGHT AT BROCK STREET RINK

Patrons Appreciate Managements Interest and Enterprise

To-night the 57th Band will again be at the Brock Street Rink, and, with the stiffening of the weather, the ice will be in splendid shape. The patrons of the rink have shown that they appreciate the enterprise of the management in giving them the band every night this week, and they have been turning out in large numbers. The rink this year is certainly more popular than it has been in any previous year.

TALE OF THE BYE ELECTIONS

Some Conservative journals seem to think that one swallow makes a summer, and break into jubilation and prophecies of the debacle of a Liberal Government. Because a bye-election or two resulted adversely to the Liberal Government of Great Britain it was regarded by the optimistic pessimists of the press as the hand writing on the wall for Campbell-Bannerman. However, the Huddersfield bye-election shows, by the triumphant return of the Liberal candidate that the Liberal Government's star is not setting just yet. The same combination to deduce from the election of Conservatives in two or three constituencies, of strong Conservative leanings, a notice to quit for the Laurier Government was shown. The Brantford Expositor compiles a list of bye-elections, showing that since 1901 the Conservative opposition has not made the gain of a single seat, and are weaker in the House than immediately after elections. Below follows a list of the Dominion bye-elections since 1904:—

Liberals

Quebec Centre—acclamation.
Wright, Que.—172 majority.
Edmonton—acclamation.
Levis—acclamation.
London—330 majority.
North Oxford—338 majority.
North York—494 majority.
West Lambton—243 majority.
Antigonish—235 majority.
Compton—500 majority.
West Assiniboia—acclamation.
Saskatchewan—acclamation.
Victoria, B.C.—696 majority.
Cape Breton N. and Victoria—840 majority.
Maisonneuve—Labour-Liberal.
St. John's and Iberville — acclamation.
Quebec County—no Tory nominated.
North Bruce—150 majority.
Shelburne and Queens—992 majority.
St. Ann's, Montreal—205 majority.
St. Mary's, Montreal—1200 majority.

Conservatives

Carleton—acclamation.
Toronto Centre—acclamation.
Wentworth—17 majority.
Sherbrooke—acclamation.
East Elgin—77 majority.
North Renfrew—816 majority.

AN IMPORTANT CLAUSE

The Expositor has frequently called attention to the second agreement made by the Ross Government with the Electrical Development company and to the existence therein of a clause which gave the Government absolute control for the benefit of the municipalities of one-half of the power to be generated under this agreement, or 62,500 horse-power. The clause reads as follows:—

It is hereby expressly provided that one-half of the power to be generated hereunder shall from time to time be available for the use of any municipality or municipalities in the province of Ontario for the purpose of operating a municipal system of heating, lighting, or other public utilities then owned or which may thereafter be owned by such municipality or municipalities. The price to be paid by such municipalities for the said power shall be fixed by the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, who may also fix the price every 15 years thereafter during the continuance of this agreement or any renewal thereof, and in determining the said price the Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council may inquire as to the price paid by other consumers receiving electric energy from the said company in Ontario, the price paid by private consumers in the case of electrical energy produced by steam-power or water-power in Ontario, and the various conditions which, in the opinion of the said Lieutenant-Governor-in-Council, might be necessary to determine the matter in issue.

Nothing could be clearer than that this clause, had the agreement gone into force, would have enabled the Provincial Government to control the power situation for the benefit of the municipalities, and consequently that it would have been unnecessary for the Government to be provided with the extraordinary authority or club contained in the Beck act in order to secure electric energy at a proper price.

This agreement was cancelled by the Whitney Government, which claims credit for the Beck act for doing something for the municipalities which might more easily have been done in another way.—Brantford Expositor.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Herafter the air admitted to the city hall, Toronto, is to be passed through water. The picking up of a few microbes en route from bay water can't possibly make Toronto Aldermen any worse than they are now.

The people of White River, Ont., evidently resent the reputation of being the coldest place in Canada, south of the Arctic Circle. By some mysterious means the observatory at that place was burned, and the thermometers which make the incriminating record, destroyed.

Collins is a disturbing chap, from the affable and palatible John Collins, so intimately associated with riotous bibulosity to the Collins that set London by the ears, or the Conservative Collins of the Wentworth County Council, who has dropped a mild bomb into the Conservative camp by asserting that the Whitney Government does not mean what it says, because it has broken so many of its promises. East Hamilton's revolt against the Whitney Syndicate has evidently slopped over into the adjoining county.

Ex-President Cockburn of the Ontario Bank is not conspicuously chivalrous in placing upon the ex-manager the whole blame for the failure of the Ontario Bank—neither he nor the directors knew that anything improper was being done. Bank Presidents who do not preside and directors who do not direct have considerable difficulty in justifying their existence. Mr. Cockburn was not entirely fair either in pronouncing guilty, in a most public manner, a man who is under trial—it's contempt of courtesy if not of court. A jury may have a chance to decide the question of Mr. McGill's innocence or guilt and if not a jury, fair-minded public opinion will not relieve Mr. Cockburn and his co-directors from responsibility as cavalierly as he does.

Bols and bars can't stay the onrush of the spoils policy of the Whitney Government — now the head of Governor Vanzant of the Toronto jail is demanded, and he is to be investigated on certain charges. The investigation is to be conducted by an experienced partizan, Mayor Judd of London, who is a very strong party man, and since the advent of the present Government has been entrusted with the management of several decapitation enterprises. He conducted the inquiry into the charges made against Mr. Bastedo, former Commissioner of Fisheries. In the bribery inquiry to discover the existence of corrupt practices — by Liberals—Conservatives being studiously exempt, Mr. Judd acted for the Crown, in the London end of the one-sided investigation.

SMOOTH STRANGER WHO WORKS THE FARMERS

Zion Man Was Robbed by Slick One who Represented That He was Buying Farms—Went Away with Money.

THE PETERBOROUGH FARMERS WARNED

The Port Hope Times says:—Farmers will do well to beware of a well dressed stranger who may attempt to enter their homes under false pretences.

Last Thursday a man who is described as short and dark, came to Mr. John Anderson's farm at Bunker Hill, Zion. Mr. Anderson was away at the time but the house was occupied by Mrs. Anderson and her son and daughter. The stranger said that he had bought 500 acres of land in the vicinity, and among others the farm rented by Mr. Anderson from Signor Farini. He wanted to see the place and the tenant. Mrs. Anderson allowed him to come in and told him that he might stay until Mr. Anderson returned. He stayed until Sunday, and in the meantime got Miss Anderson to drive him to neighbouring farms. Among others he visited Mr. Job Dickinson's place, where he asked to be allowed to look over the house, as he said that he intended to remodel the house occupied by Mr. Anderson, and wished to see how Mr. Dickinson's house was planned. This was permitted.

On Sunday the man disappeared, and with him went two or three dollars that had been in Mr. Anderson's pocket. The stranger has not since been heard of.

MR. MICHAEL O'KEEFE WILL RETIRE

Prosperous Asphodel Farmer who is Coming to Douro Township to Live on Small Farm

Peterborough seems to exercise a peculiar attraction to the fortunate farmers of the county, who have "made their pile" on the farm, and wish to enjoy the fruits of their labours at ease in the vicinity of the especial privileges a city provides. Another farmer, after bearing the burden and heat of the day is retiring from farm life and lard work. Mr. Michael O'Keefe, of the township of Asphodel, near Norwood, and brother of Mr. John O'Keefe, city, intends to leave his 300-acre farm in Asphodel, to the care and cultivation of his sons, and to come to reside near Peterborough. Through Messrs. J. T. O'Connell & Co., he has purchased 11 or 12 acres of the Lytle farm, east of the Nicholls Park, East City. This is a very desirable property, having on it a good brick residence, barns, stabling, fruit trees, etc., in fact every convenience to make it a desirable residence, on the border of the city. Five acres front upon the Norwood road, and the rear is bounded by the Trent Canal. Mr. O'Keefe will occupy his new home about April.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eastachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB ROOMS WILL BE OPENED TO-NIGHT

It is Expected That a Large Number Will be Present

The club rooms, which have been secured by the Young Men's Club of the George Street Methodist Church, over Coleman Bros.' store on George street, will be formally opened to-night, when it is expected that there will be a large representation of the members present. The club has succeeded in obtaining comfy fitted-up apartments, which should prove most popular to the members.

¶ You expect a "Semi-ready" Overcoat to have more style, better finish, and to give longer wear.

¶ There is a reason, many reasons in fact, for your expectations.

Because "Semi-ready" suits are made in a wholesale way; the Company buy their cloths direct from the British mills at 40% less than the custom tailor can buy. By a division of expert labor they get better workmanship at less cost than the custom tailor can. By travel and observation their designers anticipate the changing styles and produce finer models than the custom tailor can. With their physique type system the "Semi-ready" Company can guarantee a perfect fit to every man—the important and final argument.

Compare a $20 "Semi-ready" Suit with the proudest production of the retail tailor shop. Down to the sewing on the button-holes, and up to the fit of the shoulders, look each garment carefully over. Get them together.

TWELVE YEARS CONTINUAL SERVICE AT CROSSING

Mr. John Londry, the Flagman at the Brock Street Crossing Has First Holiday in Twelve Years

Mr. John Londry, the old flagman at the Brock street crossings of the G. T. R., is at present in Dundas attending his wife, who is rather seriously ill in that town. This is the first holiday, if, in this case, it may be so termed, that Mr. Londry has been given during the past twelve years. He has seen service day after day, Sundays included, without fail, and has established a record that is seldom surpassed. It is a matter of regret that a family illness should provide his first holiday since he has so faithfully attended to his duties. Mr. Davidson, who was to have gone to Lindsay, is at Brock street crossing until the return of Mr. Londry, which, it is hoped, will be a happy one for him.

C.P.R. TICKET OFFICE HAS BEEN RENOVATED

Interior Has Been Artistically Decorated—New Furniture

The interior of the C.P.R. up-town ticket office has been thoroughly renovated and presents a very attractive appearance. The walls have been artistically covered with burlap, the bottom portion being done in red while the top is a dark green. A handsome oak railing runs around the room.

The border is a work of art being a representation of the well known C.P.R. Rocky Mountain picture entitled "The Three Sisters," which has been most realistically copied.

Some new office furniture will be installed, including new chairs and a modern ticket case. The wood work has been polished and in every respect the office is greatly improved.

The renovating was done by Messrs. Edwards and Johnston.

SPECIAL SERMON TO YOUNG MEN SUNDAY

Rev. H. W. Avison, of Hamilton Conference, will Preach at Both Services in Charlotte Street Church

The Rev. H. W. Avison, a probationer of the Hamilton Conference, and at present a student at Victoria University, will preach in Charlotte Street Church on Sunday next. Mr. Avison is a young man of commanding presence and much esteemed as a preacher. His sermon in the evening will be to young men. The young men of the congregation should not miss this opportunity of hearing him.

LOCAL "MEDS" HOLD INTERESTING MEETING

Subjects of Everyday Interest Discussed Discussed by Members of Medical Association

A meeting of the Medical Association was held last evening in the parlours over the Ontario branch of the Bank of Montreal. The meeting was well attended by the local doctors interested in the Association. The President, Dr. McNulty, presided as chairman in a very satisfactory manner.

Dr. Frederick read a paper dealing with clinical cases, covering the subject in a splendid manner as it is one about which volumes have been written.

Dr. McNulty presented a specimen, being a case of unusual importance. Dr. Greer followed with an account of his observations in an hospital in Chicago. This was a very interesting feature as well as instructive in fact the various papers formed good material for earnest discussion.

The Season for Group and Colds

BUT SERIOUS RESULTS CAN BE AVOIDED BY THE TIMELY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

With the return of wintry weather there comes again mother's anxiety for the health of her little ones — wet feet and chilled bodies, and then croup or severe colds. And what is to be done to prevent serious trouble?

Because it is pleasant to the taste, composed of simple ingredients of proven value, and positively free from anything of an injurious nature, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine is especially suitable as a treatment for children, and its popularity is due to its wonderful success in the prevention and cure of croup, chest colds and bronchitis.

In the hour of emergency you can depend on Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine to loosen the cough, aid expectoration, allay inflammation and bring speedy relief and cure.

This well-known preparation is not a mere cough mixture, but a medicine having thorough and far-reaching action on the whole system, and hence its remarkable success.

Mr. Wm. McGee, 49 Wright avenue, Toronto, Ont., writes: "There is no remedy, in my opinion, that can act more promptly than Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. It cured my son of croup, absolutely, in one night. We gave him a dose when he was black in the face from choking. It gave him instant relief and cure."

Don't take anything said to be just as good." There is no throat and lung medicine just as good as Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine. Remember this when buying, and insist on having Dr. Chase's; the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle. 25 cents a bottle. All dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto.

THEIR SAFE ARRIVAL AT SHANGHI IS CABLED

Mr. and Mrs. H. D. Robertson Have Reached That Port After Safe Voyage Across the Pacific

Mrs. (Dr.) Hunter to-day received a cablegram from her daughter, Mrs. H. D. Robertson, from Shanghai, China, informing her of the safe arrival of the steamer Empress of China, after a safe and speedy journey, at that city, with the missionary party, of which Mr. and Mrs. Robertson are members.

Evidently, the Empress was not delayed by the storms which have been sweeping over the continent. Mr. and Mrs. Robertson will now begin their long journey to the interior of China, their travels by no means being at an end when they reached land. It is expected that it will take until about the last of February or the first of March to reach their destination, the mode of travel in Central China being a very leisurely one.

IS BEING APPLAUDED FOR SHOOTING A NEGRO

Rhode Island Girl Killed Man Who Attempted to Force an Entrance

BAIL BOND WAS QUICKLY SUPPLIED

Special to The Examiner

Providence, Dec. 11. — Ethel M. Smith, who shot and killed Elmer Briggs, a negro farmhand, who attempted to force an entrance into her home, will, to-morrow, eat her dinner with her family. When she re-appears on the streets Monday it is probable, from indications of popular sentiment, that she will be applauded for her act, which is generally thought to have been committed to protect her honour, if not her life.

The girl is modest, and was not known to possess such courage as she displayed when the negro encountered her armed with a knife. She never had fired a revolver in her life, but the peril in which she was placed nerved her to desperation. When Briggs demanded admission, Ethel looked and barred the door against him. He smashed his way in and was met in the hall by Miss Smith, who commanded him to leave. For an answer he leaped at her with the knife uplifted.

Ethel had armed herself with a revolver when she heard the crashing of the glass in the vestibule door. She went downstairs to the main hall, and as Briggs gained entrance she stood ready to meet him. He refused to halt when directed. As he started toward the girl she fired five shots in rapid succession. Two of them took effect. The negro staggered into the yard and fell dead.

Ethel was arrested by the Chief of Police and taken to his home, where she sat down with the family to a Thanksgiving dinner. The Chief was convinced that she had acted in self-defence, but in accordance with the rigorous administration of the law in Rhode Island, the girl was held in $4,000 bail to answer on December 17. The bond was furnished instantly; indeed, there was some rivalry among well-known citizens as to who should secure the girl's freedom.

ST. LUKE'S BROTHERHOOD AT HOME

St. John's Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. John's Church the Guests of St. Luke's Chapter

A very pleasant evening was spent at St. Luke's last night when the Chapter of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew of that church entertained St. John's Chapter of the Brotherhood.

Mr. A. Kingdon, director of St. Luke's Chapter, occupied the chair and welcomed the guests to St. Luke's. He called upon Canon Davidson for an address on Brotherhood Work. This was an interesting event as the speaker dealt with the subject in a thorough manner. Mr. Walker, Mr. Jas. Bell and Mr. Jays spoke on the Brotherhood Vow, Brotherhood Prayers, and the service the various Chapters perform towards the welfare of the church.

Mr. A. McCallum also read a papers on Personal Work of the Individual Member, and Mr. Davey gave an address on the obligations of the layman to the church. The various discourses were interesting, dealing as did with the work of the Brotherhood.

The evening was brought to a fitting close by social intercourse and refreshments.

A REMINDER OF XMAS AT FRED. A. CLARKE'S

Representation of Santa Claus Attracts the Wise and Pleases the Young and Innocent

A sign that is attracting the attention of the pedestrians on George street is that in front of Mr. Fred A. Clarke's fur store. Particularly is it noticeable after dark as it is well illuminated and people report that they have observed it from the lower end of George street. However, like the store itself it possesses great magnetic force, being a representation of a tall chimney with old Santa Claus making his way down to bring happiness the expectant ones within, as he will do on Christmas eve. While leaving his supplies in Peterborough for distribution he did not forget Fred A. Clarke's store where he has left furs for young and old.

The sign was made by the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons and the wiring was done by F. J. R. MacPherson.

52 HOMICIDES FOR MANHATTAN IN A MONTH

Twenty-nine of These Were Cases of Suicide—The Record is a Terrible One

THE OFFICIAL FIGURES WERE GIVEN

New York, Dec. 11.—The monthly statement issued by Chief Clerk Jacob E. Baush, of the Board of Coroners, for the borough of Manhattan, shows that there were fifty-two homicides in this borough in the month of November.

Twenty-nine of the fifty-two were suicides, nine of which took their lives by shooting, nine by illuminating gas, six by poison and two by jumping from windows. Three others committed suicide by stabbing, hanging and drowning.

Of the remainder of homicides, the highest number of deaths was caused by vehicles. There were seventeen of these cases. The surface railway cars killed nine persons within the month, the Subway cars three, and the cars of the New York Central Railroad five.

There were six murders—four by shooting and two by stabbing. Five persons were killed by being crushed in elevators and one by malpractice. Two labourers employed in the new river tunnels died from the bends, while fifty-eight labourers throughout the borough met their deaths by accidental falls, falling stones, derricks, lumber, etc.

Altogether, the Coroners and their Physicians investigated 527 deaths in the month just ended. Of these, twenty-three were due to scalds and burns, eight were accidentally drowned and fifteen accidentally asphyxiated by illuminating and coal gas. Three hundred and twenty of the deaths reported, it was found upon examination, were due to natural causes, heart disease predominating.

The Model school examinations are taking place this week, the presiding examiners being Inspectors Brown and Lees.

Besides the students who were in attendance during the term, several are writing in order to renew their certificates.

Miss J. Clydesdale, of Pickering, was home for a few days last week.

THE NEW YORK WORLD THRICE-A-WEEK EDITION

Read Wherever the English Language is Spoken

The Thrice-a-Week World, now that a great presidential campaign is foreshadowed, hopes to be a better paper than it has ever been before, and it has made its arrangements accordingly. Its news service covers the entire globe and it reports everything fully, promptly and accurately. It is the only newspaper, not a daily, which is as good as a daily, and which will keep you as completely informed of what is happening throughout the world.

The Thrice-a-Week World is fair in its political reports. You can get the truth from its columns, whether you are a Republican or a Democrat, and that is what you want.

A special feature of the Thrice-a-week World has always been its serial fiction. It publishes novels by the best authors in the world, novels which in book form sell for $1.50 apiece, and its high standard in this respect will be maintained in the future as in the past.

The Thrice-a-week World's regular subscription rate is only $1.00 per year, and this pays for 156 papers. We offer this unequalled newspaper and the Daily Examiner both for one year for $4.50. The regular subscription price of the two papers is $5.00. 1d

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

HILLIER SENTENCED TO THREE MONTHS

After Three Hours Deliberation Jury Brought in Verdict of Guilty, Recommending Mercy

Melancholy was the scene at the Court room last night when the "twelve good men and true" who had been deliberating for three long hours returned a verdict of guilty against Henry H. Hillier who had been on trial for theft for two days. But when the Judge pronounced the sentence—three months in the county jail—the court room was filled with loud lamentations on the part of the friends of the prisoner who had waited from three o'clock until six for the return of the Jury and the pronouncement of the sentence.

Shortly before three o'clock the judge concluded his address to the jury—an address which vividly depicted, impartially, the evidence which had been placed before him. The jury then retired and after the three hours deliberation, during which time many interested in the outcome of the case remained in the court room, returned with the above mentioned verdict with a strong recommendation to mercy on account of the prisoner having a large family to take care of.

It was for this reason that Judge Weller made the light sentence of three months in the County Jail against Hillier.

that they were looked upon with pride as being the future church, and playing an important part in the present church. The speaker in referring to the work of the team on the field, said that their games developed character as well as muscle.

Ald. Tovey, in responding to the toast, spoke of the relation of young men to the church. He was in sympathy with anything that would develop the physical part of young men, and hoped that the day would soon come when the church, or some of the departments, would be open every night in the week for their benefit.

At this point the gathering was favoured with a solo from Mr. R. Norman Jolliffe. The selection, entitled, "The Toreador," was magnificently rendered by Mr. Jolliffe, and he had to respond to an encore.

"Canada and the Empire"

"Canada and the Empire" was the next toast to be honoured, and the assembly sang the Maple Leaf. Ald. R. F. McWilliams made a very patriotic speech in proposing this toast. He referred in eloquent terms to Canada's greatness, and then to the magnificence of the Empire, which he characterized as the greatest the world has ever known.

Mr. G. N. Gordon made a brilliant reply, stating that Canada was a nation, without treaty making powers. He referred to the great service that Canadians had done in helping to preserve the integrity of the Empire.

Miss Clara Bellegham was heard with great pleasure in a solo, in which her fine voice was displayed to full advantage, and an encore had to be given in response to the enthusiastic applause.

Municipal Institutions

To Mr. A. B. Cunningham fell the task of proposing the toast of "Municipal Institutions," which he did in a very able manner. He, after congratulating the team, spoke of the importance of the municipal institutions, and urged the young men to look forward to the time when they would manage the affairs of the city. Graft and greed were strongly condemned by the speaker, who said that mere politicians — men of talent without character — should be kept out of municipal affairs. The men who failed in the wise use of their franchise at the ballot box were not true citizens.

Ald. Hicks in replying to the toast congratulated the team upon their splendid record. Speaking of municipal affairs, he said that the young man who embarked therein would find plenty of good hard work.

The Guild

Rev. A. Bright of Knox church, proposed the toast to the Guild in in an eloquent and interesting speech in which he stated that many of the qualities displayed by the young men on the baseball field were also shown in the work of the church. He referred to the change in the attitude of the church towards sport. There was a time he said, when the good folks of the church would hold up their hands in holy horror at the idea of having a Guild league.

Mr. Ira D. Moore made a fitting reply on behalf of the Charlotte street Guild, thanking the members of the baseball team for the honour they had brought to the Guild by their victories.

Mr. Van der Water delighted the gathering with a solo, in which the remarkable qualities of his tenor voice were effectively displayed. An encore was demanded.

Cup Presented

The toast to the champions, and the presentation of the Examiner Cup followed. A letter was read from Hon. J. R. Stratton, expressing his regret at his inability to be present, and congratulating the team upon their remarkable success upon the field.

Mr. M. J. Hutchinson made the presentation of the cup on behalf of Hon. Mr. Stratton, in doing so he paid a warm tribute to the members of the winning team, whose sucessful career he outlined. He stated that he had had occasion three times to make a similar presentation to the Charlotte street team, and on the other occasions the prediction had been made that next year the cup would be given to some one else. These prophecies however had not come true. He expressed his personal regrets that the donor of the cup was not able to be present.

Master Halpany gave a splendid rendering of De Wolfe Hopper's "Casey at the Bat," a selection most appropriate to the occasion. He responded to a hearty encore with the "Death of Little Fritz," in which the German dialect was cleverly imitated.

Mr. N. E. McWilliams, the manager of the champions, made a graceful reply in accepting the cup. He expressed the gratitude of every member of the team to the donor of the trophy.

The Guild League

Mr. W. H. Collier proposed the health of the league, referring to the many good qualities developed by sports. Among those mentioned, were self reliance, friendship and good fellowship. Mr. P. A. Kerr, the president of the League, in replying, gave a short history of the organization, which began four years ago, when the championship was won by the St. Andrew's team.

MR. HARRY RODDY

Mr. Kerr congratulated the winning team and paid a tribute to its manager Mr. N. E. McWilliams whose services as vice-President of the Guild League, he said, has been most valuable.

Miss Manning contributed a solo "Love the Peddlar," in excellent voice, and was enthusiastically encored.

Sister Guilds

Mr. H. P. Kennedy was the proposer of the toast to Sister Guilds. In doing so he stated that while Charlotte street had won the cup, the other Guilds had proven good losers. He referred to the importance of the Guilds in church work.

Eloquent speeches in reply were made by Mr. Geo. Robertson, on behalf of George street Guild; Mr. W. S. Campbell, St. Andrew's; Mr. H. Potter, St. Luke's; Mr. Geo. Maughan; All Saints' and Mr. Clarry, of St. Paul's. All the speakers referred to the splendid work of the Charlotte street team on the field. Rev. J. G. Lewis on behalf of Mark street church also spoke briefly.

Mr. Jolliffe was heard with great pleasure in another solo and again was forced to respond to an encore.

Athletics

The next toast was to "Athletics" and its proposer, Dr. Neal, made reference to the importance of athletics in developing young men.

Mr. E. M. Best, representing, as he said, "the basketball community" made a witty reply on behalf of that branch of athletics. Mr. Geo. McDonald made a speech from the standpoint of a rugby player.

Mr. Van der Water captivated the gathering with another admirably rendered song and the usual encore had to be given.

"The Ladies" found an eloquent champion in the person of Mr. McLaren, who paid many graceful and eloquent tributes to the fair sex. Mr. Galbraith in replying to the toast made witty speech in which he too, showed how much man owed to woman.

"The Press" was the last toast honoured. It was proposed by Mr. C. W. Harmer, who referred to the help given by the press to the Guild. Replies were made by the representatives present, after which the gathering was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem.

The Young Men's Guild are to be congratulated not only on having such a successful baseball team, but also on having so gracefully acknowledged their success by last night's banquet.

The absence of Rev. H. M. Manning through illness and of Mr. Robert Neill, who was out of the city, was greatly regretted.

The menu cards were made the subject of many complimentary remarks and formed an artistic and neat souvenir of a most delightful evening. The cards were adorned with the club's colours, gray and red and in addition to the menu and toast list contained the names of the members of the champion team and a photogravure of the Examiner Cup.

Team is Grateful

The members of the team wish to express their gratitute to the Guild for the magnificent banquet which was given them and also to the ladies for their kindness in acting as waitresses for the occasion.

Before the gathering broke up a flashlight photograph of the guests and waitresses was taken by Mr. Louis Mendel. The picture is on view at Mr. Mendel's window and gives an idea of the importance of the gathering.

MOVING WITH THE TIMES.

Mr. J. W. Miller who for the past twenty-five years has conducted a successful made-to-order boot and shoe business, has added a complete stock of ready-made boots, shoes and rubbers, carefully selected from the most reliable makers.

PASTORAL TERM TO BE WITHOUT LIMIT

Important Proposal of Church Union Committee on the Policy of the New Union—A Combination of Churches' Systems

REPORT BACK TO THE COMMITTEE

A Toronto despatch says :—The introductory paragraph of the report to the Church Union Conference of the Committee on the Ministry definitely states that it is sought to combine the system of pastoral itinerancy with that of a settled pastorate. The clause providing for a pastoral relation without a compulsory time limit was passed this morning. The particular method whereby it is hoped to accomplish this will be further discussed this afternoon. The intention is that a pastor may continue as long on one place as minister and people wish. A court will be provided whereto either party may have resource in case of a change being thought wise.

The report of the Committee on Polity was discussed this morning, but was not thought sufficiently definite. It is felt that when the governing bodies of the Churches interested come to take up the matter they will want a very clear understanding of what the proposal involves. Hence the report goes back to committee to go more into detail as to the proposed church government, and report later.

BUCKHORN FACTORY HAD EXCELLENT SEASON

Company Have Decided to Install Cool Curing Rooms During Coming Season

ANNUAL MEETING WAS HELD YESTERDAY

The last of the Cheese Factory meetings in the County was held yesterday afternoon when the Buckhorn Dairy Company wound up the business for the season. This factory, like all the others whose reports have been published, had a most successful season, the average price of cheese per pound being one of the highest and the number of pounds of milk to one pound of cheese being among the lowest.

The gross value of the products amounted to $15,694.61, the average price per pound of cheese being 12.12 cents.

But the chief feature of the meeting yesterday was the decision arrived at by the company to install Cool Curing rooms in connection with the factory before the commencement of next season. This conclusion was reached by the patrons after listening to the excellent address of Mr. N. G. Somerville on that important question.

The Buckhorn Dairy Company have a splendid building and with the addition of Cool Curing rooms will be a modern factory in every respect. Much credit is due the cheese maker Mr. H. J. Crowe for the excellent way in which the factory was kept during the year.

The following statement, which showed that there was a good working balance in the company's favour, was presented by the secretary, Mr. W. J. McIlmoyle.

No. of lbs. milk received	1,306,829
No. of lbs. cheese	129,517
Lbs. milk to 1 lb. cheese	10.76
Ave. price cheese per lb.	12.12
Total money to patrons	$12,878.53
Amount of manufacturing	$2,855.96
Gross value	$15,694.61
Value of milk per standard	$27.90

Bad Attack of La Grippe

"A year ago I had a bad attack of la grippe and all the doctors' prescriptions proved of no avail. I was told to try Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, and found it a great blessing as it thoroughly cured me. I told the doctor that I intended to recommend it to all my friends." — Mrs. R. Hutton, 12 Claremont street, Toronto.

THE BAND WILL BE AT JACKSON PARK TO-NIGHT

Slide is Not Yet Ready to be Formally Opened

There promises to be a big crowd at Jackson Park to-night when the band will be present for the first time this season. The rink is now in splendid condition and no doubt many will take advantage of the fine weather to enjoy a delightful skate in the open air. The slide is not yet in shape to be formally opened, but those who possess toboggans of their own may use the chutes if they desire to do so. Jackson Park promises to be more popular than ever this year and the new features will undoubtedly be greatly enjoyed.

HOCKEY

An Ottawa despatch says:—Percy Lesuer and Harold Armstrong, two of the new Ottawa hockey team recruits, went to Ottawa from Smith's Falls, especially to participate in the initial practice of the Ottawas. It will be a week before either of the new men take up their occupations in that city. Lesueur occupies a position in the Union Bank, while Armstrong is similarly located in the Bank of Ottawa.

Editor Post Card Column:

Now that Brock street rink has opened for skating for the coming season is it not an opportune time for the management to see that good order is kept? There is a certain class of boys and young men who seem to think it sport to go on skating and make it rough-house, having no regard for ladies. It is to be hoped that order will be restored under the new managing directorship.

"Peace"

ONCE again the season is here when we are reminded of those words, "Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace among men in whom He is well pleased."

This has been interpreted to mean—"Good-will first; then the peace." Not until good-will is in the hearts of men as individuals will there be peace; and not until good-will is in the hearts of men as nations will the millenium dawn.

The peace of the world has been a long time coming, and not until the Golden Rule is adopted by every individual in the Universe will this Peace be complete.

The interpretations of Peace differ. Below will be seen an illustration of the Biblical sense of the word "peace"—the peace that shall be marked by the lamb and the lion agreeing, and when "a little child shall lead them." Above is a picture of the modern interpretation of "peace." On the one hand, the broken sword, on the other, the palm branch with science and art and commerce all working steadily—everything, in fact, that is signified by and signifies Progress.

Perhaps the fuller meaning would include not only the progress of civilization but also the eliminating of the individual animosities that prevent us from enjoying either peace with our neighbors or peace with ourselves.

Virtue may be its own reward, but if we strive for both, the peace of progress and the peace that comes with the carrying out of the Golden Rule, we shall attain unto at least some measure of the "peace among men in whom God is well pleased."

The Greatest of These

LOVE is the spirit of Christmas.
It is the most potent factor of life, not only at this season, but at all times.
It is the greatest essential to make life worth the living.
It is always the Greatest among Faith, Hope and Love.

While we may recognize this, still should we cherish Faith and Hope.

To some is denied the power of having faith, but those who have it find others have faith in them—it is an antidote to pessimism.

Hope goes hand in hand with Faith, giving heart and making smiles. It helps us over many a rugged place—spurs us on in such a way that not only does it cure us of pessimism but makes optimists of us all.

Everyone is an optimist at some time to some extent.

He who is sure of a to-morrow is one kind of optimist—only he who will not believe in to-day is a pessimist.

Yet would it be worth while to have either Faith or Hope without Love? How would it be possible?

Love was before either and would be after. It is the greatest element of life, greater than either Faith or Hope.

'Tis faith in our Creator and our fellowman that gives us the joy of living that makes it possible for us to love.

'Tis hope that lies at the bottom of our temporal ambitions, that encourages our love, that makes it easy to meet death when it comes, as come it must.

Faith is believing; Hope is almost believing.
But Love believeth all things, hopeth all things.

"If I have all faith, so as to remove mountains, but have not love, I am nothing."

Love is the hub in the wheel of Christianity. The Great Commandment is Love of God and Love of Man.

And what more appropriate season than Christmas to emphasize this law?
For Love is the very essence of the Christmas spirit.

* * * * *

Did you ever study a Madonna picture? Recall one!
Does it not symbolize the three things "that abideth", according to Paul?
Faith—no greater faith could be imagined that a child's faith in its mother.
Hope—what mother does not place all human hope in her child?
And such faith and hope are divine.
And Love—think again of the Madonna picture! Beautifully is depicted there the love of each for the other.
And Love embraceth all.
truly 'tis "The Greatest of These."

If I Were Santa Claus

BY SOME CANADIAN NEWSPAPER MEN

The Editor of this paper solicited from a number of Canadian newspaper men the favor of a symposium on "What I would do if I were Santa Claus," and is indebted for the following:

THE IDEALIST—If I were Santa Claus, I would cause everyone to think for one hour, retrospectively, introspectively and prospectively; and to take up the battle of life with cheerful determination to emulate the highest ideal.

REMEMBER THE POOR—If I were Santa Claus, I wouldn't be such a mean old guy as to give the rich children most of the good things.

GIVE TRUTH—The truest Santa Claus would give man power to seek his truest happiness. He would not, like the rash Egyptian youth, tear the veil from the face of Truth, but would give man's inner eyes more desire to pierce that veil.

LOOKS BACK TO BOYHOOD—If I were Santa Claus, I'd—well, how do I know what I would do? But it seems to me that for one thing, I'd either take Anti-Fat or insist on chimneys being made larger. Yes, I'd do that; I wouldn't be a human soot broom. And then, I think I'd try to guard the secret of my life a little better. Now, speaking just as myself and not as Santa Claus at all, one of the most pleasant recollections of my childhood has been the thought of that roly-poly old fellow, busily engaged stuffing my stocking with goodies, and I tell you it wasn't an altogether pleasant awakening when I commenced to notice how my mother used to keep a certain bureau drawer locked the two weeks before Christmas. Now, "if I were Santa Claus," but what's the use? I'm not and never will be, so there you are. But, anyhow, "if I were Santa Claus——"

EXPAND MAN'S SOUL

Would give a larger light to man,
That he might rise to higher things,
Despite the prick of Fortune's stings,
And live as God has said he can.

Would give to man a wider love,
That he might feel his fellow's woe,
Expand his soul and strive to know
The wealth of Truth that lies above.

A DREAMER—I would first desire that belief in that good old deity, if I might so call him, should increase rather than diminish as at present it seems to be doing. I would have children believe in him more; I would have them dream more beautiful dreams about him; I would have the parents encourage the kiddies to dream more about him, so that in after years the memory of our frantic attempts to be good so that Santa Claus should not forget us, would be one of the strongest links binding us to the past. I would wish for nothing better than that all children would have the same happy days looking for old Kris Kringle and his merry crowd of fays. It binds us strangely to life, this wonderful belief in a whole-hearted saint, it is so strange in this work-a-day world.

MORE CHILDREN—I think, if I were Santa Claus, I should make a couple of trips Christmas Eve; I would substitute storks for the reindeer and visit some, and then I'd take out the reindeer and visit all. First, I guess I would have to inspire a lot of people with the truth that there is more to love and more love to be found in a kindergarten than in a kennel. Then I think I would proceed to bring the children everything that would make them happy, endeavoring at the same time to change things some, so that the first might be last and the last might be first.

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS—'Twas a chill, cold, bleak, raw November day. The wind screamed and shrieked and howled dismally as it ramped impetuously across the frozen hillsides and swept up the few stray, withered leaves. The leaden sky hung like a pall over the city. 'Twere indeed a day for dark deeds; but the arc lights on the corners were not lighted. There was no moon.

The long street was deserted except for a dark figure slinking among the shadows in the alley-ways. Suddenly the man's quick ear caught the sound of approaching feet and he stepped into the shadows of the doorway rendezvous. A moment more and the Two Editors stood face to face. For a moment neither spoke. Then

"I am here. Speak, what wouldst thou?"

"I have a question I would ask thee, O Pasha Mahomet Ah!"

"Thou hast mine ear."

"Then, what wouldst thou do if thou wert Santa Claus?"

The other started and a frown soiled his noble brow.

"I am not a family man, thou knowest," he said, coldly.

"Ay, 'tis so; but just supposin'."

"An' hast brought me all this way to ask me this?" cried the other in sudden anger. "Ye gods!"

"The matter is of great importance to the State. I would have thine answer."

The other took a sudden step forward and spoke in a hurried whisper. "Thou wouldst know what I would do were I Kris Kringle? Then harken ye. I would build a tremendous chopping machine and make mincemeat of all those folks who try to make children believe there is no Santa Claus."

Truths

'Tis not the gifts so much as 'tis the giving,
That makes for Christmas
mirth,
'Tis not the dying, rather 'tis the living
Which is the test of worth.

Not by the deed so much as by the doing
Doth God the judge decide.
Not in the wealth, but in the slow accruing,
Exists the keenest pride.

'Tis not the word itself, but how it's spoken,
That soothes or wounds the heart.
For censure still may seem but friendly token,
While praise may leave a smart.

Dora Lamb

—BY—

CY WARMAN.

IT WAS twenty years ago this Christmas. I was then confidential secretary to Colonel D. He was perhaps forty-five or fifty, cold and quiet, though always courteous and just. There was something about him I feared, pitied, dreaded, loved.

We had just left a small town in Ontario. It was storming and we were nearly an hour late. Everybody seemed a little put out. The Colonel himself was unusually anxious, as he wanted to hook our car onto the Imperial Limited at North Bay.

We were headed for Vancouver where the Colonel had a deal on that involved several millions. He always spoke to me of his business transactions, but of himself, his likes or dislikes, joys or sorrows, he never spoke, and you never knew.

We had left the Ontario town but half an hour when the brakeman passed through to hang out his tail-lights. As he went forward again he spoke to the porter, who immediately went out on the rear platform and returned in a moment with a peculiar looking parcel, which he handed to me.

"Where did you get it, George?" I asked.

"The brakeman just told me there was something out on the platform, so I brought it in."

At that moment the Colonel came out of his room. I handed him the parcel, and told him what I knew of it.

Plots, wrecks, holdups, dynamite and many other calamities ran through my mind. The Colonel, however, calmed me considerably by showing no signs of fear, or even interest. He took the parcel and deliberately untied the shoelace. As he slipped the string off we saw faint pencil marks, and in half print, half script, was the name, "Dora Lamb, Vancouver."

The Colonel hesitated now, though after a moment began to unwrap the parcel. I was waiting breathlessly when George, who was peeping over the Colonel's shoulder, exclaimed, "Name o' de good Lawd, Seh!" and the Colonel held up the funniest looking something in the shape of a doll, with a piece of foolscap folded many times and tied to its neck. In the same writing again was written the name, "Dora Lamb." A new, strange look came into the Colonel's face, that of mingled surprise, pleasure and interest.

"This must be a Christmas gift for you, George," he said. "Shall we open it?"

"I think you had better finish the job, Seh," said George.

The Colonel took the letter from the doll's neck, opened it and handed it to me, then turned and gazed out at the storm. I saw the letter was written by a little child, and as soon as I could wade through it, I began:

"Dear Dora. I am going to send you this doll for your Christmas. Its dress is made out of Mamma's old silk shawl. I have tried two times to put the doll on the train, but the men drive me from the cars, so I thought I would write this letter and pin it to the doll and try again, and if you ever did get the doll you would know that I sent it. I am so lonesome.—Edith."

I looked at the Colonel as I finished. He was still staring out of the window. George dropped his mouth together and slipped down the aisle towards the kitchen.

The Colonel turned when he was gone, took his handkerchief from his pocket, wiped two big tears from his eyes, and to my surprise made no effort to hide his feelings.

"I had not thought before, that little ores had heartaches, too," he said, reaching for the letter.

After dinner the Colonel instructed me to wire Dubbs, of the Pinkerton Detective Agency at Vancouver, to meet us Tuesday morning. I went out with the telegram, the Colonel went to his room, and I did not see him again until breakfast, as we were pulling into Winnipeg, two hours late.

Before the train had fairly stopped a man of unusual appearance opened the door of our car, looked about, caught sight of the Colonel, then walked straight to the table, shook hands with him and sat down.

"Your telegram," he said, "was repeated to me at Winnipeg. You will not be able to leave here until 6.02 to-morrow morning." With this he shot a quick glance at me, and the Colonel explained that I was his secretary and knew everything. This surprised me considerably. I could not see why he should need a detective for the Vancouver business.

We were now switched off on a side track and all was quiet. Mr. Dubbs squared around to the Colonel, run his fingers together, rested his hands on the table, smiled pleasantly, and said:

"Well, Colonel!"

"In a moment," said the Colonel, leaving the table and going to his room. I could scarcely believe my eyes when he returned with the doll and the letter. I was inclined to laugh, but recalled the little scene of the night before.

"I want," said he, handing the doll and the letter to Mr. Dubbs, "to find Dora Lamb and give her this doll and this letter."

Mr. Dubbs laughed as he looked the doll over. Then, noticing the Colonel's quiet face, he seemed puzzled.

"The letter will explain matters," said the Colonel.

Dubbs unfolded the foolscap, scanned it quickly, then read it to himself. I had thought that nothing short of a triple-murder or sacking a mail-train would rouse the feelings of a cold-blooded detective.

He folded the paper, sunk his head a notch, and said in a voice full of quavers and semi-quavers, "Poor little dear! poor little dear!"

"The brakeman discovered the parcel," said the Colonel, "just as we left Q— —. It must have been put on there. Ten minutes before we whistled for that station I was out on the platform sizing up the blizzard. There was nothing there then."

Dubbs opened the foolscap again and mumbled half aloud: "Edith Lamb, mother dead, sister Dora in Vancouver." Then, turning to the Colonel, told him he would be back at noon. In less than an hour, however, he returned and said that a man in their service at Q— — had known the family of Lambs well. From this man he learned that the mother had come from the East with a Methodist minister and his family, and from their home was married to Charles Lamb, the Express Agent at Q— —. There were two children, Edith, perhaps seven, and Dora, not more than four. The father got in with a bad lot, lost his position through gambling, and finally deserted his family. His wife, a refined little woman, had a private class for young children. At this she earned a comfortable living for herself and the children until she was taken sick. The minister and his family had gone East again, and there was no one to take the children when the mother died.

The operator's wife at Q— — took the elder girl until a home could be found for her. The little one was sent to Vancouver to Lamb's sister.

"I will wire the operator at Q— —," said Dubbs, "he may tell me something of Dora and the aunt. You do not leave till morning; by then we shall know all that is possible to find out at Q— —."

Dubbs returned about three o'clock, and told the Colonel that he had wired Dora's address to the Agency at Seattle.

The rest of our trip was uneventful. When we reached Vancouver we were met by a man very unlike Dubbs in appearance, though much like him in manner. He told the Colonel that Dubbs had wired him the particulars of the case, that he had gone to the address given, and was told that the woman had been gone a year. They knew nothing of the child, but at police headquarters he found that she had been sent to the "Children's Aid," pending an investigation.

Two hours later we were at the home. The child was there, the matron said, had been very ill, was better now, though still weak, and would not talk to them. The fear of strangers and the long journey had shocked her nervous system. She had been unconscious, and had called for Mamma and Edith.

"Tell the little girl," said the Colonel, "that Edith has sent her a doll by a gentleman who will take her home again, and ask her if she would like to go with him."

In a short time the matron came back, leading a little, pale-faced girl. Her beautiful curls were tangled and matted close to her shapely head. She stopped, and for an instant looked terror-stricken, but the Colonel's soothing voice called: "Dora! Dora, dear, come; Edith has sent you this doll."

The beautiful eyes were raised to his face; the body relaxed, the mouth closed slowly, and then the tears fell in torrents down her pale, thin cheeks. The Colonel lifted her gently in his arms, and soon the little one was fast asleep.

"If she is afraid of me when she wakens what shall I do?" asked the Colonel.

"She will not be afraid," said the matron. "The fear left when the tears came. She has not cried before. When you called her 'Dora,' she felt you were her friend. The tears were those of joy, not fear. 'Little ones,' she said, 'never count you their friend if you do not know their names.'"

A doctor was called. He said it would be quite safe to remove the child to the hotel. Rooms were secured and a nurse sent for. For two long hours the child slept and scarcely moved. The Colonel was anxious, but the doctor said: "Let her sleep. Sleep is all the medicine she needs. If she is not afraid of you when she wakens she will be well in two days."

When she began to rouse the doctor and I stepped into the next room. The Colonel called softly: "Dora! Dora! here is your doll that Edith sent. Bring it to me, nurse," and the nurse went to the bed with her arms apron filled with bright toys, which, she told Dora, they were going to take to Edith.

The doctor was right. She was well in two days—better in one, for the next day she sat up and played with her toys. She asked often for Edith, and the Colonel told her that when the train went back they would go too, and she was satisfied.

SANDERSON & CO.
367 GEORGE STREET

The full particulars were wired to Dubbs with instructions to make necessary arrangement for the adoption of the two children.

Dubbs answered: "Will meet you with Edith at Winnipeg."

The Colonel's business settled, he took charge of Dora while the nurse purchased toys and trimmings to decorate the car for the return trip. In one of the vacant sections we placed a Christmas tree which was artistically trimmed and well loaded with many of the beautiful things genius can devise for the pleasure of children. The porter hung curtains about the tree so that Dora might not see it until we should meet Edith, Christmas morning, at Winnipeg.

Now we began the long journey across the Sieras, across to Utah desert, the Rockies, and then empty or partially settled section called the "Great American Desert," now known as the Middle West.

The mountain over, the cheerful companionship, good food and the joyful anticipation of the coming meeting with her sister, all helped to heal the wounded little heart, and give the child a new and hopeful outlook upon the world.

She would sit for hours gazing at the everchanging panorama of nature unfolding before her as we climbed over the range, and then, when we were rolling across the level lands she would watch with the same unflagging interest the sagebrush wheel into place as we passed, and the twin ribbons of steel that were ever racing, racing day and night from under our car. It was all very interesting to her, and our car, common enough today, was something extravagant in the eyes of the child.

And when the Colonel had wearied of his work, his papers, and periodicals, he would sit by Dora, and they would watch in silence the ribbons racing out at the rear. Indeed it were difficult to say, watching them as I did, which showed the greater pleasure, the younger one or the elder child, for the Colonel was manifestly growing younger every day. He was rich—immensely rich for his day and generation—and I fancy he got more real pleasure out of that trip than the modern multi-millionaire would get out of a trip to Monte Carlo, to Cairo, or to Honkong.

Our last day was a great day, for the memory of her sister was still fresh in Dora's mind, and now, almost hourly, she asked how far is it to Winnipeg. In a little while she would put her thin hand on the Colonel's, and ask: "How far is it now to Winnipeg?"

At last, when weary of watching the rails racing out in the moonlight, she suffered the governess to tuck her in for the night. She was barely dressed the next morning when the train stopped and there upon the platform stood the faithful, efficient Dubbs, and by his side Edith.

Such a meeting those two sweet children! They wept and kissed, and kissed and wept.

After the train had started on the journey eastward, the porter drew the curtains back, and the Colonel told the children that Santa Claus had put the tree there for their Christmas. They were amazed. Such dazzling beauty their little eyes had never seen.

When the tree was "over," Edith whispered to Dora, and Dora went to the Colonel and told him that Santa Claus had forgotten him, and they were going to give him some of their presents.

"Santa Claus has not forgotten me, dear children," he said, taking one under each arm. "He has given me two little girls, and for many years I have not known such a happy Christmas."

Nothing can satisfy the human heart. Nothing can satisfy the heart of God; nothing can solve the problems of the ages; nothing can abolish corruption from politics; nothing can remove the restlessness of labor and capital; nothing can destroy the greed of wealth, the arrogance of power, nothing but love, nothing but sacrifice. There is no other way.

Jesus seldom laid much stress on the past or the future. Sometimes he spoke as from the future, and laid all stress upon the past, but by that past he meant the everlasting now, the eternal present, when all life's burdens must be carried and all God's work must be done. The past with its failures, and the future with its anxieties, are the burden of unpractical minds.

Friendship

THERE are few subjects that have been more written upon and less understood than that of friendship. To follow the dictates of some, this virtue, instead of being the assauger of pain, becomes the source of every inconvenience. Such speculatists, by expecting too much from friendship, dissolve the connection, and by drawing the bands too closely, at length break them. Almost all our romance and novel writers are of this kind; they persuade us to friendship, which we find it impossible to sustain to the last; so that this sweetener of life, under proper regulations, is, by their means, rendered inaccessible or uneasy. It is certain, the best method to cultivate this virtue is by letting it, in some measure, make itself; a similitude of minds of studies, and even sometime a diversity of pursuits, will produce all the pleasures that arise from it. The current of tenderness widens as it proceeds, and two men imperceptibly find their hearts filled with good nature for each other, when they were at first only in pursuit of mirth or relaxation.

Friendship is like a debt of honor; the moment it is talked of, it loses its real name, and assumes the more ungrateful form of obligation. From hence we find that those who regularly undertake to cultivate friendship, find ingratitude generally repays their endeavors. That circle of beings, which dependence gathers round us, is almost ever unfriendly; they secretly wish the terms of their connections more nearly equal; and, where they even have the most virtue, are prepared to reserve all their affections for their patron only in the hour of his decline. Increasing the obligations which are laid upon such minds, only increases their burden; they feel themselves unable to repay the immensity of their debt, and their bankrupt hearts are taught a latent resentment at the hand that is stretched out with offers of service and relief.

Plautinus was a man who thought that every good was to be brought from riches; and, as he was possessed of great wealth, and had a mind naturally formed for virtue, he resolved to gather a circle of the best men round him. Among the number of his dependents was Musidorus, with a mind just as fond of virtue, yet not less proud than his patron. His circumstances, however, were such as forced him to stoop to the good offices of his superior, and he saw himself daily among a number of others loaded with benefits and protestations of friendship. These, in the usual course of the world, he thought it prudent to accept; but, while he gave his esteem, be a centurion under the famous John, who headed a particular part of the Jewish malcontents.

From this moment, their former love was converted into the most inveterate enmity. They attached themselves to opposite factions, and sought each other's lives in the conflict of adverse party. In this manner they continued for more than two years, vowing mutual revenge, and animated with an unconquerable spirit of aversion. At length, however, that party of the Jews, to which the mean soldier belonged, joining with the Romans, it became victorious, and drove John with all his adherents into the temple. History has given us more than one picture of the dreadful conflagration of that superb edifice. The Roman soldiers were gathered around it; the whole temple was in flames; and thousands were seen amidst them within its sacred circuit. It was in this situation of things, that the now successful soldier saw his former friend, upon the battlements of the highest tower, looking around with horror, and just ready to be consumed with flames. All his former tenderness now returned; he saw the man of his bosom just going to perish; and unable to withstand the impulse, he ran, spreading his arms, and cried out to his friend to leap down from the top, and find safety with him. The centurion from above heard and obeyed; and, casting himself from the top of the tower into his fellow-soldier's arms, both fell a sacrifice on the spot; one being crushed to death by the weight of his companion, and the other dashed to pieces by the greatness of his fall.

"I looked, and behold, a door was opened in heaven." A door—swinging back on musical hinges before the discouraged wanderers of earth, inviting them to hospitalities glimpsed beyond, inconceivable to the heart of man. A door? Those are not unfolding portals, they are outspread arms, and above them is the glory of a Face, and from within there floats the tenderness of a Voice:—"I am the Door!" It is He, the Lord of Life Himself; and we, who were so weary of our vain efforts to conquer evil, the pettiness and unlovingness of our natures, are uplifted, upborne to His heart, and its mighty throbbings become the inspiration our own. He does for us what we could not do for ourselves, and we are saved. Henceforth, there is no life for us but His. "I have set before thee an open door, and no man can shut it." To every soul of man this message comes, and the soul that turns at the call of the angel who brings it, will bear witness that the message is true. Only we ourselves can shut ourselves out of heaven. The door of a Heart, as human in its sympathy as it is divine in its love and power, stands always open and waiting with welcome for the repentant child, who would fain return to his Father's house. "By Me if any man enter in, he shall be saved, and shall go in and out and find pasture." Lucy Larcom.

There is no caste in the Kingdom of Heaven.

We must free the truth or the truth will not free us.

If the world could forget Jesus, it would not; if it would forget him, it could not.

Are the pure in heart happy because Jesus said so? No, but because they are pure in heart.

There is nothing sacred but those things into which we carry the Spirit of Love and reverence and moral beauty.

We are too ready to think that to do right is better than to try to do right, that success is better than character as shown in faithful effort.

Thus Jesus demonstrated the fact that mere diplomacy and strategy always fail, that nothing ever wins in this life or in any other, but direct, honest, pure and true living, and this always wins and never fails.

Had not each Hebrew mother and, especially had not Mary, greatly desired to give birth to the Messiah, a fact which should give every modern parent food for thought.

Lech's Furs

THIS firm, the oldest established in the City, has been noted, far and near during 45 years for reliability. This is one of the principal essentials to depend on when purchasing furs, as there are very few other lines in business where it requires more caution in guarding against deception.

This season this firm is carrying the largest and most attractive display of fine furs, since they have been in the fur trade. These goods are the production of their own manufacture, as their work rooms are busy through the whole year. Every customer can depend on LECH'S guarantee and be certain of getting the very best value for furs bought.

Every line is represented from the cheaper to the most costly furs. These include such furs as Alaska Seal, Mink, Hudson Bay Sable, Ermine, Chinchilla, Gray Squirrel, Gray and Blue Lynx, Stone Marten, Alaska Sable, White and Black Fox, Persian Lamb, Thibet, Otter and Beaver.

A glance at our show windows and an inspection of our immense stock, will certainly convince Intending purchasers where to buy.

If in Doubt, Give FURS

Nothing is so suitable for Xmas presents as furs, as they are attractive, useful and durable.

Such things as live, and feel, and move,
The animals we call;
And some are very large indeed,
And some are very small.

Each one enjoys its happiness,
As instinct urges on;
And some delight in flocks to crowd,
And some to be alone.

We each of these should kindly treat,
For all the good it gives;
A feeling heart would never hurt
The meanest thing that lives.

If truly we loved God, our love
Would surely thus be shown,
That we should be most kind to them
Because they are His own.

The Preservation of the Wild

"When I think of my beloved,
Darling, when I'm thinking of you,
O, my sweetheart, my Algonquin!"

THE Redman had poetry in his soul, and Longfellow was the best interpreter of the Children of the Forest. Algonquin Park is to be preserved in its primitive wildness for the sake of tradition, as a place of recreation; a little theatre of nature where the city-bred children of the Paleface tribes may romp and wander at will by the little lakes and along the singing streams.

By the recent shifting of railway interests, Algonquin Park falls into the zone of the Grand Trunk System, who make a specialty of showing their goods.

When the charms of Algonquin are made known, as they will be shortly, it is apt to rival Muskoka as a summer resort. It is only a few hours from Ottawa, a half day's journey from Detroit, Buffalo, Toronto and Montreal, and only a short day's travel from Boston, New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburg and Chicago. Here is a bit of native forest at the very door of millions of sweltering humanity, with the smell of the wild and the songs of birds, mingled with the low sweet singing of running streams.

Now that the States are settled, the rapid development of the Dominion shall soon wipe out the wilderness, and save for these Government preserved "Silent Places," there will be no wild.

Therefore, every lover of Nature will be glad to know that, while peopling the West, the Federal Government is not forgetting to save to posterity, here and there, picturesque patches of the forest primeval.

All the wild things are suffered to dwell in peace here in these glorious Algonquin grounds. The beaver have become so numerous that they are beginning to build without the Park limits.

So numerous have they become that the Provincial Government is seriously considering a plan for allowing them to be taken, saving for the Government, of course, a substantial "Skin Tax." The revenue thus derived would help to pay the expense of policing the Park, and at the same time keep the beaver family from monopolizing all the streams. There is no race suicide among the beavers.

The fish multiply rapidly, too, but the enthusiastic Nimrod, with the aid of the transient Tourist, may be relied upon to take care of the surplus. There is just enough work in connection with Algonquin fishing to make it interesting not the leg-trying toil incident to the whipping of a swift, boulder-strewn stream in the mountains.

A friend of the writer's, whose business takes him to the Algonquin County often, had a boy and, being an only child, he was naturally something of a mother's boy. When he was twelve, big and strong for his years, his father consented to let the boy go with him and the photographer into the forest. When they reached Algonquin Park, the boy shook out his tackle and cast his flies. Instantly the rod began to bob, the boy's eyes began to widen, his mouth opened, and he let out a yell of joy that would do credit to one of the hereditary Lords of the North.

"Haul him in," shouted the boy's father, and the boy began to bend his rod. The two men watched until convinced that the fish was too much for the little man, then they helped him to make the landing.

Now, all fishermen are liars, so I shall not put down what my friend and the photographer said, but the boy says when they got that catch ashore, there was a good fat fish on each and every fly on the line.

No matter how long he may live, I presume that boy will never know another day like that. For hours together he would strike and "string," and when worn out with the fishing and the fun of it all he would loll back in his bark canoe and fall asleep until a big fish on one of his flies would wake him.

It is nearly a year now, since the boy's big day, but he has not yet exhausted the story of these happy hours in "Happy Land," which, by his measurement, is Algonquin Park.

One incident of this memorable trip, however, the boy judiciously forgets, but to me it is the best part of the story.

They were many days in the Park and its environments, my friend, the photographer and the little boy, and, as happens often in all good countries, save Arizona and one or two other places not noted as summer resorts, it rained one day. That day the sun went down without saying "good-night" to the forest folk the leaves were weeping and the grass was wet. After supper they all turned in beneath their portable tent, while the raindrops drummed drowsily on the canvas roof. Presently my friend heard a low sniffle, and cocked one ear, for he had heard of timber wolves and fat, lazy bete black bear robbing camps. By and by he heard another sniffle, that was not unlike the noise a puppy makes from a basket, on his first night from home.

"What's the matter, boy want to go home?"

"N-o," the boy answered, heroically, "but ah—I was—just thinking how nice it would be if mother was was here."

The man said nothing, and by and by, with a long, quivering sigh, the boy turned over and fell asleep, dividing his dreams, doubtless, between his mother and the fish.

I may be wrong, but I believe a day like that is worth a year in college to a kid.

And there are lots of such days left, for you and yours, for me and mine; and there is the Park, and the fish are there. And there are still the singing birds and the running streams, the wild rose, the river and the sweet cool rain to remind us of home.

There is no golfing nor wheeling no automobiling in Algonquin, but there are hundreds of miles of stream-linked lakes that wander through a veritable wilderness where health and happiness roost low, and in reach of the rich and the poor alike. There are no fashionable hotels, no pink teas, nor Germans, except a few German farmers, whose hospitable homes are good to see when you are hungry and tired after a day in the tangled wild.

There are no fashionable churches, but God's cathedral—the forest—is always open; there are sermons in the stones along the rills and you have all the singing birds and babbling brooks for a choir.

In fact, there are many, many things in the city that are not here, to escape which you take to the woods.

There are baby-deer basking in the morning sun and playing together in the twilight, red deer feeding on the lily ponds, and great moose moving majestically in the deep forest.

There are singing waterfalls and short rapids by thousands, and game fish leaping over the drop, headed up stream.

And all this vast empire of the virgin wilderness, called "Lakeland," holding hundreds of rivers and thousands of lakes — nearly two million acres in all is open to everybody.

The wilderness is nature's cure-all. It makes you forget the things you should not remember and remember the things you ought not forget. It will clear your mind of cobwebs, harden your muscles and soften your heart.

It is well that this wilderness is to be kept wild, for Nature is the only teacher that teaches naturalness.

THE WAY

The way to reach Algonquin Park, and the only way, is to find the Grand Trunk Railway—any part of the system—and it will carry you away to the wilderness.

From the south, it is via Buffalo or Niagara Falls, or Detroit. In the west, from Chicago and points in the Western States, passengers are carried over the main line of this great system by way of Port Huron and Toronto, passing through some of the principal cities of the United States and the western part of Ontario.

From Buffalo, trains are run solid over the Lehigh Valley and Grand Trunk, via Toronto, crossing the Grand Trunk's single-arch, double-track steel bridge over Niagara River, and thence to Scotia Junction, where connection is made with trains on the Ottawa Division of the Grand Trunk for Algonquin Park.

Passengers from eastern points, such as Quebec, Portland and intermediate stations, proceed via main line, Grand Trunk Railway System, through Montreal and Ottawa, and those from Boston and all the New England points by Boston and Maine, Central Vermont and other connecting lines through Montreal and Ottawa, and thence to Algonquin Park by the Ottawa Division, Grand Trunk Railway System.

Tourists from the Maritime Provinces reach the Grand Trunk by the Intercolonial Railway, via Montreal, and proceed over the Ottawa Division as above described.

Every evening a through sleeper leaves the Grand Central Station, New York, for Ottawa, where connection is made with the Ottawa line, which takes the traveller to the heart of the wilderness, and only one night out of the American Metropolis.

BAGGAGE

For the sportsmen and campers, singly or in parties, hunting or fishing expeditions, two hundred (200) pounds of baggage will be checked free of charge on each full ticket, and one hundred (100) pounds on each half ticket, provided it consists of wearing apparel, sportsmen's and camper's outfits, such as tents, small bundles of bedding, folding cots, camp chairs, camp utensils and provision in small quantities.

CUSTOMS

Persons visiting Canada for a limited time for pleasure may bring with them such guns, fishing tackle, tents, camp equipment, cooking utensils, kodaks, bicycles, etc., as they may require for their own use, upon reporting same to the customs officer at port of entry, depositing with him a sum of money equal to the duty, subject to a refund of this amount if the articles are exported within six months, or they may be forwarded in bond to any point in Canada where a customs officer is stationed, where the same regulations as the above must be complied with.

Reliable guides can be secured at Algonquin Park. Their charges are $2.50 per day, which includes canoe. Two guides and one canoe, $3.50 per day. Guides provide their own tents and blankets. All guides employed in the Park must be approved by the superintendent, and secure license at a cost of $1.00 each.

THE MUSKOKA COUNTY

Few summer resorts in America have grown in favor more rapidly than has the Muskoka County. The "Royal Muskoka" Hotel is a modern summer hotel, now four years old, and contains all the attributes found in a first-class resort. It has accommodations for three hundred guests, and offers suites of rooms with bath, hot and cold water in every room, and is lighted by electricity. Situated 1,000 feet above the level of the sea, in the midst of a romantic and primeval world, its attractions for those desiring a place removed from the hustle and bustle of city life are many, and a place where rest and recreation is found for those weary of the toil of a busy life. It is the largest, best equipped, and most comfortable summer hotel in Canada, with all the conveniences of an up-to-date city hotel, with a cuisine of the highest order of excellence, thoroughly equipped boat livery, including rowboats, canoes, sailboats, and gasoline launches. The beautiful situation of the "Royal Muskoka," its spacious and graceful proportions, all tend to inspire anticipations of the pleasantest sort, as its picturesque red towers, gleaming through the varied green of the trees, first meet the eye of the visitor to the Highlands of Ontario.

The walks in and about the grounds of the "Royal Muskoka" are many and charming, and lead to most exquisite spots in the fragrant woods of pine and balsam. The grounds cover an area of one hundred and thirty acres. The formation is rocky and there is no low land. Perfect immunity from hay fever is assured. The lover of solitude has no difficulty in finding cosy nooks in which to dream away the time or read in quiet.

The table service in the dining room is the best obtainable, and the tables are appointed with exquisitely dainty silver and damask. The room is of generous proportions, with timbered roof and walls, and exquisite views from windows that entirely encircle it. The whole machinery of the salle a manger is well oiled with the oil of excellent and vigilant management, and this of itself is making the "Royal Muskoka" a popular summer home.

The bedrooms are all outside rooms, looking out upon forest, lake, or island scenery. Dark polished floors and pretty rugs with comfortable and appropriate furniture. The sweet smell of the pine and the soothing murmur of the trees lull one to dream land at night, and charming views greet the eye on rising in the morning. Dressing rooms and bath rooms with luxurious porcelain baths attached and with all conveniences of the private home.

Five little pigeons perched on the barn roof,
Watching the corn in the hen yard below;
Close around the white cat is hiding,
Hoping to catch them if down they should go.

All of a sudden I open my window,
With a whiz and a burr the pigeons are gone.
Pussy darts off round the house in a twinkling,
And the little white chickens eat up all the corn!

—Eugene Field.

Christmas, it is said, was first celebrated in the year 98, but it was forty years later ere it was adopted as a Christian festival.

Barren is the Christmas which contains no thoughts of Christ.

The soul that does not get out of self on Christmas Day is indeed a prisoner.

Look for joy. Do not look for joy in your environment. Do not look without, but look within. Look for your joy not in the future, but in the present. Seek your joy in what you give, not in what you get.—Evan Roberts.

"Our Lady of Christmas"

BUT NOW is the expected evening. After the short December day, too long, nevertheless, for our impatience, the shades of night have fallen, the stars begin to shine. In the room, growing darker and darker, the children gather. Father holds me on his knees. I can still feel his chin lightly touch my head, caressing me while it pricks just a little. And our questions: Why isn't mother in the room? Is she making a call on our elderly neighbor, as happened last year at this time? Will she miss the dear Christmas Lady again? It would be a pity.

Suddenly a bell sounds in the corridor and seems to draw near. The door is mysteriously opened. Veiled and silent, the celestial visitor enters, bearing, as a torch, the dear little tree.

Each one of us says his prayer. Oh, those little prayers, so short and simple! I am beginning to say them again. If I live to grow old, I shall end by not saying any others. The dear Lady listened to them. Then she spoke, her voice sweet with the echoes of another world.

And as mysteriously as she had come the white figure withdrew, leaving in our souls, for weeks, a trail of light.

Later, on a similar day, when I had grown tall and become an eager observer of all things, I stared at our Lady through her veil. She had lost a tooth — in just the same place as mother. That was a revelation to me. Mother's absence at each visit of the gracious Lady was a further proof. Without disturbing the faith of the little ones, my views were settled from that day: Our Lady of Christmas was mother.

The years have passed. Almost all the guests of those distant Christmases have entered the eternal mansions. Following my beloved ones, my thoughts, when the trees of to-day are lighted, fly to the absent, in the land of consoling mystery. I feel their souls surrounding our souls. And, as in the happy years of childhood, heaven and earth seem to me to draw close together and to mingle. Slowly in the heart of the mature man a harmony has been brought about between the simple faith of the little tots — always to be reverenced, for it represents so much of truth — and the fact established by the sharp-sighted lad. Our Lady of Christmas: I still believe. It is true. It happened. The red gloves of evening are indeed a reflection of her labor of love. They are thinking of us above. Beyond the reach of our eyes an invisible graciousness watches and prepares wherewith to rejoice our hearts. The child's eyes saw right. They penetrate further than the telescopes which claim to have discovered nothing in the nature. What sweeter proof of what is taking place above, what better interpretation of his qualities has our Father in Heaven sent us than our mothers? It is true, therefore, that "Our Lady of Christmas is mother," sister of the angels, beloved messenger of the good God.

I have been told that the sounding-line has never been able to measure the depth of certain lakes. Perhaps because the line was not long enough. But, truly, there is one abyss whose depth no sounding-line can measure. This abyss is the heart of a mother, and it is full of love.

Oh, how I wish that all the children might have happy Christmas days, and that in this world, as cold and cheerless as some December evenings, those we call the "grown-ups" might find a nook — light, warm, radiating love and hope — hidden down in their child-soul! — Charles Wagner, author of "The Simple Life."

Wee Babies

Babies short and babies tall,
Babies big and babies small,
Blue-eyed babies, babies fair,
Brown-eyed babies with lots of hair,
Babies so tiny they can't sit up,
Babies that drink from a silver cup,
Babies that coo and babies that creep,
Babies that only can eat and sleep,
Babies that laugh and babies that talk,
Babies quite big enough to walk,
Dimpled fingers and dimpled feet,
What in the world is half so sweet
As babies that jump, laugh, cry and crawl,
Eat, sleep, talk, walk, creep, coo and all
Wee Babies?

Eugene Field.

The Day's Work

Each morning is a fresh beginning. We are, as it were, just beginning life. We have it entirely in our own hands. And when the morning with its fresh beginning comes, all yesterdays should be yesterdays, with which we have nothing to do. Sufficient is it to know that the way we lived our yesterday has determined for us our to-day. And again, when the morning, with its fresh beginning comes, all to-morrows should be to-morrows, with which we have nothing to do. Sufficient is it to know that the way we live our to-day determines for us our to-morrow. Simply the first hour of this new day, with all its richness and glory, with all its sublime and eternity-determining possibilities, and each succeeding hour as it comes, but not before it comes. This is the secret of character-building. This simple method will bring anyone to the realization of the highest life that can be even conceived of.

This brings such a life within the possibilities of all, for there is no one, if really in earnest and if he really desires it, who cannot live to his highest for a single hour. But even though there should be, if he is only earnest in his endeavor then through the law that like builds like he will be able to come a little nearer, to it the next hour, and still nearer the next, and the next, until sooner or later comes the time when it becomes the natural, and any other would require the effort. In this way one becomes in love and in league with the universe, become in love and in league with him. They aid him at every turn, they seem literally to move all things his way, because, forsooth, he has moved their way. — "In Tune with the Infinite" by Ralph Waldo Trine.

Life, character, is the greatest power in the world, and character it is that gives the power, for in all true power, along whatever line it may be, it is after all living the life that tells.

Winter

SLOWLY, thickly, fastly, fall the snow flakes—like the seasons upon the life of man. At the first, they lose themselves in the brown mat of herbage, or gently melt, as they fall upon the broad stepping stone at the door. But as hour after hour passes, the feathery flakes stretch their white cloak plainly on the meadow, and chilling the doorstep with their multitude, cover it with a mat of pearl. The dried grass tips pierce the mantle of white, like so many serried spears; but as the storm goes softly on, they sink one by one to their snowy tomb; and presently show nothing of all their army, save one or two straggling banners of blackened and shrunken daisies.

Across the wide meadow that stretches from my window, I can see nothing of those hills which were so green in summer; between me and them, lie only the soft, slow-moving masses, filling the air with whiteness. I catch only a glimpse of one gaunt, and bare-armed oak, looming through the feathery multitude, like a tall ship's spars breaking through fog.

The roof of the barn is covered; and the leaking eaves show dark stains of water, that trickle down the weather-beaten boards. The pear-trees that wore such weight of greenness in the leafy June, now stretch their bare arms to the snowy blast, and carry upon each tiny bough, a narrow burden of winter.

The old house dog marcles statedly through the strange covering of earth, and seems to ponder on the welcome he will show—and shakes the flakes from his long ears, and with a vain snap at a floating feather, he stalks again to his dry covert in the shed. The lambs that belonged to the meadow flock, with their feeding ground all covered, seem to wonder at their losses; but take courage from the quiet air of the veteran sheep, and gambol after them, as they move sedately toward the shelter of the barn.

The cat, driven from the kitchen door, beats a coy retreat, with long reaches of her foot, upon the yielding surface. The matronly hens saunter out, at a little lifting of the storm; and eye curiously, with heads half turned their sinking steps; and then fall back with a quiet cluck of satisfaction to the wholesome gravel by the stable door.

By and by, the snow flakes pile more leisurely; they grow large and scattered, and come more slowly than before. The hills that were brown, heave into sight—great, rounded billows of white. The gray woods look shrunken to half their height, and stand wading in the storm. The wind freshens, and scatters the light flakes that crown the burden of the snow; and as the day droops, a clear, bright sky of steel color, cleaves the land, and clouds, and sends down a chilling wind to bank the walls, and to freeze the storm. The moon rises full and round, and plays with a joyous chill, over the glistening raiment of the land.

I pile my fire with the clean cleft hickory; and musing over some sweet story of the olden time, I wander into a rich realm of thought, until my eyes grow dim, and dreaming of battle and of prince, I fall to sleep in my old farm chamber. At morning, I find my dreams all written on the window, in crystals of fairy shape. The cattle, one by one, with ears frost tipped, and with frosted noses, wend their way to the watering-place in the meadow. One by one they drink, and crop at the stunted herbage, which the warm spring keeps green and bare.

A hound bays in the distance; the smoke of cottages rises straight toward Heaven; a lazy jingle of sleigh-bells wakens the quiet of the high road; and upon the hills, the leafless woods stand low, like crouching armies, with guns and spears in rest; and among them, the scattered spiral pines rise like banner-men, uttering with their thousand tongues of green, the proud war-cry—"God is with us!"

But, the sky of winter is as capricious as the sky of spring—even as the old wander in thought, like the vagaries of a boy.

Before noon, the heavens are mantled with a leaden gray; the eaves that leaked in the glow of the sun, now tell their tale of morning's warmth in crystal ranks of icicles. The cattle seek their shelter; the few, lingering leaves of the white oaks rustle dismally; the pines breathe sighs of mourning. As the night darkens, and deepens the storm, the house dog bays; the children crouch in the wide chimney corners, the sleety rain comes in sharp gusts. And, as I sit by the light leaping blaze in my chamber, the scattered haildrops beat upon my window, like the tappings of an OLD MAN'S cane.—Ik. Marvel.

"You never can tell what your thoughts will do
In bringing you hate or love;
For thoughts are things, and their airy wings
Are swifter than carrier doves.
They follow the law of the universe—
Each thing must create its kind,
And they speed o'er the track to bring you back
Whatever went out from your mind."

He did not set Himself above men and look down upon them. He rather stood among them, asking them all to look up. He never abased man; He exalted him. He is forever one of ourselves, yet He is the life and light of men.

"Send out your earnest desires for whatsoever you will, and whatsoever you will, if continually watered by expectation, will sooner or later come to you.

Mankind cares nothing for you until you have shown that you care for mankind.

From "On Being in Love"

JEROME K. JEROME

YOU'VE been in love, of course! If not, you've got it to come. Love is like the measles; we all have to go through it. Also like the measles, we take it only once. One need never be afraid of catching it a second time. The man who has had it can go into the most dangerous places, and play the most fool-hardy tricks with perfect safety. He can picnic in shady woods, ramble through leafy aisles, and linger on mossy seats to watch the sunset. He fears a quiet country house no more than he would his own club. He can join a family party to go down the Rhine. He can, to see the last of a friend, venture into the very jaws of the marriage ceremony itself. He can keep his head through the whirl of the ravishing waltz, and rest afterwards in a dark conservatory, catching nothing more lasting than a cold. He can brave a moonlight walk adown sweet-scented lanes, or a twilight pull among the sombre rushes. He can get over a stile without danger, scramble through a tangled hedge without being caught, come down a slippery path without falling. He can look into sunny eyes, and not be dazzled. He listens to the siren voices, yet sails on with unveered helm. He clasps white hands in his, but no electric "Lulu" like force holds him bound in their dainty pressure.

No, we never sicken with love twice. Cupid spends no second arrow on the same heart. Love's handmaids are our life-long friends. Respect, and Admiration, and Affection, our doors may always be left open for, but their great celestial master, in his royal progress, pays but one visit, and departs. We like, we cherish, we are very, very fond of—but we never love again. A man's heart is a firework that once in its time flashes heavenward. Meteor-like, it blazes for a moment, and lights with its glory the whole world beneath. Then the night of our sordid commonplace life closes in around it, and the burnt-out case, falling back to earth, lies useless and uncared for, slowly smouldering into ashes. Once, breaking loose from our prison bonds, we dare, as mighty old Prometheus dared, to scale the Olympian mount, and snatch from Phœbus' chario: the fire of the gods. Happy those who, hastening down again e'er it dies out, can kindle their earthly altars at its flame. Love is too pure a light to burn long among the noisome gases that we breathe, but before it is choked out we may use it as a torch to ignite the cozy fire of affection. And, after all, the warming glow is more suited to our cold little back parlor of a world than is the burning spirit, love. Love should be the vestal fire of some mighty temple some vast dim fane whose organ music is the rolling of the spheres. Affection will burn cheerily when the white flames of love is flickered out. Affection is a fire that can be fed from day to day, and be piled up even higher as the winter years draw nigh. Old men and women can sit by it with their thin hands clasped, the little children can nestle down in front, the friend and neighbor has his welcome corner by its side, and even shaggy Fido and sleek Titty can toast their noses at the bars. Let us heap the coals of kindness upon that fire. Throw on your pleasant words, your gentle pressures of the hand, your thoughtful and unselfish deeds. Fan it with good humor, patience, and forbearance. You can let the wind blow and the rain fall unheeded then, for your hearth will be warm and bright, and the faces around it will make sunshine in spite of the clouds without. Ah, those foolish days, those foolish days, when we were unselfish, and pure-minded; those foolish days, when our simple hearts were full of truth, and faith, and reverence! Ah, those foolish days of noble longings and of noble strivings! And, oh, those wise clever days, when we know that money is the only prize worth striving for, when we believe in nothing else but meanness and lies, when we care for no living creature but ourselves!

ARTIST WHO WORKS IN BLEAK NORTH

Miss Anna Boberg is Engaged in Painting Wintry Snows on Rock in the Artic Ocean Regions

Examiner Special.

Stockholm, Sweden, Dec. 14.—On the lonely Isle of Furoen, in the Arctic Ocean, perched on a giant rock, stands Mrs. Anna Boberg's studio, the winter headquarters for this painter of northern snows. There she has no companion except the island lighthouse keeper, no means of escape except her tiny sailboat anchored at the rock's base.

But all of her time is not spent in this ocean-bound home. She makes many excursions further into the polar regions. Clad in thick reindeer skin, paintbox strapped to back, Sweden's greatest artist climbs the slippery heights to gain some treacherous hitecapped peak. In that sublime setting of Arctic splendors her skillful touch catches the opalescent effects of the long sun rays glinting across the glacial expanses. Sometimes the cold is so great she is compelled to bind her brushes to her benumbed hands. Then, when some glorious landscape tempts her to brave the stinging winds and ascend to some dangerous summit, she has been known to remove her shoes and stockings and go barefooted on the hard crust of the snow in order to retain a footing, the warmth of her feet melting the snow crust enough to give her a firm position.

A NEW BOOK HITS THE KAISER HARD

A Pessimist Writing Says his Temperment Causes Graft at Court—He is Enstranged From his People

Examiner Special.

Berlin, Dec. 14.—"Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." This is indeed what the German Kaiser can say at the present time, for he is savagely attacked from all sides. After the severe criticisms heaped upon him by the leading newspapers, and by prominent members of the Reichstag, comes a highly sensational book just out, entitled "Our Kaiser and His People; German Cares by a Pessimist."

The author declares that the person who stands for the first time before the Kaiser cannot but help to get a strong impression of his personality. His open, natural manners attract everyone. The Kaiser to-day has gray hair, but his eyes, wonderfully gray eyes, look into the world with youthful fire. And hardly a person who has seen the Kaiser but, does not praise his intelligence and general versatility, earnestness of intentions and strength of will. At the same time the writer is compelled to add that although the Kaiser's ability and personal magnetism is generally admitted, the estrangement between the monarch and his people increases daily, because the Kaiser is misinformed as regards public sentiment by his surroundings and advisers.

PREACHER, DRUNK SHOT BY DAUGHTER

She Caught Him Choking His Wife and Attempting to Throw Her Down the Cellar—He May Die as Result

Special to The Examiner

Philadelphia, Dec. 14.—Miss Mary McAntee to-day shot and probably fatally wounded her father, the Rev. John Quincy McAntee, at their home here. The shooting, according to police officials followed a quarrel between Rev. McAntee and his wife, in which the minister, it is asserted, was trying to throw Mrs. McAntee down the cellar stairs.

The daughter, who was in the upper portion of the house, rushed downstairs with a small revolver in her hand and fired three shots at her father, two of which took effect in the head. One of the bullets penetrated the brain. Mrs. McAntee and the daughter told the police that the husband and father had been drinking lately and had been quarrelsome and caused them much trouble.

A short time ago, the daughter said, he had choked her and tried to throw her over a stair rail while in one of his quarrelsome moods. Mother, daughter and a coloured servant who was in the house, were arrested.

LONDON'S WINTER COMES VERY SLOWLY

The Mildness of the Season So Far Gives No Hint of the Warmness of the Christmas Time

Examiner Special.

London, Dec. 14.—Were it not for window dressing in the shops and long strings of hawkers of penny novelties, who line the gutters all the way up Ludgate Hill from Fleet street to St. Paul's, there is not much sign in London that Christmas is so near.

The weather certainly does not suggest that Christmas is coming, though the temperature has fallen to a certain extent during the last couple of days. Covent Garden still presents evidences of the marvellous gentleness with which winter has made its advent. Flowers are still plentiful and wonderfully cheap, and one reads in the south country papers how, in Sussex, roses, chrysanthemums, pansies, mignonette, jasmine, dahlias, marguerites, violets, primroses and other flowers are still in beautiful bloom.

At Battle, on the south coast, apple and pear trees are in blossom, while in the Isle of Wight butterflies may be seen on the wing.

THE TUCK CHRISTMAS PRODUCTIONS

Cards and Art Novelties for this Season from Raphael Tuck and Sons' Company's Studio, Best on Market

Those who are looking for fine Christmas cards, which are the very best, both in quality and in finish, and who are posted on cards and their makes, invariably look for those manufactured by Raphael Tuck & Sons. These cards are recognized over the British Empire as embodying the very best that is possible of achievement in Christmas and holiday cards. Those who have been looking over the stocks of cards in the local art stores this season, have been impressed with the superiority of the Tuck cards over those of other makes. In the old country and in Canada the product of this established firm of publishers, is recognized as establishing the very highest grade of art publications, and their goods are looked for by discriminating buyers. The cards and art calendars from this house for this season represent the highest degree of excellence.

YOUNG MEN'S CLUB ROOMS WERE OPENED LAST NIGHT

George Street Organization Held a Business Meeting

The George street Methodist Young Men's Club Rooms, were opened last night, when the members gathered there to hold a business meeting. The club has secured a commodious room over Coleman Bros. store, which has been neatly furnished and which contains the leading magazines and periodicals.

At last night's meeting the constitution of the club was drawn up and adopted. There was a large attendance of the members, and deep interest was manifested in the affairs of the club.

It was decided to keep the rooms open every week day between 4 and 11 o'clock, and no doubt they will be a popular resort with the members.

The first literary meeting of the club will be held on Friday night next, and a good programme is being arranged.

MISSIONARY DAY AT GEORGE STREET CHURCH

Rev. Dr. Bishop, of Lindsay, will Preach Special Sermons in That Church To-morrow

Missionary services will be held tomorrow at the George street Methodist church, when sermons appropriate to the occasion will be preached by Rev. Dr. Bishop, pastor of the Cambridge street Methodist church, Lindsay. This will be the first occasion on which Dr. Bishop has been heard in this city, and no doubt many will want to hear him. The missionary enterprises of the church are becoming increasingly important and the membership is more deeply interested in this branch of the church than ever before. Rev. Dr. Bishop will, no doubt, be able to give his hearers some valuable information in reference to this department of church work.

WESTERN CANADA THE ATTRACTION FOR FARMERS

Mr. Wm. J. Connor, After Ten Years' Absence Returns to Peterborough and Tells of Conditions in the West

LAST SEASON FAILURE FOR FARMERS

"That's the country of the future" remarked Mr. Wm. J. Connor, of Hunter, North Dakota, who is in the city on an extended visit with friends here and in Lindsay, to the Examiner to-day, in an interview in which he gave some decidedly interesting facts concerning the west, both in Canada and in the United States, in which country Mr. Connor has lived for the last ten years. He is manager of a farm of 1,280 acres near Hunter, N.D., and is an authority on farming questions. He is therefore in a position to speak intelligently upon agricultural questions as they relate to the west.

A Disastrous Season

In view of this fact his statement concerning the future of the Canadian West should have some weight. Last season was a very disastrous one for the farmers of eastern Dakota, a strip of country, about fifteen miles wide running the whole depth of the state, was practically ruined by the wet weather. Mr. Connor stated that in 1905 there were fully 500,000 acres of grain which averaged 25 bushels to the acre, cut, the result of an exceedingly wet fall. As a consequence the land was so wet last spring that in the majority of cases it was impossible to sow the grain, and on the whole 1,280 acres of the farm which Mr. Connor manages not one bushel of grain was sold, the whole product of the farm being required to fed the stock kept.

Coming to Canada

Mr. Connor stated that many farmers from Dakota were selling their land and moving to Western Canada, where they can buy land at half the price they get for the farms they sell in Dakota and start anew under conditions which practically means their independence in a few years. Alberta, he thinks, has particularly bright future in store for it, the future of Manitoba promising to be more steady and perhaps not quite so satisfactory, so far as the farmers are concerned, the land having been worked for all that it would stand in the early days, and it has now, he considers, become to a certain extent, somewhat impoverished.

During his stay in the city, Mr. Connor, who is accompanied by Mrs. Connor will stay with Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Spencer.

MOVING WITH THE TIMES

Mr. J. W. Miller who for the past twenty-five years has conducted a successful made-to-order boot and shoe business, has added a complete stock of ready-made boots, shoes and rubbers, carefully selected from the most reliable makers.

The store has been remodelled and fitted up with up-to-date fixtures. The workship has been enlarged, and the working staff increased, so that they are now prepared to make to order ladies and gentlemen's work of the very best quality. The long experience of J. W. Miller will be sufficient guarantee that the best satisfaction will be given in every line of goods.

The firm will be known as J. W. Miller & Sons, 438 George street, 2f

PAID HIGH TRIBUTE TO GENERAL MANAGER

Late Deputy Minister of Finance Refers in Complimentary Terms to General Manager Burn, of Bank of Ottawa

At the annual meeting of the Bank of Ottawa, Mr. J. M. Courtney, for many years Deputy Minister of Finance made a pleasing reference to Mr. Burn, the General Manager of the Bank of Ottawa, who is well and favourably known in this city. Mr. Courtney said:—

Like Mr. Woods, this is my first appearance at a Shareholders' meeting. I came to listen, but I have great pleasure in seconding this particular motion. Not only is Mr. Burn a highly efficient General Manager of this individual Bank, but he bears an active part in Banking matters of public interest. As chief permanent officer of the Finance Department, I have continually been in communication with him in matters relating to the administration of Banks, and have always found his advice of the greatest assistance. I am very glad to have had this opportunity of testifying to Mr. Burn's good management of this Bank and of his usefulness as a good citizen.

WHAT SHALL WE GIVE THE BOY?

Mothers and fathers are asking the question: "What shall we give the boys for Christmas?" Listen to what H. LaBrun & Co. have to offer: "The other day the head of our firm bought from H. Shorey & Co., of Montreal, a splendid assortment of Reefers, suitable for boys and children. They cost us about the price of the material. It was a great snap—the best we ever got in this line. They are made up in genuine Irish frieze, black and blue beavers, English nap and fancy serge, and will be sold for $1.50, $1.75, $2.00 and $2.50, and are well worth double. Give the boys a Reefer, by all means. H. LaBrun & Co.

There are 200 acres of grain per 100 of population in the United States.

GRAFTED A FINGER FOR A NOSE

Extraordinary Feat Performed by a Baltimore Surgeon—A Complete Success

Examiner Special.

Baltimore, Md., Dec. 13.—At the day's session of the Southern Surgical and Gynecological Association held at Johns Hopkins Hospital, Dr. J. M. T. Finney, the eminent surgeon, told of two operations he had recently performed which attracted general attention. He explained his method of providing a new nose for a little girl, who looked pretty well scared while the surgeons examined her. Dr. Finney had performed successfully the operation of grafting the girl's little finger on her face, where the nose should have been and then amputating it. The little girl is now a very presentable looking child, although in her photographs taken before the operation she is shown to have been entirely without a nose. She has now been five weeks in the Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Dr. Finney also described a similar operation performed on a baseball player. He cited one curious thing about this case. After the man's finger had been transplanted to his face it was discovered that a trace of the finger nail, about as big as a coarse hair, had not been removed and that it persisted in keeping on growing. Thus the poor man had a new nose, but he also had a tiny remnant of a finger nail growing at the bridge of his nose, and had to cut it regularly between the eyes.

BUILT UP HER HEALTH

SPEEDY CURE OF MISS ECCLISON

She Is Made Well by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and Writes Gratefully to Mrs. Pinkham.

For the wonderful help that she has found Zula Ecclison, 6 Erie St., East, St. Thomas, Ont., believes it her duty to write the following letter for publication, in order that other women afflicted in the same way may be benefited as she was. She writes:

Zula Ecclison

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I heartily recommend Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as a tonic and regulator for femalc troubles. I suffered for four years with displacement and no one but those who have experienced this dreadful agony can form any idea of the physical and mental suffering those endure who are thus affected. Your Vegetable Compound cured me. Within three months I was fully restored to health and strength and now my periods are regular and painless. What a blessing it is to obtain such relief when so many doctors fail to help you. Your medicine is better than any doctor or medicine I ever had."

No other medicine has such a record of cures of female troubles as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Women who are troubled with painful or irregular periods, backache, bloating (or flatulence), displacement of organs, inflammation or ulceration can be restored to perfect health and strength by taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mrs. Pinkham invites all sick women to write her for advice. She has guided thousands to health. Her experience is very great, and she gives the benefit of it to all who stand in need of wise counsel. She is the daughter-in-law of Lydia E. Pinkham and for twenty-five years has been advising sick women free of charge. Address, Lynn, Mass.

O'Keefe's

Special Extra Mild ALE

is the perfection of the brew master's skill. There is nothing finer in the Old World or the New. And connoisseurs say the imported brands have not the satisfying deliciousness of O'Keefe's Special Extra Mild Ale.

They Hit Spot.

The Seat of Women's Troubles.

When you get all run-down, feel tired and out of sorts, it is pretty hard to tell just what part of your peculiar organism is going wrong, isn't it? That is why you can take so much medicine and still have it do you so little good.

It doesn't hit the right spot, that is, it doesn't reach the organ or organs that are going wrong.

But supposing you could get a remedy that contains ingredients for every organ of your system, and especially those peculiar to your sex, you wouldn't need, then, to know just what is the matter with you, or just what organ is causing the trouble, would you?

Certainly not, because no matter which organ or organs it might be, they would be reached by some one of the many ingredients of the medicine, and would be restored to a normal condition. And then you would be well again.

And do you know there IS one just such remedy? It is

Dr. Hugo's Health Tablets for Women.

Dr. Hugo's remedy contains something for every organ of the female system; something for the stomach to help indigestion—for the bowels to cure constipation—for the nervous system to tone up the nerves—for the liver and kidneys to make them active in carrying off impurities—something for the uterine system to stop all drains, allay inflammation and make women regular.

If there is anything wrong with you—if you don't feel as well as you used to—these tablets will give you the old time life and vigor.

Don't wait till something serious develops. Take them now.

where the diamonds have been 'planted'—is that the correct expression?—I can swear an information, and the police will subsequently search the fellow's lodgings. When the search is made the missing Rembrandt will be found there. Mr. Merritt would hardly dare to pawn that."

"Even if he knew its real value, which I doubt," Bell said, thoughtfully. "Henson would not tell his tool too much. Let me congratulate you upon your idea, Miss Chris. That diamond star of yours is a powerful factor in our hands, and you always have the consciousness of knowing that you can get it back again. Now, what are we going to do next?"

"Going to call upon Mr. Merritt, of course," Chris said, promptly. "You forget that I have his address. I am deeply interested in the welfare of the criminal classes, and you are also an enthusiast. I've looked up the names of one or two people in the directory who go in for that kind of thing, and I'm going to get up a bazaar at Littimer Castle for the benefit of the predatory classes who have turned over a new leaf. I am particularly anxious for Mr. Merritt to give us an address. Don't you think that will do?"

"I should think it would do very well indeed," Bell said.

The quaint and somewhat exclusive town of Moreton Wells was reached in due course and the street where the Rev. James Merritt resided located at length. It was a modest two-storeyed tenement, and the occupier of the rooms was at home. Chris pushed her way gaily in, followed by Bell, before the occupant could lay down the foul clay pipe he was smoking and button the unaccustomed stiff white collar round his throat. Merritt whipped a tumbler under the table with amazing celerity, but no cunning of his could remove the smell of gin that hung pungently on the murky atmosphere.

Merritt dodged his head back defiantly as if half expecting a blow. His eyes were strained a little anxiously over Bell's shoulder as if fearful of a shadow. Bell had seen the type before—Merritt was unconsciously looking for the police.

"I am so glad to find you at home," Chris said, sweetly.

Merritt muttered something that hardly sounded complimentary. It was quite evident that he was far from returning the compliment. He had recognized Bell, and was wondering fearfully if the latter was as sure of his identity. Bell's face betrayed nothing. All the same he was following Merritt's uneasy eye till it rested on a roll of dirty paper on the mantelshelf. That roll of paper was the missing Rembrandt, and he knew it.

"Won't you offer me a chair?" Chris asked, in the sweetest possible manner.

Merritt sullkily emptied a chair of a pile of cheap sporting papers, and demanded none too politely what business the lady had with him. Chris proceeded to explain at considerable length. As Merritt listened his eyes gleamed and a broadening grin spread over his face. He had done a great deal of that kind of thing, he admitted. Since Henson had taken him up the police had not been anything like so inquisitive, and his present pose was fruitful of large predatory gains. The latter fact Merritt kept to himself. On the whole the prospect appealed to his imagination. Henson wouldn't like it but, then, Henson was not in a position to say too much.

"I thought perhaps if you came over with us and dined at the castle," Chris suggested. She spoke slowly and thoughtfully, with her eyes on the ground. "Say to-night. Will you come?"

Merritt grinned extensively once more. The idea of his dining at the castle appealed to his own peculiar sense of humor. He was at his ease, seeing that Bell failed to recognize him. To dine at the castle, to note the plate, and get a minute geographical knowledge of the place from personal observation! . . . His mouth watered at the thought.

"They ought to be more careful yonder," he suggested "There's plate and there's pictures."

"Nothing has ever been stolen from Littimer Castle," Bell said, crisply. He read the leer in Merritt's eyes as he spoke of pictures. "Nothing whatever."

"What, not lately?" Merritt asked. "Didn't I hear tell of a——"

He paused, conscious of saying too much. Bell shook his head again. An utterly puzzled expression crept over Mr. Merritt's engaging countenance. At the present moment an art treasure of price stood in that very room, and here was a party from the castle utterly innocent of the robbery. Chris glanced at Bell and smiled.

"I love the pictures," she said, "especially the prints. That Rembrandt, 'The Crimson Blind,' for instance. I found a fresh light in it this morning and called Lord Littimer's attention to it before we started. I should look that up if it were mine."

Merritt's eyes fairly bulged as he listened. Had he not half-suspected some deep "plant" he would have been vastly amused. But then he had got the very picture these people were speaking about close to hand at the very moment.

"Tell you what," he said, suddenly. "I ain't used to swell society ways, but I'm always ready to sacrifice myself to the poor fellows who ain't found the straight path like me. And if you get up your bazaar, I'll do what I can to help."

"Then you will dine with us to-night?" Chris asked, eagerly. "Don't say no. I met a man once with a past like yours at Lady Roskingham's, and he was so interesting. We will call for you in an hour's time with the waggonette. Then we can settle half our plans before dinner."

Merritt was graciously pleased to be agreeable. Moreover, he was utterly puzzled and absolutely consumed with an overpowering curiosity. It seemed also to him to be a sheer waste of providence to discard such an opportunity. And the plate at Littimer Castle was superb!

Meanwhile Chris and Bell walked down the street together. "He was puzzled over the Rembrandt," Chris said. "Seeing that he has our picture——"

"No doubt about it. The picture was rolled up and stood on the mantelshelf. I followed Merritt's gaze, knowing perfectly well that it would rest presently on the picture if it was in the room. At the same time, our interesting friend, in chuckling over the way he has deceived us, clean forgot the yellow pawnticket lying on the table."

"Dr. Bell, do you mean to say that——"

"That I know where your diamond star was pledged. Indeed I do. Merritt had probably just turned out his pockets as we entered. The pawnticket was on the table and related to a diamond aigrette pawned by one James Merritt—mark the simple cunning of the man—with Messrs. Rutter and Co., 117, High Street. That in itself is an exceedingly valuable discovery, and one we can afford to keep to ourselves for the present. At the same time I should very much like to know what Rutter and Co. are like. Let me go down to the shop and make some simple purchase."

Rutter and Co. proved to be a very high-class shop indeed, despite the fact that there was a pawnbroking branch of the business. The place was quite worthy of Bond Street, the stock was brilliant and substantial, the assistants quite above provincial class. As Bell was turning over some sleeve links. Chris was examining a case of silver and gold cigarette-cases and the like. She picked up a cigar-case at length and asked the price. At the mention of fifty guineas she dropped the trifle with a little moue of surprise.

"It looks as if it had been used," she said.

"It is not absolutely new, madam," the assistant admitted. "therefore the price is low. But the gentleman who sold it to us proved that he had only had it for a few days. The doctor had ordered him not to smoke in future, and so——"

Chris turned away to something else. Bell completed his purchase, and together they left the shop. Once outside Chris gripped her companion's arm excitedly.

"Another great discovery," she said. "Did you see me looking at that cigar-case—a gun-metal one set with diamonds? You recollect that Ruth Gates purchased a case like that for that—that foolishness we thought of in connection with Mr. Steel. The case had a little arrow shaped scratch with the head of the arrow formed of the biggest diamond. Enid told me all this the night before I left Longdean Grange. Dr. Bell, I am absolutely certain that I have had in my hand just now the very case bought by Ruth from Lockhart's in Brighton!"

CHAPTER XXXVI.

Bell was considerably impressed with the importance of Chris's discovery, though at the same time he was not disposed to regard it in the light of a coincidence.

"It's a useful discovery in its way," he said; "but not very remarkable when you come to think of it. Somebody with an eye to damaging Steel changed that cigar-case. How the change affected Steel you know as well as I do. But the cigar-case purchased by Ruth Gates must be somewhere, and we are as likely to find it near Reginald Henson as anywhere else, seeing that he is at the bottom of the whole business. That change was made either by himself or by somebody at his instigation. Once the change was made he would not bother about the spare cigar-case. His ally probably came here to see Henson; the latter as likely as not threw him over, knowing that the fellow would not dare to talk: hence the thing is turned into money. I am merely speculating, of course, under the assumption that you are quite sure of your facts."

"Absolutely," Chris cried, eagerly. "Two long, irregular scratches leading up in arrow-headed shape to the big diamond in the centre. Ruth told Enid all about that the very last time they discussed the matter together."

Suffered for 23 Years With Kidney Trouble.

CURED AT LAST BY GIN PILLS.

Whether you are just beginning to feel the first twinges of kidney pains—or whether you have tried for years to find relief—Gin Pills will cure you. Surely you can't doubt their virtues after such a letter as this:

"I sent for a free sample of your Gin Pills some time ago, and found them to give me great relief, so I put myself under the treatment, and am now using the third box, and feel myself entirely cured. I have suffered with my kidneys for 23 years. At the time I began taking Gin Pills I could not turn in bed without pain. If I moved at night, the pain would be so great that it would wake me up. Now I am free of pain, and feel as well as I did 23 years ago. I feel it my duty to let you know about Gin Pills, so that it might be the means of relieving some other sufferer.

"HENRY WAKEFORD, Toronto."

Gin Pills hold out a guarantee of certain, quick relief. They will stop the pain—heal the sick kidneys—and build up the whole system—or your druggist will refund your money. That shows our confidence in Gin Pills. We will do more. We will send you a trial box of Gin Pills absolutely free if you will write asking for it and state the name of the paper in which you see this. You can thus test them at our expense and see for yourself whether or not Gin Pills are all that we claim them to be. Gin Pills are for sale at all druggists. 50c a box—6 boxes for $2.50. The Bole Drug Co., Winnipeg, Man.

"How came Ruth Gates to remember it so clearly?"

"Well, she did it herself. She was rubbing some specks off the case at the last moment, and the scratches were made accidentally with the stones in one of her rings."

Bell was fain to admit that the discovery was an important one. "We'll leave it for the present," he said. "In a small place like this so valuable an article is likely to remain in stock for some time. I'll call in again to-morrow on the pretence of getting further goods and obtain all the information there is to be gained as to who sold the case and what he was like. There is just time for a little lunch before we take up our reverend friend. Where shall we go?"

Chris would like to see the Lion. There was a marvellous coffee-room there with panelled walls and a ceiling by Pugin, and an ingle-nook filled with rare Dutch tiles. They had the beautiful old place to themselves, so that they could talk freely. Chris crumbled her bread and sipped her soup with an air of deep abstraction.

"A great idea is forming in my mind," she said.

"What, another one?" Bell smiled. "Is it the air of the place or what? Really, there is a brilliancy about you that is striking."

Chris laughed. She was full of the joy of life to-day.

"It is the freedom," she said. "If you only knew what it is to feel free after the dull, aching, monotonous misery of the last few years. To be constantly on the treadmill, to be in the grasp of a pitiless scoundrel. At first you fight against it passionately, with a longing to be doing something, and gradually you give way to despair. And now the weight is off my shoulders, and I am free to act. Fancy the reward of finding Reginald Henson out!"

"Reginald Henson is the blight upon your house. In what way?"

"Ah, I cannot tell you. It is a secret that we never discuss even among ourselves. But he has the power over us, he has blighted all our lives. But if I could get hold of a certain thing the power would be broken. That is what I am after, what I am working for. And it is in connection with my endeavor that the new idea came to me."

"Can't you give me some general idea of it?" Bell asked.

"Well, I want to make Merritt my friend. I want him to imagine that I am as much of an adventuress as he is an adventurer. I want to let him see that I could send him to prison——"

"So you can by telling the police of the loss of your star."

"And getting Merritt arrested and sent to gaol where I couldn't make use of him? No, no. The thing is pretty vague in my mind at present. I have to work it out as one would a story; as David Steel would work it out, for instance. Ah!"

Chris clapped her hands rapturously, and a little cry of delight escaped her.

"The very thing," she exclaimed. "If I could lay all the facts before Mr. Steel and get him to plan out all the details! His fertile imagination would see a way at once. But he is far away and there is no time to be lost. Is there no way of getting at him?"

Chris appealed almost imploringly to her companion. She made a pretty picture with the old oak engravings behind her. Bell smiled as he helped himself to asparagus.

"Why not adopt the same method by which you originally introduced yourself to the distinguished novelist?" he asked. "Why not use Littimer's telephone?"

Chris pushed her plate away impetuously.

"I am too excited to eat any more," she said. "I am filled with the new idea. Of course, I could use the telephone to speak to Mr. Steel, and to Enid as well. If the scheme works out as I anticipate, I shall have to hold a long conversation with Enid, a dangerous thing so long as Reginald Henson is about."

"I'll keep Henson out of the way. The best thing is to wait till everybody has gone to bed to-night and call Steel up then. You will be certain to get him after eleven, and there will be no chance of your being cut off at that hour of the night in consequence of somebody else wanting the line. The same remark applies to your sister."

Chris nodded radiantly.

"Thrice blessed telephone," she said. "I can get in all I want without committing myself to paper or moving from the spot where my presence is urgently needed. We will give Mr. Steel a pleasant surprise to-night, and this time I shall get him into no trouble."

The luncheon was finished at length, and an intimation sent to Merritt that his friends were waiting for him at the Lion. As his powerful figure was seen entering the big Norman porch Henson came down the street driving a dog-cart at a dangerous rate of speed.

"Our man is going to have his trouble for his pains," Bell chuckled. "He has come to interview Merritt. How pleased he will be to see Merritt at dinner-time."

Merritt shambled in awkwardly, obviously suppressing a desire to touch his forelock. There was a sheepish grin on his face, a suppressed triumph in his eyes. He had been recently shaved and his hair cut, but despite these improvements, and despite his clerical garb, he was not exactly the class of man to meet in a dark lane after supset.

Chris, however, showed nothing of this in her greeting. Long before Littimer Castle was reached she had succeeded in putting Merritt quite at his ease. He talked of himself and his past exploits, he boasted of his cunning. It was only now and again that he pulled himself up and piously referred to the new life that he was now leading. Bell was studying him carefully: he read the other's mind like an open book. When the waggonette finally pulled up before the castle Littimer strolled up and stood there regarding Merritt quietly.

"So this is the gentleman you were going to bring to dinner?" he said, grimly. "I have seen him before in the company of our dear Reginald. I also——"

Chris shot Littimer an imploring glance. Merritt grinned in friendly fashion. Bell, in his tactful way, piloted the strange guest to the library before Littimer and Chris had reached the hall. The former polished his eyeglass and regarded Chris critically.

"My dear young lady," he said smoothly, "originality is a passion with me, eccentricity draws me as a magnet; but as yet I have refrained from sitting down to table with ticket-of-leave men. Your friend has 'convict' writ large upon his face"

Will be continued next Saturday.

PREFERENCE SURTAX ARE OPPOSED

Opposition Criticizs Both Measures In the House.

DEFENCE OF MR. FIELDING

The Surtax Imposed Only After Repeated Protests—The Government Will Not Increase Requirement As to the Percentage of British Labor, Nor Discriminate Against Unskilled Labor.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Yesterday's debate in committee upon the tariff resolutions afforded another opportunity for the Opposition to further emphasize the position they have taken in antagonism to the British preference and the German surtax.

Mr. David Henderson developed a new line of attack by his proposal that in order to obtain the benefit of the preference goods must be to the extent of 75 per cent. of value the product of British labor.

Mr. George Taylor, chief Conservative whip, realized that his colleague had gone too far, and proposed as a compromise that the percentage be fixed at fifty.

Mr. W. H. Bennett urged that in calculating the precentage the cost of the packages and the profit of the merchant should not be included.

Mr. Armstrong followed up his attack upon the Government for having imposed the surtax on German goods by pointed questions regarding the loss of trade to Canada as a result, and the leader of the Opposition lent a helping hand by the suggestion that the surtax furnished additional temptation to Germans to seek to take improper advantage of the British preference in order to evade the penalties thereof. Dr. Barr suggested that with a lower rate of duty Canadian exports to Germany would be much larger.

Mr. Fielding's Defence.

Mr. Fielding vigorously defended the policy of the Government with reference both to the preference and the surtax. The proposition of Mr. Henderson, he asserted with emphasis, would, if adopted, practically destroy the preference, because, in view of the fact that Britain had to import her raw material, her manufacturers would be absolutely unable to show so large a proportion of British labor at 75 per cent. He intimated that there had been a tightening up of the provisions in regard to the calculation of the percentage of British labor required, that the merchant's profit would not be included, and that the increased value must be the bona fide product of British labor. Under this ruling the British manufaturer would be required to increase the value of the goods by one-third of their cost to him. He asserts that the Government would not attempt to discriminate between the product of skilled and unskilled labor, as suggested by Mr. Bennett. With regard to the German surtax, Mr. Fielding maintained his uncompromising attitude. Canada had been, he said, too patient with Germany and had only taken action after the protest against unfair treatment of her goods had been ignored. If anybody had suffered as a result it was the German and not the Canadian merchant, but at the same time the Government, he intimated, were now, as they had always been, anxious to extend our markets in every possible way. They had never denied to Germany the same advantages accorded to any other foreign nation, and had only imposed the surtax in defence of Canada's undoubted rights to give special preference to the mother country.

At the suggestion of Mr. Johnston, the motion for the adjournment of the House for the Christmas recess was amended to permit the House to reassemble on Jan. 9 instead of Jan. 8.

Yukon Governor Sees Premier.

Ottawa, Dec. 15.—Governor McInnes of the Yukon was received yesterday morning by Sir Wilfrid Laurier. One of the principal matters he is dealing with is a proposal that the commissioner-in-council should have the authority to deal with all applications for water power in the Yukon.

Open Door For Abyssinia.

London, Dec. 15.—Great Britain, France and Italy have signed an arrangement, with the approval of Menelik, King of Abyssinia, for the maintenance of the integrity of Abyssinia. The object is the maintenance of the status quo and the principle of the open door.

TRIBUTE TO RAILWAY BUILDERS

Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann Guests of Honor At Banquet.

BY TORONTO BOARD OF TRADE

Great Work Accomplished In Railroad Building In Ten Years—Starting With 125 Miles of Railway They Now Control Some 4,000 Miles—Establish 132 Towns Along the System.

Toronto, Dec. 15.—One of the most representative assemblies of citizens ever gathered in Toronto met at the Board of Trade banquet in the King Edward Hotel last night to pay tribute to the pluck, perservance and ability of William Mackenzie and Donald D. Mann, the builders of Canada's third great transcontinental line, who have earned for themselves the reputation of being the two greatest railway constructors that this continent has produced. It was a tribute of commerce to transportation, of the sober judgment of statesmen, financiers and captains of industry to the great work for the development of the trade, commerce, population and general prosperity of Canada accomplished in the past decade by the men who have during the past ten years been building railways at the average rate of one mile per day, until now with but a few breaks they have a complete system extending from the Atlantic to the Pacific coast. There was present at the gathering the Premier and ex-Prime Minister of Ontario, members of Parliament, members of the Legislature, Senators, Cabinet Ministers, bank managers, the Mayor of the city, and others of the most prominent men of Toronto, Montreal and other places, who marked with most enthusiastic acclaim the recital of what the two guests of the evening had done for this city, for the Province of Ontario and for the Dominion as a whole.

The Speakers.

The speakers of the evening were his Honor the Lieutenant-Governor; Mr. Peleg Howland, President of the Board of Trade; Premier Whitney, Hon. Geo. W. Ross, his Worship the Mayor, Mr. Byron E. Walker and Mr. Z. A. Lash, K.C., and the guests of the evening, Messrs. Mackenzie and Mann. The speeches of the two latter modestly recited something of the growth of the Canadian Northern Railway system, noting that in ten years, starting ten years ago with one but hundred and twenty-five miles of railway in Manitoba, they now controlled some four thousand miles, and in the near future would have a complete system extending from tidewater to tidewater. Both spoke with considerable diffidence, declaring that for them it was much easier to build great railways than to make speeches.

Will Complete More Lines.

Mr. Mackenzie referred to the fact that Government assistance rendered the Canadian Northern Railway Co. had been less in proportion than that given any other railway in this country. He promised the completion of lines from Quebec to Ottawa, from Toronto to Montreal and to Ottawa, and branch lines throughout the western peninsula of Ontario in the near future. He suggested that this city was the proper point at which to establish blast furnaces, rolling mills and a steel plant to supply the needs of Ontario.

Mr. Mann in referring to the development of the West through the construction of railway lines noted that along the line of the Canadian Northern within the past few years 132 new towns had been established with a popular of 65,000, and eight millions of acres had been homesteaded within the past fiscal year. Toronto, he said, would always be the head office of the company and the car repair shops and other large enterprises incidental thereto would be established here.

Were Two Empire-Builders.

Hon. Geo. W. Ross in a characteristically eloquent address referred to Messrs. Mackenzie & Mann as nation-builders to whom the country owed a large debt of gratitude. He recalled the patriot names of others who in earlier days in this country had by their self-sacrificing efforts, dauntless courage and splendid optimism accomplished a similar great work in promoting transportation and development of the country by the building of pioneer railways, canals and steamship enterprises. Premier Whitney also contributed an eloquent tribute of praise to the two great Canadians.

GOVERNMENT RESTS ON OARS

Avoids Even Appearance of Force and Archbishops of Paris is Still Awaiting Expulsion From Episcopal Mansion—Vatican's Statement Shows Despite War Against Church Latter Is Loyal

Paris, Dec. 15.—The first day of the regime of the separation of church and state having passed without grave disorders, public interest in the details of the continuation of the struggle already is flagging.

It is now apparent that the resistance of the clergy will be purely passive, and that there is no prospect of religious passions being aroused unless the churches are closed. The Government, therefore, is resting on its oars, and will continue to do so until Parliament authorizes the drastic measures which the Cabinet is preparing.

In the meantime, in this city, except in the churches where legal applications were filed, the police again took notes of infractions of the law at the morning masses.

Cardinal Awaits Expulsion.

Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, is awaiting expulsion from the Episcopal Mansion. The Government however, desires to avoid even the appearance of force in the case of the aged primate, who is in bad health, and is postponing action in the hope that he will depart soon of his own volition.

The Action, a violent Socialist organ, yesterday made an attack on the Government and created an absurd scare by calling attention to the fact that the Catholic gymnastic societies had numbers of rifles. There is not the slightest evidence, however, that armed resistance is contemplated.

Hope to Be Forced.

It is becoming more and more apparent that the Ultramontanes hope to be forced to have recourse to private worship, and that they are embarrassed by the unauthorized applications to hold religious meetings under the law of 1881. At a church in Vincennes a notice was posted characterizing as "treason" the action of two parishioners in making application and saying that Cardinal Richard was the authority for the statement that the Pope's inhibition applied to laymen as well as to the clergy.

At Lille, department of the Nord, two hundred Catholics drove out a policeman who was reporting an infraction of the law at the Church of Le Grand Philippe, pursued the man and threatened to throw him into the river. A son of the policeman was chased and stoned by his playmates.

A Radical Group's Request.

The Radical left group in Parliament has invited all the Republican groups to support the Government "in the execution of the will of the people for the maintenance of the sovereignty of the law and liberty of conscience and worship." During the meeting M. Lockrey energetically opposed any measure designed to "rob Frenchmen of their citizenship," pointing out that it would establish a precedent which could be used for the purpose of reprisals if the reactionaries ever got the upper hand.

While students were evacuating the seminary at Angiers yesterday several manifestants pelted the authorities with eggs and attacked them with sticks. The police made 12 arrests, the prisoners including some of the seminarians.

Vatican's Authorized Statement.

Rome, Dec. 15.—A statement authorized by the Vatican summarizes the situation as follows:

"The concordat, the most solemn contract, has not yet been denounced by the French Government, which wishes to establish a new legal standing for the church in France. The Government did not agree with the Holy See on this subject, and repeatedly and openly showed hostility towards the head of the church. Violence may prevail for a time, but those who are suffering from this state of oppression preserve all their rights and all their claims.

War Is Against Church.

"The explosion of joy among the masonic and demagogic societies as a result of the persecution, on the part of the Government shows that the war is against the church and religion. Notwithstanding the bills passed and regulations adopted France at the present time has no law granting religious liberty to those who do not comply with the law providing for the separation of church and state. The one good point in the circular issued recently by the French Minister of Public Worship, M. Briand, is his confession that it is impossible to apply to cultural associations the laws of 1881 and 1901, which were adopted for the regulation of other kinds of associations meetings. Therefore what is needed is a real law providing for real liberty, instead of arbitrary ministerial circulars.

Loyal and of Good Will.

"The loyalty and good will of the Holy See under similar circumstances was shown in Brazil. There there was a monarchy and a concordat, both of which the republicans suppressed and proclaimed their separation from the Holy See, under certain reserves. Later the Brazilian republic came to an understanding with the Vatican and a papal nuncio was accredited to Rio Janeiro, while a Brazilian Minister was accredited to the Vatican.

"The search of the nunciature at Paris and the expulsion from France of Mgr. Montagnini, secretary of the nunciature, were steps taken with the object of making the world believe the false statements circulated later and which were said to have originated in the discovery of documents seized at the nunciature, such as the report that some of the French episcopacy and clergy were ready to make applications to hold religious meetings. There is no truth in the statement. The Holy See is not opposed to the making of applications under the law, but takes exception to the whole spirit of the circular issued by Minister of Public Worship Briand."

WRECK OF THE ALERT.

Crew Jumped Overboard And All But One Reach Shore.

Sydney, N. S., Dec. 15.—The captain and crew of the gasoline fishing schooner Alert, of the Gloucester fleet, were landed here yesterday by the steamer Bruce. They tell a story of hardships, when their schooner was cast up on the Newfoundland shore, and one man drowned, Alexander Grant of Prince Edward Island.

During the afternoon of Dec. 4 the wind increased in fury, and veered to the southwest, the vessel dragging her anchors. Finally parting her chains, with mighty force the Alert was thrown on the rocks some distance from shore.

So suddenly did the affair happen that the men were compelled to jump overboard and leave everything behind. The third man to make the jump from the doomed vessel was Grant, who lost his life in the surf.

The vessel struck the rocks at 3.30 in the afternoon, and about 4 o'clock the stove in the galley, becoming overturned, caused the vessel to take fire. The blaze, fanned by the awful wind, sent the flames spreading over the vessel, and in less than thirty-five minutes from the time she struck, the Alert, together with her gear and men's belongings, was destroyed.

County Constable Clubbed.

Brantford, Dec. 15.—County Constable Kerr was brutally assaulted last night about 12 o'clock in the performance of his duty. Kerr, with Constable Mounce, was arresting an Indian named Samson Green at a house on Pearl street. Entering the place he was struck in the face by a heavy club and rendered unconscious. There were three men in the house, and the clubbing was done by another Indian for whose arrest a warrant has been issued. Kerr's condition yesterday was critical.

Talks on Orange Meat

(THE PURE FOOD)

Absolute Cleanliness Free.

It costs us twice as much to have Orange Meat absolutely clean—and does not cost YOU a penny extra. We need not be half as particular as we are—and save lots of money. Only—Orange Meat would not be the delicious delicacy—the brain and body building food it is—if we were not so insistent on cleanliness.

After the wheat comes into our grain elevators from the steamers, it goes into huge vats, filled with pure water. Here the wheat is thoroughly "scrubbed" until every tiny grain is "clean as a new pin."

Then, it's washed once more with fresh water "just to make sure." These extra washings—extra machinery—all mean extra expense to us. But they certainly help to make ORANGE MEAT extra good.

Here's what one Mother in Sterling says about it:—

Orange Meat

"After seeing advertisements of Orange Meat and its healthful qualities, we decided to try it. During the last six months, it has been continually in our house and we have used between 70 and 100 packages. My husband and children prefer Orange Meat to all foods we have tried."

Orange Meat weighs ⅓ more than any other package. At all grocers—15c. and 25c. 15c. package contains a coupon, good for new premiums. 25c. size holds 2½ times the quantity of 15c. size. Write "Orange Meat, Kingston," for new premium catalogue.

Investor, Read This!

Excuse me, but wouldn't you like to get in on the ground floor, with no cellar below it? When mining companies are floated, there is a doubt as to whether or not some fellows were hidden in the cellar when you got the tip which induced you to come in on the ground floor. Here is a proposition of a Company founded on rock, with no room for cellars. It is one a few of us formed, to do in a safe, sure and careful manner, prospecting, developing and marketing on a large scale, backed up by plenty of capital, what the small, grub-staking, prospecting local companies have struggled to do for some time, with varying success. Some of them have found prospects, but lack of funds, and, perhaps, mining knowledge, has tied them up. We purpose, on liberal terms, following up such prospects with a well-equipped staff of prospectors, mining engineers and miners, and if there is anything in them, to market the same after careful development. This Company has no bonus or watered stock for anyone. The Directors pay for their stock just as you will require to should you come in with us. We look on this as an honest business proposition, free from any semblance of doubtful speculation—one which should appeal to you as satisfactory in every way. Send for our prospectus to the COBALT & NEW ONTARIO PROSPECTORS, DEVELOPERS & INVESTORS, LIMITED, MANNING CHAMBERS, TORONTO, which gives an explicit account of our proposition. A limited number of $1.00 shares are being placed at 50 cents. It will be advisable to secure some as soon as possible.

THE CHRISTMAS BACKLOG

BY FRANK H. SWEET

COPYRIGHT, 1906, BY FRANK H. SWEET

"POMP!"

"POMP! O-o, Pomp! Pom-pey!" The call went through the quarters, through the shadowy live oaks beyond, under whose moss draped branches the ground was dim even at midday, and on into the cypress swamp to a black pool over which a black boy was crouching. As the call came to him, mellowed by distance, he raised his head a little and chuckled, then resumed his work, which was the driving of a large plug into the end of an immense log submerged in the water.

"O-o-o, Pomp! Massa gwine scorch you if you ain't hurry quick!" came the voice more sharply. "He say you gettin' triflin' an' no 'count."

The stone was poised for an instant, then descended with two or three deliberate taps which completed the work. Pomp examined the end of the log critically. The plug was driven in level with the rest of the wood, so that to an average observer there was no sign that it had been tampered with. Even Pomp seemed satisfied, for he chuckled again and started back in a leisurely way toward the quarters.

As he passed among the cabins on his way to the big house he met a dozen or more stalwart young fellows. They grinned at sight of Pomp. "So Tom done foun' you!" one of them jeered. "You better run 'long faster 'n dat, for massa been 'quire for you a plumb hour."

"Dat show my 'portance," said Pomp composedly. "But you mistake 'bout Tom findin' me. He down there yet an' shoutin' hisse'f ho'se. I come roun' 'bout way, so he ain' see me. Exercise good for Tom, an' he ain' dar' come back till he find me. An', oh, say, Mose! De backlog's ready. De top jes' touch out de water. Dat show it soak plumb smack all de way t'rou'. Dat log burn two whole weeks shore."

"Huh! Huh!" scoffed several of the hands. "Who ever hear backlog burn over one week?"

"Plenty people gwine hear it dis year," declared Pomp. "You know we hab holiday jes' long 's de backlog burn."

Colonel Belknap was on his veranda smoking when Pomp approached him, cap in hand.

"Hello, you black rascal!" he said explosively. "So you're here at last. Why didn't you come when Tom first called you?"

"Call me?" innocently. "I declar' I ain' seen Tom dis day. Where he call me at?"

"Everywhere, I imagine," dryly. "I've been hearing his voice yelling your name for the last hour, and loud enough to be heard two miles off. Where have you been?"

"Workin' at the backlog, massa. You know you tol' "—

"Yes, told you six weeks ago that you might get the backlog because, though you're a trusty enough fellow in other ways, you're a past master at shirking when it comes to work. And through all these six weeks you have made that backlog bear the burden of your misdeeds. Even a lazy boy ought to cut a log in half a day."

"It's—it's in de cypress swamp now, massa."

"Well, I sent Tom straight to the swamp after you," looking at him keenly. "How did you miss him?"

"Reckon we both come t'other way 'bout, massa, an' didn't see neither of us," Pomp answered frankly. "But I 'low I better hurry right back an' find dat Tom. He's such a scare body he mout holler roun' in de swamp all night an' git lost an' mebbe break his voice. I go right now."

"No, I think you'd better stay here, Pomp," Colonel Belknap said blandly. "Now that I've caught you I shall keep you. I'm going to lock you into the harness room and keep you there until the last buckle is cleaned and polished. Once you get out of my sight I can't expect to see you again until every string on your banjo is broken and the last possum in the woods caught."

Pomp showed his teeth; then his face scared. "Don' you believe dat, massa," he said earnestly. "Mebbe I's light headed an' quick heeled, but I ain' no runabout dat don' car' for his own massa, de bes' in de worl'. Jes' soon's dat backlog burns out I's gwine be ready for work, an' you ain't need call me."

"Well, I hope you will, Pomp," more kindly. "Last Christmas the backlog burned a week, only going out on the seventh day. Even the greenest, most cross grained log of black oak wouldn't be apt to burn that long behind a good fire. It struck me the log might have been soaking in water for some time. Do you think your log will burn a week, Pomp?"

"Why—er—yes, massa, I spects it will," Pomp confessed, "an'—an' mebbe a little more. But you said las' year dat you liked it an' 'j'yed it much as we all."

"So I did, Pomp, and I hope the log will burn its full week, and I shall not ask any of you to do a hand turn of work except the necessary chores until it burns out. But I hope on the Monday after the holidays you will be ready to strike that railroad work heartily. What do the boys think of it?"

"'Bout you hirin' us out to dig on de new railroad bed, massa? Well, I reckon dey fabors it a heap. Massa Ben Cudder, on de ribber plantation, gwine hire out 500 han's to de railroad bosa."

"So I hear. But that will take every man, woman and child on his plantation who is strong enough to lift a shovel. I don't quite like that. I shall only hire out the ablebodied men for whom I have no work on the plantation just now, and none of them need go against his will. I think we can muster about 300, Pomp, and I want you all to feel it will be partly for your own interest. Half the money I receive from the railroad will be used in rebuilding the cabins at the quarters. I hope you will be able to make your log burn out its full week and

TWICE POMP CAME BACK WITH HIS ARMS FULL.

Fruit-a-tives

"FRUIT-A-TIVES" differ from any other remedy in the world.

They cure, absolutely, Stomach, Liver, Kidney, Bowel and Skin Troubles.

Because none of the usual remedies have given you relief, is no reason why you should not give "Fruit-a-tives" a good, honest trial.

Fresh fruit acts directly on the three great eliminating organs—Bowels, Kidneys and Skin. But fruit contains only a minute quantity of the medicinal principles and in order to receive any marked benefit from fruit, one would be compelled to eat more than could be assimilated by the system.

"Fruit-a-tives" contain all the curative virtues of fruit in a wonderfully concentrated form.

In making "Fruit-a-tives," the juices of apples, oranges, figs and prunes are combined—and, by a wonderful discovery of a famous physician, a chemical change takes place in the juices, by which the medicinal action is many times increased. Then tonics are added, and the whole compressed into tablets.

"Fruit-a-tives" contain no Calomel—no Cascara—no Senna—no Morphine—no violent purgatives—only fruit juices and tonics.

"Fruit-a-tives" act directly on the Bowels, Kidneys and Skin—strengthening them—and arousing them to vigorous action.

With the Kidneys healthy—the Bowels moving regularly every day—the Liver active—and the pores of the skin doing their full share towards ridding the system of waste—there can be no disease. "Fruit-a-tives" mean health for every member of the family.

Nine out of every ten men have been guilty of transgression against nature in their youth. Nature never excuses, no matter how young, thoughtless or ignorant he may be. The punishment and suffering corresponds with the crime. The only escape from its ruinous results is proper scientific treatment to counteract its effects.

The DRAINS, either by nightly losses, or secretly through the urine, must be stopped—the NERVES must be built up and invigorated, the blood must be purified, the SEXUAL ORGANS must be vitalized and developed, the BRAIN must be nourished. Our New Method Treatment provides all these requirements. Under its influence the brain becomes active, the blood purified so that all pimples, blotches and ulcers disappear; the nerves become strong as steel, so that nervousness, bashfulness and despondency disappear; the eyes become bright, the face full and clear, energy returns to the body, and the moral, physical and sexual systems are invigorated; all drains cease—no more vital waste from the system. The various organs become natural and manly. One curious result of the improved drainage system in the Fens is a wonderful decrease in the consumption of opium in Lincolnshire. The chemists of Boston, Spalding and Peterborough do a fairly large business with the drug, but their customers are largely drawn from the older generation, who contracted the habit in the days before the Fens were drained, when the miasma rose from the dank and rotting soil, and when "th' ago" racked the bones and set fire to the nerves of the people. In those days opium in some form was regarded as almost a necessity for existence. The chemists of the market towns sold it freely, and there was no secret about the matter. But within the last twenty years better sanitation has been gradually driving it away. Many of the people indulged in it up to a great age. They were queer people with shrivelled, yellow faces, looking for all the world like animated mummies. The chemists of Lincoln tell of many a ruse by which they have been befooled by the confirmed opium eaters. There is a story, which has almost become a classic, of a woman who asked for 16 oz. of laudanum, handing over the counter a giant bottle wrapped in newspaper. It was supplied to her, and without paying for it, she put it into her ample basket. Then, by an apparent after-thought, she brought it out again, asking the chemist to keep it for her until she called again. She did not call again, and a week after the chemist opened the wrapper to find that it contained not the same, but a precisely similar bottle filled with cold tea.

There has appeared in East Finchley, London, a family which hopes to be able to show beyond a question that it is the heir to the immense fortune of 56 millions founded by Robert Edwards, a Welshman, in New York. The head of the family is Mr. Horatio Edwards, who, with his wife, carries on a small newsagent's business in East Finchley. Robert Edwards left Wales for New York when he was quite a small boy. He soon amassed a good round sum of money, with which he purchased 65 acres of land on Manhattan Island, on the Hudson River. On account of the land being wet and marshy he got it for the price of an old song. For some unknown reason young Edwards leased the land to the then reigning British sovereign, George III, for a term of 99 years. After the outbreak of the War of Independence in 1779, the British Government made over the lease, which has now lapsed, to the United States. It is upon this land that the city of New York was built, and its value is now estimated at from £50,000,000 to £70,000,000. The estate comprises such well-known thoroughfares as Broadway and Wall Street, where are situated the wealthiest commercial houses in the world.

Knightlow Hill, Warwickshire, was recently the scene of a quaint ceremony, which has an annual observance. The Duke of Buccleuch, as lord of the manor of the hundred, claims to receive "wreth silver" from 27 parishes, the custom having its origin in olden days for the provision of roads. The amounts taken range from an penny per parish to a couple of shillings, and the total is only 9s 4d. The ceremony is carried out with official formality, and the Duke's agent reads the charter and receives each contribution as it is thrown into the base of a stone cross. There were over 200 people present. The parishes were warned that failure to pay was the forfeiture of 20 shillings for every penny, or a white bull with red ears and red nose, but all places paid. The ceremony at the cross over, the agent led the way to the village inn, where there was a breakfast party at the Duke's expense, followed, according to ancient custom, by steaming hot rum and milk, tobacco, and long, clay pipes. The ceremony of taking the tribute goes back to before the Conquest, and the cattle to be surrendered were known in the time of Caesar.

A striking instance of the incredulity of the British public occurred recently at Portsmouth, where a opportunity to purchase sovereigns was refused with scorn. The incident arose out of a wager for £50 one man betting another that the British public did not know a good thing when they saw it. In order to put the argument to the test the two men—both of whom are members of the Portsmouth Civil Service Club—entered the club armed with bags of coins, and astounded the other members by offering sovereigns at 18s. 6d. each, five-shilling pieces for 4s. 6d., and florins for 1s. 9d. The three bags containing the coins were placed on the table, and the closest inspection was invited. Not a single member, however, would venture to buy, though the coins were freely handled. Before going to the club the wagermakers had visited various places in the town, and in each instance the same incredulity and inability to sell were experienced.

IRELAND

Some remarkable statements as to the evil results of eating margarine instead of butter were given at a recent meeting of the Dublin Guardians. This substitute for butter was stated by a Guardina to be largely responsible for the high death rate amongst the children between eighteen months and two or three years. It was sold in Dublin to such an extent that there were few homesteads, even of the very best, in which margarine was not used. It was estimated that 25 tons of margarine were sold every week in the city, and 90 per cent of that went to the consumer of butter. The oils used in the manufacture of margarine were of two classes as a rule, animal oils from horses or cows, and so on, and vegetable oils, such as cocoanut oil, etc. These were too strong for children, and caused severe illness. Housekeepers and messengers were mainly responsible for defeating the act of Parliament. When they were sent for butter at 1s or 1s 4d they bought margarine at 4d or 6d, and brought it back as creamery butter. There was only one means of checking the sale of margarine and that was by having it coloured distinctively, as a deep orange.

For the first time in the history of Ireland a statement was recently issued by the Irish Department of Agriculture, showing the imports and exports of Ireland for the year 1904. The result of the inquiries that have been made is this: Imports, 55,148,206 pounds; exports, 46,606,432 pounds; balance of imports, 8,541,714 pounds. The last figure is the remarkable feature of the return. It has been generally understood that Ireland exported more than she imported, and an estimate prepared for the Royal Commission on Financial Relations some 12 years ago, put the imports at 20,000,000 pounds, and the exports at 25,674,000 pounds. According to the figures just issued, the excess is eight and a half millions the other way. Of the 46,600,000 imports, live stock, meat, bacon fish and dairy produce represented 23,400,000 pounds and manufactured goods, 9,900,000 pounds. Live stock exports alone totalled 13,700,000 pounds.

SCOTLAND

Many memories of old Ayrshire are aroud by the death recently of Lady Mary Cunynghame. The family claims descent from the Earls of Glencairn through the Craigends branch, and acquired the estate of Milnoraig (sometimes called Milnquarter) by marriage with the house of Cathcart in the sixteenth century. In the testament of an Ayrshire laird in 1613, Jonne Cunynghame of Milnquarter appears as a creditor for "ane thowsand pundis," and in 1702 the baronetcy was bestowed by William of Orange on David Cunynghame of Milnoraig, a member of the Scots Parliament, and eminent as a lawyer and colleague of Fletcher of Saltoun. His son, Sir David, third Baronet, a daughter of the ninth Earl of Eglinton, Lady Mary Montgomerie, one of the loveliest women of her day, in honour of whom Hamilton of Bangour composed several poems, the best of which commences: "Say, thou with endless beauty crowned," and ends:

"Like thee, Montgomarie, shall they shine,
AAnd charm the world with arts like thine."

An interesting relic has been unearthed on the farm of Mains of Leslie, Leslie. While a servant was ploughing on the hill the other afternoon, the plough struck on a stone of a peculiar appearance. The servant reported the occurrence to the farmer, whom along with several others, went to the spot. They removed a Coreen slab, which was about three inches thick and broken through the centre, doubtless by the plough. This was found to be on the upper part of a stone coffin, formed of an upright Coreen slab at each side—3 feet 6 inches long by 30 inches wide, and 21 inches deep. It contained a large-sized human skeleton, evidently that of a man, with the legs detached at the hip joints and laid alongside the body. At the left side of the head was an urn, decayed and in fragments, but beautifully carved. It was 5 1-2 inches wide across the mouth, 3 inches across the bottom, and 9 inches deep. The urn contained only a little mould. The skull and all the bones were in a wonderful state of preservation.

A sensational incident which was not without its amusing side, occurred recently in Glasgow Police Court. A constable was charged with assaulting a Jew, who appeared in the witness box with his head swathed in bandages. He said that the constable knocked him down and struck him on the head with his baton. Mr. Robert Marshall, who acted as agent for the constable, evidently suspected something wrong, and he asked that Dr. Lothian, the casualty surgeon, might be requested to examine the witness. Dr. Lothian went forward, and, seizing the edge of the bandage, suddenly pulled it off, revealing the prisoner's head without the semblance of a wound.

A few days ago Lord Rosebery unveiled a fine equestrian monument erected in Princes Street Gardens, Edinburgh, to the memory of comrades of the Royal Scots Greys who fell in South Africa. The movement represents a trooper of the Greys in the full uniform of the regiment when it embarked for South Africa, in 1899. The trooper is a soldierly figure, and wears the tall busby of the Greys. He reins in the horse with the left hand, and the right is thrown behind the stock of the carbine to be ready to pull out the weapon should occasion require. The idea is that the soldier has ridden to the top of the rock as a scout, has pulled up the horse and is on the look-out.

A remarkable story is told by the officers of the steame Ben Voirlich, which reached Leith, recently. While at sea the cry of "Fire" was raised, and it was found that the berth of the first mate, which he had left only a short time before, was in flames. Closer examination revealed that the bedding had been saturated with paraffin and the ventilator of the room stopped with clothing. The fire, which was prevented from spreading, is believed to have been the work of some of the Chinese crew which the steamer carried, who, had given trouble at Bremerhaven, several being placed in irons for threatening the officers with knives.

Some think water is pure because it is carbonated—charged with carbonic acid gas. That is wrong. Carbonating water doesn't purify it. Carbonic acid gas doesn't cleanse water. ¶ Plenty of carbonated waters are just ordinary city water, charged with gas. That gas is mostly made by the action of sulphuric acid on whiting (such as is used for calcimining), or from the fumes of burning coke. Pleasant, isn't it? ¶ Even spring waters that are naturally fizzy, carbonated far within the earth, are not always safe to drink. Natural carbonation is likely to load water with more lime or magnesia than the system ought to get. So a natural fizzy water may be wholesome and it may not. ¶ The safe way—doctors think the only safe way—for people who like carbonated water, either plain as a beverage, or as a diluent for spirits—is to get an ideally pure spring water, charged with purified carbonic acid gas, and ¶ Carbonated and bottled under absolutely safe, cleanly, and scrupulously sanitary conditions. ¶ Water like that is zestful, refreshing, wholesome, and enhances the flavor of whatever it dilutes—liquors especially. ¶ The water that surely meets every requirement is sold in your neighborhood by merchants who care for the custom of particular people, and in your city by the right kind of hotels, bars and clubs. It is worth asking for; and it is labelled

ANNUAL MEETING OF ENNISMORE FACTORY

Enthusiastic Assembly Lissen to Excellent Addresses

The annual meeting of the Ennismore Cheese Factory which was held last night in the Ennismore Hall, was one of the most enthusiastic in the factory's history. Mr. G. H. Sommerville was present and gave an excellent address on the Cool Curing question and the formation of a Cow Testing Association.

Rev. Father Fitzpatrick was also present and addressed the gathering. A large number of the patrons were in attendance and joined in the discussion.

It is practially assured that Ennismore Factory will form a Cow Testing Association and although they did not do so last night, will probably in the near future.

The financial statement showed that the factory had a very successful season.

ANNIVERSARY SERVICES IN CANNINGTON SUNDAY

Rev. A. H. Brace Goes There to Again Meet His Former Parishoners

The Rev. A. H. Brace of Park street Baptist church, preaches the anniversary sermons of the Cannington Baptist church next Sunday. Mr. Brace was pastor of the Cannington Baptist church for several years, and in his absence Rev. J. Deason of Norwood, will occupy the pulpit of the Park street church Sunday next. His subject for the morning sermon will be "Single Eyed Service," while his evening subject will be "Justification." Mr. Deason will handle these great questions to the profit of all having the privilege of hearing him.

RATHER ELECTRIC CHAIR THAN LIFE WITH WIFE

New York, Dec. 11.—Under a decision of Justice O'Gorman, handed down in the Supreme Court yesterday, Mrs. Margaret Sprague secured a limited decree of divorce from her husband, Eugene Sprague, on the ground of cruelty.

Mr. and Mrs. Sprague were married on June 23, 1902, Sprague at that time being postmaster at Carmel, Putnam County, and she a Public School teacher. In her complaint, Mrs. Sprague declared that she continued to teach until within two months of the birth of their son, Eugene Carroll Sprague.

During the trial there was introduced in evidence a letter, written by Sprague to his wife, in which he declared he would rather sit in the electric chair than live with her.

In his behalf, Sprague introduced an affidavit, in which he said: "Unfortunate domestic difficulties have arisen between my wife and myself, which are of such a character as to make it impossible for us to live together in happiness. In some particulars I recognize that I am at fault; in others I feel that my wife has contributed to our dissensions."

Under the terms of the decree, Mrs. Sprague is allowed $10 a week for the support of herself and her child.

THE CHRISTMTS BACKLOG

that you will be ready for the contract work the following Monday. This contract means a"— He stopped abruptly and turned away, apparently forgetful of his threat to lock Pomp in the harness room.

But Pomp had no intention of benefiting by the omission. As he went chuckling toward the room his thoughts were on the absurdity of the log burning out in one week. "If he'd done said 'bout two Mondays ahead he'd come closer," he muttered gleefully. "Jes' a week ain' make no diff'runce 'bout de railroad work, an' ob co'se dem cabins is plenty good for we all to sleep in."

Five evenings later most of the negroes were gathered at the big house, picking their banjos, singing, laughing and gorging themselves on the good things that were spread out lavishly for them. Many were in the living room, in which was the huge fireplace, with its backlog, not yet a quarter burned. From time to time the negroes looked at it wonderingly and made comments and spoke the name of Pomp with added respect. Colonel Belknap, too, glanced frequently at the log, but in his glances were trouble and apprehension.

"LOOK HEAH, YOU STORY TELLER."

It was an open Christmas, and the great blaze in the fireplace made it necessary to throw wide the doors and windows. Among the negroes who lingered about the open doorway was a slim, furtive eyed fellow, a visitor from the Cudder plantation.

"You shorely did fin' a good backlog when you hunted dat chunk," he said to Pomp. "I reckon it gwine las' 'bout two more weeks."

"I reckon," Pomp acquiesced laconically. He did not like the fellow.

"An' you all ain' gwine work on de railroad till it bu'ns out?"

"Dat's right," Pomp said, and he could not forbear adding, "You Cudder boys gwine start in dis nex' Monday, I hear."

The fellow scowled. "Dat's nuffin'," he retorted. "We all ain' scared to work, an' 'sides, it's you Belknap boys dat's gwine to do de cryin'. I hear your massa in tight place, an' if he ain' raise money soon somet'ing gwine be sol'. I 'low dat 'bout fifty ob you black boys be sol' down de ribber, an' cose it gwine be de fines' ones, like Pomp an' Mose. He, he!"

"Look heah, you story teller," began Pomp hotly, but the fellow sniffed.

"It's all de truf," he declared. "I hear Massa Cudder say so hisse'f. If your fin' massa ain' get dis railroad work, somet'ing gwine be sol' up sure. An' cose he ain' get de work, for de railroad boss say he take nobody dat ain' start in on Monday, an' your bigoty massa ain' able to start you in till dat log bu'n out. He, he! You do mighty good job for Massa Cudder, Pomp, when you fin' dat log. You gib him all de railroad work. Your massa"—

His sentence was suddenly cut short, for Pomp had him by the shoulders and sent him spinning down the steps. "Dat Cudder done sen' him here to spy roun'," muttered Pomp. "Dey's bofe dat mean. I seed it in de feller's eyes."

Pomp went straight to Colonel Belknap, who was standing by a window, looking gloomily out at the darkness. "You like for we all to start on de railroad work Monday, massa?" he asked in a low voice.

"Can't do it, Pomp," a little drearily. "The boys won't consent till the log burns out, and that is good for another week at least."

"I d'know 'bout dat, massa," Pomp whispered confidentially. "You see, logs like dat fuss an' fuss till dey's warm an' dry all de way t'rough, den dey jes' flare up quick like powder. I spects dat log gwine bu'n out 'fore Monday."

That night, after the whole house was asleep, Pomp raised a window [illegible] stepped into the living room softly. An hour was spent at the fireplace, where the great log smoldered dully. Twice Pomp went to the window and came back with his arms full. Then he stole out, closing the window noiselessly behind him. An hour later there was such a roaring and crackling in the great fireplace as to waken several of the house servants and bring them and Colonel Belknap into the room. The fireplace was a lurid mass of roaring flames.

"Well, well!" Colonel Belknap ejaculated at length, with a long breath. "Pomp was right about its starting up like powder. But why?"

Monday morning 300 stalwart negroes filed away from the Belknap plantation toward the new railroad where work was to begin. But it was not until the work was completed and all the gloom gone from Colonel Belknap's face that one day he caught Pomp by himself and collared him.

"Now, you young rascal," he said, "tell me about that backlog."

"Well, den," Pomp said desperately, as he found he could not escape, "I jes' had a holler in de log full ob water, wid teenty holes all roun' for de water to seep t'rough an' keep t'logs damp. Co'se de fire couldn' bu'n good."

"But about its starting up?"

Again Pomp tried to squirm away, but in vain. "I—I jes' slipped in de winder dat night an' took de plugs out an' jammed de log tight wid fat pitch wood," he stammered. "Co'se de log had to bu'n den. Dat was all."

Colonel Belknap released him. "No, not quite all, Pomp," he said thoughtfully. "The burning out of the log meant deliverance from ruin. You are a graceless scamp, Pomp, but next Christmas, if all goes well, you shall make the backlog burn for two weeks."

Off Santa Claus' Beat

I S'POSE there is a Santa Claus
That brings them pretty toys
An' candy an' mince pies an' things
To lots o' little boys.
But where we live down here, I guess,
Is sort o' off his beat.
I'm pretty certain, anyway,
He never found our street.

He goes around to all the stores
An' fills 'em full o' things
Like sleds an' skates an' railroad cars,
The kind he always brings,
An' then he seems to lose the way
To our house. Ain't it queer
That all the times he's come to town
He's never been down here?

HE GOES AROUND TO ALL THE STORES AN FILLS 'EM FULL O' THINGS.

I asked my mother if I might Go wait for him uptown
An' tell him that the boys I know
Invites him to come down,
But she just sort o' chokes an' coughs,
An' then she looks away
An' says, "He'll find us out, I guess,
An' visit us some day."

An' yet I've been a-waitin' here
So long that I don't b'lieve
I'll ever see him come at all
On any Christmas eve.
I'm goin' to ask a p'liceman if
Santa he should meet
He'll just go up an' speak to him
An' point him out our street.

SANTA AND THE BAD STOCKING

By D. B. CONOVER

[Copyright, 1906, by C. N. Lurie.]

"HURRAH for some fun!" cried a mischievous stocking.
And then, in a way that was really quite shocking,
It wiggled and waggled and pulled at its toe
Till a wee little hole began swiftly to grow.
Then it laughed: "Ha, ha, ha! How my mistress will scold
When this little pig goes to market a-cold!"

BUT nobody saw it, and so by the grate
The mischievous stocking was hung with its mate,
While Santa Claus drove with all speed through the night

To fill up the stockings for children's delight,
And at midnight—the clocks were just on the stroke—
Came the faithful old friend of the dear little folk.

HE looked at the stockings—"This never will do.

"NOTHING FOR YOU!"

Old Hole-in-the-Toe, I have nothing for you!"
But he plumped out the other and filled up a chair,
While the mischievous stocking looked black with despair.
And murmured as Santa Claus left it behind,
"There isn't much fun when one's naughty, I find."

"Jessie Christmas!"

Little Jessie woke up on Christmas morning and called to her four-year-old sister Mary:

"Merry Christmas!"

"Jessie Christmas!" promptly answered the baby.

Are There Others?

Christmas is coming
And Santa Claus, too,
And, being dead broke,
Lord, what shall I do?
The children will cry,
Their mother will pout—
I'll have to go try
Put my watch up the spout.

FOR SUNDAY READING

To do something, however small, to make others happier and better, is the highest ambition, the most elevating hope, which can spir uate ahman being.—Lord Avebury.

LIGHT AT EVENTIDE

Does darkness now enshroud thy way,
And is thy soul with grief oppressed?
Seems now thy care-worn heart to say,
Life is weary at its best?
Faint not, for all will soon be right—
"At eventide there shall be light."

Has thy morning lost its rosy hue,
And from thy heart has fled all song?
Does each hour bring its trial anew,
And sin's temptation prove too strong?
Press onward, upward, trust His might,
Who said, "At eventide let there be light."

"Let there be light," on precious thought,
My every doubt and fear allay,
What peace and hope Thou dost afford
When clouds conceal the light of day!
In Thee my faith takes higher flight,
And trusts "at eventide there shall be light."

—Christopher Taffe.

WITH THE SAGES

There are some persons that never arrive at any deep, solid, or valuable knowledge in any science, or any business of life, because they are perpetually fluttering over the surface of things, in a curious or wandering research of infinite variety.—Dr. Watt.

That song is sweetest, bravest, best,
Which plucks the thistle-barb of care
From a despondent brother's breast,
And plants a sprig of heart's ease there.

—Andrew Downing.

He that seeketh victory over his own nature, let him not set himself too great or too small tasks; for the first will make him dejected by often failings, and the second will make him a small procedure, though by often prevailings.—Bacon.

A good deed is never lost; he who sows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love; pleasure bestowed upon a grateful mind was never sterile, but generally gratitude begets reward.—Basil.

If you will be true to the best of yourself, living up to your nature, standing boldly by the truth of your word and satisfied therewith, then you will be a happy man.—Marcus Aurelius.

Acquiesce in the present without repining, remember the past with thankfulness, and meet the future hopefully and cheerfully, without fear or suspicion.—Diogenes.

We daily influence each other for good or evil. Let us not be the occasion of misleading others by our silence when we ought to speak.—J. H. Newman.

True happiness is to no spot confined; if you preserve a firm and constant mind,
'Tis here, 'tis everywhere.

—Wyma.

We frequently fall into error and folly, not because the true principles of action are not known, but because for the time they are not remembered.—Dr. Johnson.

It is wonderful that strength of purpose and boldness and energy of will are roused by the assurance that we are doing our duty.—Scott.

Life is very much like a kaleidoscope every turn in the morning means new combinations of beauty and interest.—A. T. Guttery.

S. S. LESSON.

Lesson XI., December 16. — Jesus risen from the dead.—Matt. 28, 1-15.

Golden Text.—He is risen, as he said. —Matt. 28, 6.

NOTES.

Places.—At and on the way from, the tomb near Golgotha; then in Jerusalem (vs. 11-15.)

Time.—On the 17th of Nisan, year of Rome 783.—answering to April 9, A.D. 30.

CRITICAL NOTES.

Verse 1.—Late on the Sabbath: Not "in the end of the Sabbath." This phrase is more exactly defined by what follows: as it began to dawn toward the first day of the week, which clearly points to the dawn of Sunday (which was not the Sabbath). The adjective "first" is feminine, and hence "day", which is feminine in Greek, must be supplied. So in all the accounts. But a difficulty arises from the fact that, according to Jewish usage, the Sabbath ended at sundown on Saturday. One explanation is that the words rendered "late" means "after", which is not borne out by usage. The other view is that "sabbath" is used to include the night following. This loose sense of the noun is more probable than the inexact sense of the adverb rendered "late". But there can be no doubt as to the time early on Sunday. The other Mary: "the mother of James and Joses" (chap. 27: 57, comp. Mark 14: 1). Salome was with them, according to Mark, and it is probable that she, not "the other Mary" was the sister of the mother of Jesus (John 19: 25.)

Verses 5-7 seem to have been spoken by the first angel to the smaller party of women, but the other accounts give similar language at a somewhat later point. It is probable that the appearance to Mary Magdalene (John) occurred shortly after this. — Hath been crucified: This form, indicating a permanent effect, is constantly used of the crucified Jesus.

Verse 8.—Departed quickly from the tomb: Mark 16: 8 refers to their coming out of the tomb. But a number of incidents and several angelic appearances seem to have occurred before this departure.

Verse 9.—Worshipped him: Religious worship seems to be meant here, since there is no previous instance of such worship by his followers.

Verse 10.—My brethren: Including his disciples, though not to the exclusion of others.

Verse 11.—Some of the guard: Roman soldiers.

Verse 12.—With the elders: Probably the Sanhedrin met.

Verse 14.—And if this come to the governor's ears: Or, "come to a hearing before the governor." The marginal rendering seems preferable, pointing to a public trial of the soldiers for neglect of duty.—Will persuade him: By bribery, to which Pilate was accessible.

Verse 15.—Was spread abroad: More literal than 'commonly reported."—And continueth until this day: This paraphrase gives the exact force of the Greek. The former clause points to the origin of the falsehood; this phrase to its continuance. The phrase also suggests that some time intervened between the resurrection and the writing of this Gospel, in its Greek form at least.—Sunday School Times.

"WIFE WHIPS ME" WAS HUSBAND'S LAMENT

Waterbury Man Said His Wife Had Been Horsewhipping Him for Years

Examiner Special.

Waterbury, Conn., Dec. 11.—"Yes, Judge, I did slap my wife's face, but I did it only because she had been horse-whipping me again," said Michael Powers, charged with wife-beating, in the Hartford Police Court this morning. "She has been horse-whipping me for years," he cried, and then collapsed in the witness box. So badly overcome was the prisoner that he had to be carried from the court room.

Policeman Whitehead arrested Powers on Thanksgiving Day, after Mrs. Powers had rushed into the street screaming that her husband was attacking her. Powers did not resist the officer, he only wept as he was led to the station house.

"My wife liked me up to a year ago," he said, when arraigned. "Then she began to grow tired of me. She used to tell me I was no good, and she won't even walk on the steets with me on Sunday afternoons. She is ashamed of me, Judge, though I don't know why, for I'm a decent, hard-working man that hasn't touched a drop in 27 years.

"I could stand that all, if she only wouldn't whip me. She's been using that horse whip on me for years. I never fought her back and I never told, because of the shame for her to have it known. I have even tried not to yell when the lash struck me in the face. When she brought out the whip to use on Thanksgiving Day, the day when we ought to have eaten together and been happy, I couldn't stand it any longer. I did slap her face, Judge. You would have done the same."

Mrs. Powers flatly denied the whipping. She said her husband had been brutal to her for a year and that was why she had lost her affection. Because of the strange contradictions in the evidence, Judge Garvan adjourned the case until Monday.

The Pope has received threatening letters predicting further outrages. The vigilance at the vatican has been increased.

Examiner's Comic Section

The Examiner is unable to-day to offer its readers what has been looked upon as one of the most enjoyable of the features of the Saturday Examiner, the Buster Brown page. Mr. Outcault, the clever cartoonist who depicts Buster in his amusing experiences, is ill and was unable to do his work this week. It is expected that next week the feature will be resumed.

The Adventures of Dolly Drake and Bobby Blake in Storyland

Drawn by GRACE G. WIEDERSEIM. Story by MARGARET G. HAYS.

"I AM MOTHER GOOSE"

"WE HAVE HAD MOST BOOFUL TIME"

"DOWN CAME A BIG WHITE GOOSE"

DOLLY DRAKE and Bobby Blake had been traveling so long in Storyland that they began to feel a little weary, and to long for "Home and Mother." They were very glad to meet a tall old lady with a long pointed nose, dressed in a long red cloak and high peaked cap, who said:

"Well, Dolly Drake and Bobby Blake, how have you enjoyed your visit to me in Storyland? I am Mother Goose."

"We have had a most 'booful' time," answered Dolly, and Bobby just grinned and stood with one foot over the other Mother Goose took them both on her lap, and they were feeling so lovely and comfy—till suddenly—Flip, Flap, Flop.

Down beside them came flying a great big white goose.

"Quack, Quack, Quack, Get on to my back,"
he said.

Dolly and Bobby clambered up on the big Goosey Gander's back, and Mother Goose kissed them both "goodby," not without difficulty, however, because her long pointed nose would get in the way.

So off flew the big white goose, Dolly and Bobby barely managing to cling to its slippery back. It seemed to grow slipp-rier and slipp-rier, till, at last, "Help!" Help!" cried Bobby. "I'm falling." Dolly was clinging to one of the goose's long yellow legs. When bang! bang! down they both fell . . . . . .

Bobby and Dolly sat up and rubbed their eyes and looked foolish—and where do you think they were? Sitting at the little tea table under the very apple tree where Mother Goose's invitation had been delivered to them. My goodness, but they were glad to be home again. And, strange to say, no one had even noticed that they had been away, visiting Mother Goose in Storyland.

PETERBOROUGH SATURDAY DECEMBER 15 1906

Mr. Rich. Hall, one of the trustees of the Nicholls Estate last night announced to the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. that he and Mr. Charles McGill had decided to present the Asssociation with the 100 feet south of the Association Building as a gift.

Dr. M. A. Morrison announces that he will not be a candidate for the mayoralty at the coming elections. He had been asked by a number of his friends to enter the field, but after consideration has decided to be a candidate only for Board of Education.

This is the Examiner's Christmas Edition, issued in the interests of the advertisers and shoppers of the city and district. It comprises 24 pages, 8 of which are illustrated, and contains many articles of more than ordinary interest.

GIFT TO PETERBOROUGH Y.M.C.A.

Trustees Hall and McGill, of the Nicholls Estate offer to Directors the lot 100 feet wide, to South of the Association Building

AN IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT

Five Trustees Elected by Board to Hold the Building and Land — A Generous Offer Gratefully Accepted by the Directors

Since the Peterborough Y. M. C. A. was established, no announcement has been made which has had a wider significance than that which Mr. Richard Hall, as one of the trustees of the Nicholls' estate, made to the Board of Directors of the Association last night.

On behalf of himself and Mr. Charles McGill, his fellow-trustee, Mr. Hall stated that the Y. M.C.A. would be made a present of the 100 feet of land, south of the present Association building, and this will be available for the use of the Association.

At the same time he asked that the Board of Directors elect a Board of Trustees, comprising five men, to act as custodians for the property of the Association, since he and Mr. McGill wished to give over to the Association the trusteeship of the property.

The new Board of Trustees, elected in accordance with the request, is as follows: Messrs. B. F. Ackerman, G. M. Roger, J. J. Howden, R. J. Kidd and Dr. D. W. Scott.

A special meeting of the Board of Directors of the Y.M.C.A. was held last night at the instance of Mr. Richard Hall, representing the trustees of the Nicholls estate, who are himself and Mr. Charles McGill.

There was a large attendance of the directors, Mr. R. E. Harding, the popular president, occupied the chair, and was congratulated on his recovery from recent illness.

A Surprise

He then introduced Mr. Richard Hall, who sprang a genuine surprise on the Board and said humorously, "Gentlemen, I have come to-night to force the sale of the lot on the south side of the building." He then presented his proposition, to the effect that the estate donate the sum of $4500 to the Association—the Association to purchase the lot, which has a frontage of about 100 feet, at $4000.

Appointed Trustees

He also stated that Mr. McGill and himself, who hold the Association building and lands as trustees, wish-

Company Increases Its Capital Stock $400,000

At Special Shareholders' Meeting of the Otonabee Power Company Yesterday, Stock was Increased to $600,000

MR. HOLGATE TO VISIT POWER PLANT

At the special meeting of the shareholders of the Otonabee Power Company held yesterday afternoon in the office of Messrs. Hall, Medd & Davidson, ratification was given to the by-law authorizing the increase of the capital stock of the company from $200,000 to $600,000, and steps will be taken at once to carry into effect the wish of the shareholders, as expressed yesterday.

To Enlarge Plant

It is understood that the action of the company in increasing its capital stock is for the purpose of enabling it to carry out the enlargement of the power plant, reference to which has already been made by the Examiner.

When the improvements and enlargements have been effected the Company will be in a position to supply a mush greater quantity of power, and be able to carry out its offer made conditionally to the council to supply the city with 500 horse power of electric energy to be used by new industries.

Mr. C. E. Holgate, of the electrical consulting engineering firm, of Montreal, will be in the city on Monday for the purpose of investigating the power development possibilities of the Company's property, and making a report on the most feasible method of securing the maximum quantity of power at an economical development.

Cold Weather Being Delayed

The Examiner failed yesterday. We admit it. We predicted much colder weather for to-day, and the conditions are just the reverse, being quite mild. In spite of the fact that the cold has not yet arrived, this paper believes that strong northwesterly winds, and colder weather are not far off. This is the first serious mistake the Examiner has made in a long series of fulfilled predictions, and it will be remembered that the Examiner took long chances in flying in the face of the predictions of the Toronto weather observatory, which sent out probs., calling for milder weather. It is probable, however, that more will be heard of this one mistake than of the 24 hits the paper made in its predictions. This only proves, though, the truth of the statement that there are exceptions to every rule, and this is the exception which proves it.

Last night the lowest registration of the thermometer was 16 above zero, and at noon to-day it was 36 above. To-night, though, it will become colder, and the fall in temperature predicted will be with us.

BANK OF TORONTO OPENS HASTINGS BRANCH

Mr. P. Campbell, Manager of Local Branch, Going to Hastings to Superintend Opening of New Branch

THIS BANK IS BRANCHING OUT

The Bank of Toronto will open a branch in the thriving village of Hastings on Monday next, and Mr. Peter Campbell will go down to superintend the inauguration of the new bank business. It is not known yet who will be the local manager, but somebody from the head office will be placed in charge pending the appointment of a permanent head. The new branch will find offices in Dr. Caughlin's building for the present. Dr. Caughlin will erect a special building for the bank next spring. It is probable that the new branch will do a good business, as Hastings, surrounded by a fine farming country, is taking on very progressive conditions.

Dr. Morrison Is Not A Candidate For Mayor

He Makes a Statement to This Effect To-day — Professional Duties will Not Allow Him to Accept Candidature

TO RUN FOR THE BOARD OF EDUCATION

Dr. Morrison will not be a candidate for the mayoralty for 1907.

To the Examiner to-day in an interview this information was given by the gentleman referred to. During the last few days statements have been made, associating his name with those of the two candidates who have already announced themselves, and strong representations have been made to him, with a view of having him allow his name to be placed in nomination and to contest the election.

No Time for Duties

He stated to-day, that he had decided, after having given the matter careful consideration that he would not enter the contest. The position of Chief Magistrate of a city of the importance of Peterborough demanded more time than his professional duties would permit him to give to the office, and, in view of this fact he would have to decline to be a candidate.

Dr. Morrison expressed his regret that he had found it impossible to accede to the wishes of his friends, who had urged him to be a candidate, and he wished to thank them for the many offers of support which he had received from them.

Candidate for Board of Education

He will again be a candidate for the Board of Education, and if elected promises to use his best efforts in advancing the educational interests of Peterborough; with which, during his term of office as a member of the Board he has become familiar, and to whose study has given considerable time.

KNOCKED DOWN BY A HORSE ON THE SIDEWALK

Harvey Man Injured by a Snow Plough Horse This Afternoon

An old gentleman from the township of Harvey almost met with a serious accident this afternoon in front of Brown & Co.'s real estate office on Water street. He was speaking to another gentleman, when a horse, attached to a snow-plough, knocked him down on the pavement, trampling on his ankle and injuring it badly.

He was able to walk, however, after the accident, although he suffered some pain.

WHEN SANTY COMES

BY [illegible] WHITE

WHEN Santy comes an' scoots down through
The hole that's in the chimney flue
An' hops out here, I bet he'll bring
Whole lots of toys an' everything
That little girls like best. Don't you?

AN' there'll be dolls with dresses new
An' eyes that open big an' blue
When they sit up—an' cry an' sing,
When Santy comes.

AN' he'll fetch nuts an' candy, too,
An' cats that, when you squeeze 'em, mew.
My brother Bob he says, I fing,
He'd like to sit round listening.
He says: "I'll tell you what I'd do.
I'd jist jump out an' holler 'Boo!'
When Santy comes."

The C.P.R. Will Double Track Its Line From Peterborough to Montreal in Near Future

Big Plans Which This Company Has In View for the Extension of its Business in Ontario—Will Spend Much Money in This Section

The C. P. R., from Smith's Falls to Peterborough will be double tracked in the near future.

This is the statement made to-day in the Toronto Globe, and will be of especial interest in Peterborough. Tenders have been already called for the double tracking of the road from Smith's Falls to Montreal, and as soon as this work has been completed the the track west of the former town to this city, will be doubled. At the same time arrangements are being made to build another line along the coast line of Lake Ontario, and surveys are already completed for this line, which will run from a point near Kingston to Toronto.

As to the policy which will be followed east of Cobourg, nothing definite can be learned. The district surrounding Peterborough is rugged in character. Surveys are therefore being made from Cobourg through to Campbellford and thence to Tweed, and from Belleville north to a point near Tweed. The reason for getting these surveys is to find out the best possible grade for a new line to connect Cobourg and the old main line. The present road to Montreal is via Peterborough and Smith's Falls. Unless a new line is constructed directly through to Montreal from here, some connection must be made between the new road and the old at a point where the new ceases to follow the coast line of the lake. It is therefore necessary to learn the character of the country thoroughly.

MILK INSPECTION

A letter printed in these columns a day or two ago from Dr. Poole, V.S., very reasonably called attention to the inadvisability of selecting persons not properly qualified by profession or occupation to perform the work of milk inspection. This is a very important matter. After too long a delay, a milk bylaw was enacted, providing for licensing dealers and for sanitary inspection of their premises and cows. A German scientist claims that tuberculous diseases are largely due to the use of infected milk. Whether or not this be true to the extent claimed, there is no doubt that too great care cannot be exercised in providing wholesome milk, free from suspicion of deleterious conditions. It stands to reason that men who have made the diseases and conditions of animals a special study, and who hold diplomas of qualifications in these regards, would make far more efficient inspectors and be able to detect symptoms of lung jaw or tuberculosis more readily than a layman having no special training or qualifications. A lawyer, or mechanic, or ordinary business man would not be selected as a Medical Health Officer, but a properly qualified physician. On the same principle, a man, specially qualified by his professional training and practice is naturally indicated as a suitable person to perform the important duties of inspection in connection with the supply of wholesome and pure milk to our citizens.

MAGNIFICENT AREAS

Figures are dull reading, as a general thing, but a few, together with a little comparison, will give, what very few Canadians, perhaps, possess, some idea of the immense extent of our Northwest possessions. The baby provinces of Canada, in point of time, but the giants, in point of area, Alberta and Saskatchewan, are divided by the 110th degree of longitude west from Greenwich. They lie between British Columbia and Manitoba, on the west and east, respectively, and between the international boundary, at the 49th parallel, on the south, and the 60th parallel on the north. Alberta has an area of 251,120 square miles, or over sixteen million acres; Saskatchewan contains 242,332 square miles, or over fifteen and a half million acres. The area of the two provinces combined is 504,109 square miles. From north to south these provinces measure a length of 760 miles, or as great as the distance in a straight line, from Windsor, the westernmost city of Ontario, to the mouth of the Saguenay, about one hundred and fifty miles east of Quebec city. These figures may mean nothing definite to the average reader, But some more exact idea may be gained from the statement that this half a million square miles of area, is as large as the united areas of Great Britain, Germany and France, as well as the States of Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota and the two Dakotas, and more than twice as large as the six New England states, together with New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana. And what is better, nearly the whole of this vast expanse is arable land, underlaid with vast area of coal, capable of producing all sorts of grains, there being only about ten thousand square miles of water area. Indeed, in the northernmost parts of the provinces between the 58th and the 60th parallel, splendid grain crops mature perfectly. Some of the world's prize wheat has been grown at Fort Vermillion, north of the 58th degree of latitude; and this is not the limit of production, for on the Liard River, three degrees farther north, the sweep of the isothermic lines, brings a climate warmer than any part of the country contiguous to the Peace River.

CANADIAN FISHERIES

People in these inland regions, where our conceptions of the importance of fish are coloured by the more or less mendacious chronicles of the versatile amateur or sporting fisherman, can hardly realize the extent and value of our salt water fisheries. Most of us will be surprised at the revelations of the annual report of the Dominion Minister of Fisheries. This report tells us that the value of our fisheries last year totalled the large sum of $29,500,000, figures exceeding those which represent the total mineral production of Canada. To this total the rosy-meated British Columbia salmon contributed nearly nine millions. The Government is making every effort to strengthen and improve this source of national wealth and the modest herring promises to become an important addition to the salmon, lobsters, cod and white fish, which constitute our staple fish crop. The importation of Scotch lassies to superintend the curing of our herring according to the Scotch method, has proved that the quality of the Canadian herring is equal to that of their Scotch prototypes.

A GOOD LAW

Hon. Sidney Fisher, Minister of Agriculture, is as practical and successful a Minister as he is a farmer. He believes in taking the tide of the trade at the flood. The revolting disclosure made of methods in Chicago packing houses has blasted the reputation and wrecked the popularity of American tinned meats, fruits and vegetables. This evil reputation has been of advantage to Canada, where investigation has shown that Canadian potted meats and tinned fruits are not subjected to any serious or deleterious impropriety of preparation. The bill to be fathered by Mr. Fisher, and which will become law, is designed to provide a system of inspection which will place the products of Canadian packing houses and canneries in the same class as Caesar's wife. This bill will provide for efficient inspection of all Canadian meat packing places, so that improper practices and filthy methods that may not be detected by chemical analysis may be prevented. The provisions of the law will also extend inspection to all canned meats, fruits, vegetables and fish. All canned meats will have to bear the official inspection stamp before they can be exported, and what is very important—canned vegetables will have to bear on every can or tin the name of the canner and date of canning. Thus any breach of the law in regard to improper canning, use of improper fruit or preservatives can readily be brought home to the guilty party, and the public will be amply protected from dishonest methods in these forms of food. Canadians have as yet a good name for honest products in the British markets, and the law referred to will tend to extend our good name, by demonstrating that every effort is being made to secure the purest production of prepared foods. Every year our exports of food stuffs of every kind are entering the British markets in increased volume. There is, so far as the productive capacity of this country is concerned, a limitless market for our goods of prime quality, and so long as we maintain the quality of our products and also provide that what we sell shall be what we profess to sell, that market will be wide open to us.

CENTRAL PRISON LABOUR

Expansion is the key note of the conditions of these present stirring times. Our factory buildings and our business houses are continually expanding to meet the requirements of enlarged orders and increasing business. Even the Central Prison business is growing beyond the capacity of accommodation and Warden Gilmour is calling for more room. A suggestion might help the Whitney Government out, and prevent the erection of costly additions to the buildings. The proposition is submitted. Instead of the prisoners being kept at work in cramped quarters under conditions that do not permit of their doing justice to the private parties to whom the Government sells prison labour at 3 cents an hour, let the prisoners be farmed out to large manufacturing establishments in the vicinity like the Massey-Harris Works, etc. To oblige the Government these establishments would probably consent to pay three cents an hour. Besides, if the matter were handled astutely—if Col. Matheson, Provincial Treasurer, who performed the brilliant feat of selling an Ontario dollar for ninety-six cents, were to conduct the negotiations, these establishments might be persuaded to pay the high price of 3 cents an hour and keep their own machinery in order, thus saving the large sum which the Government is now paying for keeping the Central Prison machinery in order, in the interests of a private party.

or parties. It is true that this arrangement would put out of employment a small army of honest workmen who earn, perhaps, 30 cents an hour. But that would not worry the Government, which seems to be quite willing as shown by the continuance of the odious Central Prison contract, to sacrifice the interests of labour to the interests of their own friends.

LADY FOUND DEAD IN NEIGHBOR'S FIELD

Tragic Death of an Old Lady who Lived Near Lindsay—Had Lain in Field From Saturday to Last Thursday

CIRCUMSTANCES ARE PARTICULARLY SAD

Examiner Special.

Lindsay, Dec. 15.—Last Saturday, a bitterly cold day, an aged woman, named Mary Heenan, who lived about six miles east of Lindsay, walked to town to do some shopping. She never returned to her home, and on Thursday some of the neighbours found the body lying in the field of Mr. Wesley Gillson.

Empty House

The deceased lived alone in a small house on a fifty-acre farm, and, we understand, was in rather poor circumstances. However, under no conditions would she consent to enter the County House of Refuge, although friends had continually begged of her to do so. On Thursday a neighbour visited her little home and found the place empty, with no traces whatever of the recent presence of the aged occupant. He notified other neighbours, and all went in search of the missing woman.

Succumbed to Cold

When coming home from Lindsay she had evidently started across a field as a short cut home, and it is surmised that, owing to the effects of fatigue and cold, she was forced to rest on the hard, cold ground, as when found, her basket of purchases was by her side and a small bundle rolled up under her head.

There being no suspicion of foul play, Coroner Burrows deemed an inquest unnecessary, and issued the usual certificate.

WEDDING BELLS

PATTERSON--GOUGH

The many friends of Mr. Wilfrid Patterson, formerly of this city, but now residing in Souris, Manitoba, will be interested to learn of his marriage, which took place recently in that town. The bride was Miss Ethel Gough, of Winnipeg, and formerly of Montreal. Mr. Patterson is a son of Mr. George Patterson, 655 George street, and has been in the west three years. He has a host of friends in this city who will unite in offering congratulations.

ELECTED TO VICE PRESIDENCY AT CONVENTION

Mr. Chas. Curtis, of This City, is Now One of the Vice-Presidents of the Clay Manufacturers' Association

NEXT CONVENTION TO BE IN OTTAWA

Mr. Charles Curtis, of this city, has been elected to the position of vice-president of the Clay Manufacturers' Association, at the convention of that body, which was held in Toronto yesterday. This convention is described as one of the most successful ever held under this auspices, and many interesting as well as valuable features were brought out in the various discussions at the different sessions.

The new officers elected yesterday were:—President, Mr. J. B. Miller, Doncaster, Ont.; Vice-Presidents, Messrs J. S. McConnell, Milton; Charles Curtis, Peterborough; and James Cornnill, Chatham; Secretary-Treasurer, Mr. Chas. Bechtel, Waterloo; Executive Committee, Messrs. S. J. Fox, M.P.P., Lindsay; Joseph Russell, Toronto; J. M. Mulligan, Ottawa; D. Martin, Thamesville; C. M. Pears, Toronto Junction; W. McCreadie, Lyons, and A. W. Wright, Toronto.

It was decided that the next meeting should be held at Ottawa in December, 1907. A paper on "Down Draft Kilns" was read by Mr. McCreadie, and a humorous address was given by Mr. H. De Joannais of Chicago. Mr. A. M. Wickens claimed that 90 per cent. of heat was wasted in exhaust steam, and that this heat could be applied to the drying of brick. He stated there was one and one-half pounds of water in each green brick.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Stanley Eggleton, of Peterborough, was here this week on a visit to his brother, Arthur.—Marmora Herald.

Miss Alma Dawson of Montreal, a niece of Mrs. J. G. Potter, returned home this morning after a week's visit at St. Andrew's manse.

Mr. S. W. Lowrie, the porter at R. Fair & Co's establishment, who was slightly injured early in the week, was able to resume his duties at the store yesterday.

Mrs. O. Mowry, Stewart street, gave an author party last night in honour of Miss Julia Choate, of Wargaw. A most enjoyable evening was spent by those present.

THE ART EXHIBITION A SUCCESS

Many Interested Visitors Have Admired the Work of the Women's Art Association

The exhibition of the Women's Art Association's Peterborough Branch, which has been held this week in the new studio of the Branch, on Simcoe street has been a decided success, in spite of the fact that the exhibition was arranged more or less hurriedly. During the afternoons of the days of the exhibition the studio has been visited by a large number of persons interested in art, and many expressions of commendation on the enterprise and energy of the ladies who arranged the exhibit, as well as on the decided artistic ability to which it gave unmistakable evidence were passed.

The lovers of art in the city will, no doubt, be unanimous in their hope that, since a studio has been secured exhibitions similar to that which closes this afternoon will be held frequently.

PEOPLE FROM OUTSIDE POINTS PURCHASE HERE

A Noticeable Fact and One That Should Be Most Pleasing to Local Merchants

It is becoming more evident to the merchants of this city that people from outside points are coming to Peterborough to make important purchases. The trains that entered the city to-day carried a large number of people from Keene, Hastings, Lakefield, Omemee, Norwood and other points. Of course they were mostly interested in selling their produce, but with many others, who had nothing for sale, they purchased Christmas goods, etc. It is also noticeable that in the spring, summer and autumn when the local merchants are carrying full lines of the styles for those seasons the best citizens of those villages generally come to Peterborough for their wants. It demonstrates that the local merchants can give as good satisfaction as those of Toronto or Montreal, and that the city is gradually becoming like those cities as a buying centre.

HOGS ARE DROPPING A LITTLE IN PRICE

The price of hogs at the local market has fallen somewhat in price of a few days ago. Live hogs during the next few days will be $6 per cwt., a decrease of ten cents from the past week.

Hogs are rather plentiful throughout the country, and for this reason the price is falling a little. Dressed hogs, whole, are selling at $8 to to $8.50 per cwt.

THE CHRISTMAS KERMISS, WILL OPEN MONDAY

This Unique Event Will Doubtless be Visited by Many During Next week—Patrons Will be Interested.

—The Yuletide Kermess opens on Monday, at 11 a.m., in the Market Hall, and will continue each afternoon and evening until Friday, inclusive. The hall will be open each day from 11 a.m. till 11 p.m. During these hours hot meals may be had, and an oyster supper will be served every night at 9 o'clock. Elaborate preparations have been made to interest our patrons, and the entertainment provided at the Kermess will be sufficiently varied to please all who honour us with their presence.

OTONABEE THRESHER MEETS WITH SERIOUS ACCIDENT

Leg Broken Beneath the Beams of Bobsleighs While He Was Returning Home

Mr. Doherty, an Otonabee thresher, had his leg broken the other day, in a peculiar manner. He had been threshing for Mr. McMann, a farmer residing near Heap's brickyard, and in the evening drove home on an empty bob-sleigh. There being no box on the sleigh he sat on the front bunk, allowing his legs to hang over. One of them accidentally got caught under the first beam, breaking it almost instantly before he could remove it.

BAND NIGHTS AT THE JACKSON PARK RINK

Good Music for Tuesdays and Fridays of Each Week.

The inclement weather last night interfered with the arrangements made to have the band at the Jackson Park rink, as advertised. Henceforth, however, the band will be at the rink on Tuesday and Friday of each week, an arrangement that will no doubt be appreciated by the patrons of this popular winter resort.

All that is required now is another cold spell to get everything in shape for what promises to be a most successful season.

DO IT NOW! AND AT STRATTON'S BOOKSTORE

No "beating about the bush" now—no running around any more, when gift-selecting can all be done at Stratton's. Cut out non-essentials. Begin at once. Start to-night! The sooner you come, the greater the pleasure. It's simply marvellous the thousands of things there are in this great bookstore to fascinate old and young on Christmas morning, and to make pleasure and education all the year round. It's far and away the handsomest gift shop in the Dominion. It contains twice, three times as much rare, costly and inexpensive, bright, new goods, right up to the calendar, than all the others put together. A. H. Stratton & Co., Peterborough Bookstore.

MORRIS-THURSTON CO.

On next Monday night the Morris-Thurston Stock Company, said to be the best repertoire show in Canada, will open a week's engagement at the Grand Opera House in the dramatic comedy, "In Greater New York." In the company are several clever vaudeville artists, who will be introduced between the acts of the different plays, in pleasing, up-to-date specialties.

There will be an entire change of bill at each performance. Prices during the week will be popular ones—10, 20 and 30 cents. Ladies will be admitted free Monday night if accompanied by an escort holding one paid thirty-cent ticket.

SNOW FROM THE ROOFS IS CAUSING TROUBLE

Complaints About Avalanches from the Market Building

As is usual with every period of mild weather, during the winter, complaints are being made to-day about the avalanches of snow which fall from the roof of the market building onto George street. To-day several large sections fell which might have inflicted serious injuries if they had hit some of the many passers-by whom they narrowly missed. One woman in particular had a very narrow escape, a large piece of snow and ice dropping at her feet.

Some precautions should be taken to have the snow removed or a serious accident may result.

WANTS THE SIDEWALKS CLEARED FOR SHOP GIRLS

Editor Post Card Column:

Is there a bylaw by which owners of property are compelled to clear the sidewalks facing their property? My impression is that a bylaw to this effect was enacted, but later I came to the conclusion that I was mistaken, because I see that to-day very few persons have cleared their walks. Can you enlighten me? If there is such a law why is it not enforced?

SHOP GIRL.

The correspondent is informed that there is a bylaw as outlined, and the Chief of Police has warned the property owners and tenants that it is the intention of the Police Department to enforce it.

BEAUTIFUL WINDOWS OF THE LOCAL MERCHANTS

Many of Them Surpass All Attempts of the Past in Novel Artistic Designs

OUR MERCHANTS RECEIVE HIGH PRAISE

That the Christmas season is at hand cannot be gainsaid by anyone who has seen the artistically dressed windows of the business places of the city. Everywhere are displayed gift suggestions and other signs that the game of give and take is not far away. The problem of window dressing is one of the most important which a merchant has to face at this season of the year, and every effort is made to obtain designs that will catch and hold the eye of the passerby and at the same time surpass the attempts of his competitors.

In these advanced days window dressing has become a science. Every merchant does it no matter what business he may be engaged in. He sell pianos or perhaps only clothespins, but he dresses his window just the same and the result is that the artistic displays are traps in which the weary gift-hunters often fall.

Great strides in this line have been made during the last few years. Gone are the days when a few holly leaves and a sickly looking Christmas tree marked the holiday season and only a few of the merchants made any effort such as are made nowadays to rival their fellows and to mark the arrival of the gift season.

Now things are different. The windows contain in some cases the most valuable goods in the stores.

The work of window dressing is a heavy task so much so that an expert is employed for that purpose in many of the stores. There is no longer desire to place in the windows any old thing as long as it suggests the Christmas season. On the other hand every effort is made to achieve a design that will surpass the decorative schemes of every one else.

Peterborough is singularly fortunate in having a large number of merchants who have solved the mysteries of catchy window designs. The beautiful windows of George street are frequently commented upon by visitors, who state that in this matter, Peterborough surpasses places far larger. It is a matter for congratulation that the enterprise of our merchants should result in those statements. It may be said that the decorations this year surpass anything ever attempted before in this city. And never were there so many attractive presentations of gift suggestions as may be seen in the local stores at this time.

The New York Stock Market

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Dec. 15.—The stock market opened firm and active and stocks resumed yesterday's advance. Traders were not bearish, but were going slow waiting for the bank statement, which was very good, although reserves still show good deficit. St. Paul responded to the advance in London, and acted well. The floating supply was a little better. The Flower party says B.R.T. is going higher, a favourable decision in the five-cent fare question is expected by the company. The Morgan brokers succeeded in making the Hill roads new capitalization look better. The fact that the extensive foreign holdings did not come out on the break is a very good sign. Gt. Nor. ore land certificates are being bought freely for investment. The market closed quiet, but quite strong.

A GENTLEMAN PRESENTS GOOSE FOR MOST WORTHY

Police Gave It to Mrs. Webb of the North End. Many Other Men of Means Should do Likewise.

A gentleman called at the police station this morning and with commendable generosity presented a large goose to the police to be given to whom they thought most worthy. The kindness of this gentleman is most praiseworthy, and could be easily imitated by other men of large means, especially at this time of the year, when everybody should be endeavouring to spread happiness and good cheer. Chief Rowell gave the fowl to Mrs. Webb, a resident of the northern part of the city, and the gift was certainly appreciated by her.

EDMUND BURKE AS A MAN SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Rev. Father Kelly Dealt with This Interesting Subject in Masterly Manner at T. A. S. Literary Society Meeting

ONE OF BEST PROGRAMMES OF SERIES

The reputation the Ladies' Literary Society of St. Peter's T. A. S. has gained for presenting programmes of literary excellence was ably sustained by the meeting held in their rooms last evening. Rev. Father Kelly's lecture on Edmund Burke was a masterly treatment of the subject, and both on account of the pleasing manner of its delivery and its lucid presentation of facts, was a source of pleasure and profit to those who heard it.

The life of this noble Irishman, who, in a century remarkable for intellectual greatness, stood foremost as writer, orator and statesman, presented many aspects, and of these, a most interesting one was chosen and ably dealt with, viz: Burke, as a man. It was shown that Edmund Burke, having, by prodigious labour, become a power in the state, used that power always for the betterment of his fellow-men.

His early life as a delicate boy with a taste for discoursive reading, who studied while his companions played, was touched upon. So carefully was his reading done that a book, once read, became a possession for life.

Early in life, the spirit of work which he afterwards developed to such a marvelous degree, was displayed. Soon after entering Parliament he became known as the greatest worker there. In this connection was spoken of his stupendous efforts to redress the wrongs of trampled India. He spent twenty years in study of the social progress of India, and in making himself completely master of its political affairs. The peroration of his "Impeachment of Warren Hastings" was re-written fifteen times.

Father Kelly next spoke in detail of his defence of the rights of the North American colonies. To the minute and exact knowledge on every subject on which he spoke, Burke joined a power of diction which stamps him as the first orator of modern times. His beautiful periods, characterized by clear reasoning and illustrated by a wealth of imagery, have never been equalled.

The power which his consummate ability give him was invariably used on the side of justice, regardless of opposition. He strove for reconciliation of America against king, lords and commons. With prophetic eye, he clearly foresaw the dire effects of the French revolution, and his intense horror of its tendency to infidelity and anarchy gave rise to his "Reflections on the French Revolution." On this subject, as on others, he stood alone until time proved his course.

Other illustrations used show his fidelity to the principle of justice, in spite of persistent opposition, were his defence of economical reform and his defence of the rights of Irish Catholics.

The close of his life, "the setting of the splendid orb," was fittingly portrayed, his "Letters to a Noble Lord" being quoted in this connection.

At the conclusion of the lecture, Rev. Father McColl expressed the great pleasure derived from the excellent lecture, and, in a brief resume of the subject, emphasized some of the interesting characteristics.

Rev. Dr. O'Brien also expressed to Father Kelly the thanks of the society for his kindness in preparing the lecture.

The lecture was preceded by the following programme:

Vocal Solo—Master Joe Clancy.
Recitation—Miss M. Kennedy.
Vocal Solo—Miss Gertie Clancy.

The next meeting will be held on Friday evening, January 4, when a paper on "The Lily of Israel" will be read by Miss L. Sullivan.

NEW SUBJECTS TO BE TAUGHT IN PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Card Board Cutting, Clay Moulding, Paper Folding and Crayon and Water Colouring to be Taught

WILL BE INTRODUCED AFTER XMAS

A change, it is understood, will be made in the number of subjects taught in the Public Schools of this city, or rather, an addition will be made to the present curriculum after the Christmas holidays. The days of reading, writing and arithmetic, as the premier subjects, belong to the golden past. Now enlightened minds are demonstrating that a general education along many lines is the greatest benefit for the the average Public School pupil. The new innovation is one that has been slowly evolved, beginning, perhaps, with the introduction of advanced kindergarten classes in the lower forms. After school opens in January, the following studies will be commenced: Card-board cutting, clay moulding, paper folding and crayon and water colouring.

This being a period of advancement along almost every line, the Public School has not been neglected. Experiments have been made from time to time, new methods introduced, and new subjects taught. Some of these have proved very successful, but others did not, and were abandoned.

Many of these novelties, if they may be so called, have been dubbed "fads" by conservative teachers. Other teachers, however, have demonstrated that science is applicable to methods of teaching as well as to any other work. A child is not sent to school to have its head crammed with the rudiments of three or four subjects. The education should be broader, and broader it is becoming. The present curriculum will be very much enlarged in the course of a few years, according to present predictions. What teacher in the Public Schools twenty-five years ago thought of teaching nature study as it is taught to-day, or of maintaining a school garden for educational purposes? What teacher ever thought of teaching physics or domestic science to any extent or of giving a child a musical or manual training? Practically none, because these subjects have been introduced only very lately in Public Schools, but are now generally taught.

Therefore, in keeping with its progress in every other direction, the Public School Board of this city has authorized, on the instructions from the Department of Education, the teaching of the subjects mentioned above. Most of these have been previously taught, but crayon and water colouring are entirely new. Some of the best and most modernly equipped schools in the Province have even gone further, and are teaching music and other similar subjects as manual training, but these will have to be slowly evolved in the local schools from the present new subjects.

The benefits to be derived from this new work are readily manifest. Card-board cutting, clay moulding and paper folding will be good substitutes for advanced methods of manual training, and will serve until arrangements are made for complete equipment for that work. They are, at any rate, splendid subjects in themselves, and will tend to develop the artistic tastes of the pupils. Their observation powers will be increased, as also should their sense of uniformity and regularity of outlines be quickened.

Crayon and water colouring will probably be taught only to the more advanced pupils. These studies should be beneficial to the culture of the artistic minds among the pupils, giving them all a general idea of this division of art. Considering everything, this movement seems a very wise one, and there are no reasons why it should not be a success. The local teachers are practically all fully qualified for the work, as it is a part of their preparation for the teaching profession. In fact, it seems that the movement is years late. The time that will be devoted to these studies will certainly not interfere with the other studies, and as they are not examination subjects there is no valid reason why the new movement should not be adopted, and furthermore, it should prove an immense success.

Other schools have demonstrated the wisdom of such steps and have rapidly advanced with the work. It will be a decided change for the pupils and will be a source of great interest to them, and will be a relief from the monotony of other studies. The teachers appear to be heartily in accord with the introduction of these subjects, and if, after Christmas, they really are instituted, the general public and all that are interested should look forward to the successful advancement of the movement and the adoption of domestic science, manual training and the study of music, besides physical culture.

THE MOTHERS' GUILD GAVE ENJOYABLE SUPPER

A Most Successful Oyster Supper Under the Auspices of the Mothers' Guild of St. Luke's Church

A GOOD REPUTATION WELL SUSTAINED

Although the audience at St. Luke's Mothers' Guild oyster supper and entertainment was not as large as it would have been had the weather been more favourable, those who were present last night were well repaid for facing the snowstorm. The members of the Mothers' Guild sustained their reputation for providing the best, and had no difficulty in satisfying even the most fastidious.

There was also a fish-pond, which was well patronized by the children, as was also the candy table. The programme was of a high order. Rev. E. A. Langfeldt was chairman. With him on the platform was the Rev. Dr. Crothers.

The opening selection was an instrumental duet by the Misses Lizzie and Florence Scott, which was very excellently executed, and encored by the audience. Miss Marion Elliott delighted all with her singing and had to respond to an encore. Mrs. Hopwood gave a recitation entitled "Aunt Dolaful," which was splendidly rendered and highly appreciated. She responded to a hearty encore by reciting "Coodling Doon." The next number was a violin solo by Miss Maude Crothers, accompanied on the piano by Miss Crothers. Her playing on the violin manifested a fine technique and confident mastery of the instrument, and was heartily applauded.

The feature of the evening was an address by Rev. Dr. Crothers, who is always a very welcome visitor to St. Luke's people. He was called upon by the rector to give an address, and upon rising was cheerfully applauded. His address was full of good advice to mothers, inspiring, and greatly enjoyed by the audience, who showed their appreciation of it by excellent attention and interest.

After the address another vocal solo was given by Miss Elliott, and a violin solo by Miss Maude Crothers. The accompanists of the evening were the Misses Crothers and Miss Mulholland.

The splendid programme was brought to a close by the singing of the National Anthem and the benediction by the rector.

FORMER PASTOR WILL PREACH AT MARK STREET

Rev. James Thom, B.A., will be Special Preacher at Anniversary Services on December 23rd

On Sunday, December 23rd, the Sunday school anniversary services in connection with the George street Methodist church, will be held, and sermons will be preached for the occasion by Rev. James Thom, of Toronto, a former pastor of the church, whose presence here will no doubt add materially to the interest and pleasure of the services. On the same day Rev. J. G. Lewis will go to Oshawa, to preach Sunday school anniversary sermons.

NEW BRANCH TO THE POPULAR RESTAURANT

Mr. W. J. McCallum Secures New Chef and Adds Cooked Meat Branch to His Business

Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of the well-known restaurant, has added a new branch to his business, and in future anyone who so desires, can secure a nicely dressed and well roasted chicken, duck or turkey, all ready for the table. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jenvery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price. eod

THIRTIETH ANNUAL MEETING OF ST. PAUL'S W.F.M.S.

Most Satisfactory Reports Were Presented and Interesting Addresses Given.

THE NEW OFFICERS WERE ELECTED

The thirteenth annual meeting of the W. F. M. S. of St. Paul's Church was held yesterday afternoon, when, in spite of the inclement weather, there was a large attendance. The president, Miss Dickson, was in the chair.

The meeting opened with devotional exercises conducted by Mrs. Robert Hall, after which the president gave an earnest and helpful address, taking as the basis of her remarks, the parable of the talents.

Report of Secretary

The secretary's report, which was as follows, was presented by Miss Alice Hall:

At the close of another year, as we view the work of the Auxiliary, we find much that is encouraging and gratifying, and we would rejoice in the progress made and in the measure of success granted, ascribing all glory to Him Who has led and guided us. Interesting and profitable meetings have been held each month during the year, with the exception of August. Well-prepared programmes have been arranged, two ladies having charge of the meeting each month. This year Dux Christas has formed the basis of our study and we find that this systematic plan of study has increased the knowledge and interest in our work in the mission fields.

We are pleased to report a decided increase in the number of subscribers to the Tidings—120 are now subscribing to this most interesting leaflet which tells of the heroic work of our missionaries, and cannot fail to incite those who read it to greater efforts in the work of the Master. Our total membership is 118 of the Auxiliary, 49 are members of the General Society and 19 are life members. The average attendance is 50. This year we were asked to clothe a boy and girl at the school at Crowstand, and in August a bale of clothing, quilts and other useful articles, valued at $70, was shipped for that purpose. Our annual thanksgiving meeting, held in October, was well attended, the offering amounting to $304.70, the most liberal we have as yet received.

During the year our Auxiliary has suffered the loss of a most devoted member in the person of Mrs. Fife, who moved to the West. Mrs. Fife at all times gave of her time and abilities willingly for the furtherance of our work. In closing, may I be permitted to quote a few words taken from the president's address, given at the annual meeting held in Winnipeg: "Above all, we must be faithful in our ministry of prayer. In this particular, we have not risen to the height of our privileges. One great purpose of our meeting from month to month should be to present out hearts in united supplication for God's blessing and guidance. In many instances prayer has a very small place in the exercises of the home. Complete organization, correct methods and well-prepared papers and addresses have their place, but without the vitalizing power of God's holy spirit working in and through them, they fail in the blessed results they might otherwise be. Let us then strive more earnestly in the coming days to rise to the height of our possibilities in Christ Jesus, and let us keep in mind His great promises concerning prayer, and ask in faith that all believers may be filled with the Holy Spirit and go forward in a new power to to win the world for Christ."

Miss Kingan presented the financial statement, showing that the receipts amounted to $567.17 and the expenditures to $38.80, showing a balance of $468.37.

Election of Officers

After the reports were read, the election of officers took place and resulted as follows:

Honourary President—Mrs. Fairbairn.
President—Miss Dickson.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. (Rev. Dr.) Torrance.
2nd Vice-President —Mrs. Dennistoun.
Secretary—Miss A. M. Hall.
Treasurer—Miss Kingan.
Literary Secretary—Miss Brown.
Librarian—Miss Nina Davidson.
Organist—Miss Simpson.
Executive Committee—Mrs. Roger, Mrs. Wm. Davidson, Mrs. Turner, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. Innes, Mrs. Ferguson, Mrs. Carmichael, Mrs. Shook, Mrs. Munro, Mrs. McKee.

Miss Florence Hamilton presented the report of the Fraser Mission Band, and Miss A. Davidson that of the Willing Workers, both of which were most satisfactory.

Mrs. Ross, of Lindsay, gave a most interesting address, referring to the work in the distant mission fields of India, Japan and South America, and spoke of the marvelous outpouring of the spirit in far-off lands. She closed with an earnest appeal for more earnestness and consecration in missionary work.

At the conclusion of her address, which was listened to with close attention, a hearty vote of thanks was passed to Mrs. Ross.

Mrs. Dickson Hall contributed a solo that was greatly enjoyed.

Greetings were received from St. John's, St. Andrew's, George Street, and Murray Street Churches, after which the meeting was brought to a close by a prayer by the Rev. Dr. Torrance.

REV. DR. BISHOP THE SPEAKER TO-MORROW

At the Men's Meeting in the Y. M. C. A His Subject "The Sacredness of the Bible"

Every man in the city should hear Rev. G. J. Bishop, D.D., at the Y.M.C.A., on Sunday at 4 o'clock. He is one of the leading preachers of the province. His subject will be: "The Sacredness of the Body." Miss Reesor, soloist of the George street Methodist church, will sing.

GIFT TO PETERBOROUGH Y. M. C. A.

ed to be relieved of their duty, and he requested that the Board recommend five gentlemen as a new Board of Trustees, it being provided in the will of the late Mrs. Nicholls that they be actually elected by the trustees of her estate.

The difference between the donation made and the price of the land, is to constitute a gift to be current debt of the Association.

Gift Appreciated

Mr. Shook, 1st Vice-President of the Association, in moving a resolution accepting the generous proposition, said that words could not express the appreciation of this wise act by the Trustees.

Mr. R. J. Kidd, 2nd Vice-President in seconding the motion, spoke in the same strain and pointed out that it meant enlargement and progress. It now remains with the Board and citizens to use the lot for the needed extension of the work.

Mr. R. E. Harding then gave a little history of how the Association came into the use of the lot, and how the Trustees in this as well as in all other matters relating to the welfare of the Association had shown the greatest interest and co-operation.

"They have treated us handsomely" was the way Mr. William Madill expressed it, as he told of the splendid way in which the executors had administered the estate—sifting the hospital, the Y.M.C.A., the Parks, the Mechanics Institute, etc.

What it Means

Mr. Galley spoke of what the gift of the lot meant to the development of the boys' work.

Mr. G. H. Williamson also added a few words commending the Trustees for their foresight in making it possible to have the Y.M.C.A. keep pace with the needs of the great city Peterborough was destined to be. A boys' building was much needed and would surely be an early possibility in connection with the work.

Mr. J. W. Bennet spoke as one of the directors who had had a part in the erection of the building. The Trustees had given these extras not because they were obliged to do so, but by reason of the discretionary powers given them in the will of the Mrs. Nicholls.

The trustees had given the directors a free hand in the erection of the building and for this they were deeply grateful.

Mr. H. C. Stabler said he was not surprised at the action of the trustees. He felt all along that that was what they would do for he knew the men.

The motion was then put and carried amid great enthusiasm and the property was duly transferred.

The New Trustees

Mr. Hall replied to what had been said of the Trustees and said their policy had always been to put Mrs. Nicholls' money where most people would receive most benefit. He felt that they made no mistake in helping in work in which so many men received benefit. At Mr. Hall's request the Board by ballot recommended the following to comprise the Board of Trustees:—B F Ackerman, G M Rogers, Dr. W D Scott, J J Howden, R J Kidd.

The history-making meeting then concluded with the Doxology and prayer.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-We HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

That time worn production "Uncle Tom's Cabin," which never fails to attract large audiences, was presented at the Grand last night, and was again most favourably received. The audience was large, and entered heartily into the spirit of the melancholy story of Little Eva and the death of the respected old Uncle Tom. The company is a well balanced one, and great care apparently has been exercised in selecting the important characters. The play was presented in four acts, surrounded by beautiful scenic and electrical effects. The escape of Eliza and her boy over the Ohio River, in mid-winter, followed by blood hounds, and the grand allegorical transformation, "Eva in the Golden Realms," which concluded the production, were most vivid and spectacular.

Woody Van was an ideal Uncle Tom, and quickly gained the sympathy of the audience. Baley Beland, was a charming little Eva, and acted her part particularly well in the closing hours of her life. Lawyer Marks was the funny little man of old, who presented the humourous side of the production to perfection. The specialties between acts were fair, the vocalist, Miss Maude Barrington's catchy songs being well received.

THREE NEW ELDERS WERE INDUCTED

An Interesting Preparatory Service Held Last Night in St. Andrew's Church --31 Admitted to Church

The services preparatory to Communion in St. Andrew's Church last night was made unusually interesting by the induction of three new Elders and the reception of thirty-one persons into fellowship with the church.

Rev. Dr. Marsh, of Springville, conducted public worship and preached a most suitable sermon, dealing with the sacrifice of Christ in three of its most interesting phases, His Mediation, Atonement and Substitution. Dr. Marsh very clearly illustrated his address and all were deeply impressed.

At the conclusion of the sermon the pastor announced that the congregation had unanimously elected three gentlemen who had served as elders in other places to the Eldership of St. Andrews, and proceeded to induct Messrs. Thos. Borland, J. A. Fair and F. D. Armstrong into the office of Elder. Rev. J. J. Wright, B. A., offered the prayer and solemnly commended the newly installed Elders to the grace and guidance of God. The pastor and Session then extended the right hand of fellowship to the new Elders.

After this interesting ceremony, eight persons were received on profession of faith and twenty-three by certificate.

The service was brought to a close by singing "Blest be the Tie" and Dr. Marsh pronounced the benediction.

GIRLS' GUILD HELD A SUCCESSFUL SALE

Realized Tidy Sum at Annual Sale—Proceeds for Building Fund

The annual sale of fancy goods, under the auspices of the Girls' Guild of All Saints' church, proved very successful from every standpoint. The sale or perhaps bazaar, was held in the basement of the church which was decorated in a becoming manner.

It continued from 4 p.m. till 10 p.m. and resulted most profitably for the ladies. The proceeds were to go towards the Building Fund, thus everyone bought liberally. The tables were arranged about the room in conspicuous places and were artistically adorned, presenting a very pretty picture. Especially the candy table and the handkerchief table. The first was in charge of Miss Mabel Rickey, assisted by Miss Lilian Lightbart and Miss Rose Mulholland. The second was under the care of Miss Agnes Cabin with the assistance of Miss Hickey. The apron table was under the joint supervision of Miss Lizzie Lacheur and Miss Morrow. The goods displayed on this table were made by the members of the Guild. The Fancy Goods Booth was in charge of Miss Dugan, Miss Campbell Miss Cotton and Miss Cairns. Like the aprons all the fancy work was the handiwork of the ladies of the Guild. The handkerchiefs were donated by friends and were all sold. The tea room was in charge of Mrs. Cotterell and Miss Whitcroft.

The articles for sale were all first-class and the ladies deserve great credit for the interest shown and the labour expended in making the event the success it was. The members of the Guild desire to extend their deep gratitude to all those who contributed articles or otherwise assisted them.

Those who have watched the practices of the Peterborough hockey club this season have been struck with the fact that this city could have placed a strong team in the intermediate series of the O.H.A. as well as the senior team. There is any amount of good material available and a team could be selected that would give the best of the intermediate teams a hard struggle for the honours. From the City League ranks could be picked material enough for two intermediate sevens let alone one and they would not be far away when the championships were being awarded.

PLUARD ACQUITTED ON ASSAULT CHARGE

Defence Proved he was Eating his Supper at Cavanagh House When the Alleged Assault was Made.

CASE WAS HEARD IN COURT YESTERDAY

Fred Pluard of Harvey Township, who had been accused of committing an assault upon Dennis Daly, some two weeks ago, was yesterday discharged by Magistrate Edmison, on satisfactorily proving an alibi. Daly, according to his own statements, was brutally assaulted at Mr. Lawrence Twomey's residence on Wednesday night, Nov. 28th. He cited in the witness box his numerous injuries, and positively declared that Pluard was the assailant. Mr. Timothy Cavanagh, proprietor of the Cavanagh Hotel, however testified that the prisoner ate his supper in the hotel the night of the alleged assault, and Mr. Johnston, the proprietor of the Little Windsor, stated that Pluard had spent from Thursday afternoon, the day after, until the following Tuesday there. When the facts were made known, the Crown withdrew the charge and the case was dismissed.

Crown Attorney Wood conducted the case for the Crown, and Mr. D. O'Connell for the defence. The prisoner declined to elect, but from a lack of evidence he was not committed.

Dennis Daly's Evidence

Mr. Daly was the first witness called and to Mr. Wood stated that he was acquainted with the prisoner, Fred Pluard. He was in the city, on Wednesday, November 28th, and saw Pluard that day at Cavanagh's hotel. He stated that he had been engaged with Mr. Twomey about a week before. Pluard had also spoken to him with regard to going home to Harvey, with him, and witness said that he might go. On Wednesday both men asked him to work with them, but he went out that day with Twomey, leaving about twelve o'clock noon. He worked around the house that afternoon, and got the supper ready, after which he began to wash the dishes. Darkness then set in, and after Mr. Twomey had had a smoke he went to the stable to do the chores. Soon after while witness was sitting on a chair, Pluard, he stated, and another man, walked in, without knocking.

"Is that you Din!" asked Pluard.

"Yes," he answered.

The witness stated that Pluard then assaulted him by striking him between the eyes. He also knocked him down on the floor, lifted him up and threw him down on the two chairs, breaking both of them.

He then rested his injuries, stating that one of his eyes was black as jet; his ears were bleeding, his teeth were loosened and his side was hurt.

He held up his shirt before the court, showing stains of blood which had dropped on it.

To Mr. O'Connell the witness said that before going to work with Mr. Twomey he had been working for Mr. Tooley at the Queen's hotel. On the day that he went to Ennismore, he had had a few drinks. He also had a drink on the way out, and a couple before getting supper. The night was dark but a light was burning in the kitchen where he was sitting. The prisoner, he said, wore a soft black hat and a black coat, but he had no beard or moustache.

Lawrence Twomey

Mr. Lawrence Twomey was then called, and to the Crown he substantiated the evidence given by Mr. Daly, except the assault, which he did not witness. He spent about 25 minutes in the stable doing the chores.

To Mr. O'Connell he stated that there was not much sleighing, and that he drove home in a buggy. He did not remember any accident going out, nor did he know that Daly fell out of the vehicle. The assault, he stated, happened before 7.30. Daly washed his wounds, but no doctor was sent for.

Patrick Phelan

Mr. Patrick Phelan, an Ennismore resident, was the third witness. He had gone to Twomey's on the night of the assault and before entering he heard Twomey asking "Who did it?" He heard no reply, and went in. Daly was covered with blood. He heard Daly say, "Three of them was at me."

Evidence for the Defence

Mr. T. Cavanagh was the first witness for the defence. To Mr. O'Connell he said that Pluard had been at his hotel for a few days before the assault. He heard the conversation between Daly and Pluard and suggested that the latter take him out to Harvey. Daly said he would go if Twomey didn't come for him. Pluard stayed at the hotel all day and had supper there at 7 o'clock. He put the prisoner to bed that night about 8.30 o'clock, and at that time he was very much intoxicated. He wore a fur coon skin overcoat; had no beard but had a moustache.

Mr. Johnston, proprietor of the Windsor hotel, was the second witness for the defence. He stated to Mr. O'Connell that Pluard had come to the Little Windsor on Saturday, November 24th, and left his horse there. On Thursday morning he came back and paid his bill, got his dinner and had a sleep. That afternoon he got his money from Mr. Cavanagh, and returned. He was put to bed then and did not come out of the room until the following Tuesday.

As it appeared to be a clear case of mistaken identity, since the defence had proved an alibi, the prisoner was discharged with no further comment.

RAILWAY TRAFFIC IS INCREASINGLY HEAVY

A Record Christmas Business Looked for by the Both Railways—Freight and Passenger Traffic Record-Breaking

MANY WILL TRAVEL AT CHRISTMAS

The railways report that the traffic over their lines for the Christmas season is unusually heavy. Both lines running into Peterborough are handling more traffic than in any previous year, at this season, and some little difficulty is being experienced in handling all the traffic being offered. The western grain trade is taking all the available cars on both lines, and the motive power, is being worked to its fullest capacity. The cold weather has had its effect on the locomotives, a number of which have been temporarily put out of commission, and those in running order are being worked for all that they can stand. This is particularly true in the freight end of the business, in which the greatest activity is being experienced.

Using G. T. P. Cars

The Grand Trunk is using on its grain carrying route from Midland to Montreal a large number of new Grand Trunk Pacific cars, and almost daily trains of empties, forty or fifty G.T.P. cars are passing through Peterborough returning to Midland for grain cargoes.

The present prospect, the railways report, for the Christmas passenger traffic is excellent, and both lines running through Peterborough look forward to a record-breaking Christmas business. Already enquiries are being made to the local offices and, in spite of the fact that the cheap fares this year are for a shorter period than they were last year, by reason of the fact that Christmas comes on Tuesday, and the single fares start on Monday, whereas last year they commenced on Saturday, two days before the holiday, the Christmas traffic will be very heavy.

SUFFICIENT FOWL FOR EVERYBODY

To-Day's Market a Very Large One—Fowl Galore—Vegetables and Fruit Also For Sale.

To-day's market was a record one in more features than one. The proximity of Christmas brought out the farmers with their fowl and as a result one of the best displays of turkeys, geese, etc., was that at the market to-day. Long rows of fine fowl, piled tier on tier, formed bulwarks for the careful wives of thrifty farmers which could only be carried by the well-lined purses of the city's liberal buyers. It was a pleasing sight to those who like fine effects; it also tickled the farmers after the long care they have devoted to raising fowl. Turkeys sold at all prices from $1.50 to $2.50 and even $2.75. Those who sold by the pound were asking 15c. There was also a good supply of apples and potatoes. The latter changed hands at $1.00 a bag while apples varied from 90c to $1.75 a bag according to the quality. Fresh meats, beef and pork, and butter and eggs showed no variation in price from a week ago. With continued fine weather there ought to be even better markets during the coming week.

One thing was certainly evident to those who saw the quantity of fowl for sale; namely, that there is sufficient in the surrounding country to supply all the families in Peterborough. The following is an approximate price list:

Potatoes, per bag		to	1 00
Apples, per bag	90	to	1 75
Onions, per peck	25
Beets, per peck	15
Cabbage, per head	5
Parsnips, per peck	15
Butter, per lb	23		25
Eggs, per doz		to	30
Ducks, per pair	1 25	to	1 50
Chickens, per pair	65	to	80
Geese, each	1 00	to	1 25
Hay, per ton	14 00
Lamb, per lb	9	to	10
Pork, per lb	10	to	11

WAS FIFTEEN MINUTES IN WATER TANK

Lakefield Man Had a Narrow Escape at the Grove School Recently—Fell Into Water Tank

An accident of an unpleasant nature happened to Mr. Andrews at Lakefield last week. Whilst engaged in making some repairs to the Grove School water tank, he fell in. It was about fifteen minutes before he was extricated, and this was only accomplished by Mr. Mackenzie jumping in to his assistance. When rescued, Mr. Andrews was in a very exhausted condition, owing to the coldness of the water.

WIDOW SUES A RICH BOSTON MANUFACTURER

Mrs. Lee Alleges that Humphrey Ward Paid Court to Her as Harry Jewell

Special to The Examiner.

Boston, December 11. — Humphrey O'Sullivan, a millionaire manufacturer, is being sued by Mabelle Lee, of this city, for $100,00 damages for breach of promise. Mrs. Lee is the divorced wife of George T. Lee.

She alleges, according to her son, Wilbur Lee, that O'Sullivan masqueraded under the name of "Harry Jewell" when he paid court to her. He says, also, that a large package of love letters, purporting to have been written to his mother by O'Sullivan, will be read at the trial, if it comes to a trial.

"I know all about the case for my mother has told me all its details," says young Lee. "My mother was divorced from George T. Lee in 1900. Shortly afterward she met O'Sullivan, who was introduced to her as Harry Jewell. He took me on a Western trip two years ago and seemed very fond of me. It was only a short time before mother brought suit that she found out he was Humphrey O'Sullivan, of Lowell. In his letters to her he makes promises upon which the suit is based."

O'Sullivan refers questioners to his attorney, Samuel Elder, and he won't talk.

Granville S. MacFarland and John Scott are the woman's attorneys. All they will say is that the papers will be on file Monday.

TO ADVERTISERS.

As announced, copy for changes of advertisements MUST BE in this office before 5 o'clock of the day preceding he intended publication. It is in your interest as well as the publisher's that all mails be caught by the Examiner and to do this the above rule MUST BE enforced.

THE WORLD JUDGES CHRIST BY HIS FOLLOWERS

Words Spoken by Rev. Dr. O'Meara in His Sermon at St. Luke's Last Night

URGED YOUNG MEN TO ENTER MINISTRY

St. Luke's church was well filled at the regular Sunday evening service last night. A special feature, however, was a sermon delivered by Rev. Dr O'Meara, Principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, a guest of Rev. E. A. Langfeldt, while in Peterborough. The sermon of last evening was a very impressive one. It was applicable to most people of to-day, and straightforward as it was, it did not fail to awaken the conscience of any who had begun to be negligent. This was the first appearance of Rev. Dr. O'Meara in this city after his elevation to the principalship of Wycliffe, and he certainly pleased the congregation of St. Luke's by his eloquent words of advice.

The Sermon

He chose as his text the 21st chapter of St. John, the 17th verse:—"He saith unto him, the third time, Simon, son of Jonas, lovest thou me?" etc. The speaker first detailed the circumstances under which Christ questioned Peter, three times, as to his love for Him. The disciples had all returned to their worldly employments, among them Simon and others being fishermen had been engaged at this occupation. They laboured all night on a lake and dawn was fast approaching, but their efforts had been unattended by success. They, therefore were greatly discouraged and were about to cease when Peter noticed a stranger across the water. He said unto them, "Children have ye any meat?" Whereupon Peter related how they had fished all night long, but their work had been fruitless for they had caught no fish. The stranger then commanded them to cast their net in the right side of the ship which they did, and behold, they were rewarded with an immense catch. Of course the disciples then realized that the stranger was none other than Christ.

They returned to the shore and Christ invited them to dine with Him for they were wearied and hungry. It was after this early morning meal that Jesus withdrew to one side with Peter and asked him the questions unrelated in the text, "Lovest thou Me more than these," and Peter answered always, "Thou knowest Lord that I love Thee." The speaker referred to the great happiness which must have filled Peter when he could answer his Saviour in that manner. Time has passed and the world has changed yet Christ still asks his followers the same important questions.

Soul of Religion

The speaker said that the love of man for God is the heart and soul of religion. We all owe Him an enormous debt. Day after day He bestows His gifts upon mankind; He never forgets anyone, and He is continually striving for our redemption, and yet the usual return that man extends to Him is coldness and disinterestedness. His great love is unreciprocated, and how must He regard man's ingratitude. Personal experience can give some idea of this. Rev. Dr. O'Meara urged the people to stop and ask themselves regarding their love for Christ. Of course most people declare that they love Him, how could they help not loving Him? But there is a vast difference between saying a thing and doing it. The speaker then gave three tests by which one could assure himself as to his relations with God.

First Test

The first test was by obedience to His laws. He said, "If you love Me keep My commandments," one of which is "Come unto Me all ye who are weary and heavy laden and I will refresh you." This is more of an invitation than a command, and how many have accepted it? A second commandment is, "Go ye into all the world and preach the Gospel to every creature." This is the complement of the above mentioned one. How many people have done anything towards carrying out this law? A third is mentioned in the text in the words "Feed My lambs, feed My sheep." The speaker referred to the small number of men who were entering the ministry. Almost every other walk in life has its searcher's for success and riches, and thus the ministry, as a profession is overlooked. Life is all too short and by what better means can a young man attain that for which he was created, than by teaching the Gospel. The speaker appealed to the young men to reflect upon this before they made the important choice of their profession.

Second Test

The second test was one of reflection. Fine examples were given to illustrate this point. If a man really loves God, it will be reflected in his life. If the light of His love is lighted in man it must shine and the world must see its resplendence in the man's actions and dealings. The world nowadays looks not to Jesus to judge Him, but they look to His followers. They look to the lives of Christians and it is most important that they see there nothing that will mislead others.

Third Test

If we really do love Him, that love will be a power in our daily lives. That is, people should do things for His sake. It is not an earthly power. It is a power that enables man to deny himself or do something he does not care to do, for Jesus' sake. The speaker then urged all to let the radiance of Christ's love envelop them that they may feel its beautiful effects and in turn spread happiness by its effect. Love accomplishes more than all other factors and therefore it behooves those who are in doubt as to entering the ministry to become imbued with it and then the efforts of the most sanguine will not fail to be eminently successful. It may be said that "more things are wrought by love than this world dreams of," which is most applicable when it is love for Christ.

A RESOLUTION OF CONDOLENCE PASSED

To Mr. Worboy, on the Death of His Wife by Members of Peterborough Circle No. 193, C. O. H. C.

The members of Peterborough Circle, No. 193, Canadian Order of Home Circles, at their last regular meeting, passed the following resolution of condolence to Mr. Worboy, on the death of his wife:

Dear Brother Worboy and Family:—

We, the members of Peterborough Circle, desire to express our heartfelt sympathy in the great loss you so recently sustained through the death of your beloved wife and mother.

God moves in a mysterious way. We cannot always understand why our loved ones so suddenly leave us, but here we see through a glass darkly, there face to face.

We weep when our loved ones leave us, but not through a rebellious spirit, for Jesus wept at the grave of Lazarus, and they said, "Behold, how He loved him."

Dear Brother Worboy, we again ask you to accept our sympathy, and may you and your family feel the arms of a loving Saviour underneath you bearing you on to meet your loved ones, where there will be no more partings, and God shall wipe away all tears from our eyes.

Sleep, mother, sleep, thy toils are o'er;
Sweet be thy rest, so oft needed before.
Well have we loved you, but God loved you more,
And has called you away to that bright, happy shore.

Signed on behalf of the officers and members of Peterborough Circle.

MRS. BOOTH,
Financial Secretary.

HIAWATHA INDIANS SEND REQUEST FOR ASSISTANCE

And Bale of Clothing will be Supplied by the Ladies of Charlotte Street Methodist Church

The regular meeting of the Women's Missionary Auxiliary of the Charlotte street Methodist church will be held to-morrow afternoon, at 3 o'clock, in the Guild room. A request for assistance for the Indians on the Hiawatha reserve has been received from the missionary in charge there, and at the meeting to-morrow offerings will be received for this purpose. The Auxiliary will be glad to accept anything which the friends have to offer, and which will be useful. A bale of clothing will be packed and sent to that mission this week.

A TYPICAL CHRISTMAS STORE'S GOOD DISPLAY

One of the most Christmas-like stores in the grand procession of Peterborough's gay stores, is that of Miss B. Y. Moyes, 408 George street. The big display window abounds with just the goods people are thinking of buying. The decorations in the window, too, testify to the good taste of the saleslaidies, being bordered with garlands of evergreens and an attractive circle of holly in the centre.

REV. MR. STOBO, JR. ACCEPTS WINNIPEG PASTORATE

Former Resident of This City to Become Pastor of Logan Avenue Church in That City

HE WILL CHANGE EARLY IN JANUARY

Rev. E. J. Stobo, jr., has many friends in this city, where he lived during his early boyhood, who will be interested in the announcement of his acceptance of the invitation to become the pastor of the Logan avenue Baptist church, Winnipeg. During the recent convention of Baptists held in this city, Rev. Mr. Stobo was one of the prominent men in the sessions, and represented the Canadian Baptist, which paper has the following to say of him in its last issue:

Rev. E. J. Stobo, B.A., B.D., of Mount Forest, has received a unanimous call from Logan avenue Baptist church, Winnipeg, to become its pastor, and will likely make the change early in January, though the date has not been announced. This takes from our convention one of our strongest preachers, whose ability and energy are worthy of the wide and growing field that will be furnished to him by the cause at Logan avenue. It will be no easy thing for Mr. Stobo to leave Mount Forest, where he has been but a short time, but where nevertheless, he has accomplished much, fifty having united with the church, thirty-nine of them by baptism, and many more have been led to Christ since he became pastor. We believe Mr. Stobo will prove to be the right man in the right place in Logan avenue and that the Baptist church in Winnipeg will benefit largely from his residing and working in that great and growing city.

SPECIAL SERMON TO YOUNG MEN OF TO-DAY

Rev. H. W. Avison, of Victoria College, Preached Most Acceptably in Charlotte Street Church Yesterday

In the Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday sermons were preached at both services by Rev. H. W. Avison, of Victoria College, and that at night was addressed especially to young men, and was of more than usual interest and power, the life of Absalom being used to point out lessons to young men of to-day, whom, the speaker believed could not succeed if they did not take care of their bodies, their lives, passions and their souls. Mr. Avison is a splendid speaker and his sermons give evidence to thought. His addresses yesterday were greatly enjoyed.

SPECIAL SERVICES ARE MEETING WITH SUCCESS

Good Results From the Services so Far Held—The Week's Fixtures for the Mark Street Methodist Church

Deep interest is being manifest in the special services which Rev. J. G. Lewis is conducting at Salem, and they will be continued this week, with good prospects for their further success.

To-night at the meetings of the Epworth League the subject will be dealt with by the teachers of the Sunday School, and the meeting as a result promises to be one of more than usual interest.

The prayer meeting will be held as usual on Wednesday night, and on Friday night the cottage prayer meeting at the residence of Mr. Wright, Sophia street.

SPLENDID MUSICAL SERVICES YESTERDAY

At Charlotte Street Methodist Church Choir Gave Unusually Effective Service of Song on Sunday

Under the leadership of Mr. Clarry an unusually excellent musical service was rendered at Charlotte street Methodist church yesterday morning the anthem was "The Lord is my shepherd of Souls," from "The Sign of the Cross," and for the offertory selection Miss Belleghem and Mr. Browne sang Campana's "Come to Me," their voices blending well and the number being sung with much expression.

The anthem at the evening service was "O Worship the King," by Haydn and it was rendered with vigour and musically precision. Miss Hoag sang a solo, "There's a Beautiful Land on High," during the offertory which was much enjoyed.

THE VOTING CONTEST WILL OPEN TO-NIGHT

Two Christmas Stories

By KATHERINE GLOVER

[Copyright, 1906, by Katherine Glover.]

"SHE WON'T BE COMING."

It was Christmas eve, and Carl's little bohemian restaurant was beginning to fill with gay, laughing folk, who sauntered in by twos and threes, the men slapping one another on the shoulders as they passed, bantering the little German proprietor and taking calm and easy possession of things, as if they were well used to the ways of the place. Shabby and ill kept most of them looked, but their faces were bright and their lips were bubbling with little snatches of song, overflowing evidently from hearts full of gayety.

At one table in a corner sat a man apart from the crowd and clearly oblivious to the life of the place, his eyes eagerly watching first the clock and then the door. Once or twice he started and half rose from his chair as some one entered, scanning a face closely, only to sink back with a long sigh. It was five minutes of 7 o'clock. "She isn't coming," he thought, and he let his chin fall heavily into his palm while he tried to gather his thoughts. At last, half conscious of some one approaching, he looked up and found a girl standing there, her hand outstretched. "I am late," she said hurriedly. "Have I kept you waiting long?"

"Yes, but it doesn't matter. Nothing matters now that you are here," he said warmly, taking her hand in both of his. "Sit down and let me look at you." He drew out her chair and seated himself opposite. Both were silent for a moment while they looked steadily into each other's eyes. The color rose slowly in the girl's cheeks, and she turned away.

"It is almost like old times, isn't it?" she asked, with a nervous little laugh.

"Like all the best of the old times rolled into one," he said. "Heavens, how I have wanted to be back, Joyce!"

"We are both growing too old to be sentimental, Jack. I want you to tell me all about Paris and your success. I read about you and was very proud to be an old friend of the distinguished young American artist, Mr. John Hamilton Seawell."

They were interrupted by the waiter, an old friend of the two, who bowed and scraped an infinite number of times before they could stop him. "Tonight we are to have all the things we used to pretend we didn't like because the figures were too steep for our incomes, with a few of the more familiar things thrown in for auld lang syne," he said, scanning the menu card. Joyce nodded her head and smiled, and the order was finally given after a long conference of the three.

When the waiter brought the dinner, the table was heaped with little dishes of all sorts, more than they could possibly have eaten if they had been saving up for this one meal during all the time of their separation. In reality they were both too excited to be hungry, and their tongues went so fast that there was time only for spasmodic dips into the various dishes. When the dinner tapered off to coffee and cheese, however, they both fell into silence. The man lighted a cigar in the old easy way they were used to and said between puffs, "I want to tell you a story, Mlle. Joyce, if you will listen."

"SOMETIMES HER IMAGE WOULD STEAL BETWEEN HIM AND THE CANVAS."

"I shall be most happy," she said with assumed gayety. "But be sure to make it end well. I don't like sad stories on Christmas eve."

"I shall do my best not to make it end unhappily, but that isn't for me to say. Well, here goes:

"Once upon a time there lived a dear, foolish maiden and a stupid, struggling artist, whom she befriended. The maiden at least ought to have been very rich, possessor of stately mansions and all that sort of thing, if she had had her deserts, but, truth to tell, both of them were very, very poor—so poor that the maiden used to wear frayed skirts and cracked shoes sometimes, though she laughed and pretended she did it for fun, and the artist was so poor that—well, he was poorer than any really respectable person ever was before. The two lived next door neighbors high up in the same cheap boarding house in a busy little city called New York. For some unfathomable reason the maiden took pity on the artist and used to help him out of his domestic difficulties and try to patch up his moral snags and tears as well. She was his good angel and made the days of struggling worth while for the stupid artist. She used to write wonderful stories—much too wonderful to be appreciated by the earthy editors she had to submit them to. In spite of their poverty, they used to have good times together, those two. When things grew very somber they would help each other jeer at fortune. There was a little restaurant where they would have jolly dinners whenever the artist sold a sketch or two. Carl, the keeper of the restaurant, was their friend and served them good dinners seasoned with sage philosophy. The day dawned when the artist had an opportunity to go abroad and study his art under the great masters—the thing he had longed for all his life.

"When the chance came, however, it seemed a small thing compared to the loss of the maiden. There was not money enough for both to go, so he preferred to stay and make a little home for her in the busy, heartless city. But for once the maiden was cold and unyielding, telling him that she didn't care enough for him to share his home. She sent him away with a heavier heart than he had ever had before. He went to Paris, where he pitched deep into work to try to forget the maiden, but thoughts of her would creep in in spite of himself, and sometimes her image, a laughing, haunting image, would steal in between him and his canvas, and then he would have to give up work for that day. It was no use. He would go out on the streets and walk and walk and walk, trying to wonder if the maiden's answer was final, calling up little scenes of their days together, conjuring up her looks to see if he could not again read in her eyes and find something there that he wanted. He wrote her long letters telling her a great many things that were not always kind. Some of the letters he sent across the ocean to her; others he tore up and tried to forget. But there were only three letters from her in all the four years he was gone, and they all came on Christmas eve. Long friendly letters they were, just like the chats they used to have, but with no sign of the thing he wanted her to write above all else. The stupid artist worked so hard that he could hardly help winning some shadowy success in all that time. There was a picture or two in the salon; his instructors grew encouraging; there was a line now and then in the papers, all of which puffed him up mightily because he vainly hoped they might make some difference with the maiden.

"When four years had passed the artist thought he might return to his home in New York and start his work there. He told himself over and over again that he was going home to the maiden, and his heart beat absurdly with hope of seeing her and then sank heavily again at thought of the change the years might have made, of the estrangement they might have brought. During the time he had been away she had written many stories and had finally convinced the editors of their worth. He saw her name in the contents of a number of magazines. The old days were changed. He would no longer find her in the cheap boarding house. If she sent him away three years before, she probably had almost forgotten him in all this time, but the thought of the Christmas letters spurred him to write to her and tell her of his return. He would reach New York the day before Christmas, the anniversary of his leaving. Would she meet him that evening at half past 6 in the little restaurant? He would wait for her at their same table in the corner, and they would talk over old times. The artist arrived in New York on the day he expected, and all afternoon he wandered about, waiting for the hour of their engagement, yet half dreading it for fear she should not come. But the good fairy waved her wand for him this time, for the maiden really came, and she is just the same, dear, sweet maiden as in the old days, only the shabby clothes are replaced by new, well cut things, and there is a quiet air of prosperity about her. She looks just a little older, perhaps, and the eyes are a trifle more serious, but they are the same tender, splendid eyes, reflecting a big, sweet soul. The two talked over many things, but all the time the artist has searched the maiden's eyes to see if he could find there any sign of what he has longed for all these years, a different answer to the question he put to her four years ago. He is eager to offer again to make a home for her and to spend his life trying to make her the happiest woman in all the world."

He looked over at the girl. "It is for you to end the story," he said quietly.

Her cheeks were flushed, and she was toying with her spoon. She looked up at him a moment, and her eyes were shining. "I want to go back a little and change your story some. I shall begin where the artist had his opportunity to go abroad and study. When he told the maiden about the chance and offered to give it up for her it was the hardest thing she ever had to do in her life to refuse the sacrifice, but she had some small sense of right, and she knew what those years abroad would mean to his future, so she rebuffed him and made him do the thing she knew his head dictated, though his foolish, generous heart led him to offer the other. He thought it was hard for him, perhaps, but he had Paris, with all its diversions, and the spur of his new work, while she had only the lonely sense of his absence. She used to haunt the places where they had been together, and sometimes the days dragged so that only the thought of the millstone she would have been to him if she had acceded to his plan kept her from doing some desperate thing. Then there came his letters begging her for some line in return, and that was the hardest battle of all. She fought it steadily for three days before she won. She knew if she wrote to him her letters would keep her in his mind and that some time she might carelessly say something to bring him back sooner than he ought to come. It was hard not to yield to what her heart pleaded for, but she felt he could do his best work cut off from thoughts of her and then"—Joyce paused.

"SHE USED TO WRITE WONDERFUL STORIES."

"And then?" the man said quickly.

"She thought perhaps he might have fooled himself that he wanted to marry her while circumstances drew their lives so closely together. Now that he was seeing more of the world and meeting other women he would weigh the matter and would learn his mind. If he came back and still wanted her, she would know he meant it, and"—

"Yes?" the man broke in eagerly.

"That's all," she ended lamely, smiling up at him.

"No, not all. Together shall we try to end the stories with 'They lived happily ever after?'"

She reached out her hands to him for answer, and he closed them tenderly in his.

Christmas For the Birds.

A traveler in Sweden tells of a beautiful Christmas custom in that land which may well be imitated in many lands. He says: "One wintry afternoon at Christmastide I had been skating on a pretty lake three miles from Gothenburg. On my way home I noticed that at every farmer's house there was erected in the middle of the dooryard a pole, to the top of which was bound a large full sheaf of grain. In answer to my question as to the meaning of it my companion replied: 'Oh, that is for the birds—for the little wild birds. They must have a merry Christmas, too, you know.'"—Selected.

The Bank Of Ottawa Closes A Most Successful Year

Thirty-Second Annual Meeting Recently Held Discloses a Gratifying State of Affairs as Result of Year's Operations—A Well Managed Institution—Conservatism and Progressiveness Exemplified

The thirty-second annual meeting of the shareholders of the Bank of Ottawa was held in the head office, Ottawa, on Wednesday, Dec. 12th. The paid up capital of the Bank is now $3,000,000; the rest $3,236,512.95, while the total assets stand at $32,490,000.00.

DIRECTORS REPORT.

The directors report was read as follows:—

The directors beg leave to submit to the shareholders the thirty-second annual report, showing the result of the Bank's business for the year ended 30th November, 1906, together with the balance at credit at that date.

Balance at credit at Profit and Loss Account on 30th November, 1905, was ...	$ 144,020.97
Net profits for the year ending 30th November, 1906, after deducting expenses of management, and making necessary provision for interest due to depositors, unearned interest on current loans, and for all bad and doubtful debts, and contingencies..... ...	425,238.55
	569,259.52
Appropriated as follows:
Dividend No. 60, 5 per cent., paid 1st June, 1906...	$145,839.42
Dividend No. 61, 5 per cent., payable 1st Dec., 1906	149,931.75
Applied in reduction of Bank premises and furniture	32,875.42
Transferred to officers Pension Fund	5,000.00
	332,746.57
Balance carried forward at credit of Profit and Loss Account.....	$ 236,512.95
The Rest Account on 30th November, 1905, was...	$2,500,000.00
To which has been added, premiums on new stock issued	500,000.00
Making the present balance.....	$3,000,000.00

In addition to the branches which your Directors contemplated opening as indicated in the last annual report, offices of the Bank have been established during the year at Beachburg (Haileybury, Perth and Westmeath, in the Province of Ontario, and a sub-office to the Fort Coulonge Branch at Campbell's Bay, Quebec. Arrangements are nearly completed for the opening of offices at Tisdale, in the northern part of Saskatchewan, and on the corner of Fourth Avenue and Bank street, in the City of Ottawa.

The extension to the main office on Wellington street, Ottawa, has been completed during the year, and it was also found necessary to enlarge the premises at Renfrew.

Buildings owned by the Bank are in the course of erection for the occupation of the branches at Prince Albert, Kemptville, Tisdale, and at the corner of Bank and Gloucester streets, Ottawa.

Your Directors recommend that in future the dividends paid by the Bank shall be distributed quarterly, and that the interest due to depositors having interest bearing accounts, be credited four times a year..

The fractional and other unallotted shares arising out of the last issue of new capital have been sold at a satisfactory price, tenders having been called for by public notice. The amount received therefom, over $200 per share, is included in the profits of the year.

The usual careful inspections of the Head Office and branches have been made during the year, and the Directors bear willing testimony to the faithful manner in which the officers of the Bank have performed the duties assigned to them.

All of which is respectfully submitted.

GEORGE HAY, President.

THE PRESIDENT.

The President, Mr. George Hay, then said:

At our last annual meeting we ventured to look forward to another year of successful business.

In the name of the Board of Directors, I now beg leave to present this Thirty-second Annual Report of the Bank of Ottawa, confident that a brief glance at the salient points in the general statement, which will be fully treated by Mr. Burn the General Manager, will be found sufficient to assure every stockholder that we are now called upon to rejoice together because our expectations of a good year's business have not been disappointed, but rather substantially exceeded.

In evidence of this, I refer only to the

Increase of deposits of.....	$5,225,422.00
Increase in current loans of.....	2,142,437.31
Addition to the profit and loss account of.....	92,491.98

All these show that we have shared in the expansion experienced by the other Banks in Canada whose annual meetings have recently been held and reported in the public press.

The financial world during the past year has not been devoid of its fluctuations and uneasiness as is shown by the high rates of money prevailing both on this continent and in Europe, and it has been deemed wise to maintain a strong position in cash and other assets of an easily realizable nature. We are more desirous to maintain this position than to make exceptional returns of a high rate in dividend earnings.

Our Canadian system of banking has been regarded as well adapted to the conditions of business throughout the various widespread parts of the Dominion. A strain was recently applied to it, which demonstrated its eminent suitability to avert dire consequences to the business interests of the country. By the prompt combined action of the confraternity of Bankers, a dangerous spark which threatened a serious flame was speedily extinguished, and the wheels of commerce were permitted to revolve with wonted celerity and smoothness. This incident has evidently originated some suggestions which have appeared in print, demanding a better safeguard of the interests of stockholders by improved methods in the performance of the several duties of Bank Directors and officers.

We should rejoice to learn of any better system than that which has hitherto been followed in this Bank, more especially in the regular inspection of the Head Office, as well as of the branches thereof.

On all hands general commerce and industry have been blessed with phenomenal returns. Let us hope that transportation facilities may keep pace with the requirements of expansive production. In this connection we would rejoice to anticipate the powerful throb of an increased commercial life by the construction of the Georgian Bay canal recently promised to be begun in the near future.

We are glad to notice the great increase in the dairy products exported. They are reported to have during the year reached the respectable amount of thirty-three million dollars ($33,000,000). We regard this as a very gratifying sign that our owners and tillers of the soil are "coming to their own." A system which enriches not only the farmer, but improves the native fertility of the farm, is one which cannot be regarded with too much interest. A yet more careful attention to the processes of manufacture of both cheese and butter would enhance the value of this factor in our prosperity as a people. Nothing short of a successful securing of the London market in competition with Northern Europe should satisfy the aim of our Canada Dairymen.

Our important local industry the lumber trade, has been prosecuted with success. While the cost of production has been materially increased, the prices realized, and prospective are believed to be satisfactory.

GENERAL MANAGER.

The general manager said,—

The profits for the year show an increase over those of the preceding period of 1905, of $95,050.98, but it must be borne in mind that this is only about proportionate to the average increase in capital, the issue of $500,000 at a premium of 100 per cent. having been made during the past year; the percentage of earnings on the average capital is therefore, slightly over 14.40 per cent., or about the same as last year.

That the country continues to grow in material prosperity is abundantly manifested by the fact that our circulation is $502,121 greater than it was a year ago and that the deposits in the bank bearing interest have increased by $4,265,447 and those not bearing interest by $959,975. Following the increase in deposits and in loans, the necessary reservations for interest, exchange and unearned interest on current loans are increased correspondingly, the first by $27,822 and the latter by $5,830.

The chairman has referred to the fact that we have considered it wise to maintain a strong position in what are familiarly known as "loose or quick assets." An examination of the assets as shown in the balance sheet, gives the cash and balances due from other banks as $1,687,095 greater than a year ago. The bonds owned by the bank of various kinds amount to $706,249 more, while the call and short loans on stocks and bonds are $2,262,996 higher, or a total aggregate increase of $4,655,440, our total holdings of these assets being 46 per cent. of our public liabilities.

The Commerical Loans are greater by $2,142,437, and the over due debts by $64,383.77.,

The increase in the Bank Premises Account has been caused as is indicated in the formal report by the acquiring of additional properties, where, in the opinion of the board it has been thought desirable that the Bank should own its own buildings. The Bank owns its premises at fourteen points, including the offices in Winnipeg, Montreal and Ottawa.

There are now five hundred and twenty shareholders in the Bank.

The branches opened during the past year have been established in most cases for the purpose of conserving the business already held by the Bank, and while alluding to this part of the report, I desire to say that the competition between banks, is, if anything, keener than ever. New banks have been organized from time to time, and are seeking to establish themselves in the country, some of them in what we are disposed to claim as our particular territory. We endeavor to meet this competition as far as possible where it is likely to interfere with business already held by us, and where there is a likelihood of a business paying by the opening of small offices: at the same time we decline to be drawn into a competition for business, which appears to be unsound in its basis and must in the long run, prove injurious.

The paragraph in the report, recommending the payment of quarterly dividends is one which we presume will commend itself to the shareholders.

With reference to the paragraph which appears yearly in the report, as to the inspections, I desire merely to add (and I think the directors will bear me out in this assertion) that the head office has always been inspected, as well as the branches, and that the system of joint responsibility which has prevailed in this bank at all times, is such that it would be impossible for any officer of the bank to draw a material sum of money anywhere without a voucher in the shape of a draft, or letter of credit, signed by two properly authorized members of the staff.

I have from time to time, during past years made a brief reference to the general business of the country, but this matter has been dealt with so ably of late by others that I will content myself by again calling attention to the extraordinary increase in deposits. In 1890 the total deposits in all the chartered banks amounted to $104,770,000. Ten years later or in 1890, the amount had grown to $190,600,000. In 1891 they were $367,000,000, and on the 31st of December last year, they were $558,000,000. According to the last statement the deposits were $627,000,000 or an increase since the 31st of December last of $71,000,000.

For how long this progress will continue, it is hard to say. It is for us to be watchful and prepared for whatever reverses may come, and this is our continual aim.:

The President then asked for comments or enquiries from the shareholders. Mr. Steckel asked the price obtained for the unallotted bank shares, and the general manager informed him it was a fraction over 225.

THE SUNDAY SCHOOL SCHOLARS' ANNUAL TEA

At Murray Street Baptist Church Tomorrow Night—Tea and Entertainment will be Held

The annual meeting for the election of officers and other business incidental to the annual meeting of the Young Peoples' Society of the Murray street Baptist church will be held to-night, and all the members of the Society are requested to attend.

To-morrow evening the annual Sunday School tea and entertainment will be held. Tea will be served for the children from 6 to 8 o'clock, and following the tea the entertainment will be held, the children contributing to the programme. This is an event looked forward to each year by the children and it will no doubt be as much enjoyed this year as in former years.

The prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday night, as usual.

At the service last night there was more than the usual attendance, and interest was added to it by the fact that four were received into the church by baptism.

BULLETS AND BOMBS ARE FLYING

Ten of First and Two of Last Fail to Kill Dubassoff.

WORK OF TWO TERRORISTS

Both Were Arrested, One of Them Being Held Until Arrest by Ex-Governor of Moscow Whose Life Was Menaced—Admiral Was Hurled to Ground by Explosion of Bombs, But Was Not Hurt.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—Yesterday while Admiral Dubassoff, ex-Governor of Moscow, was walking along a rather solitary path of the Tauride garden, a young man, dressed as a workman, approached and fired seven shots from a revolver, but missed.

The terrorist then turned and ran, with the admiral in pursuit.

Seeing that capture was imminent, the assailant turned and threw a bomb at his pursuer. Dubassoff was hurled to the ground by the explosion. A watchman ran up and seized the terrorist.

A second terrorist appeared then and threw a bomb at the admiral, which passed over his head and did not explode. The second terrorist then fired three shots at the admiral and missed him.

Dubassoff then threw himself upon the terrorist, disarmed him and held the man until he was arrested.

Count Lamsdorff Ill.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 17.—Count Lamsdorff, ex-Minister for Foreign Affairs, is seriously ill. He is suffering from heart disease and other weaknesses.

BURNING MINE TO BE FLOODED.

Concrete Dam Will Be Broken Down and Ocean Admitted.

Glace Bay, N.S., Dec. 17.—Smoke is still pouring in huge volumes from the mouth of the Hub colliery shaft, part of which has been sealed up. The Dominion Coal Co. have a force of men working night and day at the base of the cliffs, just below the Marconi towers and about a quarter of a mile from the pit mouth. About 300 yards in from the shore a concrete dam was placed to prevent water getting in during unusually high tides.

The old passage is also closed up for some distance in and workmen are now clearing it out. When this is done the dam will be broken down and the rising tides will flow in from the ocean into the old rooms and thence to the deep. The put bottom, where the fire is burning, is sixty feet below the sea level. Hence in a short time after opening up the passage the water will flow in and flood nearly the entire mine.

It is hoped by this evening that flooding of the colliery will commence. A week or even less will probably suffice to flood the colliery.

The scene around the shift is one of desolation, costly machinery warped and twisted, and nothing of the wood left standing. Damage is estimated at $300,000.

WANTS OF NEW ONTARIO.

Twenty Energetic Municipalities on the Warpath For Rights.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 17.—Twenty municipalities of the Algoma district met here on the 6th inst. and formed an advisory union, with the mayor of the Soo as president, with a view to concerted action to force the Ontario Government to construct a trunk road from Sudbury to the Soo, to repair unsafe bridges, to have Garden River Indian reservation opened immediately, as it impedes the progress of the district to have an industrial home provided for the care of unfortunates drifting to the district; to have better train, telegraph, telephone and mail services; to have the Dominion Government try to keep open winter communication with St. Joe Island, and to obtain other powers to develop the district. Over three hundred thousand dollars have been collected from timber dues, and less than three thousand spent on roads. All the inhabitants unanimously supported the Government.

Wallaceburg Girls Leave Home.

Detroit, Dec. 17.—The police Friday night picked up two Wallaceburg, Ont., girls, both 15 years of age. One of them was found in a saloon, the bartender of which was formerly a Wallaceburg man. The girl says he had induced her to leave home. She was taken back home Saturday by friends. The man was deserted by his wife while living in Wallaceburg, she having eloped with another man, who left his wife and six children in destitution. The other girl claims that a married woman in Wallaceburg induced her to come to Detroit. She has a good home and will be returned to her parents.

The Bike Grind Ends.

New York, Dec. 17.—The honors of the annual six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden, which came to a close Saturday night shortly after 10 o'clock, fell to the lot of the American team, Folger and Root, the former making the winning ride for his team. The entire distance covered was 2,292 miles and 2 laps. Downey, of Downey and Moran, was second, and Rutt, of Rutt and McFarland, third.

TROUBLESOME SCENES AT ROME NOW

Italy's Troops On Guard About the Papal Palace.

HOSTILE TO THE VATICAN

Thousands of Demonstrators Favorable to the French Government Throng the Streets of the Eternal City—Whole Garrison of Rome Faces Them — Vain Attempts to Break Military Cordon.

Rome, Dec. 17.—Thousands of demonstrators friendly to the French Government and of anti-Vatican tendencies, gathered last night in the Piazza adjoining the Farnese Palace, the seat of the French Embassy, in an endeavor to express their pleasure over France's action towards the Church.

The whole garrison of Rome was employed to face the demonstrators and to protect the Vatican. The Vatican was surrounded by cavalry and the bridges leading to the apostolic palace were barred by troops. All the streets leading to the Palace Farnese were protected by soldiers with fixed bayonets.

The demonstrators, led by a dozen radical socialists and republican members of the Chamber of Deputies, including Prince Borghese, after vainly attempting to break the cordon, obtained candles and formed into a mock procession, intoning the miserere, as an indication of the death of clericalism amidst cries of "Long live France;" "Long live Clemenceau," and "Down with the Vatican."

Fresh attempts were then made to beat back the cordon, and the cavalry chased the demonstrators. A few of them were slightly injured and several arrested. Amid roars and shouts and the singing of the Marseillaise the ferment continued until late in the evening.

FIRST SUNDAY IN FRANCE.

Comparatively Quiet Over the Separation of Church and State—Some Demonstration in Provinces.

Paris, Dec. 17.—The serious disturbances that it was believed would ensue yesterday, the first Sunday under the law separating church and state, were not realized. The services in this city in particular passed off most calmly. There was a notable increase in the sizes of the congregations. In a few cases rowdies entered churches wearing their hats, but were promptly arrested.

Clashes In the Provinces.

In the provinces there was great excitement in many places. Large processions, chanting psalms, accompanied the clergy to and from the churches. Counter demonstrations took place in several cities, notably Perpignan and Amiens, where Catholics and Free Thinkers came into collision, but the police dispersed the crowds. Several demonstrators were injured.

Bishop De Briz, while receiving the official notice to leave the bishopric of Meaux yesterday morning, suffered a violent nervous shock and fell unconscious. Later he recovered.

Clergymen Summoned.

Clergymen at all points are being summoned for breaking the law of 1881. A large number of declarations have been filed. Almost all the bishops' palaces and seminaries have been vacated.

At Lesheven a commissary of police was chased from the church and stoned, and finally had to draw his revolver to protect himself.

At Bordeaux a single declaration for private worship in the entire diocese has been filed.

Real Separation.

Rome, Dec. 17.—The Pope rejoiced Saturday night that the occurrences in France are not so serious as had been feared.

He received Cardinal Satolli, who explained the situation with regard to Catholicism in the United States where there exists real separation between church and state. The cardinal said that the benevolent attitude of the state toward religion resulted in the complete and dignified liberty of the church.

"That," exclaimed the Pope, "is really a regime of progress."

Must Leave Episcopal Palace.

Formal notice was served on Cardinal Richard, Archbishop of Paris, Saturday, that he must leave the Episcopal Palace. The aged primate, who has been ill, declared that he would yield only to force, whereupon the official who had served the notice retired to report to his superiors.

Cases of the Rioters.

Hamilton, Dec. 17.—Saturday afternoon John Olliver was acquitted on the charge of rioting. Thomas Ramsay, the market square hardware merchant, testified that Col. Denison struck Olliver over the head with a whip, but the colonel swore that he did not. The jury returned a verdict of not guilty with reference to Clarence Eyerson and reported that they disagreed on Judson Eyerson's case. They were sent back and returned in 45 minutes with a verdict of guilty in Judson Eyerson's case.

Sultan Will Help.

Tangier, Dec. 17.—The representative of the Sultan of Morocco, Mohammed El Torres, Saturday notified the diplomatic corps that the Sultan had instructed the Minister of War, who is expected to arrive here shortly from Fez at the head of a body of troops, to co-operate in the carrying out of the reforms provided for by the Algeciras convention.

Killed While Sledding.

Quebec, Dec. 17.—While sledding at Armah, Bellechasse County, Leandia Plante, 9 years old, went over a bridge and fell 25 feet to the river. Death resulted from a fractured skull.

A Friend Told Me About Bu-Ju
THE GENTLE KIDNEY CURE

Hundreds of people, who have been cured of Kidney Trouble by Bu-Ju, were first induced to try this wonderful remedy by friends who had themselves been cured. The sales of Bu-Ju are daily increasing, because everyone who takes them is benefitted—and these in turn, tell others. So the good news is spread.

Here is what a Picton man says about Bu-Ju:—

"I have used Bu-Ju with great benefit to myself, and cheerfully recommend to all who, I think, are suffering from Kidney Troubles and Rheumatism.

"I think Bu-Ju the best remedy made."

Yours sincerely,
JAMES MILLS.

SUFFERING SOLDIERS' FEET CUT OFF

Five of the Crew of the Golspie Suffered Most Terribly.

ARE SAYING HARD THINGS

It Was Ten Days After Steamer Was Wrecked Before Men Reached the Hospital—Owe Their Lives to the Kindness of Indians—Sons of England Society Are Taking Steps to Investigate Affair.

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Dec. 17.—The sailors of the wrecked steamer Golspie, whose limbs were amputated last Friday at the General Hospital, are making fair progress, except McDonald, whose condition is critical.

The man, when interviewed yesterday, averred that the ship would never have been lost had it been properly equipped and navigated. They speak in the warmest terms of gratitude for the great kindness shown them by the Indians, who discovered them, and but for whose timely aid, they must have died.

The Sons of England Society are taking up the case of the unfortunate victims, collecting what facts they can, which they intend passing to the mayor to send to the Dominion Government, at the same time demanding an investigation.

Terrible Tale's Other Side.

Vesselmen here are saying hard things of the Mackays of Hamilton, owners of the Golspie. Capt. Sinclair of Detroit, the underwriters' representative, says:

"It was a pitiful sight to see the five frozen men from the Golspie's crew carried aboard the tug. It was ten days after the steamer was wrecked before the men reached the hospital. Two or three of them had no feeling at all in their feet, and the members were as black as your hat. It is reported that it was 45 degrees below zero when the steamer went ashore."

Welcome to the Shipwrecked.

Sarnia, Dec. 17.—Pandemonium broke loose when the steamer Huronic arrived Saturday night with survivors of the wrecked steamer Monarch on board. It appeared as if the entire town came down to the wharves to welcome the shipwrecked crew. A brass band added to the din of the steam whistles. Seldom has such a demonstration occurred on the Great Lakes.

Every man was a hero, but it remained for a woman, Mrs. Rachel McCormick, one of the crew, to carry off the real honors. She was obliged to slide down a rope 100 feet in length and 40 feet above the rocks in order to save herself.

Manistique Safe.

Port Arthur, Dec. 17.—The steamer Manistique, owned by Reid of Sarnia, which was believed to have been lost on Lake Superior, with her crew of 21 men, arrived here safely Saturday night after a terrible struggle with the seas.

The Ireland, which the Manistique had in tow, when the line parted, and which the Manistique was obliged to abandon because of her disabled condition, is reported riding safely at anchor off Sand Island. She is apparently safe. It is said that every member of the crew of the Ireland is disabled, and nearly all are frost-bitten.

Clothes Frozen On Them.

A despatch from Ashland, Wis., says that when the Manistique disappeared the tug Crosby drew alongside. Watchman Andy Dillino jumped but missed. In the high wind and heavy seas, the Crosby circled and came back again. Wheelman Zimmerman and Oiler Shoreman jumped. Zimmerman struck on the deck, cutting his head open. The Crosby was thrown against the island and was badly injured, but stood by until all the others were saved. Every man's clothing was frozen on him. All were exposed to the storm and intense cold for five hours.

Wahcondah's Bad Plight.

Port Arthur, Dec. 17.—The steamer Wahcondah, which left here on Thursday for the east came back Saturday, her cargo having shifted. She was listing badly Friday night when she struck a heavy sea, and the cargo of grain commenced to shift. In a few minutes she was leaning over, and there was much danger of capsizing. Capt. Zealand ordered the crew to the bold to shovel grain, and for hours the men were engaged in keeping the vessel on even enough keel to keep her from going over.

When the boat arrived at this port she was covered with ice and the pilot-house was broken in and the gunwales swept away. The steamer Neepawah was with her at the time, but Capt. Zealand stated that during the night he lost track of her.

Strathcona Damaged.

Port Colborne, Dec. 17.—The steamer Strathcona, bound from Fort William to Thorold with a cargo of wheat struck a boulder in the channel outside the breakwater Thursday evening, which damaged the ship and caused leaking in two compartments.

Tragedies of the Sea.

St. John's, Nfld., Dec. 17.—The British steamer Birkhal, Hamburg, Nov. 18, for New York, put in here Saturday right short of coal. She had a terrible trip, encountering gales the whole way.

A machinist named Fisher died of heart failure, brought about by the extreme pitching of the steamer.

The wreckage of an unknown vessel was found Friday in King's Cove. It is feared that a fishing schooner has gone down with all hands.

NEGRO CONVICTS AMUCK.

In Desperate Attempt to Escape They Wound Captain and Sergeant of Oakley Convict Farm.

Newport News, Va., Dec. 17.—The United States armored cruiser Montana was successfully launched here Saturday.

Cobourg, Dec. 17.—James Kirk, for many years an auctioneer of this town, dropped dead about 6 o'clock Saturday evening.

Madrid, Dec. 17.—The Chamber of Deputies has ratified the convention for Moroccan reforms, adopted at the Algeciras conference last April.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 17.—Millowners in this state, employing about 25,000 hands, Saturday announced that they would grant an increase of 7 1-2 per cent. in wages.

Chattanooga, Tenn., Dec. 17.—The tunnel through Lookout Mountain, driven by the Southern Railway, is finished, the working parties meeting Saturday. The tunnel is 3,600 feet long.

Thorold, Dec. 17.—The Welland Canal locktenders have formed an association, and will memorialize the Government for an increase in wages. They get $45 a month for seven or eight months.

Chicago, Ill., Dec. 17.—Charitable bequests to Chicago institutions aggregating $460,000 were made by the will of Otto Young, the capitalist, who died last week at Lake Geneva, Wis. The value of the estate is estimated at $20,000,000.

Jackson, Miss., Dec. 17.—In a general fight covering a desperate attempt Saturday by negro convicts to escape from the Oakley convict farm, Capt. Buckley sustained a seven-inch gash across the chest, and Sergeant Dodds' left arm was broken.

Kincardine, Dec. 17.—A fire broke out Saturday evening in a frame building on West Queen street, occupied by the John Durward's marble works, Thomas Scott's implement shop, and William Harvey's paint shop. The building is a total wreck.

Washington, Dec. 17.—At the annual dinner Saturday night of the National Geographic Society, Commander Robert E. Peary was presented with a gold medal for having reached farthest north. President Roosevelt was the guest of honor and made the presentation.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 17.—Six men met instant death Saturday in a dynamite explosion in North Carolina, about 24 miles from Newport, Tenn. A load of dynamite for a blast exploded while being tampered, tearing six men into shreds, and seriously injuring a seventh.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—The Ontario Gazette announces the incorporation of The Cobalt Bloom Newspaper, Co., Limited, share capital $40,000, and provisional directors John Alexander MacMurchy and Frank Burr Mosure, reporters; James Clement Ritchie, capitalist; Kenneth Ferns MacKenzie, barrister-at-law, and Ada May Smith, bookkeeper, all of Toronto.

Winnipeg Pastor Dies.

Winnipeg, Dec. 17.—Rev. Joseph Hogg, one of the best known preachers, who was 14 years pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, died suddenly yesterday afternoon. An operation was performed Saturday from which he never recovered.

Civic Scandal in Winnipeg.

Winnipeg, Dec. 17.—Winnipeg has a civic scandal. The members of the board of control elected last week are charged with corrupt practices, and there may be a new election.

CLOSE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

Because They Can't Keep the Children Warm—Coal Famine in Northwestern States is Very Serious.

Washington, Dec. 17.—Senator McCumber Saturday received this telegram from J. P. Whittemore, dated at Galesburk, North Dakota:

"The United States army could not be better employed than in compelling and assisting these railroads to drop everything and haul us coal. Half the northwest will be freezing in a week, and the whole of it in two weeks."

Mr. McCumber announced his intention of forwarding the telegram to the president, as commander-in-chief of the army.

Public Schools Closing.

Senator Hansbrough of North Dakota consulted the members of the committee Saturday. He declared the situation resulting from shortage of coal in his state was most deplorable and that the public schools in some localities were closing on account of lack of fuel to keep the children warm.

The commission will begin investigating the situation next week at Minneapolis and Chicago. Commissioners Lane and Harlan left Washington Saturday night for Minneapolis to begin the enquiry.

Burn Buildings For Fuel.

Mangum, Okla., Dec. 17.—A coal famine is now prevailing in this part of Oklahoma. There is no timber for fuel, and many farmers are burning fences and outbuildings. The weather is cold. Coal in transit is confiscated by the railroads, and apparently there is no relief in sight. Unless relief comes shortly, all public works will be closed, and many families will suffer.

Will Move Only Coal.

Minneapolis, Dec. 17.—The railroad's are trying to meet the distressing need of the North Dakotans, who are without fuel in zero weather, and where the need is most imperative. The Great Northern Road ordered Saturday acceptance of carload shipments for west of Grand Forks limited to coal. Towns suffering most now have received relief.

Can't Move Trains.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 17.—It is said that between Grand Forks and Minot, on the Great Northern Railway there are eleven freight trains, which cannot be moved on account of the heavy snow or the shortage of coal, or both.

While the fuel shortage is menacing on account of the prevailing blizzard, not all towns in North Dakota are without fuel. But when coal or wood is wanting, the situation is critical. If fuel arrives within a few days, there will be little suffering in North Dakota.

A BIGAMOUS MILLIONAIRE.

Chicago Man With Four Wives Finds Refuge In Canada.

Chicago, Dec. 17.—Mrs. Vivian Oliver Streeter has consented to push bigamy charges against her husband, A. L. Streeter, millionaire broker, railroad equipment magnate and fugitive under indictment accusing him of maintaining 17-year-old Margaret Burkle in a disreputable hotel in Chicago.

Streeter is said to have found a refuge in St. Thomas, Ont. He cannot be extradicted on the Burkle indictment, but the bigamy charge will suffice to bring him back to the United States. A demand will be made on the Canadian Government for his surrender as soon as the grand jury can act on the new indictment.

A second Mrs. Streeter, formerly a resident of No. 3,222 West 14th street, Cleveland, has left that address, but the police say she can be found whenever wanted.

A third, reported to be living in a Michigan town, has not yet been found, though the search for her is now in progress.

Of a fourth wife the police can find no trace and are satisfied that the woman they believe to have completed the alleged quartette of Streeter's marital partners, is dead.

GET A DOZEN YEARS.

Mitchell Brothers Straightway Sent on the Trip to Kingston.

Sandwich, Dec. 17.—William and Walter Mitchell, colored, of Detroit, are now on their way to Kingston Penitentiary, each to serve a 12-year sentence, imposed by Judge Horn. Owing to their previous record it was deemed advisable by Sheriff Iler to at once remove the men from the county jail to prison. The two brothers were convicted of robbery on the high seas, an aggrevated assault and common assault on Robert Smith, colored, while on an excursion on the Canadian steamer Premier to Walpole Island, River St. Clair, last July.

J. W. Hanna, who appeared for the prisoners, will appeal the convictions on the grounds that the case should have been tried in Lambton County, to which Walpole Island is attached, and also that there was no proof that the crime was committed while the boat was in Canadian waters.

British Cabinet Shake Up.

London, Dec. 17.—The first of the impending changes in the Cabinet to be announced is the resignation of J. E. Ellis, parliamentary secretary to the India office. He leaves because of ill-health and will recuperate abroad. It is understood Walter Runciman parliamentary secretary to the local Government board, will succeed him. Nothing is definitely known concerning other changes.

MRS. COTTRELL OF GALT.

Attempts to End Her Life After Husband Leaves For Work.

Galt, Dec. 17.—Because of domestic troubles, Mrs. Cottrell, who lives on Dickson street, opposite Market square, took a quantity of carbolic acid a few minutes after 7 o'clock Saturday, with the purpose of ending her life. Her husband had but a few minutes before left for his work.

A physician was summoned. When he arrived the woman was unconscious, and her children standing around wringing their hands. By the immediate use of the stomach pump and emetics, the woman was revived, but she is by no means out of danger. Her mouth is terribly burned by the acid.

The Cottrells only moved into town a few weeks ago.

HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

XMAS GROCERIES; WHAT THE RETAILER HAS TO PAY

An Article of Interest to Those Who Are Buying a Christmas Stock of General Groceries

HEAVY CHRISTMAS TRADE EXPECTED

Christmas will soon be here and the storied dinner with the famous English plum pudding and the other etceteras which are enjoyed will soon be forgotten. There is probably a large number of housekeepers who have already mixed their puddings and baked the Christmas cake, for their benefit and for those who have not done so the following article is intended. There are many people who look upon merchants as men receiving large profits on their sales. However, a closer study of the problem proves that such is not the case and that the people are getting full value of their money.

Finance Minister, W. S. Fielding, on Thursday of last week, presented his eleventh budget and with a complete revision of the tariff. Generally speaking, the buyer will not notice this, but the retailer and wholesaler will. Again winter freight is now being charged against retailers, thus a combination is formed which serves to increase the price of most articles.

For instance sugar in the raw state has been increased 71-2 cents per cwt. and in the refined condition retailers must pay for it 10 cents per cwt. more. Add to this an increase of 2 per cent. for freightage and there is a very noticeable difference per hundred pounds to the retailer. However, as was said above, no charge has been made in the retailers' selling price. "Parts lumps" sugar in 100 lb. boxes are sold to the retailer at $5.03 per cwt. while Redpath's granulated is sold for $4.48 per cwt. The winter weather has set things going all over the country and an exceedingly heavy Christmas trade is expected.

The market for canned goods is a particularly good one and the prices remain firm. There is a strong market for all teas with a slight advance on nearly all grades.

Dried Fruits

Dried fruits will sell at this season in large quantities owing to the great demand. The Valencia raisin market in Spain is dearer by about two shillings since last week. The report is that good sound fruit is very scarce, and that the few growers holding them are more disposed to hold on till spring. A firm market and light stocks of currants are reported from Greece. The California dried fruit market is in chaos. Seeded raisins are quoted f.o.b. at the coast nearly as high as the retailer is buying them here. That price is practically prohibitive as far as this market is concerned. Prunes are now at about normal prices, which is considerable above the opening. Large sizes are hard to get. Peels are getting scarcer on spot, and prices are advancing.

Some fear an actual shortage. Good quality Santa Clara prunes are sold wholesale at 8c per lb. Lemon and orange candied peels sell at 11 to 11 1-2 and 11 to 12, respectively. The wholesale price of citron peel is 21c to 22c per lb. A fine quality of currants sell at 8c to 8 1-4c per lb. Sultana raisins range from 10c to 13c per lb. and Valencia Raisins from 9c to 9 1-2c per lb. Of course the housekeeper pays more because the retail merchant must make some profit. Good dates sell from 4 3-4 to 5c per lb.

There will be a very large demand for nuts, shelled and unshelled. The following is a short list :—

Almonds, Tarragona, per lb. 15c
Almonds, shelled Valencias, 30 to 32c
Walnuts, per lb. ... ... 10 1-2 to 13 1-2
Walnuts, shelled per lb ... ...27 to 28
Filberts per lb. 10 1-2
Pecans per lb. 17c
Brazils, per lb. 15c
Peanuts per lb. ... ... 5 to 10c

The above are prices which the grocers are paying the wholesale merchants for their goods. The housekeepers who are interested from an economical stand point may thus see the actual cost of their various purchases.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars free.

It is not generally known that Nelson's death was the origin of the black silk handkerchief which the sailor wears under his broad blue collar, tied in a loose knot in front, says the London Court Journal. The scarf or handkerchief was first worn as mourning for the great admiral and by some means or other it was retained and eventually became a part of the naval man's uniform. The white stripes around the broad blue collar are unintelligible to the average individual, but they have a very significant meaning. They represent the victories at the Nile, Copenhagen and Trafalgar.

FOOLED BY A BOGUS INVENTOR GAVE UP SAVINGS

NEW BRANCH OF CONFIDENCE GAME

Examiner Special.

New York, Dec. 11.—Scientific inventions as a rule do not interest Miss Helene O'Connor, waiting maid at a Watsessing, N. J., hotel, but when wireless telephony is intermixed with love and a diamond engagement ring that looks good, it is different. Not many days ago a handsome stranger appeared at the hotel, describing himself as an electrical engineer with a fortune. Miss O'Connor, serving him, was interested with the others. The stranger got many postal cards. One of them read, "Hold on, hold on tight." The hotel help discussed the enigmatic words on the backstairs, and decided that it looked good.

The handsome stranger began to pay court to pretty Helene Connor, and she was called lucky. On Friday afternoon came another postal. It read :

"I will give you $18,000 for your wireless telephone."

The mystic name of Thomas Alva Edison was signed to it, and the hotel help were rejoicing with Helene long before the stranger got the postal. In fact, it was passed around the block before it was delivered. To the great joy of Helene, the handsome stranger sought her out and placed a ring on her finger. The ring held a stone as big as a hickory nut. He said it cost $300.

"All is good fortune to me," said he. "In a day or two I will have enough money to close my contract with Mr. Edison and get $18,000. Then we will marry."

The happy and lond-hearted Helene waited for no other word. She ran to the bank, where, in her thrift, she had accumulated $200. She drew it out and pressed it into the hands of the handsome stranger. He hurried to New York.

He is still gone. Helene began to suspect something yesterday afternoon, and she went before a Magistrate. She was advised to swear out a warrant for his arrest. He had given his name as Seymour Granger. The warrant was made out.

"But, how about this diamond?" queried Helene, who was scarcely persuaded.

"It is worth just 10 cents," said the court officers.

A novel idea comes from Vienna. The authorities there are about to start a school for the study of criminal cases. It is to be called "The Central Bureau of Police Science" and instruction will be imparted twice or three times a week to members of the police force. The idea is to discuss every criminal case of the week.

A HANDSOME FUR AS A XMAS GIFT

There is a growing tendency to give useful presents at Xmas—and the last week's weather reminds one that nothing could be more appreciated than Furs—and after all the greatest source of satisfaction in making gifts is the realization of the fact that the recipient appreciates the gift. What could be more useful to a friend than a Fur? Use judgment—buy for your friend what you feel you might like for yourself.

Big Car Factory After A Location

A Canadian Syndicate of Prominent Business Men of Eastern Canada Looking for a Suitable Site for Big Canadian Works

H. G. BROWN, REPRESENTATIVE

Peterborough Should Have a Good Opportunity of Securing It—Will Employ 400 to 1,000 Hands—West After It

Peterborough has an opportunity of securing a large manufacturing plant, which will locate in Canada. This plant, it is expected, will employ from 400 to 1000 hands, the majority of whom will be skilled men, so that it will be seen that if Peterborough succeeds in securing the industry it will mean a good thing for the city.

Mr. H. G. Brown of Montreal, is the gentleman who is representing the company, which it is understood, has a capitalization aggregating $15,000,000. Mr. Brown is one of the best known financiers of the eastern metropolis, and in this case is representing a syndicate of capitalists.

The recent rapid development of transportation interests in the country has created a demand for rolling stock, greater than the shops at present in operation, can supply, and the syndicate represented by Mr. Brown has decided to embark in the manufacture of cars of all descriptions for use on the Canadian roads.

There is in the minds of the members of the syndicate a prejudice towards locating their plant somewhere in the West, because of the fact that the greatest development is taking place there, but, as an offset to this condition they appreciate the fact that labour and other essentials in manufacturing can be procured considerably cheaper in the East than in the West; and, in case they are convinced of the advisability of locating in the East, Peterborough will stand a good chance of securing the plant.

The men represented by Mr. Brown propose not only to manufacture cars but to operate refrigerator, sleeping and parlour car lines on all the railways as well.

Mr. Brown states that while he cannot guarantee that more than 400 hands would be employed the year round it is quite likely that 1000 would be engaged at the start, and this number increased as the trade demanded.

It is the intention of the company to commence work on the construction of the plant in the early spring, the interval between now and that time being allowed for the decision as to the location and making preliminary arrangements to commence work.

The industry will be operated along the lines of the Pullman Car Company, who, at their headquarters in Pullman, Ill., employ at the present time upwards of 20,000 men the year round.

A SOLUTION OF THE DIFFICULTY

In France Between Church and State is Now Confidently Expected in Near Future—Goverament Has Proposal

Examiner Special.

Paris, Dec. 17.—Hopes are now entertained for peace, and a satisfactory solution of the church separation problem is near. The Government has some new proposal to make before the Chamber of Deputies, and fresh concessions are hoped for.

GROWING IN POPULARITY

The More People Know Newbro's Herpicide the Better They Like It.

The more it becomes known the better it is liked. One bottle sells two, and those two sell four. Newbro's Herpicide is what we are talking about. It cleans the scalp of all dandruff, and, destroying the cause, a little germ or parasite, prevents the return of dandruff. As a hair dressing it is delightful. It ought to be found on every toilet table. It stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It should be used occasionally as a preventive to protect the scalp from a new invasion of the dandruff microbe. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to the Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, Special Agents.

RICHARD HALL & SON LIMITED, INCORPORATED; CAPITAL IS $150,000

The present week's issue of the Ontario Gazette contains notice of the incorporation, as a joint stock company, of Richard Hall and Son, Limited, with a capital stock of $150,000.

The capitalization of this company puts it up with the largest of the dry goods stores of the Province; indeed, it is doubtful if in any city the size of Peterborough there is any store, conducting a purely dry goods business, with a capital equal to that of the newly incorporated company here.

The fact that the company has been formed into a joint stock concern does not imply that there will be any change in the management from that which has characterized this business during the many years in which it has been conducted with success in Peterborough.

It simply marks an advance step, which evidences the progressiveness of the members of this firm.

Yule Tide Kermiss Is Now In Full Swing In The Market Hall

Attractive Booths and Decorations Make the Scene Like a Veritable Picture From Fairyland

THE ARTICLES OFFERED FOR SALE ARE VERY NUMEROUS

The Yuletide Kermess under the auspices of the Catholic ladies of the city opened this morning at 11 o'clock and is now in full swing. The market hall has been transferred its usual barn-like appearance into a veritable fairyland. The barren walls are hidden by flags and bunting and a score of gayly decorated booths with their alluring articles, make up a scene that for bright colours and attractive appearance has rarely been surpassed in this city.

The spirit of Christmas is everywhere throughout the hall. Most of the articles displayed are those that are suitable for Christmas gifts and no doubt these will be greatly in demand. Everything that a well stocked departmental store could supply is to be found here, and you have the advantage of doing your shopping all on one floor, and amid attractive surroundings. As a result the hall was crowded this afternoon and no doubt will continue to be so until the end of the Kermess on Friday night. Energetic and painstaking miss ladies and articles of high quality make a combination too strong to be resisted by the average Christmas shopper.

Decorations are Artistic

The manner in which the booths are decorated and stocked reflects great credit upon the taste of the ladies in charge. The departments are attractively adorned with bunting, festoons of brightly coloured paper and Chinese lanterns which make up a gay picture, one that is well worth a visit if only to witness and not to purchase.

Almost anything with the exception of such small articles as suspension bridges or mogul engines can be purchased here. The list of articles includes clothing, dolls, cigars, fancy work, candy, groceries, collars, handkerchiefs, cushions, etc.

Many Dolls

Perhaps the first booth that will attract the eye as you pass in the door is the doll department which is situated almost opposite the entrance and in the middle of the floor. Here are to be found all manner and varieties of dolls, dolls that can speak, dolls that can walk and dolls that can do nothing but look pretty and very pretty some of them look, too. This department is in charge of Mrs. H. LeHrun, Mrs. F. A. Shannon and Miss Hackett and the business done should be of record proportions.

The Fish Pond

The old favourite, the fish pond, is to be found immediately to the left of the entrance, and no doubt the disciples of Izaac Walton will be many. The open season commenced to-day and the latest reports received are to the effect that fishing is remarkably good and some splendid catches are being made. These conditions will last as long as the bait continues. Mrs. W. O'Brien and

GOOD ICE STILL IN THE BROCK STREET RINK

And its Patrons May be Assured of a Good Skate To-night

The mild weather of the last few days has not affected the ice in the Brock street rink, and it will be open as usual to-night. The colder weather which the probs. are promising us will be welcomed, and with a few cold days there will be a sufficient body of ice to ensure good skating all season.

In order to have the ice good for to-night skaters were not allowed on the rink this afternoon.

$320 RAISED FOR NORTH-WEST AND FOREIGN MISSIONS

Appropriation of $290 was Exceeded by Offering of Congregation

At St. John's church yesterday the annual collection for the foreign and Northwest Missions was taken up, amount asked for was $290 but the congregation of St. John's surpassed this by contributing $300. This is the fourth time that the amount collected at the church for the Northwest and Foreign Missions has exceeded the appropriation.

The Young People's Association will meet to-night.

The decorating of the church will be done on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. J. C. Fowler of Havelock, was in the city to-day.

Mr. G. A. Gillespie is in Cannington to-day on business.

Mr. William Stroud went to Toronto this morning on business.

Mr. and Mrs. Alex. J. Robertson of Norwood, were in the city to-day.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris and Mrs. George Rutledge, left to-day at noon for Cobourg, where to-morrow they will attend the wedding of Mrs Morris' brother, Mr. F. E. Dench, accountant of the Bank of Commerce, New York, to Miss Hunt.

Mrs. Thomas Cahill, Gilmour street, received a despatch on Saturday evening apprising her of the serious illness of her son, Joseph, at Winnipeg. She made preparations for herself and Miss Cahill to take the 5 o'clock express Sunday morning, but the failure of the carriage ordered to arrive caused her to miss the train. However, her anxiety was allayed by the receipt of a message on Sunday stating that her son's condition was improved and another telegram received at noon to-day reports continued improvement.

CHRISTMAS CHEER WILL BE DISPENSED ON FRIDAY

All Saints' Ladies Will Meet for That Purpose on Friday Afternoon

The meetings of the Girl's Guild, of All Saints' church will be withdrawn for the present, and no more will be held until further notice. To-morrow afternoon at 2.30 the W. A., of that church will meet, and at night the Men's Guild will hold a meeting at 7.30. The Brotherhood of St. Andrew will meet on Wednesday night, and on Thursday afternoon at 4.15, the the Junior Auxiliary. The choir will practice at 8.30. On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock the Women's Guild will meet at the church to distribute Christmas cheer to the needy, and the following afternoon the Chancel Guild will meet to decorate the church for Christmas.

Rev. Dr. Symonds' Sermon Is The Talk Of Montreal To-day

He Stated in Sermon Preached There on Sunday That Apostolic Succession Was Not a Divine Institution

TESTAMENT IGNORES BISHOPS

Anglical Orders, Says Prominent Montreal Divine, Not Authorized by the Sacred Word—A Sensation in Montreal

Peterborough people will have a special interest in the following despatch from Montreal to the Toronto World, of to-day:

"That man has read more than his prayer books said," is the comment of a good lady, while discussing Rev Dr. Symonds' remarkable sermon in Christ's Church Cathedral. The doctor's utterances are in fact the talk of the city, consisting, as they did of a bold attack on apostolic succession.

Not A Divine Institution

The reverend gentleman went on to say that episcopacy was not a divine institution, and that the Anglican orders of the Christian ministry were not authorized by the Sacred Word. Nowhere in the Scriptures, said the vicar, could we find a reference to "three distinct orders" of the Christian ministry, such as were found in the Church of England to-day. These were an after development in the church; they were not of Christ's appointment, nor were they synchronous with apostolic times.

The New Testament distinctly mentioned the fact that Christ sent forth apostles, prophets, evangelists, pastors and doctors to do His work, but nowhere was there a reference to His having ordained bishops, priests and deacons. These orders were neither instituted by Christ, nor had they Scriptural warrant. The terms bishop and presbyter, whenever encountered in the New Testament, were alternatives names by which the ministers of the Apostolic Church were known. They did not possess the individuality which the Church at present attached to them. They were not indicative of two different grades in the ministry.

Episcopacy Unknown

It is safe to say, therefore, that episcopacy, as practiced in the church to-day, was totally unknown in apostolic times. Whatever its advantages it was not a divine institution.

That being the case, how foolish, it seemed, in these days when the churches were evidencing a desire to come together, for the Church of England to insist that no scheme of union would meet with its acceptance that did not provide for the retention of "historic episcopate."

The doctrine of "apostolic succession" could not be proved from the Word of God; in fact the success that had attended non-episcopally-ordained clergymen in their work was a convincing argument that the grace of God was not limited in its operation to men who had had the hands of a bishop laid upon their heads, and who thereby had received episcopal ordination.

STREET CAR CRASHED THROUGH GATES AT STATION

Accident Which Might Have Had Some Very Disastrous Results — Freight Train Was Passing

SLIPPERY RAILS THE CAUSE OF IT

The slippery rails of the Street Railway track, in the vicinity of the Grand Trunk station, on Saturday evening was the cause of an accident which resulted in the demolition of one half of the western gate, which is used as a protection to the public.

The Jackson Park car had just crossed the Grand Trunk tracks on its way towards George street, and about a block behind came the Canadian General car. Just as the latter reached Stewart street, however, a freight train pulled out from the station, necessitating the rapid lowering of the protection gates. The motorman on the C. G. E. car was unable to bring it to a standstill in time and as a result it crashed through the gates, stopping within a few feet of the freight.

The south end of the western gate was completely broken, the castings by which it was operated being literally uprooted. The other half was broken off in the middle so that since the accident a flag has to be used at the west gate, though the other is still in commission.

The ice which had gathered on the rails was responsible for the mishap. After the brakes were all turned on and the power current broken, the car still slid a considerable distance. A number of persons were inside, and it is altogether probable that some serious injuries would have been inflicted had the car crashed against the heavy freight train.

Mr. William Kearns, bridge inspector for the G.T.R., arrived from Lindsay this morning, and inspected the ruins, which will be repaired as soon as the necessary castings arrive from Montreal. The accident occurred about 6.25 Saturday evening.

NEW BRANCH TO THE POPULAR RESTAURANT

Mr. W. J. McCallum Secures New Chef and Adds Cooked Meat Branch to His Business

Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of the well-known restaurant, has added a new branch to his business, and in future anyone who so desires, can secure a nicely dressed and well roasted chicken, duck or turkey, all ready for the table. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jenvery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price, and

Four Outside Preachers Occupied Pulpits In City Churches Sunday

Rev. Principal O'Meara, of Wycliffe College, at St. John's and St. Luke's Churches—Rev. Dr. Bishop at George Street

CHURCH VIEW OF THE WORK

Many Annual Meetings of Church Societies—Hiawatha Indians to be Given Donations of Clothing by Charlotte St. Ladies

In the city churches yesterday, pulpits in five were occupied by strange preachers, and in each case they created a good impression.

Rev. Dr. O'Meara, the new principal of Wycliffe College, Toronto, was heard in St. John's Church at the morning service, and at St. Luke's in the evening. At George Street Methodist Church, special sermons in the interests of missions were preached by Rev. Dr. Bishop, of Cambridge Street Church, Lindsay, while at Charlotte Street Methodist Church, in the absence of the pastor through illness, Rev. H. W. Avison, of Victoria College, Toronto, was the preacher, his evening sermon being specially directed to young men. In the absence of Rev. A. H. Brace, in Cannington, where he preached anniversary sermons, Rev. Mr. Deason, of Norwood, preached in the Park Street Baptist Church.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING:

Don't go shopping yet awhile,
Wait a bit,
Time ain't here yet, by a mile;
Wait a bit,
Wait and go another day;
Christmas is yet a week away
Wait, and join the frenzied fray,
Wait a bit,

Wait till all the stores are jammed—
Wait a bit,
Wait till aisles are packed and rammed;
Wait a bit,
Wait till salesmen are half dead,
Tired of limb and daft of head,
Till the shopping time is sped—
Wait a bit,

Don't employ a bit of sense—
Wait a bit,
Wait till everyone's intense—
Wait a bit,
Wait till you can never get
What you want and have to fret
Like a hen with feathers wet—
Wait a bit.

WELLER CONSENTS TO BE DEPORTED

Next Week Will Probably Find Him on the Atlantic—A Pleasure to Many

The fears entertained by those who know Tom Weller, the man who threatened the destruction of the life of the girl he loved, may now be cast aside. The little romance in real life made public at the time Weller caused such a disturbance at the house of Mr. Wright of Douro, a couple of months ago, will soon be at an end. The young lady who involuntarily was connected with the story, has made so many protestations against the freedom of the man she feared, that the authorities have for a long time been taking steps to have him deported.

Word, however, has been delayed from headquarters as to the course to be pursued, and by to-morrow, Weller's term in the county jail expires. Magistrate Edmison to-day held county court, and it was discovered that Weller was willing to be deported to England. Therefore permission from headquarters is not necessary.

The prisoner was once more remanded for a week and during the intervening time steps will be taken to make the arrangements necessary to his deportation.

Mild At Present But Watch Out

Yesterday morning the thermometer dropped to zero, and those who were up early enough to see it, thought that the promised cold spell had arrived—but it was not to be so—with the sun's rays, the mercury mounted, and it was quite mild during the day and evening, with a continuance of the same conditions to-day.

But those who were afraid that the winter was taking its flight may rest easy—because this is not to be the case. Before 24 hours have passed, it will again be cold enough to suit the most of us. With the sunset to-night, colder weather may be expected, and for the next few days, at least, fur caps will be the order.

There is not much prospect, apparently, of a green Christmas.

SPECIAL CHILDREN'S SERVICE NEXT SUNDAY AFTERNOON

And Mr. J. H. Burnham will Give an Address at All Saints' Church Next Sunday

Last year the All Saints' Sunday School inaugurated what proved to be a very popular service on Christmas Sunday. In the afternoon a special children's service was held, and a collection taken, to be devoted to the funds of the Children's Aid Society. It was exceedingly well attended last year, and deep interest was taken in the effort, and in view of this fact it was decided to continue it this year, consequently on Sunday afternoon next the service will be held, and an address will be given by Mr. J. H. Burnham.

ELDERS NOMINATED AT ST. PAUL'S YESTERDAY

Six Gentlemen Whose Names were Suggested as Additions to List of Elders of the Church—Special Sermon

At the morning service in St. Paul's church yesterday nominations for the position of elder were received. Six are to be elected, and at the service yesterday nominations were received for that number, and at the next Sunday morning service further nominations will be received. The gentlemen whose names were placed in nomination yesterday were Messrs. J.H. Larmouth, R. Innis, W. Pringle, J. H. Conaal, Jas. Fingle and Dr. Carmichael.

In connection with this nomination Rev. Dr. Torrance preached a special sermon on the duties of eldership, from the text, "Let the elders that rule well be counted worthy of double honour, especially they who labour in the word and doctrine," 1 Tim., 5:17.

On the first Sunday in the new year Communion services will be held in St. Paul's church.

IMPORTANT MEETING OF ST. LUKE'S MEN'S GUILD

Services in St. Luke's Yesterday and the Meetings Announced for Present Week

An important meeting of the Men's Guild of St. Luke's Church will be held to-night, at 8 o'clock, in the guild room.

The rector appealed yesterday for contributions to provide Christmas cheer for the poor. Anyone wishing to contribute may send his gifts to the rectory this week.

The Christmas decorations are being prepared this week, and willing hands are requested to work, commencing to-morrow, for the decorating of the church. Gifts of flowers will be very welcome next Monday.

Miss Lillian Moore sang last night, "Be Thou Nigh," in a very excellent manner. She possesses a voice perfectly trained, of rare beauty, and delighted a large congregation.

MUSICAL SERVICES AT ST. JOHN'S YESTERDAY

Mr Morphet and Mr. Geo. Chandler were Heard in Solo Numbers

At Matins yesterday, in St. John's Church, Mr. George Chandler sang the tenor solo, "Comfort Ye," from Handel's "Messiah," in a loud if voice. At Evensong, King Hall's "Advent Anthem, "Hark! the Glad Sound," was sung by a very full choir, the tenor solo, "He Comes, the Broken Heart to Bind," taken by Mr. Morphet, who has seldom been heard to better advantage. St. John's choir are to be congratulated on having the services of tenors who can handle standard music, as Messrs. Morphet and Chandler did yesterday. The choir was very full all day and led the singing heartily and effectively.

THE BANK OF OTTAWA

The annual meeting of the Bank of Ottawa, a report of which appears in another column, reveals an exceedingly thrifty condition of the affairs of this very successful financial institution. The revelation includes a three million dollar capital, eludes a three million dollar capital buttressed by three million dollars of added reserve, a dividend of 10 per cent., and the profit and loss account credited with an increase of more than a quarter of a million($236,512). During the year under review the profits have been sufficiently in excess of the previous year to permit of the normal percentage of profit on a capital stock increased by half a million dollars. The rate of profit is nearly 14 per cent. upon the paid-up capital. Confidence in the stability and quality of management of the Bank of Ottawa is shown by the fact that the public deposits of the bank have increased by five and a quarter millions, while the loans and discounts have increased by four and a half millions during the past year. An interesting statement at this stage is that of the general manager, that a thorough system of inspection included the inspection of the head office, as well as the branches. The Bank of Ottawa is one of the new-comers in Peterborough, but under the direction of the popular local manager, Mr. Hollingshead, it has become firmly established in the public favour, with a very satisfactory quantity and quality of business.

AFTER THE HEADS

It is stated that there are about a thousand applicants for the position of governor of Toronto jail — for the position to be made vacant by the decapitation of the present incumbent, Mr. Vansant. He is to be investigated. An investigation is also being conducted at the Ontario Institute for the Blind, Brantford, with Principal Gardner's head, the objective point. This investigation is being dragged along by very deliberate degrees. Hearsay evidence is being offered and reported in the papers. By postponement this hearsay evidence of a damaging character, will be left before the public mind uncontradicted, and those who want to see bad in the evidence offered will not take any too much trouble to differentiate between hearsay and direct evidence. These two places are wanted for supporters of the Government, and without reference to the merits of the charges the result of the investigations will be—awaited with interest.

INDUSTRIAL PEACE

The Noebel Peace Prize, which President Roosevelt has had put into his Christmas stocking, is a most appropriate gift for the season of peace and good will. The cash value of the prize is $37,127. It is stated that this sum has been turned over by the president to trustees to form the nucleus of a fund to be devoted to promoting the interests of industrial peace, that is, making peace in the perennial war between capital and labour and securing better relations between these two actually, but not necessarily, antagonistic, elements, and thus promoting industrial peace. The purpose of the fund is thus stated: "To invest and reinvest the principal of fund; to receive any additional funds which may come to it by contribution, and invest and reinvest them; to pay over the income from the fund and its additions to a committee of six, to be selected by the trustees, two to serve for one year, two for two years, and two for three years, three of its members to be representatives of labour, and three of capital, chosen for distinguished service in the industrial world for promoting righteous industrial peace; and to fill any vacancies which may occur in this committee by selection and appointment in the same manner in which the committee is originally selected and appointed.

The committee of six, to be called "The Industrial Peace Committee," shall have charge of the annual and other conferences provided for under the terms of the foundation; shall receive suggestions for the subjects to be discussed; shall lead the discussion at, and publish the results of, the conferences. There shall be one annual conference, and the committee of six shall be given authority to call special conferences in case of great industrial crisis.

The income paid over to the committee by the trustees shall be used for the expenses incurred by them in the performance of their duties. It shall be provided in the terms of the trust that the president of the United States shall fill the vacancies which may occur in the number of the trustees.

The president proposes making wise use of the fund mentioned. While King Edward, who has done more, perhaps, than any other potentate, in promoting the interests of international peace, is upon the throne, there is less danger of international war, but there is need for something in the way of concerted and systematic effort to lessen the war between capital and labour. In the United States this suggests the effort that might well be made in the direction of lessening the oppressive influence of the trusts, which, in turn owe a great deal of their strength to the existence of a high tariff. President Roosevelt can do much by promoting and encouraging legislation, without drawing heavily upon the Noebel Peace Fund.

NA SO BAD, AFTER A'

There has been no little commotion over the proposal of the British Minister of War to remove the celebrated Scots Greys cavalry regiment from Scotland. All the fuss is said to be somewhat of a tempest in a tea-pot. Mr. Haldane, the War Secretary, stated to a Scotch deputation that waited on him the other day, that there was no intention to denationalize the Scots Greys, but Piershill Barracks, at Edinburgh, were insanitary and could not be made suitable for a cavalry barracks, and he could not see his way at present to propose the expenditure of £200,000 on the construction of new barracks in Scotland. This may or may not be a satisfactory explanation to the thorough-paced Scot, but the member of the celebrated regiment who speaks Scotch, with an Irish or Whitechapel accent, will not particularly object. The genuine Scotch members, however, may argue that, as soldiers are made to be killed, they had better die on Scotch soil from insanitary conditions of Scotch origin, than live and breathe the air that does not come from heather and till in the land o' cakes.

EDITORIAL NOTES

We can't—the most of us, at any rate—get anything without paying for it. If we get, in these days, the luxury of granolithic pavement, we have to pay for the luxury outside of frontage assessments. Speaking to this, the Toronto News says the snow bylaw of that city needs changing. At present, the people are compelled to clean all the snow off the sidewalks, which was reasonable when the walks were of wood. Now, when they are of cement, it is dangerous to do so. The News believes that an inch of snow should be left on them, as the cement walks are slippery when cleaned to the bone.

CHRISTMAS GIVING

Brantford Expositor.

About this time of the year the subject of Christmas giving is the topic of much discussion, and to many people a most delightful custom has become burdensome because of its growing expensiveness. Year by year the list of persons to be remembered grows larger, and the costs of the gifts more expensive, until each recurring 25th of December heralds the approach of "the white man's burden."

There is assuredly room for reform in the matter of Christmas giving. The value of the gift is considered too much, and the spirit of the gift too little.

An appreciative acknowledgment of faithful service, either verbal or written, should be valued, and is usually valued, far above anything which costs money, but nothing more.

Letters of friendship and love, are in the same category.

Christmas cards and calendars cost but little, but are always appreciated, more especially if the selection of the present bears evidence of thought on the part of the giver.

Articles which are made by the giver and not bought are almost priceless, because love, rather than dollars, is wrought into them.

In short no Christmas gift is worth much unless the personality, rather than the cash of the giver enters into the gift.

A VIEW OF THE QUESTION

Canadian Courier.

A book was written some time ago in which a character named David Harum advised the public to "do others before they do you," Josh Billings or some other joeum person gave similar advice at an earlier date. A speaker in Toronto the other day lamented that this principle had taken deep root in the United States and was rapidly taking hold upon the imagination of Canada.

What else could be expected? The leaders in morals—the churches and the universities—are leading in the dissemination of this doctrine. The Baptist Church is to accept $100,000 for its university from Mr. John D. Rockefeller, one of the arch exponents of the "do others" principle. The Presbyterian Church is accepting for its university $100,000 from Mr. Andrew Carnegie, another prime mover in the development of this doctrine. The churches would apparently call the devil blessed if he had a hundred thousand to donate.

This may seem strong and may read like an attack on the churches. It is not. The writer believes thoroughly in the influence of the church for a higher morality and a higher citizenship. On this point, however, he cannot see eye to eye with them, and ventures to speak his mind frankly and freely. He firmly believes that it would be better for Canada not to touch such money, because by so doing she sanctions and justifies the principle on which these great fortunes were built.

FARMER'S ADVOCATE

Although the Farmer's Advocate at any time is almost good enough for a Christmas publication, its Christmas special is specially beautiful and elaborate. The cover is a work of art in colour—the reproduction of a beautiful stable scene—horses and children—and the 100 pages are plentifully illustrated with photogravures, and several full-page reproductions in colour—Paul Wickson's painting of "Oro Wilkes, 2.11," owned by Miss Wilks, Galt; a full-page reproduction in colour of the beautiful panel, "Spring," by Mr. G. A. Reid, P.R.C.A. There are, besides, splendid monotint reproductions of "Landscape, with Cattle," by Mr. Watson, R.C.A.; "Indians Trading with French at Fort Rouille," decorative panel in King Edward Hotel, Toronto, by Mr. F. S. Challener, R.C.A.; "London Bridge," by Mr. Bell-Smith, R.C.A.; "Bereft," (full page) the picture awarded gold medal at Paris Salon, 1890, by Mr. E. Wyly Grier, R.C.A.; "Morning Mists," by Mr. R. O'Brien, R.C.A.; "The Sands o' Dee," by Mr. R. Harris, R.C.A.; "An Unexpected Meeting," by Mr. Paul Peel, R.C.A., and decorative panel, "The Happy Summer," by F. M. Knowles, R.C.A. This beautiful number includes besides numerous articles of special farm interest, also beautifully illustrated, and a large quantity of, seasonable holiday literature. The Farmer's Advocate has arrived this Christmas — "with both feet." Its Christmas number gives metropolitan journals a close run for their laurels.

REMOVAL OF OLD HOUSE FROM WOLFE STREET

Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Co. Engaged in Doing Work

The residents of the south end will miss the old roughcast house that stood on the north side of Wolfe street immediately east of the Grand Trunk tracks. It was bought by Mr. Sherwood, who is having it removed from its present site to Ware street. The work of moving it is being done by the Peterborough Fuel and Cartage Company, who have four sets of runners under it, and are practically walking away with it. Work was delayed for some time until an order was procured to enable the cartage company to cross the tracks of the C. P. R. at Aylmer street.

The house is in a rather dilapidated condition, but if it survives the rough usage of its removal, it should serve for household purposes for a number of years more.

POST CARD CORRESPONDENCE.

In this column will be published communications upon post cards only. It will remain open for the use of readers, who are invited to contribute suggestions, inquiries or replies. Anything of a scurrilous personal nature will be prohibited.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—The agents of the Electric Light Companies call at our houses any day or any time of day and tramp all through every room to see if we are using the contract number of lights and if there is one too many or if too great candle-power there is trouble. Why should not we housekeepers appoint a committee to visit the power houses and inspect them to find out why the lights are shut off altogether without notice and why the light is of such poor quality and why at times it fades to a glimmer and after a time of semi-darkness revives to its normal dulness. We might see whether the machinery is in order and whether it is well looked after. If we are kept to the letter of the contract, why should not the companies be required to fulfill their part of the contract as exactly.

Yours etc.,
HOUSEKEEPER.

A FULL PRACTICE IS WANTED FOR TO-NIGHT

To-night Coach Breen wants a full practice of the hockey team, and asks that the following men be at the rink at seven, sharp:—Lang, Glover, Crowley, Morgan, Graham, Whitcroft, Watson, Vanevery, Meyers, Ferguson, Rose McGraw, Easson, McStravick.

HOCKEY

The Peterborough Hockey Club will play the Marlboros in Toronto, a week from to-morrow night.

• • • •

Now that the City League certificates are out watch the energetic managers get after players. Many, it is said, have promised to play with two or three teams and there will be something doing when the certificates are presented.

• • • •

Three weeks ago the Examiner challenged the Review to a game of hockey, but so far no reply has been received and it looks as if our back door contemporary is determined to avoid playing the game if possible. The Examiner team is weakened by the loss of three star forwards, but is ready to don skates at any time. The ice is ready but the Review team has evidently got cold feet and are trying to dodge the issue. The public is assured that the Examiner is doing everything in its power to arrange the game and wants it understood that if no game is played, the fault rests upon the yellow streaked members of the Tory organ.

• • • •

A meeting of the Auburn Hockey Club will be held to-morrow night at 8 o'clock in the Y.M.C.A. A full attendance is requested.

• • • •

The Auburns had a great practice at the Brock street rink on Saturday night when a dozen pursued the elusive puck. The Auburns showed good form and should make a fine showing in the City League. Among the players out were Belleghem, Shaw, McMillan, McDonald, McGrath, White Deforge, Kendry, Long and Clegg.

CURLING

The following games were played at the curling rink on Saturday night:—

Kelly, 12.	Reid, 12.
J. Stanger, 10.	Parker, 3.
C. Rutherford, 6.	R. Neill, 5.
S. Clegg, 5.	R. M. Waddell, 12.

BASKET-BALL.

There will be no more league basketball games at the Y.M.C.A. gymnasium until after New Years. A large number of the players of the teams will be out of the city during the coming two weeks and on this account the games were cancelled.

The New York Stock Market

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, December 17. — Developments to-day were important in no way, but the large interests were evidently adverse to aggressive bullishness, and the bearish professionals seized the opportunity to offer the market down, although they did not get much stock in so doing, and the dullness on the declines was regarded by shrewd operators, as indicating an oversold condition.

St Paul was very strong all day, advancing at one time to 199 5-8, but in the afternoon when Reading, Copper and Union Pacific were hammered down, lost nearly all of the gain. The active issues with the exception of St Paul, lost about 2 points all round although at no time active. Money was tight at 14 per cent., and this was given as an excuse for the selling.

We cannot become pessimistic and continue to advocate conservative bullishness on these breaks. The close was intensely dull and at about the low of the day.

Liver Trouble From Overeating

THE KIDNEYS AND BOWELS ALSO DERANGED AND CURE ONLY OBTAINED BY USE OF

DR. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS.

Hurried eating and lack of proper mastication of the food are among the most common causes of indigestion, and overeating is undoubtedly the beginning of trouble with the liver and kidneys.

Kidney disease and rheumatism are not usually the first indications of a deranged system, but these troubles follow unheeded headaches, constipation and bilious attacks.

Because of that direct and combined action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills are effective in whatever stage of such derangements they may be used, except when the structure of the kidneys has been wasted away by Bright's disease.

What we would emphasize, however, is the advantage of beginning this treatment at the first indication of trouble with the liver. It is the liver which first feels the result of overeating because of its difficulty in filtering the blood. Keep the liver right by the timely use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills and you not only prevent headaches, biliousness and constipation, but entirely escape derangement of the kidneys, which are at once so dreadfully painful and fatal.

Mrs. E. Husband, Moore street, St. Catharines, Ont., states: "I was seriously afflicted with indigestion and stomach trouble for sixteen years. Finally I became so bad that I could scarcely eat anything without suffering terrible distress. Gradually I grew weaker and more emaciated, and though treated by three doctors and a specialist, I received no benefit.

"After a time a pain began in my right side, which medical men said was liver trouble. I never got relief until I began the use of Dr. Chase's Kidney-Liver Pills, and they helped me at once. By using about a dozen boxes I was entirely cured. I owe my cure entirely to this treatment, and make this statement with the hope that some poor sufferer may benefit by my experience."

LAKEFIELD SCHOOL BOARD HOLD A MEETING

And Engage Teachers for the Coming Year—I.O.O.F. Lodge Elects Officers —Dickson Dam is Being Repaired

LAKEFIELD HOCKEY CLUB ORGANIZED

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Dec. 15.—A special meeting of the Lakefield School Board was held in the town hall on Friday evening, December 7.

Those present were Trustee Jno. Hull, in the chair and Trustees Tanner, Clifford and Deneb.

Minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved.

Trustee Clifford reported that he had waited on Mr. Reid and had engaged him as janitor for the balance of the present year, and for the year 1907.

Moved by Trustee Deneb, seconded by Trustee Tanner, that Mr. Clifford's engagement of Mr. Reid be confirmed.—Carried.

A communication from Miss Stubbs, tendering her resignation, was read, and, on motion, accepted.

Moved by Trustee Tanner, seconded by Trustee Clifford, that Miss Forrest be engaged as teacher in Miss Stubbs' stead, at a salary of $350 per annum.

The Board then adjourned.

The election of officers for the Lakefield Lodge, I.O.O.F., No. 358, was held in their lodge room on Thursday evening, December 6, resulting as follows:

P. G.—Bro. H. B. Bissell,
N. G.—Bro. Joe Chant.
V. G.—Bro. Wm. Allan.
Recording Secretary — Bro. Geo. Spence.
Financial Secretary — Bro. F. Burgess.
Treasurer—Bro. F. E. Kline.
Medical Officer — Bro. Dr. J. R. Fraser.
Trustees—Bros. Joe Kelly, Sam. Charlton, S. Miller.

Rev. Father Bretherton, Hastings, was in the village on Tuesday, the guest of Rev. Father Phalen.

The Dickson Company have a gang of men repairing the dam at the race-way.

Mrs. Pearson, Buckhorn, is the guest of Mrs. J. H. Davis.

The Lakefield Hockey Club have organized for the season, with the following officers:

President—R. P. Davidson.
Vice-President—J. M. Bygott.
Manager—Dr. S. J. Gibson.
Secretary—Jas. Watson.

The personnel of the team is not altogether decided upon, but the prospects are that a good team will represent this village in the Peterborough City League this year.

Mr. Wm. Leahy has disposed of all his house furnishings by auction. He is leaving the village.

Mrs. Dunn has purchased a fine fruit farm in the vicinity of Hamilton, and intends moving to that section some time in January.

YULE TIDE KERMISS NOW IN FULL SWING

Miss Annie Simons are looking after the welfare of the anglers in an efficient manner.

The Smoking Den

Visitors of the sterner sex will irresistibly drift south-eastward until they reach the cigar counter and smoking den. A choice line of the best cigars is carried and an alcove has been fitted up as a charming den, where devotees of the weed may enjoy themselves at their leisure. Here too will be conducted the election campaign between Mr. Hall and Mr. Kendry. The ten cents charged for the privilege of voting does not seem to deter anyone from exercising the privilege of franchise and the campaign will be a brisk one. The ladies in charge of this department are Miss O'Connell, Mrs. Ed. Conroy and Miss M. Kelly.

The Cushion Booth

Near the south-east corner is situated also the cushion booth, in which are displayed many attractive cushions of different designs and prices, but all well worth purchasing. If you are looking for a Christmas gift for "Her" you could not do better than to inspect the splendid stock that is shown there. The booth is in charge of Mrs. (Dr.) McNulty, Mrs. T. LePlant and Mrs. Ball.

Corner Grocery

The corner grocery belies its name inasmuch as it is not situated on a corner but in the middle of the south end of the hall. A visit to this section will reveal many things that will interest you. The stock is a most complete one and comprises everything that would be found in a well equipped grocery and general store. Business has been brisk to-day and no doubt will continue so until the end of the Kermess. Those in charge are Mrs. LeGond, Mrs. Guerard and Mrs. Galvin. Miss Overend has a home cooking table in connection with the store where the pies that mother used to make are surpassed by the excellent display of delicacies found here.

Candy is always welcome and those who want to secure a supply of the choicest should pay a visit to the southern part of the building where a splendid supply of candies of every kind is to be found. The table is in charge of Mrs. J. C. Sullivan, Miss Sullivan and Miss Conroy.

Here's Where You Get Collared

Of course you are liable to be collared anywhere but the only place where it can be done in a scientific manner is at the collar table, conducted by Miss Maud Cahill and Miss Nellie McCabe. Here everything in the collar line is displayed in a manner that would make you purchase whether you want to or not.

Fancy Work Table

A Kermess without a fancy work table would be like Hamlet with the part of Hamlet left out and so there is a splendid table of this kind to be found at the market hall where all varieties of the dainty articles so dear to the feminine heart are on view. The table is conducted by Mrs. M. L. Henry, Mrs. B. Morrow and Mrs. Kelly.

Clothing Booth

One of the most attractive of the many attractive booths is the clothing table situated on the west side of the hall where are displayed many alluring articles of clothing. The table is in charge of Mrs. Peter Simons, Jr., Mrs. McCarthy, Mrs. T. Lane and Mrs. Atchison.

Handkerchiefs

That handkerchiefs make attractive Christmas gifts is shown by the crowds which surround the table in charge of Miss Nellie Simons and Miss Eva Tangney. All varieties of dainty handkerchiefs are shown.

Other attractive booths that are being largely patronized, are the prize table, in charge of Mrs. Trombley and Mrs. Tangney; the paper table, conducted by Misses Cahill and Coleman; the lottery table, presided over by Mrs. D. Donoghue, Mrs. Moloney and Mrs. O'Brien; and the religious table conducted by Mrs. Lehane and Mrs. Eane.

The Dining-room

The dining room and kitchen occupy a considerable portion of the hall and are doing a flourishing business. Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. McFadden are in charge of this department, and are assisted by an able staff of twenty-five ladies. Those who desire to satisfy the needs of the inner man are advised to follow the direction of the sign, "This way to the dining room." They will find satisfactory service, charming waitresses, and the best meal that the market affords. Dinner begins at 11.30 every day, and supper at 5.30, while an oyster supper is served at 9 o'clock.

The committee and all connected with the affair are to be congratulated upon the magnificent Kermess they have prepared, the success of which seems assured, judging by the interest that was displayed today. The officers of the committee are Rev. Mother Superior, president, Mrs. N. De Laplante, Vice-President, Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. J. Dunn.

An International Incident

A HOLIDAY celebration that will long be remembered in the American navy is the "Santa Claus dinner" given in the wardroom of one of Uncle Sam's gunboats of the Venezuelan coast. The plan had been to have the affair on Christmas night, but as the vessel was then at sea the event was postponed until New Year's. It was on this occasion that an Italian battleship commander, with warlike intentions toward the United States and all their inhabitants, was beguiled into peaceful thoughts by good American punch, which the American officers dealt out to him in such quantities that he finally said he would like to settle in the western hemisphere.

It happened that the Italian's man-of-war and the Yankee gunboat arrived in southern waters at about the same time. There was the usual interchange of courtesies. Then occurred the incident that aroused the Italian captain's ire. A South American newspaper printed a cartoon representing him as being blown out of the water by the United States gunboat. In this, of course, there was no sense whatever, as Italy and this country were on the friendliest terms, but the foreign skipper, being both excitable and suspicious, took the matter to heart. The Americans heard that he even accused them of inspiring the cartoon and that he had complained to his home government.

New Year's day came due while the gossip was at its height. For weeks the wardroom officers of the gunboat had been making preparations for a grand feast. They decided at the last minute to invite the Italian and his staff as guests of honor.

A refusal, of course, was out of the question, but when the guests arrived their attitude was cold and distant, especially that of the captain, who looked as though he expected to be thrown into irons. It was said afterward that he had ordered his vessel to be ready for immediate action in case of treachery. At any rate, he sat down at dinner without a smile for his hosts, and for awhile things looked gloomy.

Gradually, however, the younger officers of the gunboat succeeded in forcing the visitors to partake of the punch, and with each glass the suspicious captain grew less suspicious. In an hour he was affable. In another hour he was affectionate. By the time the real celebration began, while the coffee was being served, he had forgotten the cartoon and was drinking healths to the stars and stripes every thirty seconds. When the ceremonies, which had been carefully arranged, had been in progress a few minutes he was proposing a joint expedition by his and the gunboat's crews against the Venezuelan capital.

Even if the incident of the Italian's conversion had been lacking the dinner would have been an affair to be remembered. The first part of the closing celebration was the appearance of a Christmas tree, which of course should have been called a New Year's tree. It was a big tree, too, one that anybody might have envied, and the tars had made a trip ten miles inland to get it on the previous day. As it was borne into the wardroom it reached up into the dome-like window at the top. For this window, forming a sort of tower space to the wardroom, naval men have a technical name, but no landlubber could hope to get it right, so let it be called simply a window. The tree went all the way up, and from every branch there hung gifts for the merry diners.

Just as the New Year's tree was fastened into its place on the center of the table there appeared through the high window a real Santa Claus, with beard and furs and red coat of approved cut. Down the chimney-like opening he crawled, finally leaping upon the table with such force that half a dozen glasses went crashing to the floor. Amid the applause of the now hilarious party he proceeded to award the presents, calling each name in a gruff voice from beneath his white whiskers. When he came to the Italian captain he addressed him as "Your most powerful excellency Signor Captain ——," by which high sounding appellation the signor captain was so flattered that he bowed until his forehead bumped into what was left of a saucer of ice cream.—New York Times.

"DRINKING HEALTHS TO THE STARS AND STRIPES."

DR. CRICHTON OF CASTLETON.

Court Declares His Name Should Be Restored to the Register.

Toronto, Dec. 17.—Judgment in the appeal of Dr. Crichton of Castleton from the ruling of the Medical Council, striking his name from the rolls for "disgraceful and infamous conduct," in a professional sense, in having advertised a la grippe cure, was given out by the division court on Saturday.

The court allows the appeal, without costs, and declares that his name should be restored to the register, but without prejudice to the question as to whether, on a subsequent enquiry, there may not be proper ground found for erasing his name. The case was argued before Chancellor Boyd and Justices Magee and Mabee.

In summing up the case, the chancellor goes on to say that the Medical Council does not appear to possess such extensive power to discipline and exclude delinquents as has been given by the Legislature to the Law Society. In his judgment the chancellor also said that Dr. Crichton though right legally was wrong professionally in advertising.

DOOR CURTAINS WITH CORNICE.

winter it made its appearance first, and a certain new hotel, which is supposed to be an authority on good taste, had all its rooms supplied with cornices made of the same cloth as the window curtains. This style became popular then, but now the old fashioned brass and gilt cornices of colonial days are most in demand. The originals are so rare that they are almost unattainable, but such good imitations are made that the difference can scarcely be noted.

When cornices were the fashion in former years it was the custom to draw back the curtains, but today they are, as a rule, allowed to hang. The tambrequin is edged with gimp of the same shade as the cloth, and sometimes, when the curtains are made of some cheap little material, such as cotton or cotton and silk, this gimp is not used at all. Bedroom curtains, made of some soft material and edged with a ruffle of lace, are exceedingly effective hanging from a brass cornice, no sash curtain being used.

Fortunately fashion does not sanction the Nottingham lace curtains, ungraceful, hard to launder and altogether hideous. Swiss, madras and Calcutta net are welcome substitutes. Soft cream madras, ranging from 35 to 70 cents a yard, may be made into as pretty a curtain as any one could desire. Colored nets in a great variety of designs are used for casement curtains or for inner curtains when the glass is covered with a cream or white net.

In regard to making curtains at home, those who have the best success follow these rules: Make the hems about two inches wide; miter the corners; turn the top hem in two or three thicknesses, as the curtain is very apt to shrink when laundered.

WHY MEXICO DID IT.

Limantour, Minister of Finance, Tells of Nationalizing Two Railways.

Mexico City, Dec. 17.—Minister of Finance Limantour, in a remarkable speech to Congress Saturday, detailed the reasons which prompted the Mexican Government to consummate the great railroad merger by which it comes into possession of two great trunk lines of the country, with thousands of miles of subsidiary lines. With the control of the National and the Central roads and dependent lines, the Government practically owns all of the big operating lines in the republic.

The Minister summed up his argument as follows: 'There are three main arguments for the incorporation of the two great systems of the National and the Central. First, to avoid friction between the two different corporations when the two are competing lines, or when one of them fears being antagonized by a concert in which Government holds a controlling interest; and, secondly, to avoid the absorption of properties not controlled by the Government by one of the great railway system of the United States; and, thirdly, the prospect of realizing considerable economies through the consolidation of all the great railways under a single management.'

The speech throughout its delivery was frequently applauded. There seemed to be an overwhelming sentiment in favor of the ideas advanced by Minister Limantour.

IMMIGRATION TO THE NORTH WEST IS PROBLEM

Danger That Foreigners will not Assimilate with our own Population, Says Dr. Bishop

MISSIONARY SERMONS AT GEORGE ST.

The danger that the foreign element which is pouring into the Canadian Northwest will not assimilate with our own population, was the subject of a forcible sermon by Rev. Dr. Bishop, of Lindsay, at the George Street Methodist Church last night. Rev. Dr. Bishop occupied the pulpit at both morning and evening services, preaching the annual missionary sermons. Very large congregations were present during the day, and the offerings were generous.

At the evening service, Rev. Dr. Bishop spoke from the text, St. Matthew V., 13-14,—"Ye are the salt of the earth; ye are the light of the world." St. Matthew XIII., 33,—"The Kingdom of Heaven is like unto leaven."

In beginning, the speaker said that these words were Christ's conception of the relation of His Church to the world. The salt pertained to corruption, the light to drive away the darkness of the world, and the leaven to permeate and possess the whole lump. "We are in a position to estimate the value of these forces as we find them at work," said the speaker, "and as we mark the progress of the kingdom we have no reason to be ashamed of the gospel of Christ."

Every Christian, he continued, bears a relation to the whole of humanity. "The outlook was never so attractive as now. Never was the opportunity in the homeland so great or the work so urgent as now. We have not to make a choice between the work of God at home and in foreign lands, and feel that while we are attending to one we are neglecting the other. While we sustain the work at home, we are able to go to the regions beyond with the gospel. It is a matter of congratulation that while the demands of the homeland are greater than they have ever been, we are doing more than ever was attempted before to respond to the calls from abroad, and are sending more missionaries away."

The speaker then referred to the conditions in Canada. In eloquent and forcible language, he pictured Canada's greatness, her enormous forest resources, her mineral wealth, her fisheries and her magnificent wheat lands, all of which, he said, were attracting the attention of other nations to this country.

"Here a serious problem arises," said Rev. Dr. Bishop. "The number who have already come to our Northwest have taxed the available resources of the churches to the utmost. What are we to do for the hundreds of thousands and millions who are yet to come?"

The problem was a serious one, not because of the number of the immigrants, but because of their character. Multitudes have come, or are coming, who have little or no knowledge of the social or religious life of Canada. There were many who fully sympathized with our institutions, but others were morally or spiritually much inferior, men who are all ens in blood, aliens in religion and aliens in civilization. They had in them the material to make the best of citizens, but in order to do so it would require the best conditions. Already, colonies of Hungarians, Norwegians, Mennonites, Mormons, Icelanders, Galicians, Doukhobors, etc., were spread over the plains. "The policy of colonizing foreigners is a false one," said the speaker, "and not conducive to our best interests. There will come hundreds of thousands to our shores, and if we cannot assimilate them they will destroy our national life."

Statistics were given, showing the demoralizing effect the unassimilated element had upon the United States.

The speaker closed with an appeal for support on behalf of missions.

WEDDING BELLS

ELGAR--EMBURY

A pretty house wedding was celebrated on Wednesday, Dec. 12th, at the beautiful home of Mr. W. H. Boyle, Napanee, when Miss Minnie Embury was united to Mr. Harvey Elgar. Rev. A. J. Harvey Strike, cousin of the groom performed the ceremony. Miss Fox, of Napanee, played Mendelssohn's wedding march as the bridal party entered the drawing room and took their places under a cluster of artistically arranged Christmas bells. The bride was given away by her father and looked charming in her travelling suit of navy blue cheviot and hat to match, amethyst and tan, and carried a cluster of bride's roses.

The groom was becomingly attired and carried a bouquet of pink roses. Mr. Harry E. Boyle, nephew of the bride was the best man. After congratulations the bridal party repaired to the dining room where a tempting wedding lunch was served from tables decorated with carnations and smilax. The health of the bride was proposed by the Rev. Mr. Strike and was suitably responded to by groom, the groomsman and W. H. Boyle, Esq.

The bride received a very handsome and valuable collection of gifts from various parts of Ontario, Manitoba and California.

The groom's gift to the bride was an elegant sable stole and a sunburst of pearls, to the bridesmaid a sable muff and to the groomsman a gold locket. The happy couple left on the limited express going west and will visit Toronto, Chatham, Detroit, Chicago and other places of interest on their way to Los Angeles, California, where they propose spending the winter. While in Los Angeles they will be the guest of Mr. C. H. Elgar, a brother of the groom, who is filling an important position in that city as an electrical engineer.

The bride is a sister of Mrs. W. H. Boyle, Napanee, of Dr. G. Embury and Miss E. Embury, Ottawa. Mr. Elgar, the groom, is one of the successful farmers of the West, and is now retired. They will reside in Souris, Manitoba, and will be at home to their friends on June 5th, 1907.

The latest story comes from a gentleman who had the pleasure of conversing with Mr. McEwan, one of the most widely known gentlemen in the vast West.

Formerly of Montreal

Mr. McEwan, 22 years ago, had a splendid position in Montreal, but, wishing to make provision for his son's future welfare, he went on a western trip, with the result that he finally decided to settle there. He lives about six miles from Brandon and has a whole section of land under cultivation, under his supervision, assisted by his sons. In this tract there are 640 acres, and his place is one of the most beautiful in the West. Mr. McEwan is a lover of shade trees, and has planted them, uniformly, all around his farm. On the visit of Lord and Lady Aberdeen to the West, Mr. McEwan was the recipient of their hearty compliments for the beauty with which he had surrounded his farm. Lord Aberdeen declared that it was the most beautiful country place he had ever seen.

A Large Ranch

Mr. McEwan is also a member of a company which has a most important business investment under its control. The Blood Indians have a reserve about 42 miles in length and averaging in width 17 miles. There are thus enclosed about 350,000 acres of excellent land. A special feature of this reserve is that it is bounded on two opposite sides by rivers. On this reservation Mr. McEwan's company has put a large number of Mexican cows and heifers. Mr. McEwan waited on the Government at Ottawa and made known his plans. The result was that if he could make a bargain with the Bloods, the Government would ratify it.

Accordingly, about three years ago, 8,000 of the finest Mexican cattle were turned loose, and all Coughlin's short-horn bulls were also bought and turned in. There has been practically no depletion in the ranks, and to-day it is estimated that the herd numbers 30,000, and the company declares that the ranch is not yet fully stocked. They buy from the Indians 700 tons of hay every year, and, according to the agreement, no houses have been built on the land, not even a stable or shack. The cattle remain out all winter, and in the spring they are perfectly suitable for killing, despite this fact. This ranch is generally conceded to be the finest and best stocked there is in Canada, if not in North America.

A Fine Country

Mr. McEwan speaks most favourably of the West. He is thoroughly pleased with it, and declares that the winter is more endurable there than in the eastern cities. He considers that the various reports regarding the richness of the West are not overdrawn, and firmly believes that a great future is in store for that part of Canada when it is thoroughly opened up and developed.

THE MISSION BAND REPORTS A GOOD YEAR'S WORK

Annual Business Meeting and Concert of the Park Street Baptist Church Mission Band was Held Recently

A GOOD PROGRAMME WAS PRESENTED

The Park Street Baptist Church Mission Band and Circle held their annual Thanksgiving concert and entertainment on Friday night. It proved to be a great success, for, notwithstanding the unfavourable weather, there was a great turn-out and the programme betrayed careful preparation. The visitors were Mr. Chambers, who rendered the "Dream of Paradise" in fine form, and Miss Jessie Swinton, who contributed a very acceptable recitation. The order of the programme was:—

Opening exercises, Miss M. Mann, the President of the Band.
Recitation ... .Pearl Pogue
Recitation, "Missionary Pennies" by Miss Mary Barrie
Recitation, "The Gambler's Wife" by Miss Viola Palmer
Chorus, ...Merry Missionaries
Dialogue, "How Mother won the Argument"
Recitation, "The Afternoon Call" by Reenie Johnston
Reading ....Bessie Mowry
Song, "Dream of Paradise" Mr. Chambers
Recitation, "What Maudie Did" by H. Gillespie
Recitation, "'Ceptin' Me" Florence Sherwood
Motion song .... Eleven Girls
Recitation, "Baby in Church" Miss Nora Vansett
Recitation, "Teddy's Partnership" A. Smith
Dialogue, "How They Kept the Secret"
Recitation ... ...Miss Jessie Swinton
Solo ....Miss Nellie Pilling
Recitation ... ...Gertie Killingbeck
Report of Secretary, Miss Nellie Hudson
Recitation, "A Misunderstanding" by Rena Johnston
Recitation, ..., Charles Barrie

The Year's Work

The entire programme awakened deep interest and the following report shows the year's work:—

"It is with devout thankfulness to God that we, the Mission Band, of the Park Street Church, again present to you the report for the year 1906. The work still goes on. The meetings held Sunday at 4 o'clock the 1st of every month are well attended and have been very interesting all uniting in trying to make them so. We have held only 9 meetings during the year, the months of July, August and September being omitted during the hot weather.

We have a membership of 53. During the year we lost two very efficient members, Mr. Alex. Haddow and Mr. Roy Jackson, who are now attending Woodstock College in preparatory work for the ministry. We feel this loss very deeply as they were valuable workers both in Mission Band and Sunday School.

In January we held the annual election of officers which resulted as follows:—

President—Miss Maggie Mann.
1st Vice-President—Miss Maud Everson.
2nd Vice-President—H. L. Brace.
Treasurer—Miss H. Gillespie.
Secretary—Miss Nellie Hudson.
Organist—Miss Gertie Buntin.

In June Miss Maud Everson was elected delegate to the convention held in Brighton. We feel very thankful for what has been accomplished during the year and the spirit and zeal each member has shown for missionary work. As we are again starting a new year we trust we will all be stirred with the power of God and be more zealous in our work and do more for the spread of the Gospel in foreign fields. In closing the Band tender to you all a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year."

N. HUDSON, Secretary.

THE BANCROFT FARMERS EXPECT LONG WINTER

And are Killing off Their Cattle at the Beginning of the Season

The Bancroft Times says: Anticipating a long, cold winter, farmers are not going to take any chances on being caught short of feed next spring. They are killing off their cattle now and an average of 25 hides per day are being brought to town. Mr. F. Mullett has handled 400 hides since the 1st of November.

BEAUTIFUL WINDOWS OF RICHARD HALL AND SON

"Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men" the Prominent Design of the Clever Artist

Such an artistic display in window dressing as that presented by Richard Hall & Son on Saturday has seldom ever been witnessed by Peterborough people. The beautiful designs in the mind of the clever artist who performed the work were most carefully and handsomely executed so that the windows of that well known dry goods firm of Richard Hall & Son commanded with the least difficulty the attentions of every passer-by. The moment a person's gaze met the fairy-like display, not only within the windows but also in the interior and throughout the whole store, his fancies were turned to thoughts of Christmas.

The northern window is a beautiful representation of the old motto "Peace on Earth, Good Will to Men." The portion that stands out prominently is the representation of an angel resting within a crescent moon. The sky is symbolized by a background of light blue satine dotted with gold stars. The foliage surrounding the crescent is composed of cedar dipped in alabastine and covered with a sprinkling of diamond dust, lending a sparkling tinge pleasing to the eye. Beneath the azure sky is an artistic representation of icicles also sprinkled with diamond dust.

The second window displayed some of the beautiful evening dress goods of the firm. The background was of rich velour cloth bordered along the top with a puffing of white cheese cloth with a trimming of golden braid in diamond shape. Between each of the diamonds was set a golden button and to lend a greater charm, the display was portrayed in a large oval mirror draped on each side with tinseled cedar. On the opposite side of the window were large streamers of gold coloured ribbon.

The next window contained arches composed of ordinary wrapping paper dipped in flour and water with a puffed background of velour with rich lace curtains. In the centre of each of the latter hung pretty bells emblematic of the Yule tide, which were also made by the trimmer. The arches were covered with red and green electric lights peeping out from under decorations of smilax.

The designer of the happy display was Mr. H. C. MacDonald, who has been with Richard Hall & Son's firm since September last. Previous to coming to Peterborough he was employed with the Marshall & Field drygoods firm of Chicago and is certainly brought with him some excellent ideas in the art of window dressing.

During the evening they were presented with two handsome parlour chairs and the following address.

Dear Mr. and Mrs. Sanders,—

We, your neighbours and friends have taken the liberty of assembling here to-night to do honour to you, before you depart from amongst us. For a great many years you have resided here and by your nobility of character and generosity of heart, have endeared yourselves to all of us; indeed, we feel that we are losing friends that can never be replaced in this world, but we trust and pray that it may be our lot to meet again in that land where friends know no parting, and where peace and happiness reign always. Please allow us to present you with these chairs as a slight token of our esteem, and we know that when you rest within their arms your thoughts will turn towards those who have known you so long, and who love you so dearly. Our heart-felt wishes for your future happiness in your new home will accompany you, and we assure you that we will always cherish the warmest regard for you and yours.

Signed on behalf of your friends,

HUGH FRASER,
JAMES FREEMAN.

Mr. Sanders thanked his friends in a few well chosen words, and then read the 23rd Psalm. After a dainty luncheon was served a number of short addresses were made. The gathering dispersed after singing of the hymn, "God be with you till we meet again."

THE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY'S WORK SATISFIES

And the Transformer Building of the Canadian General Electric Company will be Completed by This Company in the Spring

STATEMENTS TO THE CONTRARY FALSE

Statements have been made by the press and privately in the city recently to the effect that when work was resumed on the new transformer building of the Canadian General Electric Company, in the spring it would not be by the Dominion Construction Co., by which concern the work up to the present has been done. These statements, are, it is learned from no less an authority than Mr. Frederic Nicholls, the General Manager of the Company, entirely without foundation, the work of the Dominion Construction Company having been perfectly satisfactory, and when work is resumed with the return of warm weather, it will be by the same company which has done the work up to the present time.

In view of the rumours as to a contemplated change, the Examiner took steps to learn from the General Manager as to their truth, and in a letter received to-day he states that there is no intention whatever to make any change.

COMMITTEE OF WHOLE COUNCIL TO MEET TO-NIGHT

To Give Notice to the Legislature of the Requests That Will be Made

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council will be held to-night, for the purpose of giving notice to the Legislature of the request the city of Peterborough will make at the next session. OBITUARY

MRS. JOSEPH ANDERSON

A sad death occurred Sunday night at 9.30 o'clock in East City, when Annie Anderson, wife of Mr. Joseph Larush, was called to her eternal rest. Deceased had not been enjoying the best of health since the family moved to the city two years ago. She had been suffering mostly from heart trouble, which, with other complications, caused her death.

Mrs. Larush was born in Alnwick 66 years ago, and after her marriage 44 years ago, to Mr. Jos. Larush, the family moved to Otonabee, where they lived on lot 17 con. 2, until their removal two years ago to this city. Besides the bereaved husband, there are five children, three girls and two boys, who will lament the loss of an affectionate mother. They are: Mrs. Benj. Thorpe, Buffalo; Mrs. Davey, of Smith Township; Joseph, living in Apsley, and Miss Charlotte and Fred, at home. Mrs. Larush was, in religion, a member of the Methodist Church.

The funeral will take place Tuesday, at 1 p.m., from the family residence, 114 Robison street, East City, and proceed to the Keene Cemetery for interment.

MRS. MARGARET MOORE

As to-day's issue was going to press, news was received from Bridgenorth of the death of Mrs. Margaret Moore, at the ripe old age of 87 years. One son, Isaac, resides at present in Emily. Further particulars are expected later.

ANNUAL MEETING OF PETERBORO' PRESS CLUB

Officers for the Ensuing Year Were Elected on Saturday Night

The first annual meeting of the Peterborough Press Club was held on Saturday at Long's palm parlours, when the officers for the ensuing year were elected. Before taking up the business of the evening, the members partook of an enjoyable supper.

The president, Mr. M. J. Hutchinson, occupied the chair, and the election of officers resulted as follows:

President—G. B. Van Blaricom, Review.

Vice-President— Chas. H. Sawle, Review.

Secretary—B. T. Huston, Examiner.

Treasurer — Fred. D. Craig, Examiner.

Executive Committee—Chas. H. J. Mitchell, Times; Jas. D. Clarke, Examiner; D. B. McRae, Review.

The Press Club has proved a great success since its inception, and the prospects for the coming year are of the best.

IMPORTANT QUESTIONS FOR THE BOARD OF TRADE

A Big Programme for the Meeting of that Body Arranged for To-morrow Night

An important meeting of the Board of Trade of the city will be held to-morrow night, when some more than ordinarily important questions will be considered by the members, among them being that of municipal lighting, cheap power, etc. This will probably be the last meeting of the Board for the present year, and a full attendance of members is desired in view of the importance of the questions which will be under discussion.

WOMAN'S MISSION SOCIETY TO HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

At St. Andrew's Church To-morrow Afternoon—Young Men's Guild to Meet Tuesday Night

To-night at St. Andrew's church, the Young People's Society will hold its regular weekly meeting. The annual meeting for the election of officers of the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society will be held to-morrow afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Sunday school hall, and to-morrow night the Young Men's Guild will meet, when a good programme will be presented. The weekly prayer meeting will be held on Wednesday evening.

HALF A MILLION FOR COBALT MINING PROPERTY

Mr. J. Armstrong, who Affected the Sale is a Director of Clarke Standard—Cousin of Mrs. (Ald) Geo. Elliott, of This City

COMPANY HAD $40,000 CAPITAL

Interest in the reported sale of the property of the Clark Standard Mining Company, in Cobalt, is evidenced here by reason of the fact that Mr. J. Armstrong, one of the directors, and the man who put through the sale, is a cousin of Mrs. (Ald.) Geo. Elliott. The Globe, reporting the sale, says: The Clark Standard Mining Company has sold its properties to an English syndicate for $500,000, according to a report on Saturday. Mr. J. Armstrong and other members of the company from New Liskeard were in Toronto in response to a telegram from the representative of the purchasers, who desired to close their option. The shareholders met in the New Liskeard town hall on Wednesday night and ratified the option given some time ago, and it is believed that the properties have now passed into new hands. Directors of the Clark Standard are J. J. Grille, John Armstrong, William Kerr, Thomas Clark and V. Cragg. Of the eight properties involved, three are situated in Bucke township, two in Strathbrook, one in Diamond and two in Hudson. All have been developed to a greater or less extent. One shaft is down 45 feet. The company was incorporated January 19, 1906, under the laws of Ontario, with a capital of $40,000, in shares of $1 each. The head office is at New Liskeard.

IS TRANSFERRED TO NEW HASTINGS BRANCH

Mr. D. J. Lundy, of Bank of Toronto, Keene, Promoted to New Branch Opening in That Town.

L. O. L. NO. 494 ELECTS OFFICERS

(Examiner Special.)

Keene, Dec. 18.—Mr. J. D. Lundy, who has held the position of teller in the local branch of the Bank of Toronto since it started here, two years ago, has been removed to Hastings where a branch of that bank is to be opened. Mr. Dean, of Shelbourne, takes Mr. Lundy's place in Keene.

Miss Maggie Woods, who is suffering from typhoid fever, was removed to Nicholls Hospital Saturday.

Mr. Marshall Weir, Jr., is visiting friends in Keene.

Miss Jennie Weir, Lang, who has been spending the summer in the West, returned home last week.

On Wednesday, Dec. 14th, the following officers of L.O.L. No. 494, were elected for the coming year:—

Thos. McIntyre—W.M.
Henry Noyes—D.M.
J. M. Hewie—R.S.
Wm. Wedlock—F.S.
William Pue—Chaplain.
Thomas A Stillman—Treasurer.
James Dickson—D.C.
Bros. Knox, Starke, Wedlock, Rennie and McGregor—Committee.

The officers were duly installed by P. M., W. Wedlock.

A degree meeting will be held on December 28th.

The Lang Butter Factory closed down for the season Tuesday owing to the scarcity of milk

The Presbyterian Y.P.S.C.E. intend holding a concert in the town hall Thursday Dec. 20th.

Mr. McLean of Toronto nUiversity, preached in the Presbyterian churche, at Keene and Westwood Sunday in place of Rev. D. D. McDonald, who conducted anniversary services at Burnbrae. Mr. McLean also addressed the Christian Endeavour Society in the evening.

SCARCITY OF MILK CAUSE OF BUTTER FACTORY CLOSING

Impossible to Secure Sufficient Milk to Make it Profitable to Operate Lang Factory for the Season

Evidence of the scarcity of milk which prevails in this country at the present time is furnished by the fact that the Lang butter factory, which opened at the close of the cheese season, and which, under ordinary circumstances, would have been operated all winter, has been forced to close for the season by reason of the fact that it has been impossible to procure sufficient milk to make its operation profitable.

Children's Aid Funds Growing

The Children's Aid Society is not being forgotten by its friends at this Christmas season, the donations continuing to be received by the treasurer of the society. This morning $14 came in to be applied to the funds of the society, the report of the treasurer on the contributions being :—

D. H. Moore	$2 00
Mrs. Wm. Davidson	5 00
Friend	5 00
Vincent Eastwood	2 00

This amount of $14 augumented by $5 sent anonymously by post, makes the total addition to the funds to-day $19.

REV. W. M. LOUCKS' SERMON TO ROUGH RIDERS

Former Peterborough Curate Preached an Interesting Sermon to Ottawa Football Team on Sunday Night

AN INTERESTING ANNUAL SERVICE

Rev. W. M. Louks, rector of St. Matthew's Church, Ottawa, and a former curate of St. John's Church, Peterborough, preached, on Sunday, a special sermon to the members of the Rough Riders rugby team, of Ottawa, and in view of his well-known interest in the game, his remarks to that team will be of some interest in Peterborough. The Journal, reporting the sermon, says:

Rev. W. M. Louks, in St. Matthew's Church Sunday evening preached a short but very helpful sermon to young men, taking as his example St. Andrew, the many man. It was the annual visit of the Rough Rider Football Club to this church for Divine worship, and there were representatives of many other athletic organizations. Three years ago when the Rough Rider Football Club secured Lansdowne Park for practice and games, they were invited to attend a service at St. Matthew's, whose pastor, in college days, was a worthy exponent of the strenuous game. Since then the service has been held every fall.

Sunday night Rev. Mr. Louks spoke briefly, but with due emphasis, of the three things a young man should bear in mind. Work, and hard work, is necessary to achieve success either on the team or in the world. The apostles were working men, who had learned to strive hard for a livelihood.

Finally, the preacher said, religion is the chief thing, which will serve one well here, and especially hereafter. For even the strong, healthy young man, this is profitable, for many such are stricken down in their prime, and they then find that it is their only comfort.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE B. Y. P. U. HELD

Officers for the Year were Elected and Reports Received

The annual meeting of the B.Y.P.U. of the Murray street Baptist church was held last night when the officers for the ensuing year were elected and reports received. The president, Mr. Jas. Ellis, occupied the chair and there was a large attendance of members.

The secretary, Mr. J. Hardwick, presented an encouraging report which indicated that the past year has been one of progress and advancement. Miss Barnard, the treasurer, also gave a very satisfactory report, showing a credit balance on hand of $17.53.

The new officers elected were as follows:—

President—Mr. Edwin Hooker.
Vice-President—Mr. Walter Garbutt.
Secretary—Mr. Max Yelland.
Treasurer—Miss Barnard.
Pianist—Miss Eva Rose.
Asst. Pianist—Miss Eva Walton.

The convenors of the different committees were appointed as follows:—

Lookout—Miss Garbutt.
Finance—Miss Barnard.
Prayer meeting—Miss Fisher.
Missionary—Mr. Shiner.
Social—Miss Loudon.
Literary—Mr. Bert Lillie.
Music—Mr. Jas. Ellis.
Flower—Miss Emma Martin.

COBOURG SUMMER RESIDENT'S DEATH

Late Chas. Donnelly, of Pittsburg, was Frequent Visitor to and Well Known in This City

WAS WORTH ABOUT $3,000,000

Of the summer residents of Cobourg perhaps none were as well known in Peterborough as the late Charles Donnelly, a report of whose death is contained in a recent issue of the Pittsburg Gazette-Times, which says:—

Charles Donnelly, Sr., developer of railroads, captain of finance, extensive real estate operator, clubman, art collector and well known philanthropist, died at 2.45 p.m. yesterday at his home, 5720 Fifth avenue, after an illness of nine weeks, due to liver trouble. Mr. Donnelly was taken ill in Cobourg, Canada. He was hurriedly brought back to the city and remained for a time in Hotel Schenley, until removed to his home. Three weeks ago he underwent an operation at the hands of Prof. Finney of the Johns Hopkins university, a noted surgeon.

Miss Natalie M. Donnelly, a daughter, is now suffering from an atttack of scarlet fever in the Donnelly home and partly for this reason arrangements are being made to conduct the funeral services in St. Paul's Cathedral at a time to be announced later.

In 1871 Mr. Donnelly was married to Miss Rosalia Rafferty, a daughter of his business partner. Mrs. Donnelly died fifteen years ago, and shortly after her death Mr. Donnelly founded the Rosalia Foundling Asylum in memory of his wife. Later Mr. Donnelly married a sister of his first wife, Miss Alice Rafferty, and she, together with eight children, now survive him. The children are: Charles Donnelly, Jr., Mrs. Robert Boak, of Chicago; Misses Bessie, Nellie, Louise and Natalie, and Alan and Dorwynne Donnelly.

Mr. Donnelly was a member of the Pittsburg, Duquesne, County and other local clubs, and was a collector of rare paintings, many of which decorate the art galleries in the Fifth avenue homestead, which he had occupied for the past 33 years. He was president of the Castle Shannon Savings and Trust Company, and the Pittsburg Milling Co., and director in the Diamond National Bank of Alleghenny, Glenwood Land Co., Diamond Savings Bank, Colonial Trust Company, First National bank of Pittsburg, and Union National Gas Company. He was also affiliated with a score of other industrial and financial organizations.

His estate has been variously estimated by the public at from $3,000,000 to $4,000,000 but nothing definite on the subject would be given by members of the family. The total of his life insurance carried in several companies, amounted to about $200,000.

If Mr. Donnelly had a hobby it might have been designated as horses. He owned several fine animals. Mr. Donnelly was also an admirer of fine paintings, having a notable collection at his home. Included in this are painting in oil and pastel from the brushes of some of the world's greatest artists.

WEEDING FICTION FROM THE LIBRARIES

An Important Order Which Has Just Been Issued by the Ontario Government

The day of Government encouragement of promiscuous fiction buying the Public Libraries of the Province is ended by an order-in-council just passed. This will be put into immediate effect by the Education Department.

Under the former regulations history included historical romance; general literature included novels, romances, temperance tales, juvenile literature; miscellaneous included short stories, detective stories and fairy tales. As a consequence, though the conditions governing the Government grant called for only 20 per cent. of fiction, libraries were found that contained nothing else and some of it of an undesirable character.

Under the new regime 45 per cent. of fiction will be allowed, but all novels must be classified as fiction. The new classification adds juvenile works to the reading list, which also comprises history, biography, travels, science, general literature, poetry, religious literature, miscellaneous, reference books and fiction.

The government grant is 50 per cent. on all purchases for books, magazines and newspapers up to $250 per annum.

THE CANADIAN CHEESE OF SHORT WEIGHT

Manchester Dealers Report That Dairy Product from Canada Does Not Weigh Up to That Market

Ottawa, Dec. 17. — P. McNamara, Canada's commercial agent in Manchester, reports to the Department of Trade and Commerce that the wholesale dealers are complaining that the weight of Canadian cheese has turned out short.

Messrs. Weller and Riley sent in a complaint which McNamara has sent to the Dairy Commissioner. McNamara is convinced that the wholesale men have experienced losses in weight. Complaint is also made that the marks on the cheese are not clearly stencilled. The cheese in this instance comes from Quebec Province. The marks in some cases were inverted to give greatre weight than was contained in the cheese.

Chronicles of Don Q.

BY K. AND HESKETH PRITCHARD.

(Copyright by Pearson Publishing Company.)

A KING OF FINANCE.

Time went on for a long period in the mountains as serenely as of old. The executive had deprived Majada of his appointment, but otherwise the matter of dealing with Don Q. fell once more into abeyance.

Thus the usual series of captives continued to appear in the Boca de Lobo, but although most of them were satisfactory from a financial point of view, it chanced that not one presented any qualities of interest in the eyes of Don Q., until a certain Mr. George McCorkadale—whose fame was emblazoned in the bourses of the two hemispheres—blundered into the wide-case net of the robber chief.

Though a naturalized Englishman, he had been born and bred in Cuba. He early crossed to Brazil for larger facilities of trade; later New York and London knew him well. There was, in fact, nothing Scottish about him but his name and his extraordinary business instinct. He was one of the few who, starting well equipped in life with a large banking account and an excellent share in a profitable business, have refused to sink back upon the couch of ease offered to them by circumstances. Born rich, at 20 he was hard at work, and at 35—the age at which he visited Spain—he had contrived to roll the ball of his fortunes through so much of the mud of the world's wealth that he was become one of the money kings of the day.

Already inclined to fleshiness, and over-swarthy, he yet possessed in a pronounced degree the type of good looks characteristic of the Spanish colonies. It was commonly reported that he had never met his match at a bargain or as a prophet of the weather changes of the financial world. But his most salient quality was said to be the capaciousness of his maw. Those who knew him best declared that if he had gathered all the wealth of the universe into his pocket, with the exception of a single dollar note, he would know no rest until he had somehow acquired that last dollar also. Under other conditions of life, or lacking some share of his preponderant cold greed, he could be conceived a gambler. In fact, he was a gambler, but with accurate knowledge, power and pull on his side—a peril to his generation of the most modern kind.

Such was the man who in an interval, in a lull in his electric career, chose to go motoring in Spain. He told one or two friends that he was feeling the strain of business, and then slipped quietly away to join his yacht at Vigo. As a matter of fact, he was in the position of a hunter who has set a snare and waits out of sight for his quarry to fall into it. He had engineered with skill and consummate completeness a corner in that human necessity, corn. Never before had he held so strong a hand in the destinies of the world. To be absent while his enormous transactions worked out to their appointed issue was a part of his scheme. He foresaw a possible amount of embarrassment when those most concerned saw his net closing over them. He resolved to go away for a holiday and leave time to play his hand for him. So, having forced even time to his own uses, he disappeared to await the moment when he must return for his final coup and victory.

At the pasoda in the village, one night a spoken name roused him from his moodiness. The talk had veered about to a subject that under the sierra possessed a perennial interest—the doings past or possible of Don Q.

"I have heard many stories of this fellow," McCorkadale joined in, with the half-contemptuous manner peculiar to him. "Tell me his last exploit."

The innkeeper, a thin, dark, wiry mountaineer glanced furtively round at the men gathered in the room and shook his head.

The Cuban smiled unpleasantly.

"You have the nerves, patron," he said. "You look as if you knew too much! Every one warns me of the vulture of the sierra, yet you, who live under the shadow of his beak, know nothing of him."

"Not so, excellency," exclaimed the man. "The lord of the sierra dwells up there in truth"—he waved his hand toward the north—"but poor folk like ourselves speak little of him."

"I am curious to see him. I wish he would at this moment enter by your door!"

"The saints forbid, senor!" put in the priest. "You know not what you say. Without question you are a rich and a great man, but the lord of the sierra demands more than a ransom sometimes."

McCorkadale snapped his fingers

Being Square With The World

If You Would Give and Get Full Value Here's A Suggestion.

Are you getting full value out of life? And is the world getting full value out of you? In matters of business and in our relations, man to man, we owe it to ourselves and to the world to do our best,—to make ourselves of full value. Do this and, in turn, you will get full value out of life.

You can't do full justice to anything unless you feel right. And you can't feel right unless you live right. Eating right is essential to living right.

Eat the right kind of food and you will not suffer. The right kind of food for you and your family, the weak and the strong, the sick and the well, the grown folks and the little folks, is Malta-Vita, that delicious, crisp, wholewheat food.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, and it's just as good three times a day. Being a pure grain product, without any foreign sweetening agent or other adulterative, Malta-Vita is rich in food elements—every nutritious element of the best white wheat and pure barley malt extract—intensely vitalizing.

Try Malta-Vita with cream or fruit. There is no other food "just as good." None that can take its place. And it's always ready to eat. No cooking. No inconvenience. All grocers, now 10 cents.

It is impossible to make a soap any better, purer, or more pleasant to use than relevance—and there are many types of Englishmen."

McCorkadale looked sharply at him. The words might have conveyed an insult had the tone been less suave.

"Shall we touch on the disagreeable of business?" went on Don Q. urbanely. "The matter of your ransom, for example, senor?"

"Certainly. But pray let me assure you I am not a rich man. More's the pity!"

"It is indeed a pity, as I had thought of saying fifty thousand—"

"Pesetas?" interjected the prisoner airily.

"The senor is mistaken. I was about to say dollars; but, since he has the bad taste to bargain, we will say pounds—fifty thousand English pounds sterling."

"You joke, surely? It is the ransom of a millionaire!" exclaimed McCorkadale.

Don Q. bent his head with a polite gesture of assent.

"Precisely. I perceive you do not understand that I am a man whom sordid considerations easily pain and offend. The question is now in abeyance. We will not return to it for a week. The petty details of business disgust me, as I have said; but finance on a grand scale—that is another affair. I have looked forward for some time to discussing the subject with so eminent an authority as yourself."

McCorkadale turned the dark red of a swarthy man.

"In spite of your exile you seem to gather some news up here," he remarked, dropping his debonair manner.

"I flatter myself that it is so," agreed Don Q. with much amiability. "I count myself fortunate in meeting you. At one time or another members of various professions have honored me here in the mountains—sportsmen, doctors, politicians and so on; but never before a millionaire. They came to me in various ways—by rail, by carriage, on foot, and on horseback. But you, senor, outdid them all by rushing headlong into my domains in an automobile." The chief smiled, as though paying his companion a compliment.

"Ah, the scoundrel!" said McCorkadale reminiscently. Then, resuming his flippant manner: "You've got the better of me this trip. Well, I must communicate at once with my secretary. This ransom will take some time to collect,"—adding to himself, "but may I be skinned if ever you finger a penny of it!"

It was the evening of the second day, Don Q. and his guest were sitting within the cave over cigarettes and coffee. The conversation touching on many points, lingered long on present day financial methods. McCorkadale had explained the nature of "trusts" and "corners." He had gaily admitted that such combinations stifle legitimate trade, that companies to absorb any special line could be engineered with the effect of starving small traders out of their lawful share of business. A description of the corner in corn was given, though its promoter modestly omitted to mention his interest in the operation.

Don Q. listened with attention.

"It would appear from much that you have been good enough to tell me, senor, that business is a cloak for many sores," he remarked.

McCorkadale showed his white teeth in a complacent grin.

"I suppose one must acknowledge so much. But what does it matter as long as the sore is on the back of another man?" he replied.

Don Q. eyed him broodingly.

"You may not be aware, senor, that I hold strong views on one's duty toward one's neighbor," he said.

"It goes without saying," laughed the Cuban; "but, I presume, stronger one's on one's duty to oneself?"

The chief raised a delicate yellow forefinger.

"Pardon me, I think not," he said with some grimness. "But it seems strange to me that I, who occasionally perform the meritorious action of relieving the rich of a part of their wealth, and thereby decreasing their temptations, am put outside the pale of the law, whereas these of whom you speak spend their lives in robbing the poor, and yet are respected and praised. How is this?"

"A matter of luck, I suppose," responded the other indifferently. "But there is something I want to talk over with you. Just reconsider the subject of my ransom—£50,000 is a long price."

Don Q. rose abruptly.

"At the end of the week, senor, when we have come to know one another better, we will speak of it again."

"But the delay is absurd!" exclaimed McCorkadale angrily. "I cannot permit it—I insist—"

Don Q. raised his hand.

"There are two courses open to you," he said slowly. "Either you remain as my guest, in which case I am sure you will respect my prejudices, or you will become the guest of my children in the valley, who will, I fear, not be likely to respect yours."

The Cuban set his jaw. It was intolerable!

"Call up your comrades, Gaspar. Robledo and the rest, and settle the matter out of hand," he said insolently, losing hold on his temper; but the chief walked away into the interior of the cave without replying.

It was evident that detention in the mountains annoyed the Cuban out of all proportion to the hardships it entailed. Don Q. became serious, and at the end of the week he spoke:

"It would seem senor, that my hospitality does not meet with as much of your approval as I could wish."

"This has lasted long enough," broke out the other irritably. "Even your society and that of your companeros, Gaspar & Co., down there"—he pointed a brown finger at the fires in the glade—"begins to pall after a while."

Don Q. sat silent for a moment, swallowing his wrath. This low-bred animal had, for the second time, dared to speak of the villainous Gaspar and his like as the "comrades" of their chief.

"I have been thinking much the same, senor." He spoke at last with a steady voice.

"That is well. If you let me go tonight I will pay you half as much again as the ransom you ask."

"You are in a hurry to descend the mountains. To-night, you suggest? O, no, senor, I grieve to disappoint you. This day month, shall we say?"

"Suppose we say this day week instead?" amended the prisoner. A notion struck him that he would play with Don Q.—play with his avaricious desires—fool him with a dream of wealth. "You remember our conversations on financial methods?"

The chief glanced at him for a moment, then lowered his eyes.

"Perfectly, senor."

In a few sentences McCorkadale explained the situation. He himself was the genius responsible for the famous corner in corn. He stood to gain something over two millions provided he reached London in time.

Don Q. listened, nodding to emphasize the points. Although he did not speak, a certain excitement was discernible about him.

"And if you do not arrive in London on the 21st?" he questioned.

"Of course, the whole scheme will fall through. It will mean ruin, in short."

"To you?" inquired the chief, with interest.

"Caramba! yes, to me. But we will not even allude to that most unlikely alternative. You, who are also a business man—" he began persuasively.

"Yes, yes," softly interjected Don Q. "we are both brigands. You are a brigand of the city, I of the mountains. I deprive the rich of their superfluity, you rob the poorest of their bread."

The Cuban arched his black eyebrows.

"These are details," he said, flicking the ash from his cigar.

"It is your intention to starve many thousands—poor women and little children—that you may grow richer—you who are rich already?" pursued Don Q. in a colorless tone.

McCorkadale stared him in the eyes.

"That is their business—or, at any rate, of their husbands and fathers."

"True, true," assented the chief, with the meekness of one convinced.

"I thought you would see it in my light, especially if I gave you my word that if you enable me to reach London in good time, I, on my part, will engage to make over to you 25 per cent. of any profits I may make on the deal."

"It is clear," commented the chief politely, "that my patron saint sent you into the sierra."

"Anyhow, it will be a record haul in the annals of brigandage."

"You must pardon me, senor, if I make one small amendment to your plan. I, of course, trust you; but we are, as you said, business men, and a certain sum in hand before you leave me, by way of guarantee for the rest you have with so much of generosity promised, would be more satisfactory to my children down there in the valley. Suppose we name £100,000 as the sum to be placed in my hands by next Sunday. If you will have the goodness to write your instructions now the money may come in time for the 21st. You will pardon me."

"Well, it is uncommonly inconvenient," McCorkadale objected.

"What would you? My children must be satisfied. They do not comprehend the operations of high finance."

"Think again, Don Q. Surely there is no need to lift so much capital. Let the original sum stand."

"Pray do not force me to repent once again of a transaction between us. If you desire to bargain we can postpone the matter for another week. No? Then I will send you writing materials for your letter."

The chief passed into the cave leaving McCorkadale upon the terrace

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

BLOOD POISON

On account of its terrible effects, blood disease is called the king of all diseases. It may be either hereditary or contracted; so while it may not be a crime to have the disease, it is a crime to permit it to remain in the system. It may manifest itself in the form of Scrofula, Eczema, rheumatic pains, stiff or swollen joints, itchiness of the skin, eruptions or blotches, ulcers in the mouth or on the tongue, sore throat, falling out of hair, disordered stomach, and a general depression of the system. If you have any of these symptoms don't neglect yourself. You have no time to lose. Beware of "old form" treatment—beware of mineral poisons—beware of Quacks and Fakirs. OUR NEW METHOD TREATMENT is guaranteed to cure this disease, never to return. Bank Bonds will protect you. Our treatment is not injurious in any way, but reaches the very root of the disease and eliminates all poison from the system. The symptoms of disease gradually disappear. The blood becomes pure and enriched, the whole system is cleansed and purified, and the patient feels prepared anew for the duties and the pleasures of life. CURES GUARANTEED OR NO PAY. 26 Years in Detroit. 250,000 Cured.

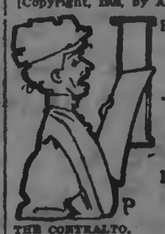
The Christmas Anthem

By ARTHUR J. BURDICK

[Copyright, 1906, by Arthur J. Burdick.]



THE CONTRALTO.

IF there's one thing that this Christmas
More than others I desire,
'Tis to hear a Christmas anthem
By the old time village choir.
I may live to be a hundred,
But I never will forget
Christmas in the old home village
And the good old time quartet.

THE TENOR.

There was Liza Briggs, contralto;
The soprano, Mary Jones,
And the tenor who was noted
For the clearness of his tones.
But the basso was the element—
Had a voice so hoarse and strong
It would fairly knock the silvers,
So to speak, right off of song!

I can recollect the anthem
Always sung on Christmas day.
"Gloo-rye, gloo-rye, in the 'ighest!"
We could hear the tenor say.
Then the basso joined the effort.
"Pay-son airth, goo-dwill toe men;
Gloo-rye, pay-son, gloo-rye, pay-son"—
That's the way the anthem ran.

"AWAGILS SANG THE GLAWD REEF-RAIN."

Then the women gathered courage:
"Awagils sang the glawd reef-rain;"
And the basso followed after:
"Awagils, raff-rain," o'er again.
"Reef-rain," "raff-rain," "raff-rain," "roof-rain,"
Shouted each; then all went back
And began again at "Gloo-rye,"
Sailing on another tack.

THE SOPRANO.

After various frantic efforts,
Going back from time to time,
Singly, doubly, all together,
In a climax quite sublime,
They all met at last in concert
On the anthem's final note
And, to peaceful silence sinking,
Let their voices gently float.

THE BASSO.

'Twas a pleasure thus to listen
And to watch the vocal mob.
Once again I'd like to hear them
And behold each well known face.
I may live to be a hundred,
But I never will forget
Christmas in the old home village
And that good old time quartet.

True Christmas Charity.

Last Christmas, says the Des Moines Register, clad in rich raiment, Mrs. Arthur Hyde, the handsome wife of a Des Moines millionaire, faced a bitter wind from noon until 5 o'clock in the afternoon holding in her hand the regulation Salvation Army turkey contribution box, which she took from the hands of Captain Mary Taylor, after telling the latter to return to the barracks, eat her dinner and remain indoors until sent for. Attracted thither by the strange spectacle, money of all denominations was dropped in the box, and when Captain Taylor came to resume her work at 5 o'clock, besides a well filled contribution box she received a large roll of bills from Mrs. Hyde's own pocketbook.

A KING OF FINANCE

AT first the Cuban frowned at the opposite cliff, but pleasanter thoughts quickly followed, and suddenly he threw back his head and laughed aloud—a ringing neigh of laughter that awoke the echoes.

Only one man in the valley below ventured to look up, and his mouth opened wide in an answering grin.

Don Q. had approached from behind with his usual noiseless step. He withdrew as quietly.

"The joyous spirits of my guests please our amiable Brancolo. It is good. We laugh each in our turn, we of the sierra," he said.

* * * * * *

From the outset McCorkadale had tried to get into touch with Don Q.'s men, but failed until he happened upon Brancolo, the upshot of their stealthy conferences being a very neat plot to rid themselves of Don Q. and to acquire his treasure.

Brancolo was half Italian, half Spanish—a powerful, hairy fellow with a sleek, meaning smile. He had not been long in the sierra, and nothing short of necessity would have driven him there, for he was accustomed to a city life of easy infamy.

As the plot matured Brancolo persuaded a couple of intimates to join. The night for the attempt was fixed, and no suspicion seemed to have visited the chief. The Cuban was allowed to wander at will about the valley—even to linger till after darkness had fallen. A faint rasping noise rising nightly in the cave had so far eluded Don Q.'s usually vigilant ear, a fact which McCorkadale persistently brought forward as a proof that the brigand's best days were over.

On the appointed evening, after a friendly dinner and smoke enjoyed in the company of the chief, McCorkadale withdrew to the particular recess in which he slept behind a cunningly contrived door. The accustomed routine was gone through. The chief followed him to turn down the bolt. It fell with its well-known click, and the Cuban in the darkness beyond it listened with a satisfied grin.

That night a change had taken place in the weather. The wind moaned through the swaying pines, squalls of rain drove across the valley, and when, a couple of hours after midnight, Brancolo met one of his allies at the foot of the pathway leading to the brigand's cave, a dense mountain mist filled the valley.

"What? Are you alone? Is it you, Barbon? Where, then, is Pedro?" asked the Italian.

"Have you not heard? The Old One sent him to Cantalera this evening," was the reply.

"What matters? There are still three of us."

Brancolo began to feel his way upwards, pushing his companion ahead of him. Weird noises of nighttime in the sierra seemed all about them, and they were scarcely sorry when they reached the opening of the cave.

A red light from the smoldering fire burned dully against the shroud of the mist. A death-like silence lay within.

From where the men stood one wall of the cave was dimly visible, but the fire and large area of the floor were hidden by a flange of rock that screened the entrance.

McCorkadale, for his part, lay long awake upon his bed of dry fern and grass, listening to the movements of the brigand. By and by began the soft pacing to and fro, a nightly habit of Don Q.'s, which always immediately preceded his going to rest. But on this night it seemed to the watcher that he continued his walking much later than usual.

At length all was still except the moaning of the wind and the occasional sharp patter of a shower on the rock-face outside.

By feeling the hands of his watch he knew that the hour was come. He crept from his bed. With infinite patience he drew in the wire that unshipped the bolt from its socket, then noiselessly pushed the door open and slipped out, stealing up the short passage to the main cave, and looked in. The fire had sunk to a heap of glowing ashes, but gave light enough to show Don Q. huddled in his cloak on a stool by the hearth.

McCorkadale stopped, breathless with a curse in his heart, but plucked up spirit as he noticed the still, brooding, birdlike attitude that surely betokened sleep.

Perhaps after all, luck was on his side. Don Q., for once, was caught napping, his head hunched between his shoulders. Instead of the danger of hunting him out of some hidden lair, how much easier now to—

He moved forward again until he came within the sight of the mouth of the cave. Instantly two figures detached themselves from the gloom outside.

The moment had arrived. McCorkadale sprang swiftly behind Don Q., and fired three shots into his body.

The brigand swayed once, and falling forward, settled limply, face downwards, on the rocky floor.

McCorkadale stood tense, one foot advanced, waiting to see a movement. But there was none—the heap of black draperies lay still. Yet the terror of the dead was upon him for he started at the sound of a sigh behind him. He glanced back. At his shoulder stood Barbon, livid over the ragged tufts of his beard, his starting eyes fixed upon the chief's body.

McCorkadale pulled himself together.

"See, he is down at last! Did I not tell you? Where is his charmed life? Poof! Come, let us search for his hoard; there is no time to lose."

He ran forward, Barbon at his elbow. There was a strange grinding sound, a strangled shriek. He heard Barbon grunt out an oath as he pitched headlong into the glowing embers. The Cuban whirled round in his heels, and met a ray of light that played blindingly upon his eyes.

He could not see, but he fired wildly, and clubbing the pistol rushed in upon the man with the lantern; but the light was snapped off, and, in the darkness, he dashed heavily against the wall.

He did not need to hear the familiar sibilant chuckle. Don Q.'s countertrick was plain enough now.

For awhile he lay half-stunned, then a little burst of flame—Barbon's beard ablaze in the hot ashes—showed him the brigand standing over him. The Cuban dragged himself up into a sitting posture, with his back against the wall. He was utterly confounded and cowed, his early spurt of courage evaporated.

The chief opened the lantern, and looked him over, breaking into intermittent chuckles of harsh laughter.

"Mr. McCorkadale," he began, using the English form with a derisive inflection, "the song was not so far-fetched after all. You came into the sierra to scratch the parrot's head, and found the vulture."

The Cuban tried to turn his face from the pitiless light with a shudder.

"Corpse of a scullion! Am I grown sick, and deaf, and blind?" pursued the brigand. "Yet four to one against me! The chances were all on your side, fool!"

"No, for you have the luck of the devil," broke out the Cuban. "Pedro betrayed us. I did not see him."

"I assure you, you misjudged him—and, permit me to add, me also. He admitted a few details—reluctantly, believe me; but they did not add appreciably to the knowledge I had already of your little scheme. Pah! Animal, get up and pull this carrion out of the fire."

McCorkadale, in spite of his name, came of a hybrid race that knows when it is beaten. He obeyed.

He bent over Barbon. The man had been stabbed in the back. One hand still clutched at the cloak of the dummy figure with which Don Q. deceived them.

Under the chief's directions, McCorkadale worked frantically till he tossed the dead body into the valley below.

"Now, our good Brancolo—your chief friend. We must not forget him," said Don Q. in his softest tones, as he turned his lantern on a shapeless, horrible something that lay by the opening of the cave. "You do not ask a question. Shall I tell you? He lingered so long fearing to cross my threshold that the door sills caught and crushed him."

McCorkadale's shaking lips were blue.

"And Pedro?" he gasped.

Don Q. shrugged his shoulders.

"What do I know? Ask the vultures. Indeed, senor. I consider myself indebted to you"—he lit a cigarette as he spoke—"for you have given me an admirable opportunity to rid myself of some of the least desirable of my children."

By the time McCorkadale returned to the world the corner in corn had become past history. People spoke of it as an extraordinary coupe manque. Later, when they met with its promoter, they began to believe in the legend of overstrained nerves he had so glibly circulated before he visited Spain Moreover, rumor declared that the ruined millionaire had lavished enormous sums on religious institutions in that country, but this was an addition which those who best knew him refused to credit.

Yet it happened to be true; and this was how it came about.

"I fear, senor, you do not feel towards me the gratitude which I deserve at your hands," Don Q. observed, when the six weeks' imprisonment of his captive came to an end. "I have saved you from committing a monstrous crime."

"Crime?" echoed McCorkadale bitterly.

"I know of what you are thinking—of the night of our little adventure in the cave. Is it not so? You appear to forget that you would have killed me had I not had the good fortune to be beforehand with you."

"You have my ransom; let me go," cried the Cuban desperately.

"Pardon me, senor; it is of that I would speak with you. I cannot soil my hands by taking a ransom of money gained as yours has been."

McCorkadale turned a terrified look upon him. Fate had forced him to learn in those latter days some of the things he had aforetime taught to others.

"You have nothing to fear," resumed Don Q.; "I am a man of honor. You have bought your freedom; and, though I cannot myself accept the price of it, I must fulfill my part of the bargain in giving you your liberty. I will deduct a small amount for distribution among my children, and afterwards I venture to hope that by bestowing the remainder on hospitals and sisterhoods that aid the poor we may purge it from the curse it carries."

Patience is the art of hoping.

BRANDON'S CONDITION IS DESPERATE

Schools and Hotels Have to Close Up For Want of Fuel.

QUICK RELIEF IS NEEDED

Citizens Crowd Offices of Dealers, But There Is No Coal For Sale—Dozens of People Forced to Vacate Their Houses and Double-Up With Their Neighbors — Intense Suffering Is Imminent.

Brandon, Man., Dec. 18.—The public schools were forced to close yesterday owing to lack of fuel.

Hotels may also have to close unless there is quick relief. The situation is most serious, with the thermometer 25 degrees below zero.

No fuel of any kind has reached the city for any of the dealers, and their offices are crowded with those looking for fuel in any shape to keep their families from freezing. Dozens of families have been forced to vacate their homes and go and live with their neighbors and friends. The supply of slabs, of which the Hanbury Manufacturing Co. had several thousand cords, has now been exhausted, the last cord being sent out yesterday. Many of the large blocks and stores have been heated with this fuel for the last two weeks, and now this supply has disappeared, it looks as if these stores will have to close.

The Canadian Northern agent states their lines are now open.

Intense Suffering Imminent.

The asylum, hospital, Indian School, jail, Brandon College and other public buildings are becoming dangerously near being without fuel, and it will require large deliveries during the next few days to prevent intense suffering on a large scale.

Other points in Manitoba and the west report much suffering since the cold snap started. Railroads are doing all they can to relieve the situation, but big storms have made it impossible to get cars through.

Dr. McInnis, M.P.P., telephoned Hon. Robert Rogers yesterday urging him to force the railroads to run fuel trains to Brandon and other western towns, or else have the Government run the trains itself.

Brandon Hospital is without fuel and last night the electric light station had only one day's supply, and, unless relief comes, will be forced to close down to-day.

Mr. Rogers saw the railroads yesterday and they have promised to rush trains through with all speed.

Critical In North Dakota.

Grand Forks, N. D., Dec. 18.—The fuel situation yesterday was critical. In every town in the northern half of the state coal can be had only in small quantities. In dozen of places there is none. Factories, schools, heating plants and industries generally have closed down for lack of fuel.

THE GOLSPIE'S CHANCES.

Opinion of Capt. Sinclair, Underwriters' Representative, Is Favorable.

Detroit, Dec. 18.—It is the opinion of Capt. Sinclair, underwriters' representative, who has just returned from the wreck, that the steamer Golspie, on the beach at Brule Bay, Lake Superior, can be recovered. He says the steamer is on a sand and gravel beach and is resting easy. She is listed toward the lake, but the stack and the houses are still in position.

Deny Responsibility.

Hamilton, Dec. 18.—After a conference with their lawyers, the owners of the Golspie yesterday morning issued the following statement:

"The Golspie Steamship Co., owners of the Golspie, Capt. Boult and Chief Engineer Andrews, who were in the city yesterday, deny the sensational statements made in reference to the sailors who were frost-bitten. They disclaim all responsibility and deny all charges of carelessness on the part of the officers and negligence on the part of the owners in sending relief, and court an investigation by the Government."

Dies From Injuries.

Belleville, Dec. 18.—The death occurred Sunday night at the hospital here of Robert G. Malley, who was hurt in an accident at the rolling mill on Friday, he being drawn up into the shafting and terribly injured.

Dr. Osler Named.

RETURNED THE BILL TO THE LORDS

Upper House Again Gets Education Bill to Consider.

ROUND TABLE CONFERENCE

Lord President of Council Announced That While Government Was Not Prepared to Sacrifice Main Principles of the Bill It Was Ready to Make Substantial Concessions—New Turn to Crisis.

London, Dec. 18.—When the education bill, amended by the House of Lords, sent back to the House committee and returned to the Upper House by the Commons, reached the Lords yesterday, the Earl of Crewe, Lord President of the Council, announced that the Government was not prepared to sacrifice the main principles of the bill, but that, with certain modifications, the most important points might be agreed upon in order to enable the bill to become a law.

Lord Crewe added that concessions of a most substantial character would be made. In view of this announcement, the House of Lords consented to an adjournment of the debate in order to enable the leaders to reach an agreement.

Crisis Takes a New Turn.

The crisis arising from the education bill has taken a new turn as a result of yesterday's proceedings in the House of Lords, and it is becoming clear that an historic conflict between the two Houses is not likely to occur over the question of education.

Both Houses are equally desirous of avoiding a conflict, and immediately after Lord Crewe announced in the House of Lords the important concessions the Government was prepared to make, it was foreseen that in all probability the bill would be saved.

Immediately after a debate, a round table conference was held, embracing the leaders of both sides, including Lord Crewe, the Marquis of Ripon, Lord Privy Seal; Lord Lansdowne, the Marquis of Londonderry, the Archbishop of Canterbury and others. The result of these deliberations is not known, but the general opinion is that a compromise will be arranged.

WRECK OF NO. 57, N.Y.C.

Engineer Stuck to His Post and Is Probably Fatally Injured.

Rochester, N.Y., Dec. 18.—New York Central train, No. 57, known as the Buffalo local, a fast train running between New York and Buffalo, was wrecked near Palmyra yesterday afternoon, the engineer was fatally injured, and the entire train, with the exception of one Pullman, was burned to the trucks.

A collision between local freights knocked the caboose and a heavy coal car over on passenger track No. 2.

The crew instantly started to flag the passenger train, which they knew to be due, but before they could hardly leave the train No. 57 hove in sight with two monster engines.

The caboose did not amount to much in the path of the engines, but the heavy coal car threw both engines off the track, and they tipped over on their sides and slipped down the embankment.

Everyone in the passenger cars were badly shaken up, but none were injured.

Engineer Harris of Rochester, who was in the first engine, and who, by sticking to his post, probably saved many lives, was dug out from under the wreckage, terribly injured.

CAPT. BRUINSWIG KILLS SELF.

Prinzessin Victoria Luise Ashore On Island of Jamaica.

Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 18.—The Hamburg-American Line tourist steamer Prinzessin Victoria Luise, from New York Dec. 12 for this port, went ashore Sunday night off Port Royal, while on its way back to New York. It is resting easily on a rocky ledge. The German cruiser Bremen and the French training ship Duguny-Trouis have gone to its assistance.

Because of the stranding of his ship Captain Bruinswig, her commander, blew out his brains in his cabin. The steamer's passengers were all safely landed.

The Victoria Luise went ashore because she had no pilot, and the captain, who was in charge of her, followed a wrong course and piled the steamer up on the rocks near the lighthouse. He locked himself in his cabin two hours afterwards and killed himself.

The sea was calm when the vessel struck, but the passengers became panic-stricken and much disorder ensued.

An Era of Prosperity.

Boston, Dec. 18.—An advanced wage scale of 5 per cent. in the Lowell Cotton mills went into effect yesterday. Nearly 20,000 men are affected.

By New Year's 175,000 cotton mill operatives in New England mills will be participating in an advance in wages.

Seal Skins Cheaper.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 18.—The Canadian pelagic sealing catch, sold Monday in London, England, brought an average price of $3 a skin less than last year.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables for Cattle Steady—Cattle Lower, Hogs Higher at Chicago.

London, Dec. 17.—Canadian cattle in the British markets are quoted at 10c to 12½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8½c to 8¾c per pound.

TORONTO JUNCTION LIVE STOCK.

Toronto Junction, Dec. 17.—Receipts of live stock at the Union Stock Yards were 75 car loads, composed of 1541 cattle, 4 hogs, 410 sheep and lambs, and 14 calves. Trade was good for the best lots, but the common cattle and cows sold at lower prices than a week ago. All offerings were sold before noon.

Exporters.

Trade in export cattle was better than for some time, prices ranging from $4.50 to $5, but few brought the latter quotation, the bulk going at $4.65 to $4.80; export bulls sold at $3.75 to $4.85.

Butchers.

Not many choice lots were offered, the bulk of offerings being common to medium. Picked cattle sold from $4.50 to $4 65; loads of good, $4.25 to $4.40; fair to medium at $3.65 to $3.90; common and cows, at $2.50 to $4 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

Feeders sold at $3.40 to $3.60 for steers; bulls, at $2.25 to $2.75; stockers, at $2.25 to $3.

Milch Cows.

About a dozen milkers and springers sold at $40 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Prices ranged from $4.50 to $7 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Export sheep sold at $4.50 to $4.80 per cwt.; lambs, at $5.75 to $6, with a picked lot at $6.25 per cwt.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 17.—Cables from London and Liverpool on Canadian cattle came stronger and prices show an advance of ½c to 1c per lb., as compared with a week ago, sales being made at 11¼c. Glasgow cables quoted Canadian cattle at 10¼c to 12c, and stated that shipments of good steers would pay. Exports from Portland last week were 545 cattle, and from St. John, N.B., 718 cattle. Receipts to-day were 2000 cattle, 600 sheep and lambs, 1500 hogs, 200 calves. A feature of the trade was the weaker feeling in the market for hogs and prices declined 25c per cwt. This was due to continued bad advices from abroad on Canadian bacon and the fact that supplies of hogs have been larger of late.

At the reduction the demand from packers was good and sales of selected lots were made at $6.50 per cwt., weighed off the cars. The butchers were present in full force and trade was good at the same rates as on last week's markets. Quality considered. Prime Christmas cattle sold at 5¼c per lb., with a few choice ones at 5⅝c to 6c. Prime beeves sold at 4¼c to 5c; pretty good cattle, 3½c to 4c, and the common stock, 2¼c to 3c per lb.; milch cows sold at $30 to $55 each; good veal calves sold at 4½c to 5¼c per lb. Sheep sold at 4c to 4½c, and lambs, at 5½c to 6¼c per lb.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Dec. 17.—Cattle, receipts, 8200 head; slow; heavy to 10c lower; prime steers, $5.65 to $6.15; shipping, $4.75 to $5 50; butchers', $4.25 to $5.35; heifers, $3.25 to $4.30; cows, $2.75 to $4.40; bulls, $2.50 to $4.50; stockers and feeders, $2.50 to $4.25; stock heifers, $2.50 to $3; fresh cows and springers, $2 per head lower; $18

MR. LEMIEUX'S BILL IN THE COMMONS

Arbitration to Prevent Strikes and Lockouts.

A PUBLIC INVESTIGATION

After Which, Says Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Trust to Public Opinion—Mr. Foster Would Favor Machinery to Enforce the Award of Arbitrators —The Proposed Law Applies to Public Utilities.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—Mr. Lemieux's bill to prevent the recurrence of strikes, such as recently caused distress in the Northwest, was introduced yesterday.

The Minister of Labor explained that while the title of the bill as introduced referred only to coal mines, he proposed to make it applicable to all public utilities. The bill provided that when a cause of dispute arose between employers and employes, in such cases there should be a preliminary investigation, in which the merits of the dispute would be disclosed to the public. Pending the investigation the operation of the works must be conducted under penalty.

Mr. Foster favored compulsory acceptance of the award by the arbitrators and the compulsory observance of contracts by employes, and Mr. Bergeron urged the application of the measure to all labor disputes.

Sir Wilfrid's Reply.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier replied that Mr. Foster had traveled far afield, and expressed some very radical ideas. The Government were not, he said, prepared to go as far as compulsory arbitration. It would be sufficient for the time being to provide for compulsory investigation where a strike was threatened in connection with public utilities, in confidence that when the merits of the dispute were once ascertained the verdict of public opinion would compel a settlement without further action. The Government were not prepared, he said, to undertake the responsibility of accepting Mr. Foster's suggestion to apply the principle of compulsory investigation to labor difficulties where public necessity or interest was not concerned, and which came within the category of private enterprises.

Inspection of Barges.

Mr. Lawrence (Liberal, Nova Scotia), introduced a bill to provide for the inspection of barges on the great lakes and upon the coast. The design of the law is to guard against barges being unseaworthy, and also against overloading.

North Atlantic Trading Co.

Mr. Monk moved for an order of the House for a return showing: (1) All claims made on the Government by the North Atlantic Trading Co. since March 31, 1906; (2) all amounts paid to the said North Atlantic Trading Co. by the Government of Canada: (a) on account of bonuses; (b) on account of disbursements since March 31, 1906; (3) a copy of all correspondence had by the Government with the said North Atlantic Trading Co. since March 31, 1906, up to Dec. 1, 1906, and of all letters and accounts received from the said company between the above dates.

Probably owing to the pressure of public opinion, Mr. Monk said, the Government had ceased relations with the company, although, on the ground that they were carrying out its terms, the company objected to the cancellation of the contract. He thought under these circumstances the House was entitled to the information asked for, especially as the Minister had visited Europe for the purpose of making an investigation, and no proceedings have been taken against the company.

Contract Cancellation Stands.

Mr. Oliver stated that while in Europe he had visited the company's office in Amsterdam, and made an investigation, and as a result he did not see any reason why the Government decision to cease business with the company should be reconsidered. Therefore, the cancellation of the contract stood.

Mr. Monk asked if the Government still refused to give the information which was refused last year.

Mr. Oliver said that he did not consider it any part of the business of the Government to discover persons who might be trading together under the name of a company.

Mr. Barker asked if the Government knew whether before the company was incorporated the business was carried on by a syndicate of individuals, and the Minister, in reply, stated that his investigation was confined to the question whether it would be in the public interest that the decision arrived at by the Government should or should not be carried out. He had decided that it was not in the public interest that the cancellation of the contract should be withdrawn.

Mr. Lancaster's bill to amend the railway act was read a third time and passed.

The House adjourned at 5.30 p.m.

JACK TARS DROWN.

Nine of Forty of Battleship Hindustan's Crew Die Through Upset.

Portsmouth, Eng., Dec. 18.—Nine sailors belonging to the crew of the battleship Hindustan were drowned yesterday, owing to the upsetting of a cutter in which they were returning to the warship.

There were forty men in the cutter, and all were thrown into the water.

Owing to a heavy fog, the boats in the vicinity had difficulty in rescuing thirty-one of the sailors.

Many of the latter were unconscious when picked up.

Cut in Two by Train.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—Word reached here yesterday by passengers from the Sault of the death, near Sudbury, of Joseph McKay, a Montreal detective, who fell off a car platform while the train was in motion and was cut in two. On him were found two loaded revolvers, several photographs and $500 in cash. When he fell off the car one of the weapons was discharged and a shot entered his body. An inquest was held at Sudbury, and a verdict of accidental death returned.

Paris, Dec. 18.—Raisouli, the bandit chief, who has terrorized the people residing near Tangier, Morocco, indulged in unconcealed threats against the French and Spanish residents, and he is quoted as having declared that he will not tolerate the presence of foreign warships at Tangier.

Heir Apparent Takes Reins.

Teheran, Persia, Dec. 18.—The heir apparent, Prince Ali Mifza, who arrived Sunday, yesterday assumed the conduct of state affairs, as the Shah is still too ill to be able to attend to public business.

Short Weight Cheese.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—M. P. B. McNamara, E. Manchester, in a report to the Department of Trade and Commerce, says complaints are made of short weight in cheese from the Province of Quebec.

THE WELLAND CLOSED.

Close of Navigation Officially Determined by Close of the Canal—Str. Strathcona Last Down.

New York, Dec. 18.—Bishop Chas. C. McCabe, of the M. E. Church, is dying at the New York Hospital.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—The damage to the roof of the conservatory at Rideau Hall will not exceed $1,000. Only 15 feet of the roof gave way.

London, Dec. 18.—The police magistrate yesterday sentenced Frederick Ryckman, convicted of forgery, to three years in the Kingston Penitentiary.

London, Dec. 18.—A divorce decree has been granted in the Scottish courts against James Elliot, late of Lindsan, Galashiels, who went to Canada several years ago.

Woodstock, Dec 18.—Margaret J. Blevins, daughter of the late John Blevins, at one time city clerk of Toronto, died Sunday as the result of an acute attack of pneumonia.

Hamilton, Dec. 18.—The Government has presented bills totalling up to $6,875.60 for the services of the soldiers who were called out in connection with the street car riot.

Port Colborne, Dec. 18.—The Welland Canal was officially closed yesterday. The steamer Strathcona, detained a day or two on account of leak, passed down yesterday morning.

Guelph, Dec. 18.—Yesterday afternoon an old man named George Kelsey, aged 82 years, who has lived alone in the city for about 50 years, was found dead in his house. Kelsey leaves considerable property.

London, Eng., Dec. 18.—Hamar Greenwood, M.P., left for Jamaica, West Indies, on Saturday and expects to be away till Feb. 1, 1907. He has found that his strenuous adherence to politics and law necessitates a brief respite.

Sandwich, Dec. 18.—Mrs. Florence Goulding, Whitehead, 21 years old, said to be prominent in social circles in Washington, D.C., disappeared from the home of Mrs. Frederick Cook, on Saturday afternoon, and is still missing.

TRADE EXPANSION.

Exports and Imports of Five Months Ended Aug. 31 Last.

Ottawa, Dec. 18.—Details of Canada's trade for the five months ended Aug. 31 last show a very large expansion compared with the same period in 1905. Our imports from Great Britain for the period under review this year amounting to $33,754,296, as against $27,847,699 for the year previous and $25,934,295 for 1904. The exports were $43,493,420 in 1904, $41,153,071 in 1905 and $55,653,099 in 1906. The imports into Canada from the West Indies up to Aug. 31 amounted to $3,106,646, a gain of $336,922 compared with 1905 and of $675,143 compared with 1904. The exports from Canada to the West Indies totalled $1,076,968, showing gains of $187,274 and $178,814 when contrasted with the same period of two years immediately preceding. The imports from the United States totalled $83,420,899, a betterment of $13,323,606 over the previous year and $11,202,497 over 1904. Canadian exports to the United States were for the five-month periods as follows:

For five months—
1904	$32,803,904
1905	35,892,221
1906	47,036,371

ANNUAL SLEIGH DRIVE WAS SUCCESS

St. John's A. Y. P. A. Had an Enjoyable Time Last Evening

Last night St. John's A.Y.P.A. took their annual sleigh drive, and it was, without doubt, the greatest success of any drive yet held under the auspices of this association. The announcement had been made that the sleighs would leave the rear of the church grounds at eight o'clock, but on account of the ice on the hill the sleighs started from the corner of Water and Brock streets.

The young people began to assemble in the school house shortly after seven o'clock where they enjoyed themselves in social intercourse till the time appointed for the start and at that hour some sixty or sixty-five young people proceeded to the sleighs, where it was found that the three large sleighs provided was not sufficient to accomodate all, and accordingly another sleigh was called out, which provided the necessary space, though all sleighs were crowded beyond comfortable accomodation. The start was made at 8.15 and the jolly party were driven around town for about an hour and a half and upon their arrival at the starting point again everybody alighted and returned to the school house, where they enjoyed a few minutes more in promenading while the refreshment committee were preparing luncheon in the basement, where, upon the invitation of the committee, everybody proceeded, and quickly disposed of the good things provided.

After refreshments a few impromptu songs, choruses and promenades were enjoyed and with a short speech from the ex-president and founder of St. John's branch of the association, Mr. John Pattle, of Brantford, in which he congratulated the members and officers upon the success of the association, and the singing of the National Anthem, one of the most pleasant events of the season was closed.

The committees in charge wish to express their regret at not having made arrangements for at least one more sleigh, but their miscalculations will, they hope, be excused, when it is explained that at the meeting, at which the drive was discussed, scarcely forty people were there who agreed to take the drive, whereas the number turning out last nigh, was, on a close estimate sixty-three persons, without the drivers.

It has already been suggested that in view of the fact that there was no drive given by this society last year, because of the lack of snow, that this year two drives be held—another one to be arranged later in the winter. The society will, in all probability, discuss this matter at their next regular meeting, which will not be until January 7th. The evening will be distinctly social.

The works of Sir Walter Scott fill no fewer than 250 pages of the British Museum catalog.

STATUTORY COUNCIL MEETING OF SMITH

Last Regular Meeting of the Year of the Township Council, of Smith, Held on Saturday at Town Hall, Bridgenorth

THREE CANDIDATES FOR THE REEVESHIP

Of East Emily—Former Peterborough Man Injured in Omemee

Examiner Special.

Omemee, Dec. 18.—The farmers are busy, taking advantage of the good sleighing, attending Peterborough's good markets and bringing in wood and straw.

The last meeting of the Council of the township of Emily was held here on Saturday last, which brought a large attendance of farmers from Downeyville and East Emily. T. H. McQuade, R. Bostes and Wm. Lowes will be in the field for the reeveship, and a close contest is looked forward to.

We regret to learn of Thos. Henderson, formerly of Peterborough, having his thumb badly smashed while in the act of loading logs for our new sawmill.

Mrs. J. C. Eaton, of Toronto, appeared here at a concert in aid of the Methodist Church, with Mr. Blight, baritone.

Rev. Mr. Kenney, Fenelon Falls, ably conducted the anniversary services at the Methodist Church here on Sunday.

The funeral of the late Mrs. Adams took place here on Saturday.

Rev. Mr. Lindsay ably filled the pulpit of the Presbyterian Church on Sunday, and will, in all probability, be selected, if he will accept.

Our High School is largely attended, and our boys led at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute in many of the subjects for examinations.

F. D. Moon acted for the first time in his official capacity as County Police Magistrate, and made it pretty hot by fining some sports each $10 and $15 for a little social time, aggravated by fire water, which led to a quarrel.

The annual Presbyterian concert to be held on New Year's Day, this to be held on New Year's Day, promises to equal all previous efforts. Mr. H. Lloyd, comic, of Toronto, who has been in such demand this season at Montreal and Hamilton and other cities, will make his first appearance here, besides Miss Jarvis, elocutionist and reader; Miss Cloate, violinist, of Peterborough Conservatory of Music, supported by local talent.

Mr. Potter, of the Condage Co., of Peterborough, visited here last week in the interests of that company.

A HANDSOME FUR AS A XMAS GIFT

There is a growing tendency to give useful presents at Xmas—and the last week's weather reminds one that nothing could be more appreciated than Furs—and after all the greatest source of satisfaction in making gifts is the realization of the fact that the recipient appreciates the gift. What could be more useful to a friend than a Fur? Use judgment—buy for your friend what you feel you might like for yourself.

Retiring Mayor Best Presented With A Gold Headed Cane

Members of Council, with City Officials and Newspaper Men Show Appreciation of Mayor by Making Him Presentaiion

A VERY DELIGHTFUL FUNCTION

An Address, Accompanied by Cane, Suitable Engraved, Given His Worship Last Night--Exchange of Felicitations

When the business before the Committee of the Whole was concluded last night, the Mayor, the Aldermen, city officials, and representatives of the press, assembled in McCallum's Restaurant, to spend the remainder of the evening in a social way.

The feature of the event was the presentation to Mayor Best of an address and a beautiful gold headed cane as a token of remembrance upon his retirement from civic affairs after having been connected with them in Peterborough for over a quarter of a century.

After partaking of a most enjoyable repast prepared by the genial host, Mr. McCallum, Ald. Mason rose and read the following address to the retiring Mayor:—

To His Worship Henry Best, Esq., Mayor of the City of Peterborough:

Dear Sir, — We the members of the Council of the city of Peterborough, city officials, and representatives of the press, having learned that it is your intention to retire from the council at the end of the year, desire you to accept a small token of the esteem in which you are held by us, which we hope will also serve to hold us in remembrance. In common with the citizens generally, we have appreciated and admired your straightforward integrity, your earnest desire to serve the best interests of the city, and your open and frank manner in dealing with all questions. During the fifteen years since you first entered the council you have seen the population of the city increase over fifty per cent, and you have taken no small part in advancing the measures and in doing the work which has aided in this advancement. We remember that you have held the most important positions in the council, including that of the chairman of the Board of Works for several years and Mayor for two years, and that many public works have been constructed through your initiative, and under your immediate direction, including the first sewers constructed in the city, and the taking over of the water works by the city. In your retirement, the council will lose the services of an experienced, capable, zealous and disinterested member, and we know that the work you have done will not be forgotten. We hope you will enjoy for many years the repose to which you are so justly entitled, and that you will not lay aside all interest in public affairs, but that your counsel will be available for those who will administer the affairs of the city.

Signed by:

Ald. Hicks, Ald. Mason, Ald. Elliott, Ald. Tovey, Ald. Johnston, Ald Graham, Ald. McWilliams, Ald. Duncan, Ald. Ball, Ald. McIntyre, Ald. Wilson, S. R. Armstrong, City Clerk; Felix Brownscombe, Treasurer; Chas. H. J. Mitchell, Times; C. H. Sawle, Review; B. S. Huston, Examiner.

The Presentation

Ald. Hicks in a few words of eulogy for the Mayor presented him with the handsome gold-headed cane, bearing the inscription "To Mayor Best, from the City Council, City Officials and Press of 1906." Ald Hicks said he had been associated with Mayor Best in the City Council for the past three years and had always found him to be honest and straightforward in his convictions and he considered the city was losing a valuable, interested worker when he steps out of office. He assured the Mayor that the sentiments expressed in the address were endorsed by every member of the company and although during his term of office some warm words had passed between the City's head and the various Aldermen, he was sure he

BANK CASHIER PUT IN AN INSANE ASYLUM TO RECEIVE INSURANCE ON HIS LIFE

New York, Dec. 17.—George J. Kimmel, former cashier of the Farmers' State Bank, of Arkansas City, Kan., who has been an inmate of insane asylum at Mattawan, to-day, was declared by a jury in the supreme court at White Plains to be sane.

Kimmel was sent to the insane asylum under the name of Andrew White. He was convicted of larceny in this state, and was committed to the asylum as demented. He disappeared when cashier of the Arkansas City Bank, after he was alleged to have defaulted. At that time he had three policies in the New York Life Insurance Company for $25,000. Mrs. Edna J. Donsiott, a sister of Kimmel, was named as beneficiary in the policies, and after her brother had been missing seven years she claimed the money on the ground that he was legally dead. The insurance company was not satisfied with the case and had detectives search for him until he was finally found in the asylum.

YOUNG MEN WERE FINED FOR ASSAULT

They Kicked a Man Out of the Barn Because He Wanted Their Job

This mornings' court was a little more interesting than usual owing to several lengthy cases of more than usual interest being on the tapis. The first was that of Francis McGreer who was charged with vagrancy and inability of self-support. Magistrate Dumble considered that a month on the hilt as a test might be a benefit for the man, and he was accordingly sent there for that term.

The next case was that of two young men who are employed in a large local stable, and whose positions were sought by an Englishman. They were charged with assaulting this man, Mr. Fred Stinson. It occurred Sunday evening last in the stable while the young men were at work. These men were Melton Chambers and John Donnelly. Stinson had worked in the barn before and wished to get back. To accomplish this he told the owner of the stable that these two men intended to quit, and the latter informed them of what Stinson had told him. Accordingly they were forewarned and supposedly wanted to pay him up.

Stinson went into the barn and addressed Donnelly but the latter did not respond to his salutation. They began arguing about what Stinson was reported to have done, when Melton Chambers entered. He took off his overcoat and said that Stinson ought to have his block knocked off. According to Donnelly's evidence Stinson was the agressor and a blow aimed at the former's face was skilfully ducked, although its force was spent on his shoulder. Of course this started the fight and Chambers while endeavouring to separate them received a blow in the face from Stinson, which, of course was retaliated. The result was that Stinson received a few good ones about the head. Charles Smith and Stanley Skinner were in the barn at that time and testified this morning. Smith did not see very much of it, but Skinner was on the job and saw it all. Their evidence was similar to that of the other witness. Magistrate Dumble reviewed the evidence and considered that a case was made against the young men. He fined each of them $2 which they paid. Mr. D. O'Connell appeared for Chambers and Donnelly.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Fred Dougherty, of Norwood, was in the city yesterday.

Mr. C. L. Pickering, day operator at the G. T. R. station, returned, after a two weeks' holiday at his home in Zephyr, Ont. He also visited friends in Somerville Junction and Woodville. Mr. H. Snider, a relieving operator, who was in Mr. Pickering's place, has gone to Severn Bridge, on the northern line, for a similar purpose.

MOOSE JAW CONTRACTOR VISITING IN THE CITY

Here After An Absense of Seventeen Years

After an absence of seventeen years from Peterborough, Mr. Wm. D. Fletcher, of Moose Jaw, returned to the city the other day to pay a visit to his brother, Mr. Archibald M. Fletcher, Smith street. Mr. Fletcher is a contractor in Moose Jaw and is very much in love with the West. He states that building operations are going ahead there very rapidly. Within the last year, between 100 and 500 houses have been erected, and the population is increasing at a rapid rate.

Mr. Fletcher will spend about six weeks here with his brother before returning to Moose Jaw.

PUPILS REGRET MR. JEFFRIES' DEPARTURE

A Warm Tribute Paid Him by His Pupils in Current Issue of Collegiate Echoes

Referring to the departure of Mr. Jeffries this month's issue of Collegiate Echoes has the following:—

Much regret is felt among the pupils at the approaching departure of Mr. Jeffries, who has taught in the school for a number of years. He will be long remembered as one who has faithfully and sympathetically interpreted the thoughts of great men for us; who has made Shakespeare's men and women seem like actual human beings, whom we know and love; who has helped us to hear the hauntingly beautiful music of Tennyson, and to see pure and lovely nature—pictures of Wordsworth; and who has tried to awaken in us a love for all that is good, and beautiful, and true. We wish Mr. Jeffries every happiness and success in his new position.

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Don't you think it opportune time that the owners of the vacant lot south of the Customs House should clean off the sidewalk? It has been left in a state which is dangerous to pedestrians and especially to those whose footing, like my own, is not of the best.

I believe it should be a good idea if the police would see that this particularly bad sidewalk is repaired.

The Curse of Bigness

Toronto Globe.

IN A VILLAGE or town a mechanic in steady employment has his parlour, dining-room, kitchen and hall, with four or five bedrooms, a grass plot, and perhaps a garden. In a city he must surrender these. That is the penalty of growth. The home must give place to the apartment. The working classes in Toronto are struggling against the change. When they surrender to the inevitable result of crowding, and become willing to pay for apartments the price of homes, the apartments will be built. The truth may seem harsh and unpalatable, but it must be faced.

OBITUARY

MARGARET MORRISON

The death occurred yesterday of Margaret Morrison, relict of the late Robt. Moore at Bridgenorth. The funeral will take place from the family residence in Bridgenorth on Wednesday 19th at 2 p.m. and proceed to the Little Lake Cemetery for burial.

The Weather Is Unsettled

The north west winds last night, brought the colder weather promised, and the lowest reading of the thermometer during the night was 3 degrees below zero, while at noon to-day it had moderated considerably, the registration being 10 above, the highest since last evening.

The temperature did not drop quite as low as many had looked for, and those who are expecting very cold weather in the near future are likely to be disappointed, the conditions pointing to a somewhat changeable week. It is probable that to-night will be again quite sharp, the thermometer likely going below the zero mark again, but to-morrow the probabilities are that the weather will then gradually moderate.

It is not safe to predict any very cold weather under the present conditions, the impression being that for the next few days there will be no decided drop in the temperature.

YOUNG LUMBERMAN'S SUDDEN DEATH AT STATION

Hugh Mills, of Addington County, Stricken With Heart Failure While Sleeping

ONLY TWENTY-THREE YEARS OF AGE

Death's call came with startling suddenness to Hugh Mills, a young employee of the Rathbun Lumber Company, last night. The young man had been working at the Dorset, Otter Lake, camp of the Rathbun Company, and was returning to spend Christmas at his home in Addington County. With eight others, he arrived in Peterborough at noon yesterday from Fenelon Falls, and went to the C.P.R. station at 7 o'clock last night to take the 7.35 train for Tweed.

The members of the party, of which Henry Vaness was foreman, were sleeping on the benches in the waiting-room of the station, while waiting for the arrival of the train. One of the party noticed Mills gasp for air and suddenly begin to struggle. He was taken out in the open air, and doctor Gray summoned. When the doctor arrived, however, the young man was dead. Death, according to Dr. Gray, was in all probability due to heart disease.

The deceased was only 23 years of age, and his home was in Addington County, one mile from Flinton. He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Mills, three brothers, George and Neil, at home, and Silas, in Washington. Three sisters also survive.

The funeral will take place at the young man's home in Addington County, and the remains left on the noon C.P.R. train to-day.

YOUNG PEOPLE SHOULD USE SOME JUDGMENT

Tobogganists Should Not be Rash and Inconsiderate of Others

Frequenters of the slide at Jackson Park are complaining that proper judgment is not displayed by many of those with toboggans and that many follow a toboggan too quickly. They say there should be a man there whose duty it would be to regulate the use of the slide, that is to prevent rash persons from following closely upon a toboggan that has just begun its flight. An accident occurred last night which although not very serious, might have been followed with more severe results.

A toboggan was descending the slide and when about fifty yeards from the end a man was seen standing in the middle of the slide. He did not endeavour to get out of the way and as a result the toboggan ran into it and upset him. A young lady sitting in front was slightly hurt and the gentleman at the rear also shaken up. This is only an example of what may happen at any time, and it is important that there should be on hand to control the use of the different sections of the slide.

LADY COMING TO THIS CITY DETAINED BY OFFICIALS, BUT MAYOR WIRES FOR HER RELEASE

Unexplained Action of Immigration Officers at Port of Landing in Detaining Lady Coming to Peterborough from England

MAYOR WIRES TO OTTAWA

The services of the Mayor were required yesterday to release from the custody of the immigration officials at St. John, N.B., a lady who was on her way from Wolverhampton, England, to Peterborough, to join her friends, but, who, for some as yet unexplained reason was detained by the officials at St. John, after the steamer on which she had crossed the Atlantic, had arrived in port.

Detained at St. John

Her ticket had been purchased direct from Wolverhampton to Peterborough, and her friends here who were expecting her, were looking for word from her telling them when she would arrive in the city, but instead of that, yesterday afternoon a wire was received from W. B. Howard, of St. John, informing the lady's friends that she was being held by the officials, though no reason was assigned for this action, and the sender of the telegram stated that it would be necessary to get the Mayor of Peterborough to wire W. D. Scott, of the Immigration Department, Ottawa, asking him to instruct his agent at St. John to release the lady in order that she might proceed on her journey to her friends.

The Mayor Acts

The gentleman who received the message at once hunted up the Mayor, explained the situation to him, and the latter sent the desired message to Ottawa, with the statement that the lady was coming to Peterborough to a responsible family, and asking that she be released from detention, the cause of which no one seemed to be able to explain.

It is probable that, with the receipt of the Mayor's telegram, the desired instructions would be issued from the Immigration office at Ottawa and that the lady would soon be on her way to this city to join her friends.

WILL DISCUSS DAIRY SHOW PROPOSITION

At an Important Meeting of the Board of Trade Which Will be Held in the Council Chamber To-night

The proposal to establish in Peterborough an annual dairy show will engage the attention of the members of the Board of Trade at its meeting to-night in the council chamber. In addition to this question other important matters, one of which will be that of municipal ownership, will be under consideration.

In view of the importance to Peterborough of these two questions, as well as others which will be considered it is desirable that there should be a full attendance of members of the Board.

NEW BY-LAWS FOR THE DIOCESE OF TORONTO

Committee Arranging Them Held First Meeting at Toronto

The committee appointed at the last session of the General Synod of the Anglican Church for the purpose of compiling and framing a new constitution and set of bylaws for the Toronto Diocese, held its first meeting in the Synod office yesterday afternoon, says the Mail and Empire. The last issues of the bylaws was made in 1895, but they are now practically out of date, and since that time there have been many changes and additions. They will not be ready, however, for some time. The Bishop of Toronto, presided at the meeting.

COMMISSIONERS HAVE REMEDIED CONDITIONS

Have Had the Snow Removed From Roof of Market Building

For the past two days the City Trust Commissioners have had men engaged in clearing the snow from the roof of the market building, an operation that is difficult, and not without an element of danger. It was, however, necessary that the work should be done, as, during the soft weather, great masses of snow and ice were constantly dropping to the pavement, making matters dangerous for pedestrians. Tenants of the city's stores in the market building have been complaining of these conditions, and it is to be hoped that the system of keeping the roof clear will be continued, or some method adopted for keeping the snow from dropping into the street.

MANY WHO FAVOUR THIS CITY

Some Interesting Facts Concerning the Events Leading Up to the Proposal to Establish This Annual Show in Peterborough

Peterborough Stands a Good Chance of Securing Show if Building Can be Procured--Need of a Show of this Kind

Mr. H. C. Sparling, representing the Empire Cream Separator: "We will be with the management of such a show from the drop of the hat. Toronto is the best place for holding it by long odds. You can get the accommodation in Toronto that you cannot get anywhere else. If Toronto will not furnish suitable accommodation, I would favour going to Peterborough. Such a show would be the finest thing in the world and would bring the dairymen from eastern and western Ontario into closer touch with each other."

The above interview, given the Canadian Dairyman in reference to the proposal to hold an annual dairy show, in some city in Ontario indicates the general feeling in connection with the proposal from the standpoint of the business men engaged in dairy supplies.

It appears that Guelph and Toronto are the only competitors for the show, but there is a feeling that Guelph, with the winter stock show, has pretty nearly fallen, it is coming to it, while Peterborough, occupying to a certain extent a similar relation to the eastern part of Ontario that Guelph does to the west, is regarded by many as the more suitable place.

In this connection the history of the proposal leading up to the negotiations between the city and Mr. Cowan, who is one of the moving spirits in the proposal, as told in the Canadian Dairymen, will be of interest. That paper said:—

A definite move has been made towards the holding of a provincial dairy show for Ontario. If held, it will be conducted on the same lines as the Fat Stock Show at Guelph, and The National Dairy Show in Chicago.

At a meeting of the directors of the Eastern Ontario Dairymen's Association, held in Toronto, at the time of the Canadian National Exhibition, Mr. H. B. Cowan, of The Canadian Dairyman, stated he had been talking the matter over with a large number of dairymen, all of whom were very much in favour of the holding of such an exhibition. The leading breeders of dairy cattle and the manufacturers of dairy machinery were enthusiastic in regard to the proposal and promised to make exhibits. One manufacturer had offered to give $200 should the money be required for the holding of such an exhibition. Mr. Cowan stated that he had not consulted the Department of Agriculture, and therefore could not say what the Department thought about the matter. He suggested that the Association should appoint a committee to act with a similar committee from the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association to look into the matter, and report at the convention of the association next January.

As the suggestion was made near the close of the meeting of the directors, they did not have much time to discuss it. On motion of Mr. Wm. Eager of Morrisburg, seconded by Mr. Jas. Whitton, of Wellman's Corners, Messrs. J. R. Dargavel, M.L.A., Elgin; Henry Glendinning, Manilla; Alex Hume, Menie, last year's president of the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, and H. B. Cowan, were appointed a committee to confer with a like committee from the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association regarding the matter and report at the next convention of the association.

In the afternoon at a meeting of the directors of the Western Ontario Dairymen's Association, the matter was brought up by Mr. Cowan and discussed. All the directors were present, including the president, Mr. Thomas Ballantyne, Stratford; J. N. Paget, Canboro; John Brodie, Mapleton; George H. Barr, London; J. J. Parsons, Jarvis; E. J. Sleightholm, Strathroy; John McLeaven, Hickson; Robert Sutherland, Dorchester; and James Connolly, Holmesville, were in favour of the move. Most of those present said they had discussed the matter with leading dairymen in their sections, and found that the feeling in favour of holding such a show was very strong. A motion was finally passed appointing Messrs. McIntyre, Paget, McLeaven and Putnam, a committee to act, in conjunction with the committee from the Eastern Association.

The joint committee later held a meeting and discussed what action should be taken. Those present included Messrs. Ballantyne, Paget, Dargavel, McLeaven, Glendenning, Putnam, Hume and Cowan. It was decided that the first step taken should be to canvass the exhibitors at the Toronto exhibition and see how many of them would be prepared to support such a show and make exhibits should one be held. It was further decided that a committee representing the dairymen's and the breeders' associations, should inter-

COLD WEATHER STOPS BRICK WORK ON HOTEL

Building was going up rapidly until fall of Mercury

The brickwork on the addition to the Southern Hotel, under the supervision of Mr. Jas. Rose, has for the past few days been progressing rapidly. To-day, however, on account of the sudden drop in the temperature, he was unable to proceed, and the work is now at a standstill. Should a few milder days come the builder so far as the brick work is concerned, would rapidly rise.

BOARD OF TRADE AND MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP

The Board of Trade at to-night's meeting will address itself to three questions of the utmost importance—matters that should be discussed—matters that will bear much discussion. If the consideration of these questions is made in the proper spirit, with the public interest the sole object in view, much good will come of it. But if any plan, with the promotion of special or private interest as a main feature, becomes a factor in the discussion, the Board will leave the safe ground of public interest. If any person becomes the mouthpiece of a speculative and chimerical consideration of the subject as that which appeared in last night's issue of an evening contemporary that person will not be acting in the public interest. Our contemporary in its endeavour to throw light on the question succeeded in merely making moonshine. Its treatise on municipal power development and incidentally its advocacy of the aquirement of the Auburn Dam for the purposes of developing municipal electric energy, is a crude and undigested scheme which falls under the first gentle tap of a practical hand. A proposition which is supported upon argument, based upon building a dam with a 25 foot head at a point where mathematically only 23 feet — 10 plus 13—is possible; that ignores existing conditions; that would shift a street to one side at a large expense; that would flood half a mile of water main and connecting services and do a lot of other weird things—a suggestion of a wild scheme like this, shows a lack of knowledge, which entirely unfits the organ for intelligently discussing the practical and engineering features of such a civil proposition as its pelluoid pragmatics make it. The whole question of municipal ownership and operation is so much in the air, indicates the adoption of so much investigation, the acquirement of so many data, of so many hard facts not now available, that not even those of our citizens best qualified by practical experience and knowledge are in a position to pronounce an opinion with anything like finality. Public ownership and operation are no doubt all right as theories, but when it comes to the point of business—when it comes to the spending of an indefinite number of cold thousands of dollars—we must consider the subject from a practical standpoint; must know what we are talking about when we talk and must know just where we are standing when we begin to act; must know what we are buying; must know whether it is worth the money—in a word we must place ourselves beyond the peradventure of "buying a pig in a poke." Under these circumstances the Board of Trade is in a position to discuss the question of municipal ownership and operation in only an academic manner and as an abstract question. The most beautiful and alluring scheme a laymen may concoct, may melt like snow in a July sun under the keen glance of an engineering or practical eye.

REMEMBER THE CHILDREN.

At this season of gift-giving, the public interest aroused by the annual meeting of the Children's Aid Society should not remain a mere sentiment, but be translated into action. The Board of Trade proposes to-night to discuss important civic problems, but it might well give the weight of its influence in the direction of urging upon the Provincial Government the placing of the Children's Aid Society upon the list of public institutions receiving Provincial funds. While the citizens, generally, are inclined to liberal support of this noble charity, the Government should also bear its share. In connection with the benefactors of the society, it may not be amiss to point out what a liberal contributor to its support, Mayor Best, has been, and still is. He gives the use of a fine property, upon the corner of Charlotte and Stewart streets, at a merely nominal rental — at a figure which, at the actual rental value of the property, represents perhaps a donation of one hundred dollars per year. If the contributions of the general public were upon a similar scale, the question of financial support would be solved. The recent donation of $50 by a citizen, who did not take his left hand into the confidence of his right, is another example worthy of imitation. But, whatever private liberality may do, the Provincial Government is not absolved from its responsibility of contributing to the work of the Children's Aid Society as it does to other Provincial charities, no more, and, in some cases, perhaps less, deserving. In conclusion, the people, in their gift-giving, should not forget the little family at the Children's Shelter. If only a moderate proportion of the money spent for the pleasure of the happy children who have homes, were devoted to little gifts for the homeless habitues of the Shelter, their hearts would be made glad—

—They who joy would win,
Must share it; happiness was born a twin.

THE BANK OF MONTREAL

At any time within the past half century, one could expect, without without danger of disappointment, the annual meeting of the Bank of Montreal, to afford evidence of good management and prosperity. That in these thriving times a splendid story of success should be unfolded, at the annual meeting, creates no surprise. That was the record revealed at the recent annual meeting a report of which appears in this issue. The year's profits showed an increase of ten per cent. upon the capital stock over the previous year—which year, with many preceding ones, have shown high prosperity. The usual dividend of ten per cent. has been paid, and one million dollars added to the "rest."

Mr. R. B. Angus, the general manager of this great financial institution, whose vast interests and ramifications make it infinitely sensitive to business conditions and possibilities, remarked in his address that "we are still in the flood time of prosperity." He added the necessary warning of the inevitable reckoning which still would some day follow "inflated values and increasing speculations, particularly in real estate and mining stocks, leaving wreckage when the tide ebbs."

Sir George Drummond, president of the bank, opened his review of current conditions with the phrase, "beyond question the general condition is one of great prosperity," nor was this qualified by the expression of any specific doubt regarding coming conditions, although there was the usual warning of the necessity of prudence and caution.

By its solidity, by its long career of unbroken success, the Bank of Montreal has established itself as one of the greatest banking institutions in the world. Its interests are so interwoven with the interests of the country, its stake is so great, its command of resources, its knowledge of conditions, and its financial influence, so far reaching, as to make its managing officials authorities in finance. And when they speak, their words are worth heeding, and when they act their action commands confidence. An example of the latter was plainly shown in Peterborough, on a recent occasion. When panic was in the air, and when the difficulties of a Canadian bank overwhelmed people interested with visions of loss, and despair was the cry, the simple statement that the Bank of Montreal assumed responsibility, was like oil on the waters; confidence was restored as if by magic. A banking institution, which has achieved such a position of influence is a power in the land, and becomes not so much a private financial institution as a national possession; so that when its annual report shows, as it does this year, unusual success, its appeals directly to the interests of everybody.

The relation of the bank to recent events in Peterborough, invests it with unusual local interest, and from association and apart from important personal grounds, invests with unusual interest and regret the departure of the manager of the local branch, Mr. K. Eardley-Wilmot. During the past three years he has been in charge of the local branch he has earned a large popularity, and has done much, outside the recent crisis, to win popularity and favour for himself, as a contributor of a share of the sum of prosperity of the Bank of Montreal, as shown in the annual report.

PAYING PUBLIC OWNERSHIP.

Public and municipal ownership and operation of public utilities are still in the experimental stage. However, the public ownership enterprise of the Ross Government, as represented by the Provincial Railway, is at present a most promising candidate for successful demonstration of the soundness of the principle. The foresight and public spirit of the Ross Government are being sturdily vindicated. Everything seems to contribute to success. The late Government, with a big faith, explored and opened up the north country, and, as a further evidence of their faith, inaugurated and built the Temiscamingue and Northern Railway, which has been a winner from the beginning. Everything seems to conspire to this end. The Provincial Railway not only makes money down to the ground, but under the ground. It not only gets silver from its freight and passenger traffic, but it is literally ballasted with silver ore. There is probably no other railway in the world that is a money maker at top and bottom and at both sides. There are several valuable mines on the right-of-way of the Provincial Railway, with the possibility of many others being opened up and profitably worked. New Ontario may be, as Hon. Mr. Whitney, in one of his out-of-office, pessimistic moods, described it, 'The Land of the Stunted Poplar," but it is also "The Land of the Silver Lining." Its "stunted poplar," in the form of pulp wood, is as good as gold, and its silver lining is as good as—and, what is better, is—silver. Booms may come and booms may go, booms may inflate and booms may collapse, but there is no doubt that there is wealth in New Ontario, wealth of soil that never will pinch out, and wealth of minerals that will for many years yield profitable returns—when the boomster has departed and mining steadies down to settled conditions.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Manitoba has decided to provincialize the telephone system. Premier Roblin says that he can cut the Bell rate in two. This is hard on the old corporation — to use the Bell to ring out the old, and politicians to ring in the new.

It is said that last week's capitalization of Cobalt mining companies, aggregates over $10,000,000, and that the total capitalization of the camp is now about $200,000,000. That indicates great activity and confidence. But how many have stopped to think asks the Hamilton Times, how much profit the mines must earn to pay the big dividends expected on such a sum? Ten per cent. on the par value of shares, is a modest expectation on the street, yet to earn it Cobalt would have to earn, clear of all charges, $20,000,000 a year. If it does that it will be a world beater.

In the bye-elections in Hamilton the other day, the deputy returning officers were selected by the Conservative organization, the returning officer only nominally appointing them. This, the Montreal Herald asserts, is the sort of thing which has been found at the bottom of every election scandal which has disgraced Ontario in recent years. It is time it was ended. The Government should appoint a man whose honesty is above suspicion as returning officer, and then see that he is left entirely unhampered in carrying out the responsible duties of his position. A square deal to its opponents never hurt any Government.

A Kingston man, named Hyland, walking along a city street, says he saw a black lizard, six inches long, fall from the sky, and scurry away so rapidly that he had some difficulty in catching it. Apart from the surprise at the toughness of the celestial saurian, which could take a drop of a mile or two, and strike the earth at the rate of speed of a bullet carrying a mile, and be able to run away at a brisk speed, one must consider the toughness of a reptile which could amble around in zero weather, when other reptiles are stowed away in their hybernating snooze. We must consider otherwise, Mr. Hyland's December lizard as a product of High balls, or some other form of genesis of snakely vision.

NEW BRANCH TO THE POPULAR RESTAURANT

Mr. W. J. McCallum Secures New Chef and Adds Cooked Meat Branch to His Business

Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of the well-known restaurant, has added a new branch to his business, and in future anyone who so desires, can secure a nicely dressed and well roasted chicken, duck or turkey, all ready for the table. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jenvery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price. eod view Mayor Coatsworth of Toronto, to see if the city would be prepared to furnish suitable accommodations for such a show.

DAIRY SHOW PROPOSAL MEETS WITH FAVOUR

The next day Messrs. Paget, representing the Western Association; H. Glendenning, the Eastern Association; John Rettie of Norwich and A. C. Hallman of Breslau, representing the Canadian Holstein Breeders' Association, and Alex. Hume, and W. Stewart of Menie, representing the Canadian Ayrshire Breeders' Association, waited upon Mayor Coatsworth and laid the matter before him.

The deputation explained the importance of the dairy industry and stated that were the show held they believed that it would become a more important event than the Fat Stock Show at Guelph, as the dairy interests of the province far exceeded the beef interests in importance. Then also, there are two fat stock shows, one at Guelph and the other at Ottawa, while there would be only one large dairy exhibition. It was explained that either Guelph or Peterborough would be glad to get the show but that there was a feeling in favour of Toronto, provided Toronto would furnish the desired accommodation. It was pointed out that Toronto is in need of suitable buildings for other similar exhibitions, including the Ontario Horticultural Exhibition, the two annual Stallion Shows, the Pure Food Show, and others. The fact that Toronto lost the Guelph exhibition through not realizing its importance, was referred to.

The New York Stock Market

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, Dec. 18. — A flood of bearish news among which was the announcement that St Paul would issue nearly $100,000,000 new stock, an advance in the Berlin bank rate, and high money here, brought an avalanche of selling orders into the stock market to-day. St Paul lost 16 points while C P R, Great Northern and Northern Pacific lost from 5 to 10 points. Liquidation on a heavy scale in these stocks and an absence of support caused them to decline swiftly.

On the other hand there was persistent buying of Baltimore and Ohio all day which caused that issue to advance nearly 4 points at one time and it closed at an advance of 1 1-2 over yesterday. Reading was also in great demand at an advance over yesterday, while fair support was given copper, Smelters and Col Fuel.

In the last hour came the severest declines and stop-loss orders galore were reached. We believe that to-day saw the low prices for some time to come and believe that purchases of Baltimore and Ohio and Reading around to-night's close will show big profits in a short time. A big rally is due and we will get it. The close was tremendously active and near the low of the day.

Bronchitis is "Cold on the Chest"

AND THE MOST PROMPT AND SATISFACTORY TREATMENT IS

DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Acute bronchitis is none other than what is commonly known as "cold on the chest," and is marked by difficult breathing and tightness or soreness of the chest.

As a preventitive, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will, if taken in time, positively prevent the symptoms of bronchitis or cold in the chest.

As a cure, it will entirely overcome even the long-standing cases of chronic bronchitis, and it should not be forgotten that, when neglected, bronchitis usually returns time and time again until the victim is worn out by its debilitating effects.

It is largely the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis that has made this treatment so popular. People quite rightly reason that what will cure bronchitis will make short work of croup and ordinary coughs and colds.

Mrs. Richmond Withrow, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N. S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to be of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief, and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.—12.

Canada's Oldest Banking Institution's Good Year

At the Annual Meeting of the Bank of Montreal Reports on Business of Last Year Were Presented and Showed a Gratifying Condition of Affairs—Strong Financial Institution Increased its Prestige During the Past Year

The eighty-ninth annual general meeting of the Shareholders of the Bank of Montreal was held in the Board Room of the institution yesterday, at noon.

There were present: Hon. Sir George Drummond, K.C.M.G., President; Mr. E. S. Clouston, Vice-President and General Manager; Sir William C. Macdonald, Hon. Robert Mackay, Messrs. James Ross, A. T. Paterson, R. B. Angus, Michael Burke, F. S. Lyman, K.C.; Angus W. Hooper, James Tasker, B. A. Boas, George Durnford, Henry Dobell, J. S. Keogh, M. S. Foley, John Beattie, R. G. Starke, H. Cameron, W. Blackader, James Kirby, K.C.; James Croil, Lieut.-Col. Prevost, H. Paton, W. Stanway, A. G. Ross, W. D. Gillean, Rev. G. H. Parker, (Compton); M. O'Shaughnessy, John Turnbull, J. Scott.

On the motion of Mr. R. B. Angus, Sir George Drummond, President, was unanimously voted to the chair, and on the motion of Mr. W. Stanway, seconded by Mr. James Tasker, it was resolved: "That the following be appointed to act as scrutineers: Messrs. F. S. Lyman, K.C., and Angus W. Hooper, and that Mr. James Aird be secretary of the meeting."

The Directors' Report

The report of the Directors to the Shareholders at their eighty-ninth annual general meeting was then read by Mr. E. S. Clouston, Vice-President, as follows:

Balance of Profit and Loss Account, 31st October, 1905	$801,856.41
Profits for the year ending 31st October, 1906, after deducting charges of management, and making full provision for all bad and doubtful debts.....	1,797,976.43
	$2,599,831.84
Dividend 2½ per cent. paid 1st March, 1906	$300,000.00
Dividend 2½ per cent. paid 1st June, 1906.....	300,000.00
Dividend 2½ per cent. paid 1st September, 1906..	300,000.00
Dividend 2½ per cent. paid 1st December, 1906..	300,000.00
	$1,440,000.00
Amount credited to Rest Account....	1,000,000.00
	2,440,000.00
Balance of Profit and Loss carried forward	$159,831.84

The Directors have pleasure in presenting the Report, showing the result of the Bank's business for the year ended 31st October, 1906.

The sub-agencies at Fort Rouge (Winnipeg) and Ste. Anne de Bellevue, mentioned in our last report as about to be established, were opened shortly afterward. Since the last Annual Meeting branches have also been opened in the city of Mexico and at Saskatoon, and sub-agencies at Fenelon Falls, St. Henri, Montreal; Upper Town, Quebec, and Bank street, Ottawa.

The Ontario Bank having intimated that it was in difficulties and would have to suspend, this bank, on the 13th October last, assumed all its liabilities, under a guarantee of other banks against loss, and it is now being liquidated.

In view of the change in the number of directors made by resolution of the shareholders at the last Annual Meeting, and in order to bring the Bylaws of the Bank into accord with the Bank Act, as at present, it has been thought well by the directors to have the existing bylaws consolidated and amended to date. This has been done, and they are now placed before you for confirmation.

All the offices of the bank, including the Head Office, have been inspected during the past year.

G. A. DRUMMOND,
President.

RETIRING MAYOR BEST PRESENTED WITH CANE

was just as good a friend to all as ever.

The speaker also added a few complimentary remarks in allusion to Mayor Best's long term of office as a faithful worker in the interests of the town and later the city of Peterborough as a whole.

Mayor Best on rising to reply was greeted with hearty cheers and the singing of "For he's a jolly, good fellow." He was more proud he said, of receiving such a gift and hearing such sentiments as were expressed in the address than of receiving five hundred dollars. He assured his fellow colleagues in council that it had been a pleasure for him to be connected with them in administering the city's affairs and if there was anything in his power that he could do to assist the incoming Mayor and Council, he would only be too pleased to give his services. He referred to the wave of prosperity which was passing over the city with regard to the securing of new industries and was expecting before the close of the old year to hear of the coming of the Crossley Carpet Manufacturing Company.

Ald. Ball added a few complimentary remarks to Mayor Best and rendered a solo which was very much enjoyed.

These remarks of eulogy to the retiring Mayor were augumented by the other Aldermen, the City Officials and the representatives of the press who all had some kind words for the man who had governed the city for the past two years and who had had been a worker in civic affairs for the past quarter of a century.

REQUESTS TO BE MADE IN PRIVATE BILL OF CITY

City Will Ask to Have Agreement with Coates Company Ratified and That Properties on Water Mains be Taxed

VOTING DAY MAY BE CHANGED TO JAN. 1

A meeting of the Committee of the Whole Council, probably the last of the old year, was held last night. The meeting was called for the purpose of giving notice to the Legislature of the various items to be included in the city's private bill, at the next session. The most important of these will be the request to have the agreement with the Coates Company ratified. Another request which will also be included will be included is one asking permission to have New Year's Day the permanent municipal election day.

Representatives from the Water Commissioners were also present, asking that a clause be inserted giving them the right to collect taxes on all property bordering on water mains.

Those present were Mayor Best, Ald. Johnston, Wilson, Duncan, Elliott, Graham, Hicks, Mason, Ball, McIntyre, Tovey; and T. F. Matthews and W. H. Moore, chairman of the Water Commissioners.

The first question discussed was the city solicitor's request to prepare advertisements outlining the private legislation to be asked with regard to manufactores at the next session of the Legislature.

Deputation's Request

In connection with the Water Commissioners' proposition to include within the private bill, legislation to allow the city commissioners to tax all properties abutting on water mains, Mr. Matthews stated that the commissioners had decided to ask the council to have the request inserted.

Mr. Moore stated that the commissioners were doing everything they could to assist all portions of the city. Several years ago, the commissioners, he said, would not extend a main without getting 10 per cent of the cost from those whom it benefitted. Parties are putting up houses on vacant land who are now asking for water connections, so that the people past their property who have paid their ten per cent., have borne the expense. Therefore he believed that the value of the properties newly built upon was increased, so that the owners should assist in paying for the connections. Mr. Moore also asked that the Water Commissioners become a corporate body, so that the commissioners might be able to do their work collectively.

Ald. Ball and Tovey were of the opinion that the values of the vacant properties were enhanced by the fact that water mains passed by them.

The Mayor thought however that by allowing the commissioners to tax all properties abutting on the water mains would be only loading up the people to the outside of the city with expense to relieve the centre.

Ald. Elliott said in East City he knew of a case where a property owner there allowed others living farther along the street to pay for the water mains, while he looked on and saw his property increase in value at the expense of others.

Ald. Wilson asked if the general tax would reduce the cost to the consumer and was answered that it certainly would.

The commissioners did not agree with the mayor's opinion and still held that the properties abutting on mains would be advanced in value.

Ald. Tovey suggested that legislation be enacted to have the municipal voting day on New Year's day of every year and that this be incorporated in the private bill.

Ald. Johnston moved that the city solicitor be authorised to give notice of the intention of the council to apply for legislation for the right to carry out the agreement with the Coates Company; the right to purchase land for manufacturing purposes; to confirm the Rapid Tool Company bylaw, and the Canadian General Electric Company bylaw; the right to acquire and develop and dispose of electric power; to construct permanent crossings, and purchase debentures; the right of water commissioners to levy and collect a rate on all property bordering on water mains, and to make the commissioners a corporate body; to confirm the debentures bylaw; to confirm bylaws submitted to the people on election day on January 7th; to change be municipal election day in Peterborough to New Year's day of each year.

Ald. Tovey seconded the motion, which carried.

Will Purchase Sleigh

Ald. Hicks brought up a question of importance. The Street Commissioner, he stated, had been speaking to him with reference to acquiring a sleigh to draw sand for the purpose of sprinkling it on walks, when needed, and also for the purpose of drawing wood for the Charity Board. He moved that the commissioner be given authority to purchase one. This was seconded by Ald. Tovey and carried.

Tax Collector's Time Extended

The city treasurer wrote the mayor stating that the collector had not yet returned his roll on account of the extra work following the incorporation of Peterborough as a city. He suggested that the time in which to make his returns be extended.

Moved by Ald. Elliott and Graham, that the time be extended until Feb. 1st, 1907.

THE OPENING OF JACKSON PARK TO-NIGHT

Popular Resort Will be Formally Opened —Many Amusements

The Jackson Park Rink and toboggan slide will be formally opened to-night, when it is expected that there will be an enormous crowd present at the popular winter resort. The slide, with its five chutes, is in splendid condition, better than at any time last year, and the many enthusiastic followers of the toboggan will be out in full force. Many who own toboggans, tried the slide last night and pronounced it perfect. The rink is in splendid condition also, and as the band will be present there should be a big crowd on the ice.

Indoor amusements may be enjoyed at the park, too. Inside the building the Peterborough Amusement Company will install a number of their one-cent vaudeville machines, including coin-operating picture machines, fortune-telling machines and athletic machines.

OBITUARY

MR. ZACH. WHITE

Mr. Zach. White, a gentleman well known in this city, in Lakefield, and to the public who travel on the Otonabee River and adjoining lakes, passed away at the Munro House last night. Deceased had not been enjoying the best of health lately, and, in fact, was suffering from that dread disease, tuberculosis. On Friday of last week, the late Mr. White was very much weakened by a hemorrhage, and slowly succumed to the effects of the disease. Deceased was a young man of but 23 years of age, and was very popular with local boatmen and tourists to Stony and Rice Lakes. He was a cousin of Captain Wm. White, of the steamer Water Lily. He was unmarried, and had lived at the family residence in Lakefield for the past nine years. He was the eldest son of the late Mr. Z. White, also of Lakefield. The steamer Beaver, of which the deceased was proprietor, was burned at Lakefield a short time ago.

The funeral of the late Mr. White will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 p.m., from the family residence in Lakefield, and interment will take place in the Lakefield Cemetery.

ELECTED TO REPRESENT TRAVELLERS' SOCIETY

Messrs. A. G. Dickson and W. J. Hopwood Will Represent Commercial Travellers' Benefit Society in Peterborough

At the annual nomination meeting of the Commercial Travellers' Mutual Benefit Society, Mr. A. G. Dickson and Mr. W. J. Hopwood were elected by acclamation as trustees, to represent the membership in Peterborough. The meeting was a very successful one, and the treasurer reported having paid $29,000 in death claims, and a surplus of about $5,000 to add to the reserve fund, a very satisfactory result, which was attained at a very low cost to the members.

SMALL BLAZE AT THE SILK WEAVING MILLS

A Fire Started in the Engine Room but was Extinguished Before Much Damage was Done

A small fire occurred on Saturday in the engine room of the Colonial Weaving Co., but fortunately it was extinguished before much damage had been done, and the operations of the mill were not interfered with.

Some refuse in the boiler room was ignited, and in an instant it was blazing around the roof. The brigade, composed of members of the employees' staff, was on the spot at once, and before the fire had been communicated to the main part of the building it was extinguished. The fire did only a small amount of damage.

OVERCOME BY FUMES OF GAS FROM LEAD

Employees of Rapid Tool Company Became Ill for a Short Time

Yesterday afternoon a couple of the employees of the Rapid Tool Company, were overcome by the fumes of gas arising from a vat of molten lead. A doctor was called in and in a short time the men had recovered sufficiently to go home, and today they are again on duty.

The molten lead is used for tempering bits, and it is customary for all persons who for the first time come in contact with the fumes to be somewhat affected but after a time they become accustomed to it.

An experiment was being tried for the first time when the slight accident occurred.

AXE SLIPPED CUTTING DECORATIONS

Mr. Mark Burnham Met With Painful Accident Yesterday While Cutting Boughs for Decorations

Yesterday while butting boughs, for the purpose of decorating St. Luke's church for Christmas, Mr. Mark Burnham of Otonabee, met with an accident, which fortunately did not prove serious, but which might easily have done so.

Mr. Burnham was in the woods at his home, when the accident occurred and his description of it is to the effect that he was reaching above his head cutting a bough off a tree when the axe slipped, coming down upon his ear and neck which were cut rather severely, several stitches being required to close the wounds inflicted.

TO BRING CHRISTMAS CHEER TO NEEDY

Ladies of Charlotte Street Methodist Church Asks for Donation of Clothing or Groceries

The ladies of the Charlotte street Methodist church congregation are making preparation to ensure a merry Christmas to a number of families in the city who are otherwise likely to come short of Christmas cheer. On Thursday afternoon the ladies of the congregation will be at the church for the purpose of receiving and distributing the donation which the members of the congregation are asked to make. Anyone who will make donations of clothing, groceries, etc., is asked to have it sent to the church that afternoon, when the ladies will see that it reaches some family who has need of it.

REV. DR. BISHOP GAVE AN INTERESTING ADDRESS

To the Men Who Gathered at the Y. M. C. A. on Sunday Afternoon

Rev. Dr. Bishop, of Lindsay, gave a forcible and impressive address at the Y.M.C.A. on Sunday afternoon last on "The Sacredness of the Body,"

Miss Reesor, soloist of the George Street Church choir, sang "The Pilot Song" before the address.

Her solo was well executed and added much to the excellent meeting held. It closed with a strong appeal to men to surrender to Christ.

EXPECT RAW MATERIAL HERE SOON

Rapid Tool Company Expect to Have Their Works in Operation in a Short Time

The Rapid Tool Company expect to be in operation in a couple of weeks. The machinery has all arrived, and is now installed. The company is now awaiting the raw material from England and Pittsburg, samples of which they expect within a week. They have ordered two tons of steel from Pittsburg, to be used for the manufacture of bits and four tons of Jessop steel from England. Which ever is the better the company intends to import permanently for the use of the local factory.

As soon as the steel arrives the works here will be able to begin the manufacture of tools. Some have already been made as experiments.

This year we have an unusually large assortment of

SKATES

and would particularly recommend those made by the Canada Cycle & Motor Co.

The quality of steel, the few parts and the extra fine finish, make them easily the best on the market.

We sell Henry Boker's, too, and our prices are right.

BRING ORCHESTRA TO PETERBOROUGH

Rev. Dr. Crothers Expressed His Wish to do This With Lindsay Sunday School Orchestra

The Lindsay Post on Monday said: Rev. W. J. Crothers, of Peterborough, occupied the pulpit of Cambridge street Methodist church yesterday at both services and delivered two impressive discourses, which were much appreciated. In the morning the reverend gentleman took his theme from Paul's first letter to the Romans and 16th verse, and in the evening from St. John's gospel, 6th chapter and the 5th and 6th verses. Rev. Mr. Crothers also spoke in the afternoon to the Sunday School. He was greatly surprised and pleased with the large attendance, especially the large number of young men and he was so delighted with the orchestra that he thought he would take it back to Peterborough with him.

ASTONISHING RESULTS

Follow Each New Discovery of Science

The great strides that medical science has made in the last few years is due to the germ theory. When the germ of a disease has been discovered, the doctors have not been slow in finding a drug to kill it. In a few years, it will be rare to find a bald-headed man or woman. The falling out of hair is due to a dandruff germ, and now it has been discovered how to kill this germ. The remedy used is called Newbro's Herpicide. Its success has been marvellous. Not a failure has been so far reported. It is also a delightful hair dressing free from oil or sticky substances. Try it and be convinced of its actual merit. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

White & Gillespie's Creams etc.

THE ASSESSMENT BY-LAWS ARE REFERRED TO ELECTORS

Nort Monaghan Township Council With Them at Their Last Meeting

THE OTHER BUSINESS TRANSACTED

The statutory meeting of the Council of North Monaghan was held in the Township Treasurer's office in Peterborough at 2.3 0p. m. on Saturday, December 15th.

All the members were present, the Reeve, Mr. J. Madill, presiding. The minutes of the last regular and two special meetings were read and confirmed.

Communications were received and read from J. J. Fair, Clerk of Cavan, asking the township to pay to the Township of Cavan a proportion of the costs of the Assessors award for the equalization of union school sections. This was referred to the Reeve for investigation.

From the Township Treasurer asking for instructions in connection with the Township's Banking account. This was referred to a committee consisting of the Reeve, and Councillors Brown and Holmes.

The treasurer presented the Financial Statement required by law. The statement showed receipts from the 15th of December, 1905, to the 15th of December, 1906, of $7,873.0; and payments for the same time of $4,217.17. The statement was received and directed to be published according to law.

The collector presented his return of taxes for the current year as follows:—

Total amount on roll	$5,301.77
Amount collected to date	4,672.88
Amount to collect	$ 648.89

The statement was received and the collector was authorized to proceed and collect all outstanding taxes forthwith.

An application from Wm. Smithson to be permitted to cut down a tree on Lansdowne street, was referred to Councillor Holmes with power to act.

Accounts were handed in and read as follows:—

G. W. Bennett, Clerk	75 00
W. H. Bradburn, Treasurer	50 00
R. Sanderson, Caretaker	7 50
R. M. Dennistoun, Solicitor	30 00

By-laws Nos. 571 and 572 to appoint a place of nomination, define polling sub-divisions, etc., and to appoint Deputy Returning Officers for 1907, were then put through their final readings and passed.

The by-laws to fix the assessment of the Brinton Carpet Co'y, of Canada at $10,000 for 10 years and to fix the assessment of the Peterborough Sandstone Brick Co'y, Limited, at $3,000 for 10 years, were considered in committee on the second reading thereof and referred to the vote of the electors of the township on Monday, January 7th, 1907.

Council then adjourned.

ILLUMINATED SIGN OVER PORTER'S DELICATESSEN

Letters are Constructed of Ruby Glass in Front of Concealed Electric Lights

The Messrs. Porter Brothers have recently had installed a handsome new illuminated sign above their meat and provision market. The sign which reads "Porter's Delicatessen" is made of galvanized iron, the letters being made of ruby glass behind which are concealed electric lights making a pretty display at night. The sign is constructed in such a manner as to also be a protection to the awning. It was made and installed by the firm of J. J. Turner & Sons.

Music and Drama

A Chatham paper says:—The Morris-Thurston Company made a decided hit last night in "Peaceful Valley." The play was one of the best ever presented on the stage of the Grand opera house at popular prices. Those who were there were enthusiastic in their praise of Mr. Morris, who played the part made famous by Sol Smith Russell, and the rest of the company were admirably fitted for their parts. Miss Thurston played a charming Niobe Farquhar, putting plenty of life into the parts. Mr. Arthur Platt scored another hit as Charley Rand. We are forced to acknowledge the production far above the ordinary stock company.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night.

WINTER RACES ON NEW YEAR'S DAY AT PARK

Three Good Harness Events Arranged for That Day—Regular Winter Meet on January 22nd and 23rd Next

WILL PUT THE TRACK IN SHAPE

At a meeting of the Peterborough Turf Club, held yesterday afternoon at the Maple Leaf Hotel, with the President, Mr. P. Cunan in the chair, it was decided to hold three races at the Driving Park, on New Year's Day. Good purses will be offered for these events and a successful day's races is looked for. Posters announcing the different events will be issued in a few days.

It was also decided yesterday to hold the annual winter races on January 22nd and 23rd, when there will be four races, the classes being 2.13, 2.23, 2.18 and free-for-all. Purses of $150 each will be offered for these races. The circuit races will commence at Dufferin Park, on January first and second and Port Perry will hold its ice races on January 8th, and 9th. Lindsay comes next on the 16th and 17th, and Peterborough follows on the dates mentioned. From here the horses will go to Ottawa for the big winter event.

Work will be commenced at once in getting the track in shape for the races on New Years Day, and the members of the Club are looking forward to a successful series of races.

Band at Street Railway Rink to-night.

"EDDIE" HOWELL WILL COACH THE GALT TEAM

Galt, Dec. 17.—Mr. Ed. Howell, one of the best known of Ontario hockey players has been secured as a coach for the local team for the coming season, and will visit Galt twice each week. The seniors will make their first appearance this season in a game with the Preston intermediates on Wednesday night at Preston.

HOCKEY

The Peterborough Hockey Club had a splendid practice last night with two full teams on the ice. The seniors defeated the juniors but the game was a warm one and proved decidedly interesting to the many railbirds present. The teams lined up as follows:—

Seniors.		Juniors.
Denocher	Goal.	Lang
Glover	Point.	Myers
Crowley	Cover Point.	Ferguson
Whitcroft	Rover.	Parnell
Morgan	Centre.	Rose
Graham	Right Wing.	Watson

Referee—Eugene Hurtubise.

• • • •

A meeting of the Auburn Hockey Club is billed for to-night at 7.45, sharp, at the Y.M.C.A. Much business of importance to members will be transacted at this meeting, so that all those who intend to cast their lot with the gray and red should be on hand.

• • • •

A meeting of the Executive Committee of the Peterborough Hockey Club will be held to-night at 5 o'clock, at Dr. Wightman's office.

• • • •

The current issue of the Collegiate Echoes says:—We, representing the pupils of the Second Form of the Peterborough Collegiate Institute, do hereby challenge the pupils of any other Form, in the said centre of education, to a game of hockey, to be played as soon as satisfactory arrangements can be made with the undersigned.

• • • •

The Charlotte Street Guild hockey team will practice at the Brock street rink to-night at 7 o'clock. All players are asked to be on hand early.

• • • •

The following players are requested to be on the ice, not later than 7.15 Wednesday evening:—

Lang ..... Vanevery
Glover ..... Meyers
Crowley ..... Ferguson
Morgan ..... Rose
Whitcroft ..... Parnell
Graham ..... Easton
McStravick ..... Watson

CURLING

The curling rink was a lively spot last night with five out of the six rinks in motion. The electric lights were placed in the western rink yesterday so that all now are ready for operations. The following, all keenly contested were played:—

W. J. Thompson, 8.	T. Brightman, 18.
D. Cameron, 12	Geo. Fitzgerald, 17.
J.E.A. Fitzgerald, 14	T. J. Wallace, 10
T. Rutherford, 9.	S. Ray, 6.
John. Cameron, 16.	R. Neill, 20.

How many Parisian people born in Paris are there living in Paris at the present time. According to the last census about 36 per cent. of the total population. Paris has the smallest indigenous population of any European capital. St. Petersburg has 40 per cent., Berlin 41 per cent., Vienna 45 per cent., London 65 per cent.

Thirteen armoured cruisers have been added to the French navy since 1884. These may be divided into five types—three units of 7,700 tons, three of 9,500 tons, five of 10,000 tons, one of 911,300 tons, and one of 13,500 tons. In addition to these are under construction three additional cruisers of 12,500 tons, and three of 12,800 tons.

THESE DARK DAYS

CAUSE US TO REALIZE ANY DEFECT OF VISION OR EYESTRAIN

Many people think that an examination can only be made on bright days. This is not so, as we use a dark room and artificial light exclusively in our examinations. So we can give equally good results on dark, dreary days, as on bright, sunshiny days.

CONTRACTS FOR FIRE ALARM BOXES CONSIDERED

Fire, Water and Light Committee Discussed Bell Telephone's Proposition Particularly

TO INTERVIEW MACHINE TELEPHONE CO.

The Fire, Water and Light Committee held a short session last night, the most important question being the consideration of the various contractors' prices for the installation of the fire alarm boxes. Before making a decision the committee will find out on what terms the work can be done by using the poles of the Machine Telephone Company, which they already have the right to use. If the committee can use these poles to advantage, they will probably purchase the alarm boxes, gongs, etc., and have the work of connecting done by a man of their own appointment.

Those present were Chairman Johnston, Ald. Elliott, Graham, Ball, Mason, Wilson, Duncan and City Solicitor E. H. D. Hall.

A communication was received from Mr. Bradburn, advising the committee that the carpenter's fire insurance risk on the new fire hall which is being built, expires on Dec. 20, and asking that the risk be renewed for one month.

Moved by Ald. Graham and Ball that the risk be extended.—Carried.

Moved by Ald. Elliott and Graham, that the placing of the arc lamp on King street, be left in the hands of the chairman.—Carried.

Fire Alarm Boxes

The next question discussed was the Bell Company's proposition to the city for the contract of installing the twenty-five fire alarm boxes, apparatus, etc., which the city has decided to erect. The Company have agreed to install the boxes, gongs, and bells, etc., for the sum of $2,979 under certain conditions, and to maintain the system for $500 annually for 5 years.

The suggestion to consider an agreement with the Machine Telephone Company met with the favour of the committee.

The company had written the committee that $3,400 was their estimate of the expenses of all material of installation not including the boxes themselves and estimated that the cost of maintaining the system would be about $500 annually.

The city already has the right over the poles utilized by the Machine Telephone Company and the committee thought that before making any contract they should interview that company with reference to the advantages of using them.

Moved by Ald Elliott and Mason that the chairman interview the Machine Telephone Company as to what wires they have already on their poles for this purpose and with reference to using them by the city for connecting the fire alarm boxes. —Carried.

MUSIC AND DRAMA

PEACEFUL VALLEY

The Morris-Thurston Stock Company again demonstrated in the production of "Peaceful Valley," at the Grand that they are one of the best stock companies that has ever played in the local house, especially at popular prices. William B. Morris had a difficult role to act, but he made a success of it, and delighted the audience. He was ably supported by Miss Thurston, and the rest of the company. The specialties were very good, including illustrated songs and moving pictures of a great bank robbery. The play to-night will be "Whose Baby are You?" This is said to be the best comedy any stock company has ever produced here. There will also be a complete change of specialties. Popular prices prevail.

ECHO CAMP DONORS TO CHILDREN'S AID

The members of Eko Club are anxious that the children in the Shelter shall spend a pleasant Christmas, and are doing their share to ensure it to them. Last night in the club rooms a collection was taken among the members of the club, and as a result the Examiner was handed $8.00 to-day for transmission to the treasurer of the Children's Aid Society, with the request that it be expended for the purpose of giving the children a Christmas treat. The intention of the donors was not that this contribution should be devoted to the general funds of the Society, but that it should be expended for the express purpose of bringing to the children as bright a Christmas as possible, under the circumstances, and there is no doubt but that this intention will be respected by the officers of the Society.

BRAVE GIRL SAVES FATHER FROM SUICIDE

Nineteen-year-old Girl Found Sire Hanging by Wire to the Transom, and Works to Revive Him

HE OWES HIS LIFE TO DAUGHTER

Examiner Special.

New York, Dec. 18.—Annie Weiss, teh pretty nineteen-year-old daughter of Ignatz Weiss, saved him from suicide yesterday afternoon at his home, No. 1636 Avenue A, in a manner worthy of a heroine.

Weiss, an upholsterer, had been out of work for some time. His family seeing him melancholy and despondent, dreaded that he might attempt to kill himself, and kept a close watch upon him. Annie was left alone in the Weiss flat with her father yesterday.

The young girl was busy in the kitchen for a time and Weiss sat there talking to her. Presently he went into a front room. The daughter, after some minutes, bethought her of the danger of leaving him alone and went to look for him. He was not in the front room nor in the bedrooms. She tried the bathroom door. It yielded and she pushed it partly open. Suddenly the door banged shut, as if moved by human agency.

Annie, alarmed, pushed it wide open. This time her father's body, hanging by a wire to the transom swung heavily against her.

Instead of fainting with fright, the girl ran quickly to the kitchen, got a sharp knife and cut the rope. Then she ran to a window and screamed for the police. Two patrolmen ran up, and she told them from a second-story window what had happened. When the policemen had brought Dr. Boyd from the Presbyterian Hospital they found the devoted young woman working with some skill to restore her father to consciousness.

The surgeon's work was half done for him. When Weiss had been revived and was being carried down stairs to the ambulance he struggled frantically, endeavouring to throw himself over the banister to kill himself. He was placed in a strit jacket and taken shrieking to the hospital. He will recover.

ODDFELLOWS MAKE A DONATION

To the Funds of the Peterborough Fire Brigade in Recognition of Services on Occasion of Recent Fire

The Peterborough Fire Brigade was yesterday made the reception of a donation of ten dollars from the I.O.O.F. Trust Board, in recognition of the splendid services of the brigade on the occasion of the fire in the rooms of the Order some months ago, which but for the effective work of the brigade working under serious handicaps would have resulted seriously.

In acknowledging this gift the brigade sends the following communication to the Examiner:—

"Kindly allow the members of the Peterborough Fire Brigade to express through your columns their appreciation of and thanks to the Board of the I.O.O.F., for a donation of ten dollars towards the funds of the brigade, for services rendered on the occasion of the recent fire in the rooms of the lodges here.

"In doing our duty we did not look for reward, and in view of this fact the kindly action of the Board is all the more highly appreciated."

CHIEF RUTHERFORD,
J. R. METHERAL,
Assistant Chief.
A. GIBBS, Secretary.
On behalf of the Brigade.

THE STEAM HEATING COMPANY GETS FRANCHISE

Brantford City Council Decides to Give Franchise to Private Company for Term of Twenty-five Years for Central Steam Heating

SOME CONDITIONS OF THE AGREEMENT

Examiner Special

Brantford, Dec. 19.—A private company, forming here for the purpose of conducting a business of central steam heating, was given a 25 years franchise at the last meeting of the city council. The company is given the right to use the city's streets for conduits, and must be in operation inside of two years. A clause of the agreement provides that at the end of five years or at at the end of any five years thereafter the city may take over the power and lighting system, rights to engage in which are given in the franchise, on an agreed price by arbitration, but the city cannot touch the heating plant of the company.

The company, if it enters the power line, agrees to give the city power for street lighting at 1-2 cent per h.p. per hour and power for water works at a like rate to amount of 100 h.p. at any one time, if the city so desires.

NEW BRANCH TO THE POPULAR RESTAURANT

Mr. W. J. McCallum Secures New Chef and Adds Cooked Meat Branch to His Business

Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of the well-known restaurant, has added a new branch to his business, and in future anyone who so desires, can secure a nicely dressed and well roasted chicken, duck or turkey, all ready for the table. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jenvery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price. eod

ALL SICK WOMEN

SHOULD READ MISS SCHWALM'S LETTER

In All Parts of Canada Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Has Effected Similar Cures.

Many wonderful cures of female ills are continually coming to light which have been brought about by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and through the advice of Mrs. Pinkham, of Lynn, Mass., which is given to sick women absolutely free of charge.

Miss A. E. Schwalm

The present Mrs. Pinkham has for twenty-five years made a study of the ills of her sex; she has consulted with and advised thousands of suffering women, who to-day owe not only their health but even life to her helpful advice.

Miss Annie E. Schwalm, of 326 Spadina Ave., Toronto, Ont., writes:

Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—

"I have found Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a specific for female weakness with which I have been troubled for years. I also had irregular and painful periods which affected my general health until last spring. I was only a wreck of my former self. In my affliction I was advised to use your Compound, and am so glad that I did so. I found that in a few short months there was no trace of female weakness, my strength gradually returned, and in a very short time I considered myself a perfectly well woman. I appreciate my good health, and beg to assure you that I am most grateful to you for discovering such a wonderful remedy for suffering woman."

The testimonials which we are constantly publishing from grateful women establish beyond a doubt the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to conquer female diseases.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to promptly communicate with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. She asks nothing in return for her advice. It is absolutely free, and to thousands of women has proved to be more precious than gold.

Chronicles of Don Q.

BY K. AND HESKETH PRITCHARD.

(Copyright by Pearson Publishing Company.)

HOW M. BLUFORT PAINTED FOR HIS RIGHT HAND.

For a considerable time Don Q. was occupied in dividing McCorkadale's unwilling charities among the various institutions founded for the help of the very poor.

While yet he busied himself with these matters, Don Q. had the good fortune to secure an English prisoner, a tall spare man, who drifted up into the Boca de Lobo, or rather was carried there by the current of events that in the sierra sucked most travelers into the vortex of the brigand's power.

On an evening some few weeks later, Don Q. had risen from the table, set out on the terrace, to fetch from his secret cellar another bottle of his choicest vintage, which gave proof enough that the captive of the moment, seated opposite to him, was one who held a high place in his good graces.

Don Q. counted himself lucky in the acquisition of a prisoner of the type of Sir Graham; he loved to talk with him, and so keep in touch more or less with the world he had abjured. For Sir Graham was a Briton of the adaptable sort, a lord of many acres, a very genial gentleman behind a surface of reserve, and between him and his captor had sprung up one of those queer likings which the bandit possessed the quality of inspiring.

It was to this fact that Sir Graham owed the reasonable figure at which his ransom had been set, and while he waited for its arrival he found the brigand very good company. "A rare man," he said of him afterward, "when amiable, an A1 companion; when not, better absent."

Don Q. returned with the bottle that he had carefully opened and, seating himself at the table, resumed the conversation at the point where he had left it.

"I am aware it is said that the Pyrennean ibex are finer beasts than those to be found in our mountains. But this is a mistake. Your itinerant sportsman," he bowed with a courteous smile to his guest, "spends a month or two after his quarry, he goes where the cazadores take him, he finds only what he is meant to find, he sees but what it is arranged he shall see. You have not yet shot in the mountains of Castile, but wherever you go, you will never bring down a finer head than that of yesterday, with its 32-inch horns.

An extreme sentiment has always the effect of embarrassing one of Sir Graham's race. He turned the subject rather awkwardly.

"By the way, I had amongst my luggage when I came up here, some magazines and some odd monthly parts of the World's Best Pictures. One of them contains a rather striking reproduction of a painting of ibex in the sierra. I think it might interest you."

Don Q. held up his hand.

"Pray be seated. Your books shall be brought to you."

He hissed sharply, and a man ran up from the valley in answer.

For some weeks these publications had lain unopened in the cave of Don Q. and the Englishman noticed with some surprise the eagerness with which the brigand now turned the pages, and also the acumen and point of the remarks he made. But it was clear that the portraits interested him the most.

Sir Graham sipped his wine meditatively.

"May I venture to suggest that no artist of—at any rate sufficiently high reputation, has up to the present had an opportunity of studying you," he answered with gravity.

"True," said the chief, "the fault is after all my own," and he returned to his examination of the pictures. "My attention," he added presently, "has been arrested by these two portraits, both of which are signed by Aleibiade Blufort. Both are excellent pieces of work."

Sir Graham bent over to look at them.

"Well, I suppose Blufort's name is second to none in Europe as a portrait painter," he remarked.

"Indeed? That is very interesting. Don Q. paused. "Senor, do you think this French artist, Blufort, would paint my portrait?"

It was the Englishman's turn to be staggered.

"Yes, senor," the chief repeated with firmness, "my portrait. It will be no small honor even to Senor Blufort to place upon canvas the features of him, who, after Napoleon, is the greatest brigand the world has ever known."

Sir Graham bowed from his side of the table with cordiality.

"Unquestionably," he said.

"Posterity," resumed the chief, "will value it, for posterity will apprise me at my true worth. I grieve at times, senor, when I reflect how very false an idea of me may go down to future generations. But my autobiography, which I have carefully written, will give them the real facts of my career, and tell them of one or two of my exploits, which—if I am not mistaken—will live. I have noticed that biographies of great men are always prefaced by a portrait, reproduced from the work of some great artist. Mine must not be an exception. Besides," continued Don Q., becoming almost genial, "I will admit that I should not be adverse to my portrait being bought by the English nation, among whom I may say I have many friends."

"By jove, yes!" agreed Sir Graham, looking across at the strange face and figure of the chief, "by jove, yes! It is a real loss to the world that no adequate representation of you can ever be given to the thousands who have heard of and wondered at your famous career."

"But why should not a great portrait of me reach the world that wonders at me?" demanded Don Q. sharply. "Do you not think it possible that Senor Blufort can be persuaded to pay me a visit in the sierra to place upon his immortal canvas the likeness of one whose name, I can, without being misunderstood by you, declare to be worthy because equally immortal?"

Seeing that the chief waited for his answer, Sir Graham replied diplomatically—

"I imagine he would think twice before coming."

"The fee need be no obstacle," urged Don Q. "I believe that artists vied with each other for the honor of portraying Napoleon."

"Still—your reputation," hesitated the Englishman.

"I have certainly been much maligned," admitted the chief. "There are many narrow-minded people in the plains. But genius, senor, genius such as this Frenchman's, would not—in my opinion—be deterred by foolish gossip from seizing upon the chance of securing so unparalleled a subject for his art to expend itself upon."

"Very likely you are right," said the other.

"Besides, Senor Blufort happens at this moment to be at Malaga. He is studying details of Spanish life for his next great picture. I shall invite him to visit me. He will not refuse, I feel sure."

This was growing serious, for Sir Graham could not imagine how a true likeness of the brigand could by any possibility please that fastidious, but high-tempered personage. And if it did not please him, what would happen to M. Blufort?

"There is a Mme. Blufort, who might perhaps feel some natural anxiety—" he began.

"The whims of women have never influenced me, senor, I assure you," replied Don Q. "I have made up my mind that Senor Blufort shall paint me. Can you tell me what the British nation paid him for this picture of Don Tommy?"

"Two thousand guineas, I believe," said Sir Graham, naming a big sum at a venture.

"Good. I shall offer him 3000. I will write at once and perhaps you, senor, will be good enough to add a postscript to say what you think of my hospitality?"

Sir Graham hesitated once more. Then he spoke firmly.

"You know how grateful I am for all the kindness you have shown me," he said. "Your hospitality leaves nothing to be desired. I do not know when I have enjoyed myself so much. But if I were to write as you wish, I should in a manner be pledging myself that you would send Blufort back to his wife safe and sound. If you can give me your word as to that, I shall be delighted to add to you note."

A frown crossed the pallid forehead of the chief, but faded again.

"True," he said, "you have reason. For I can by no means warrant this gentleman's safe return to the plains. Suppose I do not like the character of his work? Suppose I am not pleased? What then?"

"Precisely, what then?" echoed Sir Graham dryly.

"Ah, as to that," Don Q. shrugged his pointed shoulders, "who can say?" He bowed over his glass of black coffee. "I perceive your difficulty, senor. I will with your permission, however, send my invitation at once."

"You can but ask him," responded Sir Graham, relieved.

Don Q. turned abruptly.

"Do you mean he would be so unwise as to refuse?"

"Not if he knew you."

"I trust senor, for his own sake, he will not dream of doing so."

The upshot of this conversation was that Don Q. wrote a charming letter to the great French portrait painter. He praised his work, praised it in such words as to show that he was something of a connoisseur. He went on to say that a great artist needed a great subject. He instanced portraits of Napoleon and others. He pointed out that Monsieur Blufort's chance had come out to meet him, and he rejoiced that he, Don Q., should be the individual to afford to supreme genius a supreme opportunity. He ended with polite assurances of hospitality and the pleasure with which he looked forward to making the acquaintance of the painter.

Days went by during which Don Q. always spoke of the coming of Blufort as certain. Sir Graham was lucky in that the chief liked him, and he has since said he seldom enjoyed any period of his life more than that he spent in the sierra while awaiting the arrival of his ransom. For Don Q. sent him ibex shooting under parole and with Robledo, whose knowledge of the haunts and the habits of the wild cabra montes was exhaustive. These expeditions resulted in half-a-dozen good and one remarkable head.

It was at the end of such a day's sport that Sir Graham returned to find the demeanor of Don Q. unaccountably altered. He was no longer the courteous and charming companion, the perfect host.

All that was changed. Don Q. sat silent, brooding, with a vicious gleam in his eyes if he raised them; he was in fact plunged in one of those black fits of depression to which his followers had grown accustomed. His prisoner, being a man of the world, wisely accepted the position and held his tongue also. For the black fit of Don Q. always closed his lips, and he often at such times remained ten days without speaking. If he spoke some one suffered.

For three days the Englishman, living the round with which he had become familiar, entered the cave to find the brigand always crouched over his fire, always in the same position, staring into the flames with the same fierce vacant eyes and bitter compressed lips.

There was nothing for it but to wait for the dark ice of the mood to break up. And Sir Graham was almost startled as he sat reading opposite the brooding figure on the night of the third day, when Don Q. broke his 60-hours' silence.

"Don Graham, I am about to ask your advice," he said sullenly.

The other murmured his gratification.

"I have received a letter from M. Blufort."

The Englishman nodded.

"You will remember that I wrote to him a very courteous invitation, offering him the honor of painting my portrait."

"I remember perfectly."

"You told me he was a gentleman," went on the chief accusingly.

"I believe he is considered to be one."

"His reply," said Don Q. with a sibilant inflection in his voice that his companion had never noticed before, "would lead me to a directly contrary conclusion."

"He has offended you."

"Deeply, I may say, mortally! Listen! He declines my invitation and adds that he has heard they take excellent photographs in the prisons of Spain!"

The malignant fury of the words, Sir Graham has since declared, almost cowed him. He answered something he does not know what.

"Is it possible," said Don Q., at last in a more even tone, "that he has never heard of me before coming to Spain—or has some garbled account of my career reached him from persons in power?"

The Englishman agreed that something of the kind was likely.

"It is his misfortune," said Don Q.

"That he cannot paint your portrait?"

"Not at all. That he did not take my offer to paint it on his own terms," amended the chief.

"What do you mean?"

"That he must now do so on mine."

"But he is in Malaga—how can you?"

"My friend, there are no 'buts' in such a career as mine," Don Q. assured him.

* * * * * *

On a glorious morning Monsieur and Madame Blufort started to spend the day near the ruined tower of Camala. Monsieur intended to make some sketches, and madame had ordered a couple of his favorite dishes for the dejeuner they carried with them. Monsieur had forgotten his grievance against the sequestrador, and was feeding in the solemn silence of an habitually ill-tempered man.

All of a sudden he was aware of a handsome fellow in a costume, the picturesqueness of which almost hid its rags, who was repeating some fierce sentence in the rough dialect of the hills.

The artist raised his face from the plate to reply, when he perceived a couple of the same type behind madame. His next sensation was of two huge, hairy hands under his elbows lifting him to his feet. He turned resentfully, but the unshaven black-muzzled face that snarled back at him drove the words from his lips. The first speaker, who, in fact, was no other than Robledo, spoke again more slowly.

"My lord places himself at the feet of the senor, and desires his presence in the sierra."

"Who is your lord?" demanded Blufort arrogantly.

"He is known as Don Q. Surely the senor has heard of him? He has sent a mule for the senor to ride."

"I have written to your master that I cannot come," replied Blufort, wriggling in Gaspar's big hands. "And you can go and tell him I will not come!"

Robledo uttered some rapid words to his comrades. "Our lord said we were to be gentle unless he refused. We have been very gentle," he said regretfully, "and he has refused. Therefore. Gaspar, give him your knee in the small of his fat back while I entangle his legs. So—"

Before the prolonged syllable ceased Blufort was bound and being carried away. Madame had just regained her breath and was preparing to scream when the handsome robber approached her.

"Senora," he said, doffing his hat, "my lord bade me tell you that if you raise an alarm in Malaga and set your consul and the guardias civiles to look for the senor you will never again behold him. But if you wait bravely and patiently he may, perhaps, be returned to you in due time." He turned away.

The wonderful day was waning by the time Blufort and his captors traversed the lower ravines of the sierra.

Every now and then he would break into speech; he warned his captors that his government would make them and their master pay dearly for his detention, aye, and more, for an angry world would arise to wipe such insects out of existence. These and many other threats he held over them. Later on he offered bribes and pardon to the six trudging figures, he implored them to think of his wife's agony, he was ready to make any promise if they would but turn and convey him safely back to Malaga.

But the men made no reply save to whip up the mule to a faster progress. Every a sense of helplessness, and me to accompany that gentleman to the plains."

Don Q. spread out his palms.

"I am desolated to refuse," he said urbanely!"

"Refuse? You cannot—you dare not refuse!"

"And why not, may I inquire?"

"Because my government, France herself—"

"Ah, now we come to business," interrupted the chief with a slight gesture. "No doubt they prize you. Tell me, senor, how much do you suppose France will pay to regain you?"

"But—" Blufort began with some bluster.

The brigand held up his thin hand.

"There are no 'buts.' If France will regain you, she must give me my price. It is not a large one, considering it represents your value," said Don Q. "Five thousand guineas in English money. Sir Graham has taught me the beauty of English guineas. If I should fail to return you, I will not accept the ransom."

"Fail to return me—?" cried the horrified painter. "What, then, is your purpose?"

"Hear me, senor," Don Q. took his place in the lounge chair. "I wrote you a letter in which I made you a certain offer. I asked you to paint my portrait on your own terms. Your reply was an insult."

"I—I was annoyed," stammered the other, as the chief waited for an answer.

"I grieve to acknowledge that I was inclined to be annoyed also," said Don Q. "But, naturally, nothing could alter my decision. You are here now to paint my portrait on my terms. Do you desire to hear them?"

"They do not affect me," said Blufort sullenly.

"You are rash in saying that. For you will remain in the sierra until your task is finished."

"I shall be rescued. I have no fear."

"Senor, you are very afraid, indeed," responded Don Q. with a chilly laugh. "And rightly so. People will tell you I have dwelt here in my eyrie from time immemorial: that is a legend; and never yet has a prisoner been taken from my hands; that is an historic truth. With all the intelligence, all the art, all the genius at your command, you are about to paint me, Don Q., the sequestrador of the sierra. I have been told that four weeks have sufficed for the production of some of your finest creations. May I ask if this is so?"

"It is sufficient."

"Then you shall have four weeks in which to place my presentment on your canvas."

"I have with me nothing but my little traveling paint box," objected Blufort.

"Pardon, I should not dream of asking you to transcend all your former efforts, could I not offer you the choice materials to which you are accustomed. Everything has been brought here from your hotel at Malaga."

"I am sure I am much indebted to you," Blufort was angry, baffled. "You appear to be thoroughly proficient in your—calling."

"But naturally, since I am at the head of my profession." The chief paused before continuing—"There are heights to which you have not yet climbed in yours."

"I have painted the most notable persons of the day."

"Permit me to remind you that you have not yet painted me!" said the bandit and then after a pause went on—"Once I should have paid you a handsome fee for your efforts in my behalf, now, we must reverse the process, alas! At the close of the four weeks, on the 28th day if I do not find your picture to my liking, do you know what will happen?"

"You will order me to repaint it."

"Not at all."

"What then?"

"I shall cut off your right hand," said the chief.

The Frenchman turned color, his heart sank in horror. There was a light in the fierce flickering eyes, a tone in the sibilant voice that convinced him the brigand was most absolutely in earnest.

After this conversation Don Q. withdrew into the cave, and, a few minutes later men came lumbering up the steep path burdened with easels, canvases, and all the other paraphernalia belonging to Blufort.

He sat among them, sick at heart, dumfounded, resentful. "They do not tell us the half about this terrible man," he reflected. "He is the most remorseless creature in the peninsula!"

But Don Q.'s purposes never lingered haggfooted. After the midday meal, of which he partook in the company of the artist, the chief intimated that he was ready to give Blufort his first sitting.

* * * * * * *

As the days passed and Blufort found his work advancing, his hopes rose. He was a consummate master of his art, that he knew. The idea of failure, always remote, ceased to enter into his calculations. He determined to paint such a picture of the brigand as would bring tears of gratitude to the eyes of the original. He would elevate the harshness, soften away that dreadful resemblance to the quebranta-huesos, the bone-breaking vulture.

"Yes," thought Blufort. "I will paint him as he conceives himself to be!"

He begged Don Q. to be good enough not to look at the portrait until it was completed.

"No, senor, you may rely upon my word that I shall not look upon your work until it is finished," the brigand replied. "Then I will accord to it the praise or blame it deserves."

Blufort, apparently much taken up with his brush, made no reply.

"It is pleasant," Don Q. went on, "when one has lived so exceptional a life as mine, to imagine unborn generations pausing in front of my portrait and discussing some one or other of the exploits which have given me my reputation."

Finally Blufort turning to Don Q. said:

"Will you look upon my work, senor?"

The portrait is at last perfect!" And he said it with a glow of warm assurance as to its effect on the original.

"With pleasure, senor!" Don Q. rose from his seat and advanced to the easel.

After a long inspection the chief turned slowly to his companion.

"This is terribly sad," he said in a gentle, regretful voice, but with a marked sibilance of intonation, "terribly sad! And just as I was beginning to have something of a liking for you, senor."

Bulfort started back.

"Do you mean to say—" he stammered and stopped, breathless, for there was a significance in the look fixed upon him.

"Senor," resumed the chief, "you are a very great artist? Your reputation is wide as the world?"

Bluford bowed with a beating heart.

"Yet even craftsmen as skilful as yourself have their occasional failures."

"Assuredly. But this is not one," said the Frenchman huskily and with an effort.

"Bring a looking-glass," commanded the chief.

A man hurriedly fetched one. The brigand pushed him into position beside the picture and placed himself so that his reflection in the mirror appeared close beside Blufort's presentment of him.

"Look!" he said briefly.

And truly the portrait was a wonderful piece of work. By his consummate art Blufort had, while preserving the likeness, transmuted the cruel vulture aspect into that of an ascetic. The soul that gazed out at you from the pictured eyes was a soul high, pure, intense, but not the soul of Don Q. The disparity between the mirrored face and the pictured one was flagrant.

The artist looked and turned away, shivering.

"Have you anything to say, senor?" demanded Don Q. "If I had a brother at the Vatican—this might be he! But I am not a pope. I am not the head of Christendom but of sequestradores. What have you to say?"

Blufort stood silent though mentally he called himself a thrice-condemned fool.

"I told you that if you failed to please me in the matter," went on the chief, with the same menacing urbanity, "you should lose your hand. But then I never expected this!" he pointed at the picture.

Blufort looked at him. Always two natures were struggling for mastery in the heart of Don Q. At that moment if ever the darker of the two held the upper hand.

"No?" questioned the painter feebly.

"No! I had allowed for the possibility of failure, for which I set the forfeit of your right hand. But I had not conceived the possibility of an insult."

"I have done all that could be done with a subject such as yourself!" exclaimed the artist in desperation.

"Pardon, senor. With even so unpromising a subject as myself, your brush could have been free."

"But you will release me?"

"Yes, you shall indeed be released. My men will bury you at sunset. For the present I will leave you alone with your picture in order that you may realise the full enormity of your offence."

Blufort sat for a long time absolutely stunned. When next he looked round with understanding the sun stood high in the zenith.

"And so I have painted!" he cried to himself, shaking his hand up at the sky, "painted consummately, as not another in this generation could paint!" he sprang forward and stood before the picture.

He stared at the pictured face, high-souled, ascetic, noble. The look, the expression maddened him. This man, this Don Q., had cheated him! He was to die, he, the great Blufort, alone and horribly among these desolate mountains.

He clasped his head in his arms and panted for revenge. But he was helpless—helpless! Then an idea struck him. He was condemned to die. Even these demons could do no more, could do no worse with him. He groped with hurried fingers for his palette and brushes. Yes, yes, Don Q. should learn that Blufort, the prisoner, the dying man could still sting! Swiftly he set to work upon the portrait again.

Under the artist's touch the face upon the easel quickly changed, all the flattery went out of it, and in its stead there grew out minute by minute Don Q. in his blackest mood, with the vulture physiognomy, the bitter, sneering jaw, a face hardly of this human world as Blufort's heart told him.

At length it was done, Blufort flung down his brushes and waited. He laughed shrilly. He threw himself into a chair.

When at last the footfall of the brigand sounded upon the inner flooring of the cave, Blufort felt his first pang of repentance. Perhaps what he had been doing would add to the rigors of his death. It was too late to think of that now, for Don Q. advanced slowly from the mouth of the cavern and his glance turned at once to the picture.

Blufort watched him furtively, till Don Q. with flashing eyes swung round upon him.

"What—what have you done, senor?" he cried.

Blufort scowled. "You did not like the ideal, I have given you the real!" he snarled. "Yes, senor, that is you—you—you! Kill me now as soon as you like."

"Kill?" repeated Don Q. with a strange modulation in his voice. "Kill a man who can paint such a picture as that, so true, so forceful? Destroy art without a parallel such as yours? Impossible!"

"Do not torment me!"

"I tell you I feel myself looking out at myself from those eyes, my spirit lies breathing upon those lips," the chief said with his strange enthusiasm. "The fire from the altar before the gods has come down upon you. Here is genius. Live, senor; I could not be guilty of depriving the world of you. Come, we will dine and drink to the health of such an artist!"

"And afterward?" asked Blufort, bewildered by the turn of events.

"Afterwards my men shall escort you in safety to the foothills."

"And the picture—"

"As to the picture it is worthy of its subject. I need say no more in its praise, senor. I shall never sit to another painter!"

Roast Beef of Old England secured its fame through being roasted on an old-fashioned spit before an open fireplace, the meat being constantly surrounded by pure oxygen while cooking.

This supply of oxygen is essential to give the cooked meat its natural, rich, juicy flavor. The oven of the is so constructed that a flow of pure, heated oxygen passes through it continually when the Range is in operation.

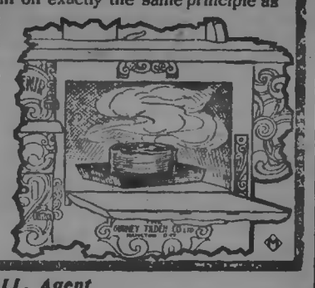
Meats are roasted therein on exactly the same principle as the old-time spit without the constant watching and worry.

The Aerated Oven of the Souvenir can be secured on no other range.



Every Souvenir is absolutely guaranteed by the makers.

SARTORIAL HINTS.

Corduroy a Popular Material—Metallic Effects in Trimming.

Corduroys are coming to the front after having been crowded behind so many other materials for so long a time. Some stunning French suits are made of it—the kind with a wide wale—and are trimmed with a lot of little straps of velvet fastened down with buttons. One brown suit was extremely pretty made without a particle of trimming except these little straps and the buttons.

A glint of gold is seen in most of the new trimmings, though the metallic effect of certain seasons is not observable.

Striped tweeds make serviceable wraps of the ulster variety for high school girls. Very smart is an imported coat designed for a girl of sixteen cut in plain box lines and full length. The back is perfectly plain and in front begins a stole effect at the neck which gradually widens, rounding off just below the waist line until it reaches the underarm seam, where the edges are taken in with the back. Stitching decorates the stole. The sleeves are a medium mandolin shape, with a bias strapping down the upper part of the sleeves, or, rather, two strappings arranged close together and in this way forming points with the stripe. An up to date hood displays itself over the shoulders, and a rolled collar of the goods completes this stylish coat.

CORAL CLOTH GOWN.

The picture shows a smart frock of coral cloth severely plain in cut, but chic in the extreme. Both skirt and bodice display the directoire touch in the circular flounces.

JUDIC CHOLLET.

VANITY'S VISIONS.

Startling and Sensational Are Some of the Season's Hats.

Between the immense lamballe hat and the tiny morning toque a veritable chromatic scale of style and colors has been introduced, nothing being considered too startling or sensational to meet the occasion.

Irish lace blouses will continue in favor for wear with handsome suits.

The new linen collar and cuff sets are anything but mannish. They indicate more than anything else woman's return to the frills and furbelows attributed to her sex.

The cut of the blouse is the essential point in its makeup. No matter how pretty the material is or how gracefully trimmed, it must be well cut to pass the critical eye of Mme. Mode.

Gray velvet passion flowers with bright orange fruit and foliage made a rather startling combination that wreathed the base of the crown of a large picture gray beaver hat. Another sensational combination was seen in a bronze silk hat closely tucked, decorated with two long shaded bronze and orange plumes and a knot of velvet in addition to a mass of tulle that covered the bandeau.

BRONZE GREEN GOWN.

A blue corduroy suit has a waistcoat of tan suede, with a rather long skirted jacket of the corduroy.

The gown illustrated is of bronze green serge.

IN A GERMAN HOSPITAL.

Where the Christmas Angel Visits Suffering Children.

In one of the German hospitals of our country is observed a custom quite in accordance with the beautiful sentiment the Germans weave about Christmas.

Christmas belongs to the children—everybody knows that—but it belongs to them in a deeper, more beautiful sense than "everybody" knows. One is reminded of it, however, if he witnesses such a scene as is portrayed in this hospital on Christmas eve. One of the nurses dresses in a long, soft flowing robe of white, bearing in her hand a fir bough covered with snow. The snow is cotton sprinkled with diamond dust. This is the Christmas angel.

The children are told of the gentle visitor and wait in their little cots. When darkness is outside they hear the strains of sweet music in the distance. The nurses are singing Christmas carols, and the sounds come through open doors. Then the Christmas angel comes. She goes to each little cot, bending over each little form to listen to the whispered secrets. Each one tells her what he wants on Christmas day. Then, with a tender word, she passes out, and to the sound of the carols they all fall asleep—those who can slip away from pain.

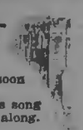
When the day dawns all the children are taken into the kindergarten. Some are carried, some are rolled, and some can walk. Sure enough, each finds there what he asks for—drums and dolls and trumpets and books. On a long, low table is a plate for each one, filled with candies and queer little German cakes. On one wall is a tableau of the Nativity made of small wax figures, and a painting on the wall completes the perspective of hills and shepherds and the guiding star. Hanging from the wall in the center of the ward is a large hoop covered with laurel. At intervals around it are set lighted candles. It is suspended from the ceiling by four wide ribbons.

In the fever ward, where the contagious diseases are cared for, the little patients of course cannot leave, but they have their Christmas too. Two large, fine spruce trees stand in each end of the ward, brilliantly illuminated by tiny, many colored electric lights.—Philadelphia North American.

A Strangely Wrought Reunion.

A joyful Christmas celebration in the home of Adolph Gebhardt of Lincoln, Neb., over the return of a long lost brother was brought about through the medium of a moving picture exhibition. Adolph was watching the entertainment one night when he was struck by the strange familiarity of one of the figures. He returned a second and a third night before he was able to recognize the features, and then he startled the spectators by shouting, "It is George; it is George!" It was learned that George was an actor in a New York theater. Telegrams passed, and George arrived in Lincoln on Christmas day. They had not seen each other for nearly ten years.

The Fast Flier.



Time a-flyin' on so fast
O'er the frosty ways;
Christmas comin' all too soon
These here later days!
Scarcely end one Christmas song
'Fore the next one comes along.

Yet, what matter? Let 'em come!
Speed you down Time's river!
Welcome Christmas horn an' drum!
We'll be boys forever!
Time is flyin' on so fast,
Maybe we'll get wings at last!
—Atlanta Constitution.

No Sleep For The Kidneys.

Old people are especially liable to Kidney and Bladder Irritation. The organs are weakened by age. This starts up inflammation—blood is not properly purified as it goes to the kidneys—and the bladder is unable to retain the urine properly. There is a constant desire to urinate day and night—and sound, restful sleep is unknown.

Especially For Women

FRUIT-A-TIVES are the finest medicine in the world for women.

As a mild and gentle laxative—as a positive and speedy cure for Constipation and Biliousness—as the only cure for weak and irritated kidneys and especially for "that pain in the back"—as a positive cure for headaches—and as a general tonic to build up and invigorate the whole system — FRUIT-A-TIVES stand supreme.

In cases of irritated Ovaries, Ovarian Pains, Vaginal Catarrh, Excessive and Scanty Menstruation, Ulcerations, Bearing Down Pains—and all those troubles peculiar to women—

Fruit-a-tives

OR "FRUIT LIVER TABLETS"

have the most remarkable effect.

Ninety-nine cases out of a hundred of Female Troubles are due to neglect. Bowels become constipated — kidneys irregular — skin neglected — and the poisons of the body, which should be carried off by these important organs, are taken up by the blood carried to the female organs and poison them, thus starting up a train of female troubles.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are made from fruits and by their remarkable action on bowels, kidneys and skin, rid the system of poisons, purify the blood, and restore the delicate organs of generation to new vigor and health.

No woman, who suffers, should ever be without them. 50c. a box—6 for $2.50, at your druggist's or sent postpaid by FRUIT-A-TIVES LIMITED - OTTAWA.

AN INSANE WOMAN'S AWFUL ACT

Cuts the Throats of Her Two Children in the Snow.

THEN SHE SLASHES HER OWN

All of Them Are Dead From Knife Wounds Inflicted by a Crazed Mother, Who Was Victim of Hereditary Insanity—Husband Is an Engineer With Copper Cliff Mining Co.—Inquest at Sudbury.

Sudbury, Dec. 19.—A tragedy has been enacted at Whitefish, a little railway village on the Soo branch of the C. P. R., 18 miles west of here.

An Englishwoman, whose husband is an engineer with the Copper Cliff Mining Co., suddenly became demented. While in this condition during last Thursday night, she took her two children, aged 3 and 8, respectively, from their bed, and, carrying them outside the house, laid them in the deep snow and cut their throats with a knife. She then used the weapon upon her own throat.

Neighbors the following morning were shocked to find the three bodies lying in the snow. The mother and the youngest child were dead, but there was still life in the elder child. Doctors were summoned, but this child also died within three hours after being found. In addition to the fearful gash, its limbs were badly frozen, the night having been desperately cold, the thermometer registering 15 below zero.

Dr. Strothers, coroner, and Police Magistrate Brodie of Sudbury were immediately informed of the tragedy, and an inquest was opened. The husband of the woman stated that his wife's mother, who still resides in the old country, had been in the habit of frequently becoming temporarily insane. This leads to the conclusion that the insanity of her daughter was hereditary.

True Bill For Child Murder.

Brampton, Dec. 19.—The assizes opened this afternoon, Sir William Mulock presiding. The grand jury found a true bill in Rex v. Mrs. Alice Casey for child murder. She is charged with having left an infant to die in a shed at Port Credit last winter. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The trial goes on to-day.

Ends Life In Stable.

Weston, Dec. 19.—Adam E. Shuntz of Downsview, who drove a milk wagon for Alf. Gaulding, committed suicide during Monday night. He drove into the city as usual Monday morning with the supply for a dairy and left his horses there. Search was made Monday night, but it was not until yesterday morning his body was found in the stable of A. Barnard, his father-in-law, across the road from his own home. He had swallowed carbolic acid. He was about 30 years of age, and leaves a widow. Coroner Charlton considered an inquest unnecessary.

RUSS-JAP NEGOTIATIONS.

In Matter of Fishing Privileges On the Siberian Coast.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The Russo-Japanese negotiations, the status of which last week were highly unsatisfactory, have entered upon a favorable stage, and a rupture is no longer anticipated.

The Russians realize that a failure of the negotiations would open the door for Japanese fishermen to raid the Siberian fishing grounds at will, and as the littoral is most sparsely settled and only a few vessels are available for patrolling it, this is the strongest argument in favor of Russia granting concessions.

Czar Approves.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—Emperor Nicholas has approved the bill of the Council of Ministers, removing the disabilities of Jews.

Rome, Dec. 19.—The death was announced yesterday of Mgr. Adami, one of the most wealthy Roman prelates. Mgr. Adami made valuable presents to Pope Leo XIII. and Pius X.; his gift to the latter a gold cross set with brilliants, and by his will he left $1,000,000 to the Pope.

MILDER WEATHER GIVES RELIEF

And Earlier Relief Looked For in Brandon's Fuel Famine.

SERIOUS AT HARTNEY, MAN.

Not a Pound of Wood or Coal In That Town For Sale, and Many People Are Actually Suffering For Want of Fuel—Spectre of Serious Coal Famine Looms Up in Winnipeg Before Winter is Over.

Winnipeg, Dec. 19.—The latest phase of the fuel situation is that Winnipeg is likely to be up against a serious coal famine before the present season is over.

Cut off from its regular source of supply, the western mines, by strikes, the west has been making inroads on the Manitoba and particularly on the Winnipeg coal supply. The stocks at Fort William have already been considerably depleted by these inroads until at present there is less coal there than at this time last year, with a far greater demand than at any time. Local dealers have already made heavy shipment to Brandon and other western points, and in their opinion the situation is now assuming most serious proportions.

Worst Over at Brandon.

At Brandon, judging from present prospects and indications, the worst of fuel famine is about over, and everyone is looking forward to an earlier relief. The weather has turned milder.

At Hartney, Man., the fuel situation is very serious, many people actually suffering for want of fuel. There is not a pound of coal or wood in the town for sale. One car of coal came in Monday, and forty teams were fighting to each get a little. People in town are running with bags to get a little. Several farmers in the country are burning barley for fuel. Four rooms in the school are closed, and some of the business places are running without a fire.

Burning Fences to Keep Warm.

Minneapolis, Dec. 19.—The second day of the Interstate Commerce Commission enquiry into Northwest transportation conditions brought out facts of first importance relative to the effects upon the country of the grain blockade.

Telegrams began to pour in as a result of Monday's enquiry into the coal shortage, and when reports were in from over 20 towns, it was clear that the commission had acted none too quickly in securing the promise of co-operation on the part of the coal companies and the railroads in relieving distress, for in some localities farmers have been burning their fences and outbuildings, and in other towns piles of valuable lumber were cut up into fuel to keep people from freezing.

J. J. Hill will appear before the commission to-day.

Wages Still Going Up.

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 19.—Notice of increases in the wages of 6,000 employes of the Pacific mills, and the 1,200 employes of the Everett mills were posted yesterday. The amount is expected to be about 7 1-2 per cent.

Biddeford, Me., Dec. 19.—The Pepperell Manufacturing Co. yesterday announced an advance in wages of about 56 cents. About 3,000 are employed in the mills.

Dover, N.H., Dec. 19.—Notices of a 5 per cent. increase in wages were posted yesterday at the cotton mills of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. in this city. The increase will affect about 2,200 hands.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 19.—The United States Steel Corporation announced yesterday that the wages of its 3,000 employes in the Joliet mills will be increased Jan 1. Common laborers will receive ten cents a day additional, and the other grades will be benefited proportionately.

Corporations Up Against It.

Toledo, Dec. 19.—The United States grand jury yesterday reported indictments on 155 counts against the Toledo Ice & Coal Co., for giving and accepting rebates on ice shipments. The Ann Arbor Railway was also indicted in a similar number of counts by granting rebates.

The maximum penalty is $20,000 fine on each count.

Six indictments were returned against the Great Lakes Dock & Dredging Co., for violation of the Federal eight-hour law.

Tremendous Muzzle Velocity.

Quebec, Dec. 19.—The experiments carried on last summer by Sir Charles Ross with special high velocity cartridges, have resulted in the production of a cartridge giving the tremendous muzzle velocity of 3,000 feet per second. The Ross rifle has commenced the manufacture of sporting rifles to use these cartridges.

25,000 Emigrants Detained.

Rome, Dec. 19.—The general strike of seamen is causing considerable anxiety. At Genoa 25,000 emigrants are prevented from leaving for their destinations because of the strike. The Government has ordered warships kept in readiness for postal service between the peninsula and the islands.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—The city authorities have made a general increase in salaries of all municipal officers for the coming year. Every employe from the assistant city clerk down to the day laborers is included. It is expected that the City Council will ratify the increases. The larger revenue enables the city to pay better wages.

Coal Lands Cornered.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark yesterday, before the House committee on public lands, reiterated his charges that great corporations, in league with railroads, have "cornered" coal lands and forced the prices up to an unreasonable high point.

SAFE AND SANE

In these days of inflated capitalization and wild optimism, it is worth any investor's while to study the sane business proposition which Western Oil and Coal Consolidated OFFERS to investors. One of the best opportunities for making large profits on a small investment that has come before you for a long time. The Company owns the only known oil lands in British Columbia that are on a railway. They own two wells that experts say will produce, at least, 100 barrels of oil per day. They have let a contract for drilling five more wells that are likely to be even more productive. They own 26,240 acres of oil and coal lands in Alberta and British Columbia; and there is little doubt but that within a year they will have, at least, a production of 500 barrels of oil per day on that land. Under their Charter, which is a very valuable one, being a special Act obtained from the Legislature of Alberta, they have the right to build pipe lines anywhere, and to construct tramways to carry their coal. They have successfully prospected for and obtained the oil on some of their lands, and there is every reason to believe that their other oil lands are as good, probably much better than those they have already Proved. J. W. Warren, of the Winnipeg Oil Company, says, in an official report, that he "never found anywhere a crude oil equal to the Alberta production," and he adds that "it seems impossible to doubt that the Alberta wells will in the future be able to supply the Canadian market."

WESTERN OIL AND COAL

Another oil expert, of well known standing, who has made a fortune out of oil, closes his report with the following:—

"I have no hesitancy in saying that it is the most promising oil field I have ever examined, and I have been in every oil field on this continent, excepting California and Texas, and operated both as producer and refiner in Canada, Ohio and Pennsylvania."

If you had invested $1,000 in the Home Oil Company, of California, seven years ago, your investment to-day would have been worth $375,000. If you had invested $1,000 in the Standard Oil Company twenty years ago your investment to-day would be worth $6,500,000.

The oil lands of this Company are only a part of the resources in which you have an interest when you invest in the shares of the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated. The Company owns fourteen square miles of coal lands in British Columbia, which adjoins the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's lands and through which the Great Northern Railway now passes, and fifteen square miles of coal lands in Alberta. The Company also owns a mine at Chipman Creek, in Alberta, on which it has been estimated that there are 12,000,000 tons of coal; that is to say, the Company has sixty times as much area of coal land unprospected as now constitutes the Chipman Creek mine, on which it is estimated there are 12,000,000 tons of coal.

Not one gold mine in forty has ever paid its shareholders a dollar; not one silver mine in sixty-four has ever paid to its shareholders a dividend. On the other hand, 97 per cent. of the coal mines and oil fields have been a great success, and have made their proprietors enormously wealthy. $1,000 invested in the Crow's Nest Coal Company ten years ago would be worth to you to-day $275,000. The late James Dunsmuir, with less than $1,000, laid the foundation on Vancouver Island for his great fortune, which is estimated to-day is worth $41,000,000, and made it all out of coal.

Coal and oil are as necessary in the domestic economics of life as food and clothes. An eminent financier who died worth $70,000,000 said to a young man who enquired from him as to the source of his great fortune: "For certainty of profits invest in necessities." Oil and Coal are necessities. In the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated you will have an investment in two of the most profitable commodities that are produced by mining. Greater fortunes have been made in the production of these than have ever been made in any other class of mining. The Western Oil and Coal Consolidated own their properties and the titles are vested in the Company. The Company is managed by business men, who have invested largely in the Company's shares. If they are to make money for themselves they must make money for you—that is evident. In the consolidation of the various companies which are merged into the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated there was not a share of stock given to anyone for promotion. There is no one who received a share of this Company's stock without paying for it; everyone has been obliged to pay for the preferred stock the same price at which you can buy it now, but you will readily understand that when you are offered Cumulative Preferred shares bearing interest at 6 per cent., guaranteed by $367,500 worth of assets, and in addition to this you are offered a bonus of an equal number of Ordinary Shares, that you are getting an investment which is far beyond the ordinary. For this reason the Directors of the Company, who are men of business sense, feel that they cannot afford, in the interest of those who have already invested, to continue to give the bonus of share-for-share.

AND COAL

Therefore, the bonus of share-for-share will be withdrawn after December 31st, 1906. Till then you can participate in this excellent opportunity; after that, if there are any of the 10,000 Preferred shares left, which is doubtful, the bonus will be considerably reduced, probably to over half, or withdrawn altogether. If you are a business man of ordinary business discretion, and have money to invest, you cannot make any mistake by carefully examining and investigating this proposition. The shares are selling rapidly, and it is not expected that there will be any left after the 31st of December. If you want to know more write to John N. Especially For Women

FRUIT-A-TIVES are the finest medicine in the world for women.

As a mild and gentle laxative—as a positive and speedy cure for Constipation and Biliousness—as the only cure for weak and irritated kidneys and especially for "that pain in the back"—as a positive cure for headaches—and as a general tonic to build up and invigorate the whole system — FRUIT-A-TIVES stand supreme.

In cases of irritated Ovaries, Ovarian Pains, Vaginal Catarrh, Excessive and Scanty Menstruation, Ulcerations, Bearing Down Pains—and all those troubles peculiar to women—

Fruit-a-tives

have the most remarkable effect.

Ninety-nine cases out of a hundred of Female Troubles are due to neglect. Bowels become constipated — kidneys irregular — skin neglected — and the poisons of the body, which should be carried off by these important organs, are taken up by the blood carried to the female organs and poison them, thus starting up a train of female troubles.

FRUIT-A-TIVES are made from fruits and by their remarkable action on bowels, kidneys and skin, rid the system of poisons, purify the blood, and restore the delicate organs of generation to new vigor and health.

AN INSANE WOMAN'S AWFUL ACT

Cuts the Throats of Her Two Children In the Snow.

THEN SHE SLASHES HER OWN

All of Them Are Dead From Knife Wounds Inflicted by a Crazed Mother, Who Was Victim of Hereditary Insanity—Husband Is an Engineer With Copper Cliff Mining Co.—Inquest at Sudbury.

Sudbury, Dec. 19.—A tragedy has been enacted at Whitefish, a little railway village on the Soo branch of the C. P. R., 18 miles west of here.

An Englishwoman, whose husband is an engineer with the Copper Cliff Mining Co., suddenly became demented. While in this condition during last Thursday night, she took her two children, aged 3 and 8, respectively, from their bed, and, carrying them outside the house, laid them in the deep snow and cut their throats with a knife. She then used the weapon upon her own throat.

Neighbors the following morning were shocked to find the three bodies lying in the snow. The mother and the youngest child were dead, but there was still life in the elder child. Doctors were summoned, but this child also died within three hours after being found. In addition to the fearful gash, its limbs were badly frozen, the night having been desperately cold, the thermometer registering 15 below zero.

Dr. Strothers, coroner, and Police Magistrate Brodie of Sudbury were immediately informed of the tragedy, and an inquest was opened. The husband of the woman stated that his wife's mother, who still resides in the old country, had been in the habit of frequently becoming temporarily insane. This leads to the conclusion that the insanity of her daughter was hereditary.

True Bill For Child Murder.

Brampton, Dec. 19.—The assizes opened this afternoon, Sir William Mulock presiding. The grand jury found a true bill in Rex v. Mrs. Alice Casey for child murder. She is charged with having left an infant to die in a shed at Port Credit last winter. The prisoner was arraigned and pleaded not guilty. The trial goes on to-day.

Ends Life In Stable.

Weston, Dec. 19.—Adam E. Shuntz of Downsview, who drove a milk wagon for Alf. Gaulding, committed suicide during Monday night. He drove into the city as usual Monday morning with the supply for a dairy and left his horses there. Search was made Monday night, but it was not until yesterday morning his body was found in the stable of A. Barnard, his father-in-law, across the road from his own home. He had swallowed carbolic acid. He was about 30 years of age, and leaves a widow. Coroner Charlton considered an inquest unnecessary.

RUSS-JAP NEGOTIATIONS.

In Matter of Fishing Privileges On the Siberian Coast.

St. Petersburg, Feb. 19.—The Russo-Japanese negotiations, the status of which last week were highly unsatisfactory, have entered upon a favorable stage, and a rupture is no longer anticipated.

The Russians realize that a failure of the negotiations would open the door for Japanese fishermen to raid the Siberian fishing grounds at will, and as the littoral is most sparsely settled and only a few vessels are available for patrolling it, this is the strongest argument in favor of Russia granting concessions.

Czar Approves.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 19.—Emperor Nicholas has approved the bill of the Council of Ministers, removing the disabilities of Jews.

Rome, Dec. 19.—The death was announced yesterday of Mgr. Adami, one of the most wealthy Roman prelates. Mgr. Adami made valuable presents to Pope Leo XIII. and Pius X., his gift to the latter a gold cross set with brilliants, and by his will he left $1,000,000 to the Pope.

MILDER WEATHER GIVES RELIEF

And Earlier Relief Looked For In Brandon's Fuel Famine.

SERIOUS AT HARTNEY, MAN.

Not a Pound of Wood or Coal In That Town For Sale, and Many People Are Actually Suffering For Want of Fuel—Spectre of Serious Coal Famine Looms Up in Winnipeg Before Winter is Over.

Winnipeg, Dec. 19.—The latest phase of the fuel situation is that Winnipeg is likely to be up against a serious coal famine before the present season is over.

Cut off from its regular source of supply, the western mines, by strikes, the west has been making inroads on the Manitoba and particularly on the Winnipeg coal supply. The stocks at Fort William have already been considerably depleted by these inroads until at present there is less coal there than at this time last year, with a far greater demand than at any time. Local dealers have already made heavy shipment to Brandon and other western points, and in their opinion the situation is now assuming most serious proportions.

Worst Over at Brandon.

At Brandon, judging from present prospects and indications, the worst of fuel famine is about over, and everyone is looking forward to an earlier relief. The weather has turned milder.

At Hartney, Man., the fuel situation is very serious, many people actually suffering for want of fuel. There is not a pound of coal or wood in the town for sale. One car of coal came in Monday, and forty teams were fighting to each get a little. People in town are running with bags to get a little. Several farmers in the country are burning barley for fuel. Four rooms in the school are closed, and some of the business places are running without a fire.

Burning Fences to Keep Warm.

Minneapolis, Dec. 19.—The second day of the Interstate Commerce Commission enquiry into Northwest transportation conditions brought out facts of first importance relative to the effects upon the country of the grain blockade.

Telegrams began to pour in as a result of Monday's enquiry into the coal shortage, and when reports were in from over 20 towns, it was clear that the commission had acted none too quickly in securing the promise of co-operation on the part of the coal companies and the railroads in relieving distress, for in some localities farmers have been burning their fences and outbuildings, and in other towns piles of valuable lumber were cut up into fuel to keep people from freezing.

J. J. Hill will appear before the commission to-day.

Wages Still Going Up.

Lawrence, Mass., Dec. 19.—Notice of increases in the wages of 6,000 employes of the Pacific mills, and the 1,200 employes of the Everett mills were posted yesterday. The amount is expected to be about 7 1-2 per cent.

Biddeford, Me., Dec. 19.—The Pepperell Manufacturing Co. yesterday announced an advance in wages of about 56 cents. About 3,000 are employed in the mills.

Dover, N.H., Dec. 19.—Notices of a 5 per cent. increase in wages were posted yesterday at the cotton mills of the Cocheco Manufacturing Co. in this city. The increase will affect about 2,200 hands.

Joliet, Ill., Dec. 19.—The United States Steel Corporation announced yesterday that the wages of its 3,000 employes in the Joliet mills will be increased Jan 1. Common laborers will receive ten cents a day additional, and the other grades will be benefited proportionately.

Corporations Up Against It.

Toledo, Dec. 19.—The United States grand jury yesterday reported indictments on 155 counts against the Toledo Ice & Coal Co., for giving and accepting rebates on ice shipments. The Ann Arbor Railway was also indicted in a similar number of counts by granting rebates.

The maximum penalty is $20,000 fine on each count.

Six indictments were returned against the Great Lakes Dock & Dredging Co., for violation of the Federal eight-hour law.

Tremendous Muzzle Velocity.

Quebec, Dec. 19.—The experiments carried on last summer by Sir Charles Ross with special high velocity cartridges, have resulted in the production of a cartridge giving the tremendous muzzle velocity of 3,000 feet per second. The Ross rifle has commenced the manufacture of sporting rifles to use these cartridges.

25,000 Emigrants Detained.

Rome, Dec. 19.—The general strike of seamen is causing considerable anxiety. At Genoa 25,000 emigrants are prevented from leaving for their destinations because of the strike. The Government has ordered warships kept in readiness for postal service between the peninsula and the islands.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—The city authorities have made a general increase in salaries of all municipal officers for the coming year. Every employe from the assistant city clerk down to the day laborers is included. It is expected that the City Council will ratify the increases. The larger revenue enables the city to pay better wages.

Coal Lands Cornered.

Washington, Dec. 19.—Interstate Commerce Commissioner Clark yesterday, before the House committee on public lands, reiterated his charges that great corporations, in league with railroads, have "cornered" coal lands and forced the prices up to an unreasonable high point.

SAFE AND SANE

In these days of inflated capitalization and wild optimism, it is worth any investor's while to study the sane business proposition which Western Oil and Coal Consolidated OFFERS to investors. One of the best opportunities for making large profits on a small investment that has come before you for a long time. The Company owns the only known oil lands in British Columbia that are on a railway. They own two wells that experts say will produce, at least, 100 barrels of oil per day. They have let a contract for drilling five more wells that are likely to be even more productive. They own 26,240 acres of oil and coal lands in Alberta and British Columbia; and there is little doubt but that within a year they will have, at least, a production of 500 barrels of oil per day on that land. Under their Charter, which is a very valuable one, being a special Act obtained from the Legislature of Alberta, they have the right to build pipe lines anywhere, and to construct tramways to carry their coal. They have successfully prospected for and obtained the oil on some of their lands, and there is every reason to believe that their other oil lands are as good, probably much better than those they have already Proved. J. W. Warren, of the Winnipeg Oil Company, says, in an official report, that he "never found anywhere a crude oil equal to the Alberta production," and he adds that "it seems impossible to doubt that the Alberta wells will in the future be able to supply the Canadian market."

WESTERN OIL AND COAL

Another oil expert, of well known standing, who has made a fortune out of oil, closes his report with the following:—

"I have no hesitancy in saying that it is the most promising oil field I have ever examined, and I have been in every oil field on this continent, excepting California and Texas, and operated both as producer and refiner in Canada, Ohio and Pennsylvania."

If you had invested $1,000 in the Home Oil Company, of California, seven years ago, your investment to-day would have been worth $375,000. If you had invested $1,000 in the Standard Oil Company twenty years ago your investment to-day would be worth $6,500,000.

The oil lands of this Company are only a part of the resources in which you have an interest when you invest in the shares of the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated. The Company owns fourteen square miles of coal lands in British Columbia, which adjoins the Crow's Nest Pass Coal Company's lands and through which the Great Northern Railway now passes, and fifteen square miles of coal lands in Alberta. The Company also owns a mine at Chipman Creek, in Alberta, on which it has been estimated that there are 12,000,000 tons of coal; that is to say, the Company has sixty times as much area of coal land unprospected as now constitutes the Chipman Creek mine, on which it is estimated there are 12,000,000 tons of coal.

Not one gold mine in forty has ever paid its shareholders a dollar; not one silver mine in sixty-four has ever paid to its shareholders a dividend. On the other hand, 97 per cent. of the coal mines and oil fields have been a great success, and have made their proprietors enormously wealthy. $1,000 invested in the Crow's Nest Coal Company ten years ago would be worth to you to-day $275,000. The late Robert Dunsmuir, with less than $1,000, laid the foundation on Vancouver Island for his great fortune, which it is estimated to-day is worth $41,000,000, and made it all out of coal.

Coal and oil are as necessary in the domestic economies of life as food and clothes. An eminent financier who died worth $70,000,000 said to a young man who enquired from him as to the source of his great fortune: "For certainty of profits invest in necessities." Oil and Coal are necessities. In the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated you will have an investment in two of the most profitable commodities that are produced by mining. Greater fortunes have been made in the production of these than have ever been made in any other class of mining. The Western Oil and Coal Consolidated own their properties and the titles are vested in the Company. The Company is managed by business men, who have invested largely in the Company's shares. If they are to make money for themselves they must make money for you—that is evident. In the consolidation of the various companies which are merged into the Western Oil and Coal Consolidated there was not a share of stock given to anyone for promotion. There is no one who received a share of this Company's stock without paying for it; everyone has been obliged to pay for the preferred stock the same price at which you can buy it now, but you will readily understand that when you are offered Cumulative Preferred shares bearing interest at 6 per cent., guaranteed by $367,500 worth of assets, and in addition to this you are offered a bonus of an equal number of Ordinary Shares, that you are getting an investment which is far beyond the ordinary. For this reason the Directors of the Company, who are men of business sense, feel that they cannot afford, in the interest of those who have already invested, to continue to give the bonus of share-for-share.

AND COAL

Therefore, the bonus of share-for-share will be withdrawn after December 31st, 1906. Till then you can participate in this excellent opportunity; after that, if there are any of the 10,000 Preferred shares left, which is doubtful, the bonus will be considerably reduced, probably to over half, or withdrawn altogether. If you are a business man of ordinary business discretion, and have money to invest, you cannot make any mistake by carefully examining and investigating this proposition. The shares are selling rapidly, and it is not expected that there will be any left after the 31st of December. If you want to know more write to John N. "GOLDSPIE" INCIDENT IN THE HOUSE

Mr. Boyce Attacks Dominion Department of Marine.

INVESTIGATION TO BE HELD

Hon. Mr. Brodeur Deprecates Attacks on the Administration When Facts Are Not Available—Prince Edward Island's Annual Grievance Has Its Customary Airing—House Adjourns For Christmas.

Ottawa, Dec. 19.—Contrary to expectations, yesterday the House decided to at once rise for the Christmas vacation, instead of waiting until Thursday. To-day and Thursday are devoted to business introduced by private members, and the wisdom of the Premier in moving the adjournment yesterday was demonstrated before the House rose by the small attendance and the fact that in a great majority of instances members having notices on the paper were not ready to proceed. Some criticism by Mr. Foster and Mr. Borden regarding the progress of business was effectively replied to by the Premier, who reminded the House that never before had the budget been brought down and disposed of within one week of the opening of the House.

The Golspie Discussion.

The terrible sufferings of the crew of the Golspie formed a topic of discussion which afforded Mr. Boyce an opportunity to make a somewhat heated attack upon the Department of Marine and Fisheries. Mr. Brodeur, in a temperate speech, assured the House that an investigation had already been ordered, and that it would be searching and comprehensive. He suggested that the attack, made without notice, was evidently designed for the purpose of making political capital, and elicited from Mr. Boyce the admission that, although he had condemned the department for insufficient inspection, he had no proof that the vessel was registered in Canada at all. The Minister assured the House that the department was alive to the necessities of the life-saving service, as shown by the fact that the appropriation asked this year for the purpose was 75 per cent. greater than that voted in previous years.

Winter communication with Prince Edward Island, a perennial topic of discussion, also engaged the attention of the House.

Prince Edward Island's Grievance.

Mr. Martin (Prince Edward Island) called attention to the injury caused to trade in Prince Edward Island through lack of communication. The Island was suffering because its exports were shut up and its imports held up.

Mr. Hughes (King's, P.E.I.) said that the inconvenience was due to the unexpected closing of navigation to summer boats, and the placing of the Government steamer Stanley on the Summerside route. He thought that it would have been better had both Government steamers been kept on the eastern route, which would in a large measure relieve the congestion. He thought, however, that the time was coming when a third boat would be required on the route.

Mr. Lefurgey contended that the necessity for a third boat had already been created and that immediate action should be taken to obtain another boat for at least temporary service.

Mr. Macdonald (Pictou) thought that the wisest plan would be to put Government steamers on the route from Pictou to Charlottetown and from Pictou to Georgetown.

Mr. Brodeur announced that he intended to place both boats on the Georgetown route, and he was determined to see the route kept up in a businesslike way.

Mr. Lefurgey—I am glad that it is going to be a businesslike way.

Mr. Brodeur—Yes, perhaps in the past I have listened too much to the complaints of my hon. friend. Mr. Brodeur said the steamer Lady Grey was too lightly built to be placed on the Prince Edward Island service, and the Montcalm was designed for special service on the St. Lawrence.

The Minister of Railways, while denying that any delay had occurred in connection with the Intercolonial Railway service, suggested that an ideal winter route between Prince Edward Island and the mainland would be between Carlton and Cape Tormentine.

Mr. Borden suggested that the service of the steamship Arctic might be utilized, while Mr. Martin wound up the debate by saying: "We give the Minister fair warning that Prince Edward Island cannot be kept in the Dominion by broken promises."

Imperial Action Necessary.

Sir Wilfrid Laurier introduced a Senate bill amending the naturalization law so that all immigrants from British possessions should have the same rights as those coming directly from the British Isles. Upon their arrival they will be allowed to vote without the usual three years' residence.

Mr. Cockshutt (Brantford), and Dr. Stockton (Con., N.B.), urged that some law should be passed making naturalization in any part of the empire effective throughout the empire.

The Premier pointed out that any such law required action by the Imperial Government. It had been discussed at the last two colonial conferences but no conclusion had been arrived at. As it was naturalized British subjects in Canada ceased to be British subjects when they removed to any other portion of the empire.

Farmers and the Tariff

Received with every courtesy by Messrs. Fielding, Aylesworth, Paterson and Fisher, and accompanied by a score of Liberal members from Ontario and a sprinkling of Conservative representatives, Messrs. James McEwing, President; E. C. Drury and W. L. Smith of the Farmers' Association, yesterday afternoon expressed in a clear and forcible manner the views of the farming element upon the tariff now before the House. The abolition of the iron and steel bounties and a reduction of the duty on other kinds of agricultural implements, as well as mowers and binders, were two of the principal requests made. What the Government have already done in the way of lessening the burdens of the agricultural community was ungrudgingly recognized, and the Ministers were urged to resist to the utmost any demands from the manufacturers for increases of duty.

New Deputy Minister of Militia.

Lieut.-Col. Fiset has been offered and has accepted the position of Deputy Minister of Militia, which was rendered vacant by the death of Colonel Pinault. Lieut.-Col. Fiset is at present Director-General of the Army Medical Service, and his appointment will be most popular throughout the militia force of Canada.

MANITOBA ELECTIONS.

Government's Telephone Measure Defeated—Returns Are Incomplete, But Indications Point to Defeat.

Winnipeg, Dec. 19.—Municipal elections were held in all the rural municipalities and towns of Manitoba yesterday, and additional interest was attached to the voting by the fact that the plebiscite on the Government's telephone policy was coupled with the voting. Returns in this important question at midnight were incomplete, but indicate that in fully one-half or more of the municipalities the project, as presented by the Government, has been defeated.

A number of towns, including Portage la Prairie, rejected the proposition, and while a large favorable vote was recorded in Brandon, a provision in the city charter which requires fifty per cent. majority defeats it there also. A notable fact is that in the Premier's own constituency of Dufferin his project was badly defeated.

The Bell Co., of course, put up an active campaign against the Government in self-defence, but the Liberals took the ground that while a Government-owned telephone system is desirable, the Government's method of instituting it is wrong.

Is It Murder?

Hamilton, Dec. 19.—The county constables working on Robert Livsey's death think they have obtained additional evidence that he was not killed by a Radial car, and that he was murdered. Fred Hayley, motorman on one of the cars, says that Livsey was not on the track when the construction car, the only car high enough to pass over the body without mangling it, passed over the line.

Spend Christmas In Jail.

London, Dec. 19.—Eleven of the women suffragists elected to spend Christmas in jail rather than pay small fines for creating disturbances, within the precincts of the House of Commons Monday night. The women received their sentences hilariously, apparently proud of joining the so-called "suffragists" who already are in prison.

BIG Machinery Manufacturing FIRM May Locate Their Works IN CITY

Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Machinery Company Admits That It Would Like to Purchase Works of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company

WOULD REMOVE TO THIS CITY

Manufacture of Water Wheels and Saw Mill Machinery Would Continue in Local Works---Might Mean Big Extensions Here

Peterborough will, in all probability, be made the western manufacturing centre for the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company, one of the largest machinery manufacturing concerns on the American continent, according to a report published in the Montreal Herald, of yesterday.

Since this company commenced manufacturing in Canada, their business has grown by leaps and bounds, as it had done previously in the United States, and, though so far as its establishment in Canada as a manufacturing concern, it is a comparatively new company, it is now recognized as one of the most progressive and enterprising machinery manufacturing companies in Canada. It will therefore be good news to Peterborough to learn that there is a probability of the works of the company being secured for this city.

Would Buy Plant

The Montreal Herald, referring to the matter, says:

It is the intention of the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company of Montreal, to purchase the plant of the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company, at Peterborough, if it is possible to do so, in order to keep pace with their rapidly growing business.

The William Hamilton Company recently went into liquidation, and it is stated that the concern will be placed on the market. In this event the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company will be active bidders for the property.

Transfer Business

If successful in obtaining the William Hamilton Company's plant, the Montreal concern will continue the water wheel and saw mill machinery business of the Peterborough concern, and will also transfer several other departments to the western plant in order to make more room in their Rockfield shops for mining machinery, in anticipation of great activity in the Cobalt district next spring.

Speaking of the matter to a Herald reporter this morning one of the directors of the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company said:

Operate Two Plants

"It is true that if the William Hamilton Manufacturing Company's plant is placed on the market, we will try and obtain it. We find our shops at Rockfield not large enough to keep pace with the rapid increase in our business. We will operate both plants and the acquisition of the Peterborough concern will make no change whatever in our Rockfield establishment."

DEPORTATION PROBLEM NOT SETTLED

Free Transportation May be Secured for Tom Weller

Tom Weller has probably had his name in the papers more frequently during the past few weeks than any other man within the county limits. The trouble over his deportation had apparently ceased when he consented to be sent back to his native land. But such was not the case. Word was recently received from Government headquarters that no expense of sending him home would be borne by the Government, and that his friends would have to foot the bill. This, however, they did not care to do, and for a time it appeared that Weller would obtain his freedom.

The letter from the Government officials was received before the prisoner had consented to be deported, so that the local authorities believe his willingness will alter the aspect of things, and have again written for free transportation. If this is granted, the difficulty will in all probability evaporate.

THE EXAMINER CHRISTMAS EDITION PLEASES PUBLISHERS

The Christmas edition issued by the Examiner on Saturday has had many eulogies paid it, not only by its readers in the city, but among the members of the press of the province. The Lindsay Post, of yesterday paid the following tribute:—

Saturday's edition of the Peterborough Examiner arrived at the office of The Post in enlarged style. It was the annual Christmas number and consisted of 24 pages of bright, newsy items and well written and attractively displayed advertisements. The Examiner during the year 1906 has put on an extra stride towards prosperity and The Post values it as one of the most prized of its exchanges.

BIG POWER PLANT INSTALLATION AT KENORA

Messrs. Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company Sends Men to Instal 6,000 Horse Power Plant for the Corporation of Kenora, New Ontario

TO SUPPLY THE POWER TO INDUSTRIES

The Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company has a contract for the installation of the water wheels for a power development plant for the corporation of Kenora, and to-day Mr. Daniel Harvey left for that town to superintend the installation of the plant, which will require about six weeks. The plant, which is an extensive one, will develop about 6,000 horse power and the energy will be used by the corporation for municipal lighting, etc.

Power for Manufacturers

Power will also be supplied to manufacturers, a number of whom are being interested with the advantages of Kenora as a manufacturing centre, and, with the completion of this power plant under the direction and management of the corporation no doubt an extensive industrial development will result.

Mr. Harvey will take one assistant from Peterborough with him, and will secure his additional help at Kenora.

AN OLD RESIDENT DIES IN CHICAGO

Mrs. Jane Roger Fairbairn Passed Away While on Visit to Her Daughter

It will be with great regret that the people of Peterborough will learn of the death in Chicago yesterday of Jane Roger Fairburn, second daughter of the late Rev. J. M. Roger, and relict of the late T. M. Fairburn, M. P.P., of Peterborough. The deceased lady was exceedingly well known in this city. She had been in delicate health for some time and for the past month had been visiting her daughter, Mrs. Arthur Smith, 935 Sherwin avenue, Chicago, where her death took place yesterday.

The late Mrs. Fairburn was born in Peterborough sixty-five years ago, her father, the late Rev. J. M. Roger, being the pioneer Presbyterian minister of Peterborough and the occupant of the pastorate of St. Paul's before Rev. Dr. Torrance. She was favourably known to many of the citizens, especially to the older inhabitants of the community and her death will be deeply regretted.

Her husband, the late T. M. Fairburn, Esq., who was the representative of West Peterborough in the Legislature for some time, predeceased her twenty-five years. Her loss is mourned by three children, Mrs. Arthur Smith, of Chicago; Mr. J. F. R. Fairburn, C.P.R. official, Montreal, and Mr. J. M. R. Fairburn, divisional engineer of the C.P.R. at Toronto. Mr G. M. Roger, of this city is the only surviving brother of the deceased.

The funeral will take place to-morrow afternoon at three o'clock from the family residence, "Cordach," Park street, to Little Lake Cemetery.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

THE MANAGER AND FORMER STAFF FRATERNIZE

At Banquet Tendered Members of Former Ontario Bank Branch Staff by Late Manager, who is Made Presentation of Set of Pipes

IT WAS A MOST ENJOYABLE FUNCTION

The Christmas spirit seems to have developed in a very charming way the pleasant relations that have always existed between Mr. John Crane, late local manager of the Ontario Bank, and the members of the late staff, some of whom are occupying their former places and others in some of the city banks. Last night Mr. Crane entertained at a little informal banquet at Long's Palm Parlours, sixteen young gentlemen who were formerly associated with him in the business of the Ontario Bank, thus winding up, so to speak, the social account, with the result of a splendid balance being placed to the credit of Peace and Good Will account. In addition to the discussion of the material viands provided, there was a delightful social symposium, of which toasts, speeches, songs, and especially, the spirit of good will and harmony were distinguishing features. Further evidence of this spirit was the presentation by the young men to Mr. Crane of a beautiful smoking set. Thus the drifting apart necessarily resulting from the changes wrought by time and circumstances, are laden with pleasant memories of harmony and good will.

A WILD GOOSE CHASE IN OTONABEE

Large Bird was Captured Yesterday Evening by Pursuer Near Zion

There are very few people who have not heard that oft repeated colloquial phrase, "on a wild goose chase," but it is almost always used metaphorically by the speaker or writer.

However, last night an Otonabee youth actually was on a wild goose chase and was rewarded by the capture of one of the bashful birds.

The goose was first seen sitting in a field on the farm of Mr. Scully, Zion. Mr. William MacGregor, a young man who works for Mr. Scully, observed its queer actions, and started out in pursuit. The bird, although paralyzed somewhat from the cold, was able to fly at a short distance from the ground. A dog was quickly secured and chased the goose until it became exhausted, allowing the pursuer to capture it.

HAMILTON'S HANDSOME HOLIDAY HEADQUARTERS

Tasteful Window Displays of Xmas Fruits and Sweets

One of the most Christmassy grocery stores in the city is that of Mr. W. H. Hamilton's, 138 Simcoe street. Within these spacious premises there is sufficient assurance of the variety and goodness of his Christmas edibles. The reliable character of the stock is one of the pronounced attractions. The diversity of foods and luxuries for the table is apparent, the clerical service courteous, and the price lists satisfactory. The store windows have also been gaily decorated for the festive season, with a representative display of the firm's "Thistle" brand raisins and currants, as well as superior samples of candies, goods, etc. In another window the display consists of Xmas creams, chocolates and other delicious candies, nuts, etc. The windows are profusely decorated with garlands of evergreens, red Christmas bells and other features, artistically arranged by the tasty window dresser.

Was Ten Below Zero Last Night

Ten below zero was the low record last night, but by this morning at daybreak the thermometer had risen to 2 below, and has been slowly rising ever since. The prospects for the immediate future are that there will be a gradual moderation of the temperature for the next few days, with some snowfalls in all probability.

There are no specially significant features of the weather probabilities for the near future, the indications pointing to a continuance of the present moderately cold weather. It is not considered probable that there will be any very decided change in the temperature, either higher or lower, in the immediate future.

GAVE AN INTERESTING PAPER ON BANKING

Mr. T. W. R. Black's Instructive Contribution to the Programme of St. Andrew's Young Men's Guild

The meeting of the Young Men's Guild of St. Andrew's Church, held last night, was one of more than ordinary interest. Mr. T. W. R. Black, of the staff of the Bank of Toronto, read a most interesting and instructive paper on "The Banking System of Canada," in which he referred to the characteristics of the system which has placed Canadian banking in such high repute.

Another interesting feature was a chalk talk given by Mr. Barrowman, of J. J. Turner and Sons', on "Evolution and Revolution." The president of the guild, Mr. Richardson, occupied the chair.

COBALT MINES ARE SHIPPING ORE DAILY

Nipissing Mine Shipped Twelve Cars Last Week---Guggenheims Still Hammering the Stock to Get Control

MORE COMPETITION FOR COBALT LAKE

(Examiner Special.)

Toronto, Dec. 18.—News from the Cobalt camp continues of a very encouraging nature. Rapid development is being made on several of the more important properties, and machinery is being installed on various of the mines with all the rapidity possible. The shipments last week included no less than 12 cars from the Nipissing, one car from the Foster, one car from the Drummond mine and one car from the O'Brien. The weather is said to have hampered work to some extent, but full preparations are now being made to conduct operations throughout the winter.

Market Affected

The market for the Cobalt mining shares is still in a rather depressed condition and is not yet entirely free from the Nipissing episode. The unsettled condition of the money market, particularly in New York is having an influence on speculation there, and it is said that the Guggenheims are taking advantage of this to further hammer down the price of Nipissing stock to secure the control so much desired.

Tenders for Cobalt Lake

On Thursday next the tenders for the Cobalt and Kerr Lakes will be received by the Ontario Government. Several Syndicates are submitting tenders, but it is believed here that the Nipigon Cobalt syndicate, which is a strong organization recently floated by G. H. Campbell, of New York, will be the successful purchaser. Mr. Campbell himself being extremely enthusiastic regarding the beds of the lakes, having spent several months in examining the veins which run from the surrounding properties into these bodies of water.

Municipal Ownership Principle Endorsed By Both Candidates

An Interesting Discussion on This Question Held at Meeting of the Board of Trade Meeting Last Night---Mayoralty Candidates Express Their Views on the Question

A NEW WATERWORKS DAM IS NOW ONE OF THE PROPOSALS

Dairy Show Believed to be a Good Thing for Peterborough, and Council is Asked to Secure it if Possible---Welland Canal Improvements Discussed

Trent Canal completion before a large additional amount of money for enlargement is spent on the Welland Canal, was the position taken by the Board of Trade last night, in response to a communication asking for co-operation to secure an appropriation for this work.

Heavy Questions

Such weighty matters as municipal ownership of gas and electric lighting, the construction of a new waterworks dam, and others of almost equal magnitude, furnished the occasion for the expression of opinion on these questions by the members of the Board of Trade and the Mayoralty candidates last night.

No conclusion was reached on any of the matters under consideration, the meeting being held for the purpose of discussion and consideration—these objects being achieved.

Dairy Show Good Thing

Conclusion was reached that it would be a desirable thing for Peterborough to secure the annual dairy show, and the Council was advised to look into the matter, and, if it is thought to be in the interests of the city, after full investigation, to go after it.

" The meeting of the Board of Trade, held last night, furnished an interesting discussion on municipal ownership, as it affects the gas and light plant. An opportunity was also afforded the candidates for the mayoralty and also for aldermanic honours to present their views on this important subject. Both Ald. Hicks and Ald. McWilliams addressed the meeting, stating their position on the question, both of them on the whole ex, ressing themselves in favour of municipal ownership. In regard to the light proposition, Ald. Hicks took the stand that the first thing to be undertaken was the securing of power, and then the city would be in a position to go ahead with the taking over of the lighting business from the Peterborough Light and Power Company. Mr. W. H. Moore thought that the question of power could be solved by building a new dam at the waterworks, and this view was supported by Mr. W. Langford and other speakers. Another question that came up last night was in reference to the proposal to hold a show here under the auspices of the Dairymen's Association. During the discussion that resulted, President D. Hughes Charles characterized the present market as a disgrace to the city.

There was a good attendance of members present and the meeting was an interesting one.

The minutes of the last special meeting were read and confirmed.

The Welland Canal

A communication was received from the secretary of the Kingston Board of Trade, asking for the co-operation of the local Board in seeking to have improvements made to the Welland Canal, and suggesting that a petition be passed asking that the Government perform the work.

Mr. Hughes Charles said, that he did not think that the people of Peterborough should encourage the spending of a lot of money on the Welland Canal before the Trent Canal is finished.

The communication was received, but no action was taken.

Mr. Hughes Charles, the President, in opening the discussion, said that municipal ownership had been talked a good deal of in the city, and there was now a definite proposal before the Council of buying the lighting and gas plant from the Peterborough Light and Power Co. He thought it was an opportune time to discuss the matter before the elections.

Mr. Moore's Views

Mr. W. H. Moore said that he presumed that the meeting was called not for the academic discussion of the subject of municipal ownership.

There were four trunk lines as applied to city, water gas, electric lighting and street railways. The street railway franchise, as a public question, was not within their compass. The Council had dealt with that and had given the company a franchise good for thirty or forty years. The Council had also discussed of the question of electric lighting, and had bound the hands of the people behind their backs for six or seven years. Water was a public utility, he was glad to say. As for gas, it was absolutely needed. The people of Peterborough had already adopted gas for use in the summer time, and its advantages were apparent. It was a tremendous misfortune that this franchise was ever lost. The company was getting a greater grasp upon the streets than they ever had.

Glad to Hear of Proposal

The speaker was glad to hear that there was a proposal before the Council in reference to the gas, and she hoped that that body would see that the people obtained it, even if they had to pay a high price for it. In buying the waterworks, this

Chemong Ice Safe For All Vehicular Traffic at Present

Mr. Dan. Whetung reports the ice on Chemong Lake as splendidly solid, and safe for team traffic. Yesterday two loads of brick from Curtis' kilns were taken across the ice to Chemong village, to complete the new church now under construction there. Each load contained a thousand brick, a weight of about two and a half tons. Ice that will bear that weight is certainly safe for ordinary traffic, and will, Mr. Whetung thinks, carry anything except, perhaps, the weight—in his own estimation—of an aldermanic candidate.

ROYAL BLACK KNIGHTS HELD ENJOYABLE BANQUET

218th Anniversary of the Closing of the Gates of Derry was Commemorated Last Night

MANY BRIGHT SPEECHES WERE MADE

An interesting event was that which took place last evening at McCallum's restaurant. It was the annual banquet of the Royal Black Knights of Ireland and was in commemoration of the 218th anniversary of the closing of the gates of Derry.

The members of the lodge, numbering about thirty-three, met at their rooms and walked to the restaurant, where a most sumptuous and appetizing repast was served by Mine Host McCallum. The good things provided were but another evidence of the excellent banquets which Mr. McCallum always provides on such an occasion. Three tables were arranged in the banquet hall and fairly groaned with the good things on them.

After the wants of the inner man had been satisfied, Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong introduced a very interesting toast list by proposing the toast to "The King," which was duly honoured by all present. The next toast honoured was that to "The Charter," which was proposed by Mr. John McWilliams.

The toast "Canada, Our Home," was proposed by Mr. Jas. Garside. He referred to the many years he had spent in Canada and said he would rather live in Canada than in any other place, as in no country were there such opportunities as in this Dominion. This toast was responded to by Sir Knights R. B. McGill and Rev. A. H. Brace. Mr. McGill referred to the law-abiding and Sabbath-keeping people that Canadians were. Rev. Mr. Brace, upon rising, was heartily greeted. The reverend gentleman said he owed the Knights a debt of gratitude for their kind invitation to be present at their annual banquet. He was honoured to think he was a Black Knight of Ireland and he paid a high tribute to the principles underlying the constitution of the lodge of the Black Preceptory. Then referring to Canada Mr. Brace said it was the land of the free. It was a country of golden opportunity, and he had never regretted the day when he first came here. Mr. Brace said they were commemorating the anniversary of a great day. He briefly described many incidents of the "Siege of Derry."

The next toast honoured was that of the "Royal Black Knights." It was proposed by Mr. R. Juby and responded to by Mr. Jos. Batten, who spoke on the orders of the Society.

Mr. E. G. Clarke delighted those present with a recitation on "The Siege of Derry."

The toast, "The Day We Commemorate" was proposed by Mr. Robt. Wilson and responded to by Mr. W. H. G. Armstrong, in a very clear and able manner related many interesting tales of the memorable siege of Derry.

"Our United Empire" was proposed by Mr. R. Juby and responded to by Mr. John McWilliams.

Other toasts honoured were "The Press" and "Our Host." The toast to the press was proposed by Mr. Jas. Garside and responded to by the representatives present. The toast to "Our Host," was proposed by Mr. J. C. Waldie and replied to by Mr. McCallum.

The singing of the National Anthem brought a very happy and social evening to a close.

Wall Street Asks Return to Piety

It is certainly a most encouraging sign that such a paper as the "Wall Street Journal," New York, issues a "Call to Piety." It is a masterly appeal, and worthy of being read and followed everywhere:

"What America needs more than railway extension, and western irrigation, and a low tariff, and a bigger wheat crop, and a merchant marine, and a few navy, is a revival of piety, the kind mother and father used to have—piety that counted it good business to stop for daily family prayer before breakfast, right in the middle of harvest; that quit work a half hour early on Thursday night, so as to get the chores done and go to prayer meeting; that borrowed money to pay the preacher's salary, and prayed fervently in secret for the salvation to the rich man who looked with scorn on such unbusinesslike behaviour."

Continuing, the Journal says:

"Great wealth never made a nation substantial nor honourable. There is nothing on earth that looks good that is so dangerous for a man or a nation to handle as quick, easy, big money. If you do resist its deadly influences, the chances are that it will get your son. It takes greater and finer heroism to dare to be poor in America than to charge on earthworks in Manchuria."

LAKEFIELD HUNTERS SHOT WILD CAT FOR A FOX

After an Exciting Chase the Animal was Captured and Visions of Black Fox Were Soon Dispelled

BIGGEST WILD CAT EVER SEEN HERE

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, Dec. 19. — Some great sport was experienced yesterday by a few of the Lakefield hunters, after their inactivity following the deer hunt. They got on the track of what they took to be a black fox, and followed the animal for several miles, an exciting chase resulting. After some skilful stalking, they succeeded in shooting him, only to find that the animal they had secured was a domesticated cat, which had gone wild in the woods. The hide was placed on exhibition in Mr. F. X. Fortier's store, and is the largest ever seen here.

THE YEAR'S WORK IN REVIEW AT ST. ANDREW'S

Annual Meeting of the Women's Foreign Missionary Society of That Church Held Yesterday

MRS. FOWLER MADE A LIFE MEMBER

The eighteenth anniversary of the formation of St. Andrew's Women's Foreign Missionary Society, was held yesterday afternoon in St. Andrew's Lecture Hall. The President, Mrs. (Rev.) J. G. Potter presided. After devotional exercises the election of officers for 1907 was proceeded with during which time Mrs. Richard Lees occupied the chair and conducted the election which resulted as follows:—

President—Mrs. (Rev.) Jas. G. Potter.
1st Vice-President—Mrs. Wm. Fowler.
2nd Vice-President—Mrs. George Kerr.
Secretary—Mrs. T. H. Stils.
Treasurer—Mrs. F. L. Robinson.
Organist—Miss B. Lundy.
Literature Secretary—Mrs. F. Pakenham.
Assistant Literature Secretary— Mrs. Jas. Gerrard.

Executive Committee—Mrs. Richard Lees, Convenor; Mrs. J. Jamieson, Mrs. Thos. Richardson, Mrs. Wm. Carter, Miss L. Rae.

Committee on Northwest Clothing — Mrs. Frank Atkinson, Convenor; Mrs. Hugh Harper, Mrs. George Laing.

Gratifying Progress

Mrs. Frank Pakenham then presented the annual report which showed that there had been an increase in membership and income during the past year. There are 60 members, as compared with 45 for 1905. Members of the General Society number 18, while 10 are life members, including one elected this year in the person of Mrs. William Fowler. Seventeen dollars was the value of the bale of clothing sent to the Northwest in August. During the year very instructive and interesting meetings had been held, and the systematic study of "Christus Liberator" has been most profitable. In this study all the members had willingly taken part when asked.

The visit of Mrs. Graham, of Lakefield, and her stimulating address, and at a later date the report of Miss M. Dickson had proved very beneficial to the members.

The Thanksgiving meeting in October had been unusually successful in point of attendance and interest, while the new venture of "Missionary At Homes" in members' houses had proved a much enjoyed innovation from the social standpoint and had also helped the funds of the society.

The report closed with an exhortation to the Women of the Society to realize the value of the glorious heritage that was theirs and to recognize their responsibility to tell the message of His love to all who have not heard it.

Literature Committee

Mrs. William Stevens, Literature Secretary, reported for her committee that one hundred and fifty women in the congregation were subscribers for the "Missionary Tidings", which was an increase of twenty-five over last year. The Visiting Committee had distributed these, each month, to the homes of the members. It is very evident that whoever follows Mrs. Stevens in this office will have to hustle, as the unique position held by St. Andrews in this department is due very largely to Mrs. Stevens' indefatigible service.

Receipts Were Large

Mrs. Geo. Laing who has been the devoted Treasurer of the society for fourteen years, was delighted to report that the income of the society was the largest in its history. The receipts of the Auxiliary had amounted to $192.50, which would be most gratifying to every member.

Mrs. Laing has been deeply concerned regarding the progress and prosperity of the missionary life of St. Andrew's. Besides being an active member of the Executive, she has for some years done most telling work in training the young girls, having been from year to year the President of the Willing Workers' Mission Band.

Mrs. Fowler Made Life Member

A very pleasing feature of the afternoon was the presentation to Mrs. Wm. Fowler of the society's certificate of life membership. The president in presenting the certificate stated that it was the gift of the members as a mark of their esteem for the years of faithful and deeply interested service she had given to the society.

Mrs. Fowler who was taken by complete surprise replied in very suitable terms and pledged her continued love for the work of the society.

Rev. J. J. Wright's Address

The Rev. J. J. Wright, B. A., was then called upon to give the annual address. Mr. Wright felt that it was a pleasure for him, an old St. Andrew's boy, to speak to the women of the old church. Many had come and gone, yet the work continued. He had looked into their work very closely and was delighted to see the largeness of it. In church work he had found that the help of the women was most valuable. The best elders he had ever known in his own work as pastor, were women. None were so eager to carry out the command of Christ. They were hastening on the coming of the King, when they sought to evangelize the world. He was glad to notice that of the $63,000 given by the society in the western section of the church, $30,000 had been spent in India, about $23,000 had been given to the work amongst the Indians of the Northwest. This would certainly appeal to all as the proper thing, for all owed these people the gospel. He had been attracted by the varied character of the women's work as it was shown in the work of the hospitals, dispensaries, distribution of clothing as well as in the very large work of evangelization.

Girls' Enthusiasm

Then their work at home in the interest aroused at Missionary Bands, the very names of which spoke of the burning enthusiasm of the young girls in this work. No doubt there was discouragement oftimes, but then when they remembered the largeness of the work, and the great result from the joining together of many interests the inspiration would be that they had a part in the blessing of a world.

Mr. Wright closed with a most impressive and varied illustration from a Cathedral Tower in St. John, N. B. which he had visited in company with the late Rev. John A. Sinclair. From the tower there pealed forth from day to day the music from these chimes of bells over the city and out over the water, many a heart had been cheered. Going up into the Tower they could not hear the music but could see the operator busy hammering away with gloved hands and all they could hear was the noise of the hammers. So our routine work may not be as fascinating as we would often like, but the work means everything to those whom all can reach with the Gospel.

Miss Keenan, the talented soloist of George Street Church, sang very sweetly and most effectively "I'm but a Stranger Here".

The Rev. Mr. Potter offered the dedicatory prayer and a most successful anniversary was brought to a close by singing and the Benediction.

SOME WINDOWS WHICH INSTRUCT THE OBSERVOR

Are J. J. Turner and Sons'—Large Cased Illuminated Sign Above Their Establishment

Among the many windows in the city dressed in a novel manner, is that of J. J. Turner and Sons. Not only does it present a beautiful picture, and especially at night, but the ideas it expresses are instructive to any window dresser. The window contains samples of the various classes of signs manufactured by the firm, a couple of which are now for shipment to the West.

There are the large illuminated signs, all connected with the electric current. There are letters of brass and gold, raised and flat wood, enamel and brilliant letters, and samples of gilding and embossing. In fact, there is every style and description of sign on the market.

The firm have also erected a cased illuminated sign reading "SIGNS," in letters four feet high, some distance above the roof of their establishment. Encased within are 42 incandescent lights of 5-candle-power each, and presents a very pretty appearance at night.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP ENDORSED BY CANDIDATES

had been done, but the people did not regret the step being taken.

The Advantages Gained

Port Arthur owned pretty nearly all its franchises. In every case except telephones, they had made money. They had given reduced rates on all public utilities, and had a surplus. This had been true of the waterworks in Peterborough. In Guelph, where the electric light, gas, and water were owned by the city, these conditions were also true.

The franchises were of the greatest importance to the people of Peterborough. In Glasgow, gas was supplied at 51 cents per cubic metre, while in Peterborough $1.25 was paid. To operate the plant for public use, gas could be supplied to the citizens of Peterborough at 60 cents, or half the present price. Then the people of Peterborough could use it for the purpose of heating their houses.

Gas is Important

Gas was next to water in importance. The citizens could be able to say to the coal men, "Unless you cut down your price, we have something just as good." He had always been in favour of the municipality taking over the gas business.

Where to Get Power

Five hundred or seven seven hundred horse power were passing over the dams of Peterborough that was going to waste. He asked whether it was good policy. The speaker criticised the Council for giving a franchise for street lighting for eight years, saying that it was a short-sighted policy.

Mr. Keefer, who had inspected the waterworks dam, had stated that the power available there, even in its poor condition, was 1050 h.p., and, with a proper dam there, costing $100,000, 50 per cent. would be added to the power there. Allowing 500 h.p. for the use of the waterworks, there would be left 1000 h.p. for street lighting purposes. He again referred to what he termed the short-sighted policy of tying the city up to a company when they were in a position to do their own street lighting with a power at first cost.

The Crux of Situation

The crux of the whole situation was the dam, which was a dam that had lived its day. Nearly $4,000 had been spent in repairing it three years ago, and if it had not been caught at once the whole water power would be lost. There was the danger. The very life or death of the city depended upon that dam, and the situation should be seriously considered.

Mr. Stevenson

Mr. A. Stevenson said that he thought that everyone was in favour of the municipal operation of public utilities. He thought that what would pay a private company a fair return would pay the city. The only difficulty in this question was how to run it. How to obtain the power. He thought that the city could negotiate with the Canadian General Electric Company to have a twelve or thirteen-foot head at the waterworks dam.

President's Views

The President said that, personally, he had always been a firm believer in municipal ownership as affecting the highways, and there was now an opportunity afforded of becoming public owners. They wanted to make the city a handsome residential place, and cheap light and gas would go a long way towards doing this. As for building up the city, nothing could do more than cheap power.

Ald. McWilliams

Ald. McWilliams said that there was nothing so important as this question at the present time. There was no one who was altogether in favour of municipal ownership, or altogether against it. The question of the general principle turns upon the question of whether you could get men to put into the business the same honesty and energy that they would in their own business. If this could not be done it was better left alone. If confidence could be put in the likelihood of people electing such men, the question was all right, and he had confidence in the great mass of the electors.

The speaker spoke strongly in favour of municipal ownership, and said that he had always supported the system.

Should Have Control of Streets

The municipality should have the entire control of its streets and highways. He was in favour of municipal ownership of all the public utilities which concerned the use of the highways, if the price was at all reasonable.

With regard to the particular question before the meeting, Ald. McWilliams said that if the gas and light business could be separated, they could be dealt with much more easily. The gas question was a simple one, only a matter of price.

Room for Advancement

He agreed with Mr. Moore that there was room for great advancement in the use of the gas. The present plant would permit of the use of three or four times as much gas as at present.

The electric lighting question was even more important, as it was used by more people, but the question was a complicated one. The first thing was to assure themselves that they had power to run it. The second difficulty was that they would be in opposition against a private company and would be up against the Commee Act. Then, if they had to build a new dam they would find themselves met with an expenditure of perhaps $500,000. He thought that if next year's Council got to work they could get around these difficulties.

In reference to the Council's action in giving the franchise to the Power Company, he said that the Council had been justified in this step, inasmuch as the people had supported it.

Alderman Hicks

Ald. Hicks said that he was decidedly in favour of the system of municipal ownership, if properly applied. He thought that it must be taken for granted that the electorate of the city would elect capable men to manage any municipal enterprise. In regard to the electric light proposition, he said that unless they had power they could do nothing. It seemed to him that, before they took up the light question, they should first take up the matter of securing power.

In reference to the steam heating proposition, he said that he had opposed it because it was merely a sectional enterprise, one that would not benefit the whole body of the citizens. Furthermore, he thought it was an experiment, and did not consider that the city should take up experiments.

Plenty of Power at Waterworks

Mr. Moore said that there was abundance of power at the waterworks dam. He read extracts from Mr. Keefer, the engineer's report, showing that a head of ten feet could be obtained, giving available power as 1000 h.p., and that if the dam were placed into a proper condition the power could be increased 50 per cent. He took exception to the statements of preceding speakers, that the lighting question could not be taken up until power was obtained. He asked if their statements were based upon Mr. Keefer's report.

Mr. Langford's Views

Mr. Wm. Langford said that water power was going to waste at the waterworks dam. Only 200 h. p. were used in operating the waterworks. If two feet were added to the head at the dam, perhaps 2000 h.p. would be developed. At the expenditure of $100,000, 1800 h.p. could be available for use. He advised the building of a new dam there. They would then be in a position to do what they liked with the power.

Mr. Eastwood

Mr. Vincent Eastwood said that if the water power could be obtained at the waterworks dam at the price indicated, the most should be made of it. The city should make the best of its assets. It behooved the municipality to get to work at once. In regard to the question of light and gas being second to the water power question, he said that the gas question was not as simple as Ald. McWilliams had stated.

Mr. Langford again spoke strongly in favour of building a new dam at the waterworks.

Aldermen's Views

Ald. Tovey said that he had been in favour of municipal ownership as early as 1878. He was not in favour of municipal ownership for the few. "The greatest good for the greatest number," said the alderman. Concerning the gas question, he said he was strongly in favour of it. His ambition was to see cheap lights in the homes of men who were earning $1.25 per day.

Ald. Johnston

Ald. Johnston expressed himself in favour of municipal ownership, and was in favour of purchasing the gas and light business if it could be done at a reasonable price. So far as house lighting was concerned, the Council would be up against the Commee Act.

Ald. Duncan

Ald. Duncan also expressed himself in favour of municipal ownership, and thought that the city should go to work to develop power at their own dam. So far as the lighting and gas business was concerned, he was of the opinion that the matter should be gone into very carefully.

Dairy Show

The meeting also took up the proposal to establish an annual dairy show here, under the auspices of the Dairymen's Association. Ald. Mason, chairman of the Finance Committee, was present, and read a letter from Mr. Cowan, the secretary of the committee appointed by the association to deal with the question of accommodation for the show, in which that gentleman asked concerning the accommodation which could be secured in this city for such a purpose. Ald. Mason explained that

The current issue of St. Luke's Parish Magazine says: The many friends of our young divinity student, Mr. Albert Taylor, will be glad to learn that he has been appointed by the Council of Wycliffe College, a librarian in the college library. This is quite a distinction and is only given to those who in all departments are exemplary students.

Bronchitis is "Cold on the Chest"
AND THE MOST PROMPT AND SATISFACTORY TREATMENT IS
DR. CHASE'S SYRUP OF LINSEED AND TURPENTINE

Acute bronchitis is none other than what is commonly known as "cold on the chest," and is marked by difficult breathing and tightness or soreness of the chest.

As a preventitive, Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine will, if taken in time, positively prevent the symptoms of bronchitis or cold in the chest.

As a cure, it will entirely overcome even the long-standing cases of chronic bronchitis, and it should not be forgotten that, when neglected, bronchitis usually returns time and time again until the victim is worn out by its debilitating effects.

It is largely the extraordinary success of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine as a cure for bronchitis that has made this treatment so popular. People quite rightly reason that what will cure bronchitis will make short work of croup and ordinary coughs and colds.

Mrs. Richmond Withrow, Shubenacadie, Hants Co., N. S., writes: "I have used Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine with good success. My second daughter was troubled with bronchitis from the age of three weeks. Oftentimes I thought she would choke to death. The several remedies we got did not seem to do of much use, but the first dose of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine brought relief, and further treatment made a thorough cure. This trouble used to come back from time to time, but the cure is now permanent. Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine has saved us many doctor's bills, and I would not be without it in the house for many times its cost."

Dr. Chase's Syrup of Linseed and Turpentine, 25 cents a bottle, at all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Toronto. To protect you against imitations, the portrait and signature of Dr. A. W. Chase, the famous receipt book author, are on every bottle.—12.

PINE STICK OF TIMBER A YARD IN DIAMETER

The attention of a number of observing citizens was called to-day to a log of pine timber which passed up George street on a sleigh. The stick was, from all appearances, at least three feet in diameter, and reminded one of the time when Peterborough was in its babyhood days.

RUNAWAY HORSE STUMBLED WAS SAVED FROM DEATH

Almost Went over Embankment on Charlotte Street

Stumbling within a few yards of the edge of the high embankment at the eastern end of Charlotte street, a runaway horse barely escaped falling to destruction. The horse, which is owned by Mr. Wm. Gill, of Smith township, became frightened as it stood at the rear door of the market arcade, by falling snow from the roof. It was attached to a sleigh laden with pork and beef, which the owner had just disposed of, and, in turning in front of the National Hotel, the meat was spilled along the street. The frightened animal was making straight for the high embankment, when it turned "head over heels" and was captured. Some damage was done to the harness and sleigh, but it was not serious.

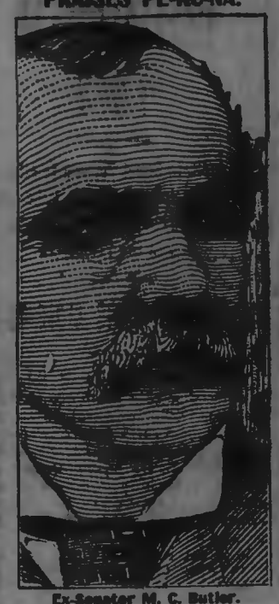
UNITED STATES SENATOR FROM SOUTH CAROLINA PRAISES PE-RU-NA.



Ex-Senator M. C. Butler.

Dyspepsia Is Often Caused By Catarrh of the Stomach—Peruna Relieves Catarrh of the Stomach and Is Therefore a Remedy For Dyspepsia.

Hon. M. C. Butler, Ex-U. S. Senator from South Carolina for two terms, in a letter from Washington, D. C., writes to the Peruna Medicine Co., as follows:

"I can recommend Peruna for dyspepsia and stomach trouble. I have been using your medicine for a short period and I feel very much relieved. It is indeed a wonderful medicine, besides a good tonic."

CATARRH of the stomach is the correct name for most cases of dyspepsia. In order to cure catarrh of the stomach the catarrh must be eradicated.

Only an internal catarrh remedy, such as Peruna, is available.

Peruna exactly meets the indications.

2.25 CLASS AT WINTER RACES OF TURF CLUB

The horse attached to the delivery rig of Mr. J. Donovan, the grocer at the corner of Aylmer and McDonel streets, created a little diversion among the throng of Christmas shoppers by indulging in a lively runaway down George street. The animal was captured near Charlotte street, with little damage done except that a bolt was missing from the shaft.

A PETERBOROUGH CAPITALIST IN THIS

Big Syndicate Being Formed to Mine Ore at the Bottom of Cobalt Lake—Mr. Thos. Birkett, of Peterborough, One of the Promoters

THE BIDS FOR RIGHTS CLOSE TO-DAY

Mr. Thomas Birkett of this city, is a member of a syndicate of Canadian capitalists who will, in all probability, be formed for the purpose of mining the silver ore at the bottom of Cobalt Lake, whose waters are known to cover immensely rich beds of silver. Last night's Toronto Star referred to the movement as follows:—

It is not improbable that the bonanza veins of silver ore which are supposed to exist beneath the bed of Cobalt Lake will be mined by a syndicate of Canadian capitalists. The fact that United States syndicates have been casting envious eyes on this big claim and intend to offer the Government big prices for the concessions has stimulated the Canadian mining enthusiasts to action. The time for receiving tenders closes to-morrow.

Meeting To-morrow

Last week it was reported that a Canadian syndicate had offered $1,-200,000 for the mining rights. This was not correct. However there will be a meeting at the King Edward Hotel to-morrow morning to decide upon a price to be offered by an exceedingly strong body of Canadians. Mr. H. H. Lang of Cobalt, formerly an alderman of Ottawa, is active in the promotion of the big syndicate. With him are Messrs. G. E. Henderson, Ottawa; Thomas Birkett, Peterborough; Daniel Rochester, Haileyburg; Mr. W. D. McPherson, Toronto, and Mr. Lang, together with the other gentlemen above named, are the trustees of the syndicate, which is the Canadian. It is not improbable that another syndicate which includes Mr. Shirley Ogilvie, Montreal; Mr. A. E. Osler, Toronto; and Dr. Worthington, Sherbrooke, will merge with the Canadian, the whole making one of the strongest syndicates of Canadians, which has yet exploited in Cobalt claims.

Subsriptions Pouring In

Subscriptions to the syndicate have been coming in with a big rush. Checks to the amount of from $1000 to $20,000 have been pouring in. The fame of the Cobalt Lake mining rifhts has gone abroad and the people are hustling in with a rush.

SECOND NIGHT AT THE KERMESS

Ladies Are Making a Success of the Work—Uniring in Their Efforts—A Large Number There Yesterday

The Yuletide Kermiss under the auspices of the Sisters of St. Joseph, assisted by the Roman Catholic ladies of the city, is now well under way. The machinery, as it were, has begun to act like clock work, and if the attendance for the remaining days of the week, continues to be anything like yesterday and to-day, the Kermiss should be a huge success. Especially last night there was a large crowd present, and it is safe to say that one and all spent an enjoyable evening. The various booths were all lighted, and the different colour schemes of the many booths presented a very pretty picture.

Dinner was served yesterday to over 200 persons, and quite a few took tea last night. Everyone seemed more than satisfied, and Mrs. William Merrill and Mrs. McFadden, and the efficient staff of assistants, should be complimented upon the success with which they have served the meals under the circumstances. Their duties are very onerous, but they appear to be more than a match for them. To give a detailed account of what was going on at the transformed market hall last night is out of the question.

The young people were there in large numbers and appeared to be enjoying themselves immensely. The tobacco booth, in charge of Miss O'Connell, was surrounded by young men, and has proved to be the most popular with the sterner sex. The lemonade grotto, was another centre of attraction, and Mrs. J. C. Sullivan had no difficulty in disposing of refreshments in the line of ice cream, candy and lemonade. The corner grocery has enjoyed great prosperity and has in a way detracted from the dining hall, inasmuch as provisions are sent there as well as to the dining room.

The clothing, cushion, stationery and fancy goods booths, are doing a good business with those who are buying prospective Christmas presents. There are many articles of value in the fancy goods line that make beautiful presents, and the ladies are very willing to instruct a young man as to what he should buy for "her." The fish pond is a great source of amusement for young and old, and the anglers are ever busy in their attempts to make the best catch.

Taking everything into consideration the ladies are extremely busy and so far have made a success of their work. They deserve great credit for their generosity in devoting their time to the advancement of the Kermiss.

KNOX CHURCH RINK TO OPEN THURSDAY NIGHT

The Knox church rink will open for the first time this season to-morrow night, and those in charge report that the ice is in splendid condition. Waiting and dressing rooms have been fitted up in comfort, and the patrons of this rink will be given every opportunity of enjoying the evenings at this popular resort.

MR. JEFFRIES HONOURED BY JOINT BOARD

Presented with Suit Case and Address at Banquet Given to the Choir

THE EVENING WAS VERY ENJOYABLE

The members of the choir of the George street Methodist church were very pleasantly entertained last night by the Trustee Board and Quarterly Official Board at a banquet and a most enjoyable evening was spent. The joint Boards took advantage of the opportunity to show their esteem for Mr. John Jeffries, who is leaving this city for Toronto, and presented him with an address and suit case.

Some seventy-five people sat down to the excellent repast prepared by Messrs. Long Bros., who were the caterers for the occasion. Rev. Dr. Crothers presided.

Speeches expressing appreciation of the able work of the choir and the efforts of the leader, Prof. McCann, were made by Messrs. D. W. Dumble, T. W. Robinson and B. F. Ackerman.

Prof. McCann responded on behalf of the members of the choir and himself. He spoke in appreciative terms of the interest displayed by the Board in the work of the choir and referred to the pleasant relations existing, not only between the choir and the Church Boards, but also in every department of the church work.

Mr. Jefferies Honoured

A pleasing event followed when the presentation to Mr. Jeffries was made. That gentleman has been for years prominently connected with George street church, both in the Sunday School and on the Quarterly Board, and his removal from the city leaves a place that is hard to fill.

Mr. A. W. Cressman read the following address while Mr. Benj. Shortly on behalf of the joint Boards presented him with a solid leather fitted suit case:—

The united Quarterly and Trust Boards of the George street Mthodist church, Peterborough, on the occasion of the removal to Toronto of John Jeffries, B.A., desire to put on record their regret that the fellowship that has so long existed is about to be severed.

Mr. Jeffries came to Peterborough to take a position on the staff of the Collegiate Institute, seventeen years ago, and since then he and his wife have been consistent and active members of the church, each living the high and useful life of a Christian, each co-operating heartily in the life and efforts of the church and thus endearing themselves to many, and by their zeal and labours assisting to advance the interests of religion.

Mr. Jeffries has been a faithful teacher and superintendent of the Sunday School, a member of the Quarterly Board and a zealous and effective helper in the financial efforts of the church and throughout a faithful, zealous Christian worker and influence.

We would all the more regret his departure were it not for the knowledge that he leaves to take a more advantageous position in Toronto.

We assure Mr. and Mrs. Jeffries of our continued interest in their welfare and hope for them all success and happiness in their new home and ask them to accept from us a small gift which may be to them a reminder of the respect and good will borne to them by the people of Peterborough.

A. W. CRESSMAN,
Rec. Steward.
A. E. DIXON,
Secretary of Trust Board.

Mr. Jeffries made a suitable reply, expressing his regret at severing his connection from the George street church.

Speeches eulogistic of Mr. Jeffries' services were made by Mr. Dumble and others.

During the evening enjoyable music was provided by different members of the choir.

EKO CAMP CLUB SETS A VERY GOOD EXAMPLE

Other Organizations in the City Might Become Echoes of This Club in This Praiseworthy Action

Will the other clubs and societies become a practical echo of the Eko Club, which, as recorded in this issue has collected from its members the sum of $8, which has been forwarded, through the Examiner, to the treasurer of the Children's Aid Society? He will be glad to receive contributions from other clubs and societies, or the Examiner will gladly be the medium of acknowledging publicly and conveying to the treasurer, any sums that may be collected for the benefit of this most excellent institution. Christmas-tide is especially related to the children, and their little lives are greatly brightened by remembrance at this festal season.

PETERBOROUGH GOOD PLACE FOR SKATING

Lindsay Rink Manager Thinks Peterborough People are Particularly Well Looked After in the Way of Rinks

Talking about roller skating and other amusements, Mr. Coombs manager of the Lindsay rink, said, "Peterborough is the place for that; they charge 25c. for a skate, supplying you with the roller skates, and 10c. for spectators. They have a splendid system in running the rink, too. The Street Railway has an open air rink at Jackson Park and anyone who pays the fare of 5c. on the street car, is entitled to skate on the rink.

Nothing makes a more appreciated Christmas gift than a season ticket for the Brock Street Rink. Make your friend happy by sending one this week. The prices are:—Gentlemen, $3.00; Ladies, $.200; Youths, $2.00; Girls or Boys, $1.50. For sale at the Examiner office, Peterborough Book Store, Best Hardware Co., Sanderson's and Clarke's.

PETERBOROUGH GROWN CARNATIONS

The First Time in the City's History Demand will be Filled for Christmas by the Local Supply

For the first time in the history of Peterborough florists the supply this year of carnations for Christmas will be sufficient to meet the demand, this condition being brought about through the enterprise of Messrs. Jordan Brothers, who last summer erected a large carnation house, and set out thousands of carnation plants, which are now in full bearing.

It other seasons it was necessary at this time of the year to send to Toronto for carnations, and the result was that they could not always be procured when they were wanted, but this year this will be all changed, and the demand of the Peterborough people for carnations will be supplied from the local hothouses.

Messrs. Jordan Brothers are cutting every day now from 400 to 500 carnations, and they are preparing to have no less than 2,000 for Christmas Day, news which local citizens will learn with considerable satisfaction, giving evidence, as it does, to the progressiveness and enterprise of this firm.

This year we have an unusually large assortment of

SKATES

and would particularly recommend those made by the Canada Cycle & Motor Co.

The quality of steel, the few parts and the extra fine finish, make them easily the best on the market.

We sell Henry Boker's, too, and our prices are right.

A LIVELY MID-WEEK MARKET THIS MORNING

Beef and Fowl Were Offered in Large Quantities—Hay was Plentiful

The market to-day was one of the largest Wednesday markets for many years. Country residents, with well laden sleighs of beef, pork, and all kinds of fowl, began arriving early, and soon the market was filled with eager purchasers, after their Christmas dinners.

In the market hall, fowl was the prominent article for sale. Geese were quoted at about $1.25 each. The turkey family varied greatly in size, the owners asking from 90c. to $1.80 each. Chickens were not in very great demand, and were offered at from 40c. to 55c. per pair. Eggs were scarce and sold at 25c. per dozen.

On the market square, beef, hay and wood were prominent. The beef was of an excellent quality, and was plentiful. It sold at 5c and 6c per lb., for fore and hind quarters respectively. Pork was scarce and sold at 8c. About 20 loads of hay, mostly all timothy, was offered, the price being in the neighbourhood of $14 per ton. Hard wood sold at from $5.75 to $6 per cord.

SOMETHING DOING AGAIN AT THE POLICE COURT

Husband Fined Five Dollars for Assault on Wife—Young Man Assaulted P. C. Newhall

To-day the police court had two cases to grind out which were a little out of the way. One was that of a husband who when the worse of liquor, assaulted his wife, though when in a sober state he treats her as well as any man. The libations were becoming too frequent and on the last occasion he had placed the last straw on the pack. He was fined $5 by Magistrate Dumble and received a warning that he should stop drinking before it had thoroughly taken hold of him.

The other was that of Mr. Fred McGee, who was charged with assaulting Policeman Newhall last night. The evidence of both was heard and the case enlarged until to-morrow until further evidence could be obtained.

WERE APPOINTED TO PHYSICAL COMMITTEE

Messrs. Mitchell, Shea and Best elected to fill Vacancies on That Important Committee of the Y.M.C.A.

The Physical Committee of the Y. M.C.A. at a meeting last night transacted much important business relating to the work. Messrs. C. H. J. Mitchell, Ray Best and Wm. Shea have been added to the committee to fill vacancies. The other members are Messrs. G. L. Galley, chairman; and E. E. Lord.

BAND AT BROCK STREET RINK AGAIN TO-NIGHT

Arrangements Made for Music To-night —Further Improvements

The 57th Band will be in attendance at the Brock street rink to-night. The ice is better to-day than it has been all winter, and a record crowd should be present to-night. Judging from the attendance at the rink so far this season the present winter will be the most prosperous in its history. A number of further improvements are being effected to the interior arrangements of the rink, which will add to the comfort of the patrons. The office is being considerably enlarged, and receptacles placed in it for ladies' skates and boots, a move which the ladies will greatly appreciate.

A NOVEL METHOD OF GIVING XMAS PRESENTS

Murray Street Baptist Church S. S. Make a Large Presentation of Xmas Cheer Given to the Needy

FRIENDS OF THE CHURCH REMINDED

The annual tea in connection with the Sunday school of the Murray street Baptist church, was held last night in the school room. In the opinion of the oldest members, it was the most entertaining and enjoyable of the many similar affairs that have been held from year to year by the congregation.

After the tea a delightful concert was given, which was as unique as it was out of the ordinary. The usual custom among the various classes of the Sunday school has been to interchange Christmas presents between the teachers and the scholars. Pleasing as this has been, the school has this year performed an even more laudable act, and each class has collected a quantity of a particular line of goods, and this will be presented to the less fortunate friends of the school.

The novelty of the presentation was that each class was costumed representing the objects donated, in some manner. A curtain at the front would be opened and each class would appear in their turn in costume and sing a chorus, or some one would make a speech, and then they would place their presents on a large table. It was a good idea, and some of the presentations were executed in a very pleasing manner.

Before the concert a splendid tea, which had been prepared by the ladies of the church, was served from 5.30 until 7.30. It was a very enjoyable feature of the evening's entertainment, the ladies surpassing all past efforts in the spread they had prepared. The concert started at 8 o'clock and was over shortly before 10 o'clock. Everything was carried out without a hitch, the many classes answering immediately to the chairman's call. The admission was an odd feature, the boys paying a potato and the girls presenting an apple.

Special mention should be made of Mr. Shiner's class. They represented a number of hunters, who had gone hunting and returned with the spoils of the chase. They told stories and sang songs, and then made their presentation of fowl. It was a splendid number. This is an explanation of the methods in which the offerings were presented. Mr. Ellis' class was also splendid, as well as that of Miss Matthews, Miss Perrin and Miss Cochrane and others.

The quantity of goods provided was larger than ever before, and the school is highly satisfied with the success of their efforts. The gift of the Bible class was in cash, and as Mr. Matthews said, was a creditable one. Miss Emily Miller's vocal solo was another number that deserved special mention. The gifts will be distributed this week by the following committee: Teachers and officers of the school, Children's Aid Society's officer, and City Relief officer. The following is a synopsis of the programme:

Hymn—School.
Prayer—Mr. Benj. Matthews.
Remarks by Superintendent re year's work.

HIS WIFE RAN AWAY WITH ANOTHER MAN

He Wanted a Warrant for His Arrest---Got Advice

Mr. Dumble told a story this morning about an overgrown man that entered his office lately and demanded a warrant for the arrest of a man who had disappeared with the former's wife. The man said that his wife had deserted him about a month ago. Mr. Dumble told him that if she were so unfaithful to him he ought to be glad that he was so well rid of her. The man had no clue whatever, but wanted a warrant just the same. Mr. Dumble advised him to go home and reconsider the matter, and keep silent about it. The man finally decided to do so.

the matter had been referred to the Finance Committee, which body had not yet had a chance to deal with the matter.

Building on Market Square

The suggestion had been made, said the alderman, that, in the event of the exhibition being made an annual affair, the city should construct a building on the Market Square, which could be used for the purpose of holding the show. The building would comprise two stories, the upper one to be used for the exhibiting of cheese and butter, while the lower could be made use of for cattle. Such a building would cost, perhaps, $25,000 or $30,000, but the structure could be used for a market, the lower part being available for vehicles. The present market could be converted into stores and offices, and a revenue could thus be derived from them.

"Scheme Extavagant."

Mr. Eastwood thought that the scheme was most extravagant. The land was too valuable, and the proposition could not be thought of.

Mr. Moore said he did not think that the association would hold yearly exhibitions in Peterborough, and it would be foolish to think of spending $25,000 on a building for an exhibition that might be held only once in three or four years. He thought that this should suggest to the Government that they put up the buildings if the city of Peterborough supplied the lot.

Market Building Inadequate

The President remarked that the present market building was totally inadequate, and that they would have to get out of it. The building was not suitable for a market. The farmers had to stand outside in all kinds of weather with their horses and rigs, while in other places they had coverings.

Mr. Langford said that, as a rule, as the city grew, the market decreased in size.

Mr. Denne called attention to the fact that the market tolls were decreasing y r by year.

Important Question

He remarked that the question was a very important one, and that if it could be secured as an annual show, every effort should be made to secure it. He thought that a committee should be appointed to wait upon the Government to urge that a grant be made.

Ald. Johnston concurred in this opinion, speaking of the importance of securing the show for Peterborough.

Ex-Ald. Leary said that the market building was inadequate and that the stairs were dangerous.

Mr. Moore said that the City Trust Commissioners were willing enough to place a covering over the market if the proceeds of the market were given to them.

Mr. Langford thought that the market should be removed from where it was, suggesting the ground re-claimed by the dredging operations as a situation.

Resolvtion Passed

On motion of Mr. Stevenson, seconded by Mr. Denne, a resolution was passed, advising the City Council to take steps to have the dairy show established in this city.

Ald. Mason said that this resolution was very nice, but he asked what it carried with it. He said that most of the members of the Board had seemed to be against the proposal, and yet they had passed a resolution in favour of the scheme. He thought that the men who had jumped on the suggestion should show some way out of the difficulty.

There was no more discussion, and the Board then adjourned.

THE FORMAL OPENING OF PARK A SUCCESS

Enormous Crowd Was Present at Jackson Park Last Night

The formal opening of the Jackson Park rink and toboggan slide took place last night, when there was an enormous crowd present. Both rink and toboggan slide were largely patronized throughout the evening, and a most enjoyable time was spent by the hundreds of young people in attendance.

The scene presented was a gay one. Hundreds of gayly coloured lights strung over the rink and along the slide, and the bright costumes of the crowd, made up a picture that will not soon be forgotten by anyone. The spectacle at the slide was especially brilliant, the vari-coloured sweaters and toques of those taking part in the pastime made up a scene that was typically Canadian and wholly enjoyable.

The slide this year has been improved by the addition of two more chutes, making five in all, and the descent is also longer. Tobogganing took a firm hold upon the affection of the young people of this city last year, and, under the improved conditions, this season should be even more popular. There was a very large number of enthusiastic followers of the sport present last night, and they made good use of their time. The slide is in splendid condition.

The rink was also in good shape last night, and was well patronized. The band was in attendance and rendered a good programme. The street car service to the park is of the best, and it is evident that this season will be a record one with the splendid winter resort, which the people of Peterborough are singularly fortunate in having situated in their city.

FALSE THEORIES

Lead to Worthless or Harmful Remedies.

Stimulating the scalp may allay the itching of the dandruff, but that does not cure the scalp. The disease won't yield to quinine or capsicum nor alcohol, because it is caused by a germ or parasite. To cure dandruff the germ must be destroyed. Until recently there was no hair preparation, or dndruff cure, or hair restorer on the market that would kill that insidious germ that dries up the scalp in little scales called dandruff, and absorbes the vitality of the hair, causing falling hair, and finally baldness. Newbro's Herpicide is the only really scientific preparation to cure dandruff, prevent falling hair and baldness. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

THE DAUGHTERS OF ENGLAND SYMPATHY

Members of Local Lodge Passed Resolution of Condolence at Its Last Meeting

The local Daughters of England lodge at a recent meeting passed a resolution of condolence to Mr. Worboy, on the recent death of his wife. The resolution, a copy of which has been forwarded to Mr. Worboy, is as follows:—

Mr. Warboy and Family:

We, the Daughters of England, wish to express our heartfelt sympathy in this, your sad hour of of bereavement, in the loss of a wife and mother. We know that nothing can heal the anguish of a husband's heart, but the One who said "Yea though I walk through the Valley of the shadow of Death Thou art with me, Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me.

We would direct you and yours to God for help and strength, who wipes away all tears from our eyes and will cause that sorrow to turn into joy.

Signed on behalf of D.O.E. Lodge.

Yours fraternally,
R. MITCHELL,
Worthy Secretary.

THE LATEST SPORTS

WILL ARMSTRONG CATCH THE TEAM?

His Style of Hockey is Different From That of the Ottawas, for Which Team He is a Candidate

Ottawa Free Press: Much interest centered on Harold Armstrong. The ex-Smith's Falls man is tall and wiry. He is a splendid skater, and once started on a rush is a difficult man to pull up. He went easy last night, but what was seen of his play here last year made quite an impression on the hockey populace. Armstrong is purely an individual hockeyist, playing more the Western Ontario style of game than that in the East. His defence work is not of the same calibre as his jaunts down the ice. A few games in the E.C.H.L. however, may acquaint him with strenuous methods necessary to break up combination, and in time prove him as good near the nets as his assistance in advancing on his adversaries' goal. Should it come to a question of picking Moore or Armstrong for a place in an important game, the selecting body will have to juggle the very difficult problem of whether a defence man who excels in forward rushes, and lacks the defence play, should be given precedence over the defence man who can play defence and does not shine as a forward.

GEO. LYNCH MANAGER OF PETERBORO' TEAM

Fred. Whitcroft Again Appointed Captain of the Local Seven

At a meeting of the Executive of the Peterborough Hockey Club, George Lynch was elected manager of the seniors for the season. Mr. Lynch is well qualified to hold such a position as he knows the game from cover to cover. Fred. Whitcroft was again elected to the position of captain, which he held so well last year and the choice seems a most popular one. The team committee, it was decided, will be composed of the captain, manager and another not yet selected.

ROY ARMSTRONG WAS RELEASED BY BRANDON

Failed to Make Good with That Team and His Place will be Taken by Doc Smith, in all Probability

Brandon News: Roy Armstrong, the Peterborough recruit, formerly of New market and Alliston, and brother of Harold Armstrong, now with the Ottawa's, who was slated to play centre for the Brandon team, has not shown good in practice, and has been released. The executive is endeavouring to get Doc Smith out again, and, failing that, will give either Treherne or Martin a trial for the position.

HOCKEY

The Lindsay Post says: — "Amos" McWilliams was out with the "Midgets last night and made things interesting. He is a good player and very speedy on his skates. The only trouble is that he is beyond the junior age limit this season.

CURLING

Four out of the six rinks were in motion at the curling rink last night. Ice was keen for curling and the games were all closely contested. The following were the skips and scores:—

R. M. Waddell, 20.	C. N. Brown, 8
T F Matthews, 13	D Cameron, 11.
H Snowden, 11	D Hall, 11
A Blade, 8.	J S Knapman, 4.

KNOX CHURCH CHOIR HAD ENJOYABLE DRIVE

Las Night Through the Generosity of Mr. J. W. Bennett

The members of Knox Church choir through the generosity of Mr. J. W. Bennet were treated to a most enjoyable sleigh ride last night. The members assembled at the residence of Mrs. McCannon on Park street, and at 7.30 o'clock started out on the ride. The evening was a splendid one and the drive was greatly enjoyed. The party went almost to Springville before turning back.

On reaching the city a most enjoyable repast was served at Long's Palm Parlours at which speeches were made by Mr. W. O'Shea, Rev. A. Bright and Duncan Campbell and a pleasant social hour spent.

The members of the choir are very grateful to Mr. Bennet, for his kindness and the one regret was that he was unable to accompany them.

A Hero Ministering To 30,000 Inhabitants In Bleak Labrador

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell, the "Father Daniels" of Labrador, Tells in an Interesting Address of His Fifteen Years' Work in the Far North—He Will Again Risk His Life in the Noble Work

In view of the fact that in the near future, a ball will be held in the city in the interests of the Deep Sea Mission, in which Dr. Grenfell is identified, the despatch which follows from New York, reporting the visit to that city of the devoted doctor, who has given his life to the work of ministering to the material and spiritual wants of the fisherfolk, of the Labrador coast, will be read with interest:

New York, Dec. 19. — "If I were asked to name the most useful man on the North American continent, the man who nearest approaches the heroic ideal, I think I should name Dr. Grenfell," said Lord Strathcona the other day, in discussing the builders of modern Canada.

Dr. Wilfred T. Grenfell who quietly arrived in New York last week, is the Father Damien of Labrador — a man unique among other men of the hour, a plain spoken, weather-beaten, deprecatory physician, who for fifteen years has annually steamed and sledged three or four thousand miles from Cape John of Newfoundland, around Cape Norman, into the Straits of Belleisle, and from Ungava Bay and Cape Chidley, off the Labrador coast, southward into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, and who in consequence was recently made a Commander of St. Michael and St. George by King Edward.

As Norman Duncan tersely pictures this most sinister circuit that man or missionary ever rode, it is studded with reefs, drift ice and sea, and over all the fog — thick, widespread, persistent, impetuous in coming, mysterious in movement, compounding the flash and thunder of dangers both open and hidden. It blinds man who curse it, as they grope along in their skiffs and schooners, as does this medical mariner, whose positive knowledge only vitiates the peril.

Violent winds are treacherous enough on the United States seaboard coast, but they are as toy revolvers barking against rock bound Labrador.

In his cockleshell steamer, the Strathcona, this physician darts here and there, visiting those of his thirty thousand parishioners who need medical or surgical attention — all summer long during the great fishing season on and off the Dogger Banks, responding to calls, gathering patients for the various hospitals, and literally bearing his life in his hands.

Operations on Ship

Often in cases of emergency operations are performed aboard the Strathcona, while she rolls and plunges in the rough seas. She is never still a moment while the waters are open, but in November, when navigation closes, and winter clutches sea and shore in an iron grasp, the Strathcona goes into dock, while the ill and starving are sought out by dog team and komatik; or also as at present, Dr. Grenfell visits Montreal or New York, in quest of assistance in prosecuting the work. Thirty thousand human beings dependent upon one doctor and three assistants —such is the story in a phrase.

Americans who are proud of the recent achievement of Rob. E. Peary in planting the Stars and Stripes so near the baffling pole are beholden, without knowing it, to this same Labrador medical missionary; for the crew of the Roosevelt, from the skipper, Bob Bartlett, to the handy cabin boy, was recruited entirely from among those hardy fisher folk, whom Dr. Grenfell dubs "my people." Skipper Bartlett in fact was a spindling lad when the doctor began sailing the Labrador littoral.

"Peary picked the best of my boys," said Dr. Grenfell, "to accompany him on the Roosevelt, and his good judgment was shown by the results. So we feel in Labrador and Newfoundland that another link has been welded in the chain which binds us to the States. If any human combination exists for opening the frozen timelock which men call the North Pole, it is this one of American brains and coastwise Canadian brawn.

"Now," pursued the famous missionary, "people, particularly in comfortable, well housed communities, often ask me why on earth I am burying myself alive in Labrador. It is not often worth while to answer them in words, for they might not be able to realize the salty savor of life among hardy fisherfolk. For instance, I spent yesterday afternoon in Wall street, studying the highways of finance — the trusts and so on. I heard a fair visitor in the gallery of the stock exchange commenting to a broker on the costliness of a seat in that temple of chance.

"'Ninety thousand dollars for a seat' she exclaimed, gazing at the army of standees scouting and shouting below her on the floor. 'No wonder they never sit down!'

"But, seriously speaking, we have captains, courageous and genuine captains of industry in legions up on the Labrador coast, but no trust—except in God. Nor have we any nations or any artificial social distinctions. Every one is a worker with the simple implements provided by nature, and we are all absolutely free and equal — far more democratic, in fact, than you are here.

The Glamour of It

"And so when anybody asks me why we choose to remain in such a forbidding region the conviction is borne in upon me that it is better to be one's own master, even in dire poverty if needs be, than to be the slave of another and reap a richer wage in money. In other words there are many of the four thousand permanent inhabitants of Labrador, the Liveyere, as we call them, who are born in debt, live in debt, and die in debt. On the other hand, they can build and own their own business, they can get all the firewood needful, and they have no rents to bother them. They have long periods when they are entirely their own masters, when they can do just as they like, and they have much more time to enjoy existence than have any save the rich in America."

"And there are no class distinctions?"

Dr. Grenfell smiled. "None worth mentioning, except in sporadic cases." He chuckled, and continued: "There is a tradition in Labrador that a certain woman once boasted of her high connections in England, as women must and do, occasionally, the world over. But when she was closely questioned about a certain high and mighty relative, she replied nonchalantly that he was some sort of superintendent of foreign governments."

Again the keen but kindly face wrinkled, but was soon ironed of its creases as Dr. Grenfell vouchsafed a bit of his history. He had gone from London to Labrador, he said, fifteen years ago, after graduating from Oxford, setting sail from Yarmouth in a ninety-ton fishing schooner. Since then, according to record, in the face of privations, peril and prejudice, he has, with a genial smile, but indomitable purpose, attended thousands of patients free of charge, preached the Word, clothed the naked, fed the starving, sheltered the homeless, championed the oppressed—evil, poverty and disease single handed.

"It's been jolly good fun," said he, simply.

Inspired by Moody

His original inspiration in taking up this work was a sermon he heard the American evangelist, Dwight L. Moody, preach in London. Years afterward the two men met in this city and Grenfell thanked Moody for the sermon. "And what have you been doing since?" queried Mr. Moody. "What have you been doing since?"

Perhaps the best answer to this question is incorporated in the following specimen letters of appeal received by the Labrador, doctor, friend of President Roosevelt, of Secretary Root, who has warmly championed the Grenfell missions since visiting Labrador himself a year or so ago; Lord Strathcona and Mount Royal, of Norman Duncan, his brilliant historian; of King Edward, and, above all, the best friend the fishermen of Labrador and Newfoundland ever had:

"Doctor please I want to see you. Doctor sir have you got a leg if you have Will you please send him Down Peara he will fit and you will oblig."

"Reverance dr. Grenfell: Dear sir we are expecting you hup and we would like for you to come so quick as you can for my dater is very sick with a pipe sore under her left lam please come as quick as you kan to savelife"

"Dear Dr. Grenfell: I would like for you to Have time to come down my house (merely one hundred Labrador miles distant) before you leaves to go to St. Anthony. My little Girl is very bad. Cant Ply her Neck forward if do she nearly goes into convinces. I don't know what is the matter with her Myself. But if you see Her if you would know what is the matter with Her. Please send a Word By the Bearer what gives you this note and let me know where you will have time to come down to my House. I lives down the Bay a Place called Berry Head."

Some Pathetic Appeals

Or this concluding summons, which reached the physician in remote St. Anthony just before he started for the States:

"Dear doctor and friend—She is dying." Please to hurry."

All of which merely indicates what the sailor-doctor has been doing since—merely indicates, for among other benefactions directly traceable to this neighbour and counsellor of Santa Claus is a mission founded at St. Anthony, near the extreme northeast point of the Newfoundland coast. Another one well equipped and commodious, is at Battle Harbour, a rocky island off the Labrador coast, near the Straits of Belle Isle. A third one is at Indian Harbour, half way up the gray, ragged coast, which is open through the fishing season between early spring and November; and, finally, the staunch little hospital steamer Strathcona, aboard which Dr. Grenfell lives and travels four thousand miles annually, with such disregard of danger, in the midst of scourging gales, raging seas, and the eternal menace of icebergs, as to have earned him the rom de guerre of benign madman among the fisher folk.

Dr. Grenfell was silent concerning events before his coming, but this incident is self-explanatory: A physician was called to a little cottage where three children were stricken with diphtheria, the parents demanding an injection of antitoxin.

"This," said the doctor, "will cost you $2 an injection," addressing the father of the family.

"Oh, ay, sur; I'll pay you, sur. Go on, sur."

"But you know my rule—no pay, no work. I can't break it for you, you know, or I'd have to break it for half the coast."

"Oh, ay! It's all right, sur. I wants un cured. I'll pay you when I sells me fish."

"But you know my rule — cash down."

The fisherman had but four dollars and could neither beg nor borrow any more—four dollars—two children. Which ones should be treated, the father was asked. Which ones? Of course the doctor must choose, so he chose the hardest ones—and the third child died.

"Well," said the father on the day of the funeral, "I s'pose a doctor haves a right to be paid for what he does. But," vaguely bewildered, "'tis sort o' queer!"

Largest Clientele

This does not apply to-day, when no charge is made for medical or surgical attention throughout the whole length of Labrador, if the patient is unable to pay. However, the practice of his profession is only one item in the account between the doctor and his thirty thousand dependants, so to say. No physician of record has such a clientele, and probably none has ever had.

"As a rule," he said, "it costs about $30,000 a year to keep up the work, a part of which expenses is defrayed by our new co-operative stores, which are a great improvement over the old trading system. Formerly the country was necessarily idle and unproductive for fully five months in the year. But we are now opening mills, though a doctor is supposed to know more about pills than mills, and a few other industries by which the people can employ themselves through the long winter.

This Winter's Work

"This year—this winter—is going to be a particularly hard one for us, because of the wholesale disasters that have visited the great fishing fleets. Twenty-one vessels have been lost off the Labrador and Newfoundland coasts this season, and that means added privations for hundreds of families. Why so many disasters? For two reasons, mainly—the unusual severity of the weather and the fact that there are only two lights on the entire coast line of a thousand miles or more. However, we now have three wireless telegraph stations on the Labrador coast, and there will come a time, I hope, when every fishing fleet will have a flagship equipped with wireless apparatus. That alone will save hundreds of lives every year.

"Then," pursued the doctor earnestly, "I am doing my best to stock the country with reindeer. They propagate very rapidly, and twenty herds would triple themselves in an extremely short time. The result will insure a great portion of the liveyeres against dire hunger, if not starvation, in the remoter regions. Alaska, you know, has been saved by an appropriation of $10,000 from the United States Government for this purpose."

Dr. Grenfell will remain in New York conferring with the society which bears his name, until January 1, when he will return north and resume his work. This will be the first Christmas he will have spent away from Labrador in a dozen years, but before leaving his headquarters at St. Anthony arrangements were made by which Santa Claus will scatter dolls, buns and simple Christmas cheer as if the doctor himself were there. Among the directors and coadjutors of the Grenfell society in this country are President Stephen Baker, of the Manhattan bank; Eugene Delano, Elihu Root, Dr. Henry Van Dyke, D. Bryson Delavan, Frederic S. Lee, Hamilton Wright Mabie, Francis Lynde Stetson, Herbert L. Satterlee and A. Alexander Smith.

WILL RUN SUPPLY STEAMER ON THE LAKES

Mr. A. L. Dunford to introduce navigation on Stony Lake Next Year—Supply Cottagers

HAS PURCHASED THE YACHT "BOBS"

Among the innovations which will be introduced at Stony Lake next summer is one which will undoubtedly prove to be popular and also be of great service to a large number of cottagers. Since the Kawartha chain began to be populated during the summer season has been the custom for many of the farmers, gardeners and fruit growers residing near the shores to supply the cottagers with various sorts of provisions. These have always been carried about from cottage to cottage by the caterers in canoes or skiffs, but it is now assured that this method will soon be a thing of the past.

Mr. A. L. Dunford, who owns the well known boarding house "The Royal," situated on the Duke shore a few miles north of Mount Julian's Landing, has decided to introduce a supply yacht on the lake this season. For this purpose he has purchased the "Bobs" steam yacht formerly owned by Colonel H. M. Rogers. This is one of the best and fastest yachts on local waters and Mr. Dunford has certainly made a good selection. The boat will be taken to Fort Royal early in the spring and made ready for the summer business.

Deal Closed Yesterday

Mr. Dunford was in the city yesterday and stated to an Examiner representative in the afternoon that he had just consummated the deal. This will be something new for Stony Lake, although usual for most summer resorts. It is a scheme which has frequently been spoken of by many of the caterers on Stony Lake, but Mr. Dunford is the first to carry it out and deserves great credit for taking such an advanced step.

In Boschink Section

Mr. Dunford for the past few years has served a large number of the cottagers and campers towards the upper end of Stony Lake with eggs, milk and provisions of various descriptions. The "Bobs" will therefore more particularly around the Boschink section of the lake and will be seen laden with all the good things from the farm to make glad the hearts of the housekeepers.

The "Bobs" Crew

The crew will be composed of Mr. Fred Dunford, son of Mr. A. L. Dunford, as captain, and Mr. W. Brotherson of this city as engineer. The former has done the greater part of the catering on the lake of late years for Mr. Dunford, and is well acquainted both with the business and the waters in which the boat will ply.

There is no doubt that this quick supply-boat will be welcomed with favour among the summer residents around Boschink and there is every probability that others for a similar purpose will be utilized by the other caterers at the lake in the near future.

Chronicles of Don Q.

BY K. AND HESKETH PRITCHARD.

(Copyright by Pearson Publishing Company.)

HOW DON Q. PAID FOR HIS CIGARETTES.

From an expedition Don Q. was returning on a brilliant morning in the last days of March, and had halted for the noonday heat in a cave that overhung a forest of cork trees. No reflection of the sunshine entered his mood, which was one of the blackest. For no less than three days had elapsed since he had run out of material for cigarettes, and almost six since he had sent Robledo down to the plains to bring him the necessary supply.

Don Q. sat, therefore, and stared vindictively at the fire, which was always kindled to warm his chilly blood, even when winter had loosed its grip on the bleak heights.

The sun was about to set gorgeously in the silence of the sierra when a robber came to the door of the cave and crossed himself as he saw the attitude of his chief. He waited for the usual command of Don Q.

"Speak, Gaspar." Don Q. scarcely turned his head.

The big lowering rascal was about to reply, when from outside came a patter of light feet, and the next moment a tall, panting girl stood in the mouth of the cave. The men who had been running after to detain her paused on the threshold.

"I will see my lord of the mountains! Senor, let me speak with you alone," she cried. "These tried to prevent me —"

Don Q. motioned with his hand.

"Sit down," he said, indicating a rough chair which had been contrived from a barrel. Then, turning to his followers, "You will retire," he added; "but, first, what does your brawling mean? Am I to be disturbed in this fashion?"

"The orders," replied Gaspar in a low voice, "were that my lord would not be troubled until the return of Robledo. This woman—"

"Go," snarled the chief, "the senorita would see me alone."

The men filed hurriedly out of sight, and Don Q., with his head sunk between his shoulders, waited till the last footstep died away.

"You have never seen me before," she burst out. "You do not know who I am."

"Go on, dear Isabelilla."

She started violently. "You know me?"

"I fear I know nearly everything," replied Don Q., with an air of regretting an awkward circumstance. "I know, for instance, that when I send Robledo on special errands to the plains, he nearly always wastes an hour or two for which he does not account—with a guitar, Isabelilla."

At the mention of the name of Robledo the girl's eyes filled with tears.

"He will never sing under my window any more," she sobbed.

"This is exceedingly sad news," remarked Don Q. coldly. "I beg you to tell me the whole story—the true story, Isabelilla."

"O, my lord, do not be angry," she pleaded. "Four days ago Robledo came into the town, charged with a mission from my lord. When it was growing dark he went out upon that mission, and presently, in the dark, he returned?"

"With his guitar?" questioned the chief serenely.

"In order to avert suspicion," Isabelilla protested.

"Pray proceed. It is not for you to give me reasons. Give me facts very simply. I will do the rest."

"He was singing—O! a sweet song," went on the girl, in a broken voice, "when there was a sound of men running down the street. His music ceased, and he swung himself up into the embrasure of the window, where it was very dark. The men stopped and searched the shadows under my window, and one said—'He was here but a moment ago, when I warned you'—for no one dreamed he was in the window above, clinging to the bars. 'What is to be done?' they said; and one who seemed the leader, answered—'We will remain here without noise in the shadows, for of a surety this man whom we have seen this evening in the company of smugglers and thieves, will come presently with the tobacco he received to see this woman,' and he added words, my lord, that should not be spoken of a woman"—she paused, for she was crying very bitterly.

"Ah!" commented Don Q. "And after?"

"Robledo heard the words, and they hurt his heart, for he loves me. He dropped from the window on the man's shoulders, even before he had finished speaking—and Robledo had a knife in his hand."

"So the fellow died who maligned you? No?"

"I have heard so, lord. He lay upon the ground, and I saw Robledo run very swiftly up the street, and there were five yelping at his heels. They were out of sight in a moment. And doubtless Robledo would have escaped, for he is the bravest and the swiftest of all men; but they chased him into the arms of a patrol who were stationed at the end of the street, near the plaza. He wounded two, but there were ten against him. What would you?"

"So he permitted himself to be made a prisoner?"

The chief's thin smile pointed his comment bitterly.

"Yes; for there were many," Isabelilla deprecated; then resumed, in much agitation—"Next day my mother made inquiries at the prison, after her wont. None suspect her. And they say he will be taken out to the Alameda on Sunday morning and garotted.

"If you were afraid, why did you come into the mountains?"

"To tell my lord," she stammered.

"But what have I to do with the matter?"

"My lord will deliver Robledo. My lord never deserts his people," she said proudly.

"Was it while upon my business that Robledo was captured? Had it been so doubtless I should have released him."

"But—but—O, my lord, you cannot mean you will let him die?"

"I am afraid, dear Isabelilla, that you have fathomed my meaning," said Don Q. with indifference. It would be subversive of the discipline which I maintain among my men were I to release Robledo, who was taken prisoner while disobeying my commands."

"But he loves me," she urged.

"That also I did not command him to do."

Isabelilla stared at Don Q. She could not believe her ears. That the chief, upon whom all her world relied, should forsake Robledo and leave him to his fate was absolutely unbelievable. In her misery she stepped nearer to him, but she could see no sign of relenting in his fierce eyes or upon the sinister lips.

"But Robledo is the most faithful of all my lord's followers," she cried. "In prison he is waiting the aid of my lord. Shall he expect in vain?"

There was still no answer. Carried beyond herself with the sorrow of the moment, she turned on him.

"They will say in the plains that the arm of my lord of the sierra is grown short, seeing it cannot stretch far enough to pluck the most worthy and brave of his men from death."

"They will not say that," replied the brigand gently.

"Why not?"

"Because, my good Isabelilla, I shall take care to avenge Robledo—when he is dead."

The girl looked at him in horror. Then she burst out—

"Since I could walk," she stormed, "I have been—I, too—in the service of my lord. Who sent the news to the mountains that Don Luis was coming, carrying poison in his hat? It was I! Who did her part when my lord came down into the city by night to enter the palace of Don Felipe Majada? It was I! But why do I talk in vain? My lord knows. They say he cannot forget! But that is not true. He has altered, and can forget us now! Then listen, my lord, to Isabelilla. You have changed her from a friend to a foe. She will go down the mountains, and not smile again until she has done the thing that is in her mind. But she will laugh when she sees the lord of the sierra garotted on the Alameda, even as Robledo."

As she turned to go she flung a packet upon the ground at the chief's feet.

"Stop!" At sound of the masterful word the girl halted involuntarily.

"What is this?"

"Robledo, even in the prison, did not forget his lord," she returned furiously. "He bade me fetch this and send it by a sure hand to"—she faced him and met his glance—"my lord. For his sake I brought it, not—" she ended abruptly.

"So Robledo sent me this?" said Don Q. thoughtfully. "Pardon me, Isabelilla." He opened the packet and fingered and smelt the tobacco it contained. "It is good. Know then, girl, that my lack of cigarettes has been a very harrowing trial to me. You will take a message from me to Robledo?"

"Yes, lord."

"You will say that, as Robledo was so criminal as to waste his time under your window instead of coming straight back to me, I am determined to leave him to die."

"Ah," she wailed, striking her hands together in despair.

"And you will add that, as he had the good sense, even when he was lying under sentence of death, to remember the horrible privation I was undergoing without cigarettes, I have for that reason, and that alone, changed my intention, and resolved to forgive him, and take him out of prison on Saturday."

Isabelilla sprang to Don Q.'s side and covered his slender, bony hand with kisses.

"That will do," said the chief, withdrawing his fingers from hers. "Go; lose no time, or Robledo will begin to fear that I intend to punish him according to his deserts."

"Lord, he sent also this," she drew out another packet. "It is a plan of the prison of Castelleno."

"I do not suppose it will be necessary for me to consult it," the chief said, with a strange smile of remembrance, "but leave it here. It was wise to send it."

"And these newspapers," added the girl, with a sly, pleased glance. "Robledo did not forget these, either."

Then she departed radiant and full of joy, praying incoherent blessings from all the saints on the head of Don Q.

Don Q. returned to the boca de Lobo and was sitting in his accustomed place with his lamp beside him and the papers sent by the thoughtful Robledo hanging across his knee. Something he read arrested his attention. He reperused it carefully, then, letting the sheet fall, he sat staring into the fire in his hunched, bird-like attitude, absently rolling cigarettes with deft, fragile fingers. Long-sleeping memories had evidently been awakened in his brain, for he sighed once or twice, as does a man who half regrets a vanished decade.

We have altogether failed in our portraiture of the great brigand if the reader does not by this time understand the dominant quality of freakish humor, compounded of lust of action.

500,000 Babies Are Sacrificed

State Official Declares Adulterated Foods an Appalling Menace.

At a recent meeting of the executive committee of the National Association of State Dairy and Food Departments, the secretary of a state board made the assertion, and produced figures to prove it, that the death of nearly half a million little children in America last year was due to poisons administered in impure foods.

Welcome, indeed, is a food that is known to be pure and wholesome, rich in nutrition and good to eat,—so good that no other food can take its place. We refer to Malta-Vita, that delicious crisp, whole-wheat food. Among all the cereal foods we believe Malta-Vita is the only food that is simply and wholly pure grain product and nothing else, except a little salt. It is free from any foreign sweetening agent or other adulterant, and is made in absolute cleanliness.

A perfect breakfast is impossible without Malta-Vita, and it's just as good three times a day. Containing every food element of the best white wheat and pure barley malt extract, it is intensely vitalizing and easily digested. Let your children have all the Malta-Vita they want and you need not fear for their health. Try some yourself with cream or fruit. You never tasted anything quite so good. All grocers, now 10 cents.

HOW DON Q PAID FOR HIS CIGARETTES

increasing vanity and fantastic courage, which led Don Q. into the chiefest of his exploits. Although, perhaps, he valued Robledo more than any other of his followers, he was quite capable of allowing him to die for a small disobedience, as he regarded the most trifling deviation from orders as a studied insult.

"The fellow realises rightly enough that his life is a small matter compared with the vexatious fact of my lack of cigarettes," he had murmured to himself more than once during the last four days.

He looked down at the paragraph again; his sinister laughter broke out as he struck his hand upon his knee with the air of a man who had found what he sought.

But Don Q. never acted on the spur of a thought if he could spare time for reflection. Thus cigarette after cigarette burnt itself out in a flare between his thin lips before he called Ramon, Gaspar and Felipe up from the fires in the valley.

"Gaspar," he began, "you know the inn at Colaro, on the road to Castelleno?"

"Yes, lord."

"Proceed there, and order an excellent supper for 10 o'clock to-morrow night."

"Yes, lord."

"Go. You, Felipe, will proceed to the Castillo Negro below the mountains, and see there Valentina, who waits upon the maid of the Duquesa. You know her?"

The young man reddened, and glanced up with a furtive look of fear.

"Yes, lord."

The chief met his eyes with a contemptuous smile.

The robber crossed himself, but made no reply. "Go down and bring the girl to the grove of ilex near to Colaro. She shall say that her grandmother is dying. The grandmother who brought her up, you understand? She need fear nothing. She has pleased me." He added some further instructions.

"And you, Ramon, pick with care ten of the least repulsive looking of your comrades, saddle my mule, and wait for me at the head of the pass."

The brigands trooped off, and the chief dropped his eyes once more upon the paragraph that had given him inspiration.

It merely stated that high festivities were to be held in Castelleno on the evening of Saturday, and that the ball would be graced by the presence of the Duquesa d'Orava, who happened to be staying at her country house, the Castillo Negro, some twelve miles distant from the town. It was situated, in fact, upon the upper reaches of that river that murmured so dismally below the prison grating behind which Robledo was lying.

Beneath the sierra, which rose stark and threatening in the moonlight, ran the narrow country road connecting the Castillo Negro with the highway. Down this road the carriage of the old Duquesa must pass as she drove from her house to the ball to be given that night in the city, but the deep dust remained undisturbed in the windings of the lane as late as 7 o'clock on the Saturday evening.

Perhaps the world held no more surprised woman than the old Duquesa d'Oravo when her carriage pulled up with a jerk in the shade of the ilex grove. Perhaps, also, she was frightened; but she was a high-tempered old lady, and she showed no symptom of fear as she called out her strident commands to the coachman to go on.

Report says she was adding some full-flavored remarks when the door opened and a man in a cloak stood bowing before her, his pallid face and bald head gleaming white in the dusk.

At the sight of him the Duquesa's elderly maid began to scream.

"Peace fool! One slits the throat of a screaming hen." The sharp, sibilant tones cut across the woman's shrieks. "May I beg of you, Duquesa, to order this person to descend? I must speak with you alone."

"Certainly not! I am in a hurry. Drive on, Joaquin!"

"Pardon me," said the figure at the door, and before the occupants of the carriage had any idea of his intention, he laid a grip of steel on the maid's arm, and swung her adroitly out into the hands of a man behind him.

"It grieves me to the heart to put you to this inconvenience, illustrissima, but for the sake of performing a humane action, one would venture to plead for your forgiveness."

The old lady listened amazed. This robber had the accent, the bearing of her own class. Oddly enough, the fact further incensed her.

"What does this mean," she cried fiercely. "Who are you. A footpad?"

"Hardly, Duquesa. Your eyes deceive you in this dimness. Believe me, no man has a more profound horror of footpads than myself. To the honorable brigand the footpad is unspeakably abhorrent."

Perhaps the fiery old heart sank at this, but a laugh cackled on the night air.

"A very courtly ruffian," she said insolently. "What is your name?"

"I have for many years past been known as Don Q.," he answered ceremoniously.

"You are the sequestrador?" she said at last.

"Such is the calling I have the honor to follow."

"I have heard that you have never held a lady to ransom."

"Ah! you gratify me. It is quite true."

"Then, what is it you want of me?"

"I came to beg a favor."

"Tell me quickly what it is, for I am late and must proceed."

"I am desolated; but to proceed—that is impossible."

"What do you mean? I am then, your prisoner?" she asked brusquely.

"By no means. Only my guest for twelve hours in a charming valley, where I have made ready for so distinguished a visitor. In the meantime I will ask you to be so good as to lend me your carriage."

"Most assuredly I shall do nothing of the kind!" She brought her palms sharply together to emphasize the refusal.

"It will save a life!"

"Pooh! The life of some bas-born outlaw such as yourself? No, I say. To-night I accept the hospitality of the Santolallas. They fete our great Gen. Ubrique—Don Edmelo Ubrique."

"Do not fear to accept mine, illustrissima." Don Q.'s courtesy remained unturned. "My life is infinitely more noble than that of Santolalla."

He was about to move away as men in the livery of the duquesa emerged from among the trees and took the places of her servants. The sinking moon was beginning to shine upon the road under the ilex trees, and the duquesa's haughty old face peered out keenly.

"These are not my people," she said with imperious finality. "I demand my own servants and to be allowed to continue my journey to Castelleno."

Don Q. turned back.

"That is impossible, my dear lady. Within limits my men are quite at your service. They are not, believe me, as villainous as their looks would seem to indicate. To-morrow morning your own servants and your carriage will be returned to you."

The rage of the duquesa's temper had by this time run up to high pressure.

"I will not submit to this insolence! Who are you that you should put your commands upon me?" she demanded. "How dare you pretend to noble birth? A valet in his master's coat would cut a better figure!"

The chief stood before her silent.

"I order you to let me go! I shall have you whipped in the streets of Malaga, thief!" and with the word a withered hand shot out into the moonbeams, but Don Q., with a slight movement, avoided the fan meant to strike violently across his face.

He was aware of his men's eyes upon him. He bent forward almost into the carriage and spoke to the duquesa.

"Emilia"—the sudden whisper froze her—"do you forget two blows given long ago—first the fan, then the knife—and whose arms were round you after?"

The wind sobbed in the trees; the mysterious night noises made themselves heard; while the Duquesa d'Orava sat stiffly upright without a word or sign. How had this man, this brigand, learned the secret of her tragic girlhood?—and spoken in a voice she seemed to remember!

Don Q. softly closed the door, and waved his hand to the coachman; then, as the wheels rumbled away into the distance, he stepped into the shadows, and once more the little road lay empty under the waning moon.

* * * * * * *

"Enough, my child. I am satisfied with your work. You will have your reward in good time," said Don Q., who, under the skilful fingers of Valentina, had assumed more or less the aspect of the Duquesa d'Orava.

"I have done all I can, lord," stammered the girl, "but the light of a ballroom, it it brilliant—too much for—"

"I do not mean to tempt it. Now, arrange upon my shoulders that horrible garment with feathers placed upon its edges to torture the wearer. I really no longer wonder at the violent moods of women."

The presence of the Duquesa d'Orava at the splendid entertainment given by the Santolallas was regarded as second only in importance to that of the great general himself. After midnight her non-appearance began to breed comment. For, although she rarely missed a ball, she as rarely staid at the Castillo Negro, spending most of her time in Madrid and at other resorts where people of her world congregated according to the season of the year.

As the duquesa's well-known carriage, with its sweating horses, drew up in the patio, servants ran to open the door and usher the guest into the house with all the ceremony due to her rank; but the lady swept away the fingers of the nearest.

"No, no, no!" she cried in a hoarse, excited whisper, "have you heard nothing?—Gen. Ubrique?"

"The illustrious general is here," said the man, who had thrown open the carriage door.

"What—here? Is he then still alive? Alas, poor general!"

The choked words amazed the man. He stared stupidly at the great lady, who seemed to be trembling with agitation in the dusky interior of the coach.

"Come, come," croaked the voice, "an answer, you rogue, or I will deal with you—I mean I will request some caballero to beat you soundly in my name. Come, answer me, is the general still alive?"

"Illustrissima, he was but now dancing in the saloon," stammered the servant.

"I am in time! Quickly, go and beg his excellency to speak with me here. Be off, or I will make you regret—"

But the man was gone.

Gen. Edmelo Ubrique was a personage whom Spain delighted to honor. Risen from a lower rank of life, he had already attained eminence. Suave, strong, unscrupulous perhaps, but both courageous and able.

On receiving her message, he hurried out bareheaded to see her.

"Come, my friend, come," moaned the duquesa, "get in beside me, I dare not risk descending! Come, I will relate to you the whole plot," she added in a whisper. "O! how frightful have been my sufferings, lest I should be too late to save you!"

Ubrique hesitated. He hardly knew what to think of the information the dequesa had sprung upon him.

But the duquesa stopped him.

"I have no need of words. Come, general, enter." She laid her slender hand on his wrist. Looking down at it, he recognized the blazing diamond in the marquise ring on her forefinger. After all, he must humor her.

He bowed his dark head and got into the carriage, taking the seat opposite to his old friend with her inconvenient tears and anxieties.

"Don Edmelo, a plot has been formed against you." The duquesa bent forward and laid her hand affectionately upon his as the carriage rolled slowly out of the patio and took its way back through the Alameda. "I could not exist without giving you—"

There was a strange, muffled sound, for the duquesa had flung the cloak with its insufferable feathers over her companion's head, unseen hands had drawn his feet from under him, and he fell into the bottom of the carriage, half-smothered, but struggling desperately.

Meantime the coach increased its pace.

Far outside the town on a wooded hillside it stopped, and in the darkness Gen. Ubrique found himself, still gagged and bound, carried through the trees and laid on the ground in a little choza where a lantern burned dimly.

After the lapse of a little time a man wrapped closely in a cloak, in the manner of all Spanish men after nightfall came to the doorway and stood looking down at the prostrate figure. Then he stooped and slipped the gag from Ubrique's mouth.

"What is the meaning of this outrage?" Ubrique exclaimed.

"It means that there is a small matter to be settled between us in the next half hour. I am Don Q., and, lest you should unwisely forget the fact, remember you are my captive. As long as you are that, I demand civility, otherwise you will die."

Ubrique pondered.

"How long do you propose to keep me? It is a matter of ransom, of course?" he said at length.

"It may be called so. But the affair is a little out of the common. For your life I ask the life of another man. In the prison of Castelleno lies a certain Robledo, condemned to death. He must be restored to liberty."

"I met the governor of the prison this evening. This fellow is a desperate character. Special precautions—"

"I know that minutely!"

"He is to die to-morrow morning."

"For you sake, I hope not; because, whatever the fate of Robledo, that will be exactly your fate."

The general smiled slowly.

"Ah! and what do you want me to do?"

"Merely to write a letter hinting to the governor that you have absolute evidence of Robledo's innocence. Avoid details."

"In other words, you wish me to procure the release of Robledo in exchange for giving me my life?"

"Precisely, senor."

"Unloose my hands and bring me pen and paper."

Gen. Edmelo Ubrique wrote rapidly for a few moments.

"Shall I tell you what I have written, senor?" he said; and, as Don Q. bowed, he added, "my letter is naturally to the governor of the prison. I have told him how I was brought here by a stratagem; that my death is certain unless the condemned felon Robledo who I find belongs to Don Q.'s own band, is released by way of exchange for my life. You follow me?"

"But certainly. It is to the point;" and the chief laughed in his least attractive fashion.

The general glanced sharply up at him.

"Listen further. 'Such a suggestion proves this brigand's incapacity to understand the code of honor which rules the life of a gentleman of Spain. I beg you will at once have this Robledo put to death.'"

"You have done absolutely as I expected you to do. Pray accept my congratulations. It is the act of a brave man! More, also, it is absolutely the letter I myself, Don Q. of the sierra, would have written in your place, if"—his livid-looking glance fixed itself on Ubrique and held his eyes—"if I had not been rather less of a fool than you are!"

Perhaps there is no man living who would not have admired himself in the position Don Edmelo Ubrique had chosen to take up. He had accepted death for the sake of honor. It is little wonder that he turned furiously on Don Q.

"I could not expect you to understand. You, who are——"

"Hush!" the word hissed out like a bullet. "Listen, before you rashly condemn. I know much about you, Don Edmelo. I have watched your career with attention—if I did not fear to unduly elate you I might almost say with interest; I think you might yet do much for Spain. But if you die here to-day what will the world know of you? That you were taken by a grotesque stratagem, duped by an impersonation you should have been keen enough to fathom. In every fonda the story will be told against you. You will be mourned, not with tears, but with laughter. You were a brave man, perhaps, but a fool, they will say; and Don Q. bamboozled you—that old vulture of the mountains masquerading as the proudest duquesa in the land! Man, die if you will, but do not ruin your reputation!"

Ubrique's color changed to a chilly pallor as he listened. It was true, all that this mountain wolf said; that was the horror of it, it was true! Death, which atones for so much, could not cover him from the ridicule of the people! It was more than he could endure; he turned his eyes to the floor and groaned.

"There is also another matter I would urge upon you. The Duquesa d'Orava is concerned in this affair to a certain extent. Her name, too, will be roughly mouthed when the details are known. I have reason to believe that she would give much to bury all that has passed this night in silence—"

"The duquesa? I had forgotten! What have you done with her?"

"She is safe in a valley yonder. Will you be advised? There is but a short time to spare. I would rescue Robledo if possible—he buys my tobacco for me."

"He is a smuggler?"

"No, not exclusively," Don Q. assured him, as if anxious to bear witness to the good points of his follower. "He is, moreover, young, brave and ambitious, as you are yourself. Why not spare him?"

Ubrique set his teeth. The ridicule of Spain—of Europe! Already he seemed to hear the derisive story—the inextinguishable laughter!

"Go on. What have you to propose?" he muttered between his teeth.

"Simply this. A little note to the governor saying that for reasons of state, Robledo must be set at liberty and sent at once to the Castillo Negro, where the duquesa would question him as to certain matters she has gained knowledge of. This will tally with your"—Don Q. smiled—"with your appearance at the palace of Santolalla. You will be credited with discovering a conspiracy and cleverly stamping it out at its birth. You and the duquesa."

Ubrique considered. "I hate it! It is unworthy!"

Don Q. shrugged his shoulders.

"As you will, but you have only five more minutes in which to decide."

Sullenly the general drew the writing materials to his knee again, and in silence handed the note to the chief.

"From this moment the affair is lost in oblivion. Your reputation is saved, general. I offer you my congratulations," said Don Q. "The government have complained that I do not pay duty on my cigarettes. I am paying it this time—in my own coin, perhaps, but what would you?"

Who Gets the Most Out of Life?

Not the wealthiest, not the most learned, nor the idler—but the man who has good health and works for his living. This truth is trite, but not trivial.

Every man should guard his health as his most valuable possession. The more so because health is easier to retain than regain.

Keep your grip on health by regular exercise, reasonable care in eating and requisite sleep. Take Beecham's Pills occasionally, to tone the stomach and keep the liver and bowels in good working order. And don't worry.

Observe these simple rules and you will agree that the one who gets the most from life is

TROOPS COME TO THE RESCUE

Churchmen Fight the Police At Nantes, France.

CAPT. MAGNIEZ IS DEGRADED

Refused to Assist in Taking an Inventory—Vatican Is Distrustful—Not Yet Sure of New French Government Bill—Pope More Deeply Grieved Than Any Time Since Entering Priesthood.

Paris, Dec. 20.—Thirty-four ecclesiastical residences, occupied by archbishops or bishops, and 40 large and 16 small seminaries thus far have been evacuated under the provisions of the separation law.

Having established the attitude of the parish priests, the Government has ordered the discontinuance of any further prosecutions for illegal services in the churches, pending the passage of the new law amending the law of 1905.

Cardinal Richard has issued instructions suppressing the usual Christmas masses.

Capt. Magniez Degraded.

At Lille, a court-martial yesterday tried and degraded Capt. Magniez for refusing to obey orders in connection with taking the inventory of the Chapel of St. John, Magniez, before the court, said: "I am a Christian and I prefer to be shot rather than commit a sacrilege. No one has the right to make me renounce the vows I took at my first communion."

At Nantes considerable rioting attended the evacuation of the Episcopal Palace and seminary. Crowds of Catholic manifestants overcame the police, who were compelled to draw their revolvers, and under threats of opening fire, keep back the enraged populace until rescued by troops. Several women were arrested for striking or biting soldiers.

At the Vatican.

Rome, Dec. 20.—No steps have been taken by the Vatican to entrust any power with the protection of the archives of the Papal Nuniciature at Paris.

The attitude of the Vatican towards the new French Government bill amending the separation law of 1905, in regard to the conduct of public worship is defined by the papal authorities as being "distrustful," the latter being convinced of the necessity of continuing in the way they have already taken in order to obtain at least tolerable conditions for the church in France. The Pope and the Papal Secretary of State, Cardinal Merry Del Val, agree regarding the policy which is being followed.

In conversation yesterday, the Pope said the situation in France, caused him the deepest grief he had felt since he entered the priesthood.

Steamer Reported Blown Up on Mississippi With Harrowing Results.

Vicksburg, Miss., Dec. 20.—A disastrous accident occurred on the Mississippi River yesterday morning, when the steamer W. T. Scovel, plying in the Vicksburg and Davis Bend trade, was destroyed by an explosion.

Owing to the large number of negroes on board, it is impossible to ascertain the exact number of the dead and injured, but officers of the boat who arrived here last night, say that no less than ten, nor more than 16, were killed.

Many of the timbers of the boat were thrown hundreds of yards, and some of those aboard were blown almost as far. The pilot house and front part of the cabin were smashed to splinters and some parts of the boat were so badly damaged that she began to sink.

Something Doing.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Frederic Nicholls called on Premier Whitney yesterday. Both gentlemen declined to discuss the interview afterwards, but the Premier admitted that it had to do with certain features of the Power Act.

Must Stand Trial For Murder.

London, Dec. 20.—The extradition of Professor Karl Hau of the George Washington University, Washington, D. C., to Germany, was formally granted at the Bow street police court yesterday on the charge of murdering his mother-in-law, Frau Moliter, at Baden-Baden, Nov. 5. The prisoner collapsed.

LUNCH AT TSARSKOE-SELO.

Grand Dukes Venture Back to St. Petersburg For the Celebration of the Emperor's Name Day.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 20.—Yesterday was the Emperor's "name day"; otherwise, the festival of St. Nicholas, the wonder-worker, the Emperor's patron saint. The celebrations included a parade and a state luncheon at Tsarskoe-Selo, at which all the members of the imperial family were present.

The Grand Dukes Vladimir and Alexis and the other grand dukes and grand duchesses, who had been living abroad lately owing to the disturbed state of the empire, returned here in order to attend yesterday's ceremonies.

Chief Escapes; Four May Die.

Lodz, Dec. 20.—An attempt to assassinate Chief of Police Cheshanowiski was made here yesterday, the official escaping with a slight injury to his right foot. The would-be assassin hurled a bomb beneath his carriage and opened fire on him with revolvers. The carriage was wrecked and the coachman and three dragoons were probably fatally wounded by bomb splintered.

Eight Terrorists Shot.

Siedlice, Russian Poland, Dec. 20.—Eight terrorists were tried by drumhead court-martial and shot here Tuesday.

Russ Sailors Sentenced.

Sebastopol, Dec. 20.—Fifteen sailors who participated in the mutiny of June, 1905, on board the Russian battleship Kniaz Potemkine, were sentenced yesterday.

The leader was condemnad to four years' penal servitude, and the others to serve terms in the disciplinary corps ranging from six months to two years.

RECEIVES DEATH BLOW.

House of Lords Insists on Its Amendments to the Education Bill By a Vote of 132 to 52.

London, Dec. 20.—The education bill received its death blow in the House of Lords yesterday.

Both sides spent the last three days in practically incessant conferences, with the object of discovering an acceptable compromise, but the Opposition found themselves unable to accept the concessions offered by the Government.

These were formally presented by Lord President of the Council, the Earl of Crewe, when the House of Lords met yesterday afternoon, but Lord Lansdowne, on behalf of the Opposition, refused the proffered olive branch, and moved that the Lords insist on their amendments to the bill. This was adopted by 132 to 52 votes, and the education bill was thus killed.

MISS PENNOCK'S DEATH.

Gananoque Girl Drowns After Escort Had Almost Saved Her.

Gananoque, Dec. 20.—A drowning occurred yesterday about 5 p. m.

Miss Lucy Pennock and Leonard Berry were skating on the St. Lawrence, from the Clubhouse Dock, and when rounding the point they went into a shallow piece of ice, caused by sawing ice to allow a steamer to get into her boathouse. Cries of help were heard, and when rescuers arrived a plank was thrown on the shallow ice, as it was so weak it would not hold the rescuers. Berry, who was holding Miss Pennock above the water, grabbed for the plank, but lost his hold of Miss Pennock, who sank.

The rescuers had a boat, which was put out, and just in time to save Berry. Miss Pennock was under the water and it was necessary to get a hook to get her out. Dr. McCallum was called and said Miss Pennock was dead before being taken out of the water. She was 19 years old.

The couple were in the water for about 20 minutes.

Two English Youths Drown.

Hamilton, Dec. 20.—It is feared that Norman Faulkner and Herbert Collins, two English youths employed as waiters at the Hamilton Club, were drowned yesterday afternoon. They were out skating on the bay. Their companion left them at 5.30, the understanding being that they were to follow him immediately. When he left they started out towards the centre of the bay, and they have not been seen since. They were supposed to report for duty at 6 o'clock, but did not turn up. As the rules of the club are very strict on the matter of punctuality, the club officials think that the two youths must have met with a mishap.

DEATH AT A CROSSING.

Wife of Rev. Mr. Argo of Ivan Instantly Killed at London.

London, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Argo, wife of Rev. Mr. Argo of Ivan, was instantly killed at the St. George street crossing of the C.P.R. late yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Argo was in a sleigh, with three others, and when crossing the track the party noticed a fast train bearing down on them. The driver whipped up, but Mrs. Argo apparently thought they would be caught, for she jumped out immediately in front of the engine and the whole train passed over her. The others escaped almost unhurt.

An inquest will be held.

SIFTON TURNS WITNESS FOR THE CROWN

E. I. Sifton Has Surrendered and He Pleads Guilty.

TO CHARGE OF CONSPIRACY

One of the Five Election Workers, Who Are Alleged to Be Implicated In London Bribery Charges, Gives Himself Up—Counsel for Defendants Objects to Sifton Making Statement, But Is Put In.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—E. I. Sifton, one of five election workers who are alleged to be implicated in the London bribery charges, and on which four of them have been committed for trial, surrendered himself to the authorities yesterday morning. He pleaded guilty to a charge of conspiracy, and Mr. E. A. Du Vernet, representing the Attorney-General, announced that Sifton will be used as a Crown witness. Sifton was released on his own bail of $200 for appearance at the next assizes.

Sifton Had Returned.

After the regular police cases had been disposed of, when the Magistrate again mounted the bench, Mr. Du Vernet announced that Mr. J. W. G. Winnett, barrister of London, had informed him that Sifton, for whose arrest a warrant was issued on Sept. 28th last, had returned from New York, and was willing to surrender himself to the authorities.

Pleaded Guilty to Conspiracy.

"I plead guilty to the charge," said Sifton.

"Do you intend to use him as a Crown witness?" asked his Worship.

"I may, after I have heard his statement," rejoined Mr. Du Vernet, who produced a written document signed by Sifton, and handed to him by Mr. Winnett, counsel for Sifton.

"I most strenuously object to any statement being made by Sifton," said Mr. J. W. Curry, K.C., who happened to be in court. "It is a dodge to influence the minds of the public against the defendants who have been sent for trial. If any statement is to be made it should be in the presence of the defendants."

"Probably it is only in reference to himself," suggested the Magistrate, "with a view of making it a substantial plea of guilty.

Defendants Should Be Protected.

"I think it is entirely wrong, and the defendants already sent for trial should be afforded some protection by the Court," rejoined Mr. Curry.

"I am the Crown Counsel, and I don't see why there should be any interference," responded Mr. Du Vernet, and he added that he was willing to waive cross-examination.

Magistrate Denison concluded that it was proper to call Sifton, if the latter was willing to pledge his oath that the facts embodied in the document in reference to himself were true. Sifton was sworn, but the facts were not disclosed, the document being put in as an exhibit by the Crown.

Winter Navigation In St. Lawrence.

Quebec, Dec. 20.—Authoritative information from Ottawa communicates the fact that the Dominion Government have under consideration steps towards winter navigation of the lower St. Lawrence, and that the icebreaker Montcalm will make three trips this winter from Quebec to Seven Islands and return and start on its first trip towards the end of January.

THE TELEPHONE VOTE IS ADVERSE

Manitoba Appears to Have Rejected Roblin Scheme.

WHAT VOTE TAKEN SHOWS

Forty-Eight Out of Eighty-One Municipalities Heard From Vote Against It—Government Say They Will Go Ahead With Work—Rural Municipalities Manifest Strong Opposition to the Measure.

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—In the plebiscite taken on the telephone bylaw throughout the province Tuesday a three-fifth vote was necessary to give endorsement to the measure. It has been defeated in a majority of the municipalities, and among those are Portage la Prairie (town) and Portage la Prairie (rural), Brandon (by a deficiency in the vote), Shoal Lake, South Cypress, Dufferin (Mr. Roblin's own municipality), Gray, Gretna, Morris (rural municipality), Louise, Lansdowne, Minnedosa, Rapid City, Montcalm, Morden, Stanley, Stonewall, Pilot Mound, Plum Coulee, Rosedale, Rockwood, Rhineland, Strathclair, Westbourne and North Norfolk. These include half the towns outside of Winnipeg.

The vote is not a condemnation of public ownership; it is simply a rejection of the project as presented by the Provincial Government which had many features which did not commend it to the electorate.

Decisively Defeated.

The fuller details now available from the settled portions of the province show conclusively that the Roblin Government's proposal for municipal telephone exchanges throughout Manitoba has been decisively defeated. Out of eighty-one municipalities, from which final returns are to hand, forty-eight have rejected the scheme and thirty-three have endorsed it. At least 25 per cent. of the latter have received less than five votes above the 60 per cent. necessary for its adoption. The striking feature of the returns is the large number of rural municipalities that have rejected the scheme. Of the eighteen urban municipalities that have endorsed the proposition seven are surrounded by rural municipalities that have decisively disapproved of the project. Only four rural municipalities within one hundred miles of Winnipeg have approved of the scheme. The municipalities adopting it are those in the more remote parts of the province, at present unserved by the Bell Telephone Co. It is also significant that the municipalities represented by Premier Roblin, Minister of Public Works Rogers and Attorney-General Campbell voted down the proposition.

Will Go On With Work.

Interviewed yesterday morning on the influence the results of the plebiscite on the telephone bill would exercise over the Government's policy, Hon. Robert Rogers said that was definitely settled, and his department would proceed to make preparations for the installation of the telephone service.

Premier Roblin said: "The policy of the Government is settled and fixed unalterably by Tuesday's vote, and we consider it our duty to obey the mandate of the people."

DENIES EXISTENCE OF COMBINE.

Mr. W. J. Gage's Statement to the Text Book Commission.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The Provincial Text Book Commission closed its enquiry last evening. The day's proceedings consisted largely of an endeavor on the part of the Commission to find the original cost, cost of production and estimated sales of school drawing and copy books, published under authority by the Canada Publishing Co., the particulars concerning the organization of the latter and the manner in which it secured its copyrights, if any; and an examination of Mr. Rutter, of Warwick Bros. & Rutter.

In the morning, Wallace Nesbitt, K.C., appeared for W. J. Gage & Co., Copp, Clark Co. and the Canada Publishing Co. None of the principals of these firms were present, but their case was embodied in a lengthy statement from Mr. Gage, which denied the existence of any combine and reviewed the history of Ontario school text books.

An Objection.

Mr. Cooper, who had strenuously objected to this document being allowed, as Mr. Gage and the others concerned should be present in person, instead of by such an unsatisfactory form of proxy, took exception to the statement that Mr. Brainard, the New York expert, had declared "the specification a good one," as all his evidence went to show the specifications could scarcely be any worse, and such a statement as the above, without the context, which entirely changed its complexion, "would be deliberately misleading."

Enters Through Cash Door.

A. F. Rutter, of Warwick Bros. & Rutter, was next called, and, on being asked how he got into the charmed circle of the Canada Co., replied, "With cash. By buying stock and giving my cheque in payment thereof." Overtures were made to him on the same subject years before, but at the time he could not spare the necessary amount out of his business.

Sir William's First Murder Trial.

Brampton, Dec. 20.—Sir William Mulock is the presiding judge at the Peel fall assizes now in progress. He is having his first murder case. The prisoner is Alice Carey of Toronto, charged with murdering an infant child on March 17 last by leaving it exposed to the weather in the driving-shed of the Presbyterian Church, Fort Credit. The case commenced yesterday morning in the courthouse. The case will be concluded to-day. The evidence so far is not regarded as very strong.

ENORMOUS LAKE FREIGHT.

Never Before So Much Money Paid For Carrying In Lake Vessels —Estimated at $61,000,000.

Galt, Dec. 20.—George Clare, M. P., under the advice of his physician, goes to Germany after the close of the session.

Galt, Dec. 20.—The 4-year-old son of Charles Palmer was severely burned yesterday. Left in the house, he found matches and set fire to his clothes.

Kingston, Dec. 20.—The steamer New York, in port, and owned by Folger Bros., has been sold to Sandusky parties to run between ports in Ohio.

Hamilton, Dec. 20.—The last of the rioting cases was disposed of yesterday morning, when John O'Brien was acquitted on the charge of throwing stones.

Columbus, Ohio, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Howard Powers, wife of the manager of McFadden's Flats Co., committed suicide Tuesday night at the Star Hotel by shooting.

Ottawa, Dec. 20.—Commander Spain, wreck commissioner, will hold an investigation into the wreck of the Golspie, but does not know when it will take place, or where.

New York, Dec. 20.—Mrs. Russel Sage loaned $1,500,000 yesterday to the Lands Purchase Co. on a piece of property on the south side of Wall street just west of William street.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—An application has reached the Provincial Government from the inhabitants of the community in the vicinity of the Cobalt railway station for incorporation as a town.

Chicago, Dec. 20.—Never before was so much money paid for carrying freight in lake vessels as during the season just closed. A rough estimate places it at $61,000,000 for coal, iron ore, grain and lumber.

Detroit, Dec. 20.—Three keepers of Manitou Island lights, 180 miles from the Soo, are marooned on that island in Lake Superior, and must wait until a tug comes to their rescue. A fast tug, fully provisioned, has left for the rescue.

Waynesburg, Pa., Dec. 20.—The investigation into the affairs of the Farmers' and Drovers' National Bank by Bank Examiner Cunningham resulted yesterday in the discovery, it is said, of forged notes among those rediscounted.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Judge Winchester closed the business of the sessions yesterday morning by sentencing Chris Seymour for housebreaking and burglary to penitentiary for three years. William Todd, for an offence against boys, got four years.

Charlottetown, P.E.I., Dec. 20.—The result of polling yesterday, to elect a representative for the first electoral district of Queen's County in the local Legislature, was the election of Murdock Kennedy, Conservative, by a small majority over James Cousins, Liberal. The result was a surprise to both parties.

London, Dec. 20.—Hermoine, daughter of the late E. W. H. Schenly of Pittsburg, was married here yesterday to Lord Ellenborough, a retired commodore of the royal navy. The bridegroom participated in naval operations in the Baltic so long ago as the Russian war of 1855.

New York, Dec. 20.—John Armoy Knox, at one time known as the editor and proprietor of Texas Siftings, died suddenly in this city from heart disease. Born in Armoy, Ireland, in 1850, Mr. Knox came to this country when a young man and started Texas Siftings, which attained international reputation for wit and literary excellence.

DEATH OF BISHOP M'CABE.

As Regimental Chaplain Was a Prisoner In Libby Prison.

New York, Dec. 20.—Bishop Charles McCabe of the Methodist Episcopal Church died in the New York Hospital yesterday. Death was due to apoplexy, with which the bishop was stricken on Dec. 11.

The late bishop was often referred to as one of the most popular men in American Methodism, and his earnestness and financial ability made him a great power in the ministerial life of the United States. He was born in Athens, O., October 11, 1836. In 1862 he became chanlain of the 122nd Ohio Infantry. During the battle of Winchester he was captured, and spent four months in Libby Prison.

He was made bishop in 1896, and elected chancellor of the American University, Washington, in 1902.

$1,814,000 CLAIMED IN WRIT.

Canadian Bankers' Association Demands Repayment by McGill.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Repayment to the Ontario Bank of the sum of $1,814,000 is demanded of Charles McGill, the ex-manager. A writ was issued yesterday afternoon at Osgoode Hall by James Bicknell, K.C., on behalf of the Canadian Bankers' Association, claiming that amount, which is made up of 23 items, dating back to 1899. It is stated that this money was paid out by the Ontario Bank at the request of McGill.

The writ also claims interest on the several amounts from the respective years of payment until judgment, at the rate of 5 per cent. per annum.

WINNIPEG GETS COAL.

Fort William Has 100,000 Tons of Good Anthracite In Stock.

Fort William, Dec. 20.—There is now at the head of the lakes about 100,000 tons of commercial coal, 80,000 tons of which is stored at the Canadian Pacific docks at Fort William.

All but a very small proportion of this is anthracite, and is consigned to Winnipeg merchants. Hard coal is being shipped west at an approximate rate of 900 tons a day.

Crushed Between Engines.

Winnipeg, Dec. 20.—F. W. Green, an engine wiper, aged 22, was killed in the railway yard Tuesday night, being crushed between two engines. His wife lives in Farnham, Que.

Two Firemen Killed.

Savanah, Ga., Dec. 20.—Two firemen were killed and Assistant Chief Munro of the fire department, and another fireman, injured by an explosion at a fire here last night.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Are About Unchanged—Chicago is Higher for Cattle.

London, Dec. 19.—Canadian cattle in the British markets are quoted at 10c to 12½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8½c to 9¾c per pound.

MONTREAL LIVE STOCK.

Montreal, Dec. 19.—(Special.)—Receipts were 1500 cattle, 25 milch cows, 600 sheep and lambs, 1000 hogs and 50 calves. Although cables from Liverpool and London on Canadian bacon were again weak and lower today, there was no further change in the condition of the local market for hogs. The demand from packers was good, and sales of selected lots were made at $6.50 per 100 lbs., weighed off cars.

Trade was very slow, as the butchers had bought most of their Christmas beef on the market, and only a few of such cattle were sold to-day, at prices ranging from 5c to 5½c per lb.; prime beeves sold at 4¾c to 4¾c; pretty good animals at 3¾c to 4c, and the common stock at 2c to 3c. Milch cows sold at $30 to $50 each. Calves sold at 3½c to 5c per lb. Sheep sold at 4c to 4½c, and lambs at 5½c to 6c per lb.

Railway Mining Rights Tenders.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Chairman Englehart and D. Murphy of the T. & N. O. Railway Commission opened five tenders for the mining rights on the railway between the 90th and the 108th miles. There were four Canadian tenders and one from the United States. "They were high, low and intermediate," said Mr. Englehart, "and we will recommend one of them to the Government for acceptance. Yes, they were up to our expectation," he added. The rights between the 101st and 105th miles have been already proven very rich.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-West HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the North-west Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

THE BOTTOM DROPS IN LAKE GEORGE

Strange Disturbance Occurs Near Hague, New York

Examiner Special.

Glenn's Falls, N.Y., Dec. 19. — A strange geological disturbance has occurred near Hague, Warren county, at the north end of Lake George. Here the bottom of the lake for an area of 1,000 square feet has sunk.

The spot has long been regarded as dangerous to navigation because of the shallowness of the water, which was never more than three or four feet deep. To-day the lake at this point is over 35 feet deep, the bottom having sunk away.

A coal barge had gone aground on the reef and efforts to dislodge it had failed. Suddenly the boat moved away with the current, and an investigation revealed the strange geological disturbance. No other part of the lake, as far as is known, has been affected.

OTHER LIVE NEWS FROM LAKEFIELD

Examiner Special.

Lakefield, December 19. — Mr. F. Pullen left on Monday for Toronto, where he is opening up offices for their new firm. Mr. Pullen, who is well and favourably known in the village, will be greatly missed, as he had made many friends by his courteous manner during his stay in the village.

Mr. Pullen has severed his connection with the Dick, Kerr Co., and has started for himself in partnership with Mr. Chas. Kilmer, with headquaarters in Toronto. We wish Mr. Pullen every success in his new venture.

Messrs. W. E. Bravender, A. S. Butchart and F. A. Kilbourn left on Monday for Owen Sound where they will attend the annual meeting of the Lakefield Portland Cement Company.

It is with much regret that we report the death of Mr. Z. White, which occurred at the Munro House, Peterborough on Monday evening. The deceased had been in Peterborough on business, when he was stricken with a hemorrhage of the lungs, to which he succumbed, after a couple of days illness. Mr. White was the eldest son of Mr. Z. White of the village and was a general favourite with all. The funeral will take place on Wednesday from the family residence to the Lakefield cemetery.

Mr. Richard Hill of Deer Bay, who is well known in the village, had the misfortune while working in Mr Shearer's shanty to meet with an accident which resulted in a fracture of two ribs. At last reports Mr. Hill was as well as could be expected.

Mr. Charles Blomfield left on Monday for Edmonton where he has secured a position in a hardware store, and incidentally to play hockey with the Edmonton team.

Mr. Melville Stricklatd of Saskatoon, Sask., who has been visiting with Mrs. F. J. Tate, left on Monday for his home in the west.

Mr. Alex. Moodie, who has been visiting in the village the guest of Mrs. F. J. LaFevre, has gone to Maple Creek, Alta., to visit his sister, Mrs. Simpkins.

The pupils of Miss M. Gorman's room in the public school, presented her last Friday with a handsome lady's companion.

Rev. Mr. Bagshaw of Toronto, who has charge of the Church of England mission at Buckhorn, is making his headquarters in Lakefield for a couple of weeks.

Miss G. White of Toronto, is visiting her mother in the village.

Mr. J. White of Cobourg is in the village to attend his brother's funeral.

Miss Lily Montgomery and Miss Gervin were in Peterborough on Tuesday evening to attend a musical recital there.

Miss Mary Spence, who has been visiting friends in Norwood, has returned home.

Mr. G. Dunn has returned from Hamilton where he has been spending a week on business.

Mr. C. Young of Peterborough, was in the village on Tuesday.

The Kyle concert company gave a most successful concert on Friday evening last in the town hall. Those who failed to attend owing to the inclement weather, missed a great treat.

Mr. J. E. Kelly the progressive manager of the Lakefield Light Company, is about to instal the pre-payment meter system throughout the village.

Canadian General Electric Co. Might Take Over The Works

Officials of This Company Look Over the Property, with a View of Acquiring Them in Case They Are Placed on the Market

WOULD PROBABLY EXTEND IT

Same Line of Product Would be Manufactured—No Animus in the Action of the C. G. E. Company but a Business Proposition

Yesterday, representatives of the Canadian General Electric Company made a tour of inspection of the works of the Wm. Hamilton Manufacturing Company, with a view of, at some future time, acquiring them, in case the property should be placed on the market by reason of the company going into liquidation, or for other causes.

Local Company Interested

In the event, therefore, of the company's works being placed on the market, there is little probability of the Allis-Chalmers-Bullock Company, of Montreal, the officials of which yesterday admitted that they would like to secure the property, getting it without opposition, as the C. G. E. Company is evidently interested to a considerable extent.

To The Examiner to-day, Mr. Patterson, the general superintendent of the company's works here, stated in reply to a question, that he had looked over the works, along with other officials, but he was not in a position to say what conclusion was arrived at as a result of the visit. In case the property is offered, however, it may be inferred that this company would not be inclined to allow it to go without making an offer for it.

It goes without saying that the present works of the C.G.E. Company are too small to accomodate the extensive operations carried on, and it could very easily utilize the additional space which the acquisition of the Hamilton Works would give.

Would Make Extensions

Mr. Patterson, however intimated that if they were secured it was probable that the same line of machinery as that at present made by the occupants of the works would be continued, and that possibly extensions would be made to them.

It will thus be seen that in any event the city is not at all likely to lose the works, because the business is one for the product of which there is such a demand that many companies would be willing to acquire the works and continue their operation on perhaps a larger scale than they have been conducted in the past.

PATRICK TO MISS ELECTRIC CHAIR AFTER ALL

Governor Higgins, of New York State, in Last Days of His Term of Office, Commutes Sentence to Imprisonment for Life

MADE A VERY DETERMINED FIGHT

Special Wire to Heintz & Co.

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 20. — Albert T. Patrick will escape the chair after all, after perhaps the most determined fight any man ever put up for his life.

To-day Governor Higgins announced that he had decided to commute his sentence of death in the electric chair to life imprisonment.

It will be remembered that Patrick was a butler in the family of Millionaire Rice, who was found dead under circumstances which led to the suspicion that Patrick was the murderer. He was arrested and tried judgment being given in accordance with a verdict of guilty brought in by the jury, to the effect that he was deserving of death, as a punishment.

A strong fight was made for a new trial and the matter has been through the courts for many months the result being as announced by the Governor of the State to-day.

MACABEES DECIDE TO CONVENE HERE

Peterborough Has Been Selected as One of the Eight Places in Ontario for District Conventions

WILL BE HELD HERE ON JANUARY 30

One of the eight district conventions of the Knights of the Maccabees, will be held in Peterborough. It will be remembered that a short time ago it was mentioned in the Examiner, that this city was named as a probable location, but a letter to Mr. O. S. Matchett, R. K., this morning, from Mr. S. W. Trusler, of Camlachie, the provincial commander, stated that one of the conventions was assured to Peterborough, and that it would be held here on Wednesday, Jan. 30, 1907.

This decision was reached by the Executive Committee which met in the city of Hamilton a short time ago. Delegates will be here from the various Tents in the district, and it is expected that the convention will be attended by about 150 representatives.

The important business of the convention will be to discuss the advisability of having a provincial Headquarters for the Knights of the Maccabees. If this idea meets with approval representatives will be appointed to attend the provincial convention to be held in Brantford, on the 5th and 6th of March of next year.

The question of holding yearly conventions will also be discussed at the district convention and in the evening a large banquet will be given to the visitors.

Mr. C. A. Yule, of Colborne, D. D., is in Peterborough, and will assist the local Tent in securing a large class initiation for that night.

The members of the Peterborough Tent are requested to meet every Friday night and on the first and third Wednesdays of the months until after the convention to make all necessary arrangements for the District Convention. A full attendance is requested.

THE NICHOLLS ESTATE TRUSTEES GIVE $300

To the Officers of the Children's Aid Society—Messrs. Hall and McGill Make Generous Donation to the Society

APPRECIATE THE GOOD WORK DONE

The trustees of the Nicholls Estate, Messrs. McGill and Hall, to-day made the hearts of the officers of the Children's Aid Society glad, by sending them a cheque for $300, to be applied to the funds of the society in any way that the recipients may deem advisable.

It is unnecessary to say that the gift was highly appreciated, or that the money so generously donated will be used to good advantage, and that it will be the means of bringing comfort to many unfortunate children, who, but for their generosity, would possibly spend a dreary Christmas.

That these gentlemen have appreciated the good work of the society, evidence of which fact is given by the donation, is a warm tribute to the efficiency of the work being done by the organization in relieving the cases of want and suffering which they find almost daily.

OBITUARY.

LYDIA GADOUA

A very sad death was that of Miss Lydia, the eldest daughter of Mr. Joseph Gadoua, at the age of 17 years. Deceased had been ill for some time and her death came quietly, after a long illness. Besides the bereaved parents, there are two boys who will lament her demise. The death occurred at noon to-day. The funeral notice will be given later.

POLICE MAGISTRATE DUMBLE ORDERED POLICEMAN TO LOCK UP THE DEFENDING LAWYER

Mr. O'Connell Spent Some Minutes in Cell at Police Court Charged With Contempt of Court.

MAGISTRATE MAKES STATEMENT

During the hearing of the evidence in a police court case this morning against a young man charged with assaulting a police officer, Magistrate Dumble ordered a policeman to lock up Mr. O'Connell counsel for the defence, accusing him of contempt of court. P. C. McGinty then placed Mr. O'Connell in the cell below, where he remained for some twenty minutes before being released.

Mr. Dumble made the following statement to an Examiner reporter after the case had been concluded:—

"Mr. O'Connell in his zeal for his client, intimated that the court was one-sided and partial and that the questions that were put to the witnesses were impertinent. The proceedings were stopped at once and Mr. O'Connell was asked to reconsider his unbecoming statements which would not be allowed, and he was also asked to apologize. After waiting a short time he refused to do this and the court asked to have him locked up, which a policeman did. Mr. Dennistoun was sent for and on arriving interviewed Mr. O'Connell, who maintained he had not used the expression "the court is impertinent" which was reported to the court.

The latter stated that Mr. O'Connell certainly used it, but may not have used it consciously and was willing to to assume that he had not knowingly used the expression, and on that explanation allowed him to be released."

Mr. O'Connell was also seen by the reporter, but said he had no statement to make in reference to the affair.

Colder Than One Year Ago

One year ago to-day the weather was very different from that which we are experiencing to-day. On December 20 the day was mild and foggy, and there was not sufficient snow to make sleighing, but on the 21st there was a heavy fall of snow, twelve inches falling on that day, and the street railway was practically tied up. After the snowfall the weather became mild again and continued so until the close of the month.

The lowest temperature last night was one degree below zero, and at noon to-day it had risen to 21 above. Snow came, as foretold yesterday.

It looks now like a continuation of the same conditions for the next few days at least, though it is considered probable that to-morrow it will be some colder.

NO DISSOLUTION OF THE IMPERIAL PARLIAMENT

The King's Deep Interest in the Education Bill—Commons Won't Take Lords' Hint to Quit

Special to The Examiner

London, December 20th. — There will be no dissolution of Parliament as a result of the action of the House of Lords, in defeating the Government's education bill. King Edward to-day received the Premier at Buckingham Palace. It is understood that His Majesty wishes to be fully informed regarding the Cabinet's views on the political situation as afforded by the education question.

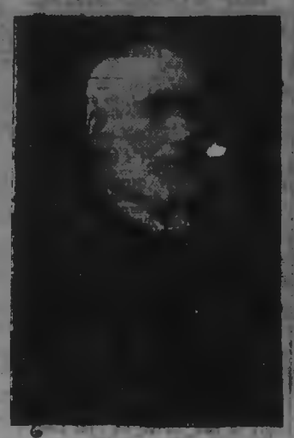
The reins was stopped at Brock street, with no damage done.

THE CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY'S SANTA CLAUS WILL MAKE HIS ROUNDS ON CHRISTMAS EVE

SANTA CLAUS OF THE CHILDREN'S SHELTER



MR. GEO. COCHRANE
Who on Monday Night Will Make His Annual Rounds Distributing Gifts

And Kindly Disposed Citizens Supply the Christmas Cheer—Mr. Geo. Cochrane and His Methods of Bringing Joy to Young Hearts

MUCH NEED FOR GENEROSITY

Mr. Geo. Cochrane, the Santa Claus of the Children's Shelter, was this morning the supercargo of the small ship-load of Christmas cheer contributed by the Sunday school of the Murray Street Baptist Church. This consisted of two bushel baskets filled to overflowing with packets of food and sweets, cakes, candies, rice, raisins, toys, dolls, clothing, boots and shoes, meat, butter, tea, sugar, etc., etc.

Few people are aware of the Christmas cheer that is provided for the poor of the city, with the Children's Shelter as a distributing centre. Mr. Cochrane enters upon the work systematically. He gets the names of certain families to be remembered. He then calls upon such families, gets the number and age of the children, and other particulars, and makes report to the ladies who come to the Shelter for the purpose of preparing hampers and parcels, and these are prepared to meet the conditions of such family, and, in due course, distributed. Thus gifts are made discriminately, and nothing is sent out that would not be suitable or of use.

Large numbers of families are thus remembered and made comfortable for Christmas Day and for some time afterwards.

Mr. Cochrane says that many get the impression that too much in the way of provisions, clothing, etc., may be sent—that it may become an embarrassment—but there is no danger of that. Good use can be made of all that may be sent. There need be no fear of a superabundant supply of contributions being sent to the Shelter. Good use can and will be made of everything.

MOOSE JAW SECTION ENJOYS PERIOD OF PROGRESS

Mr. T. Franks, who Has Spent Twenty-five Years in the West in the City on a Visit and Tells of Conditions There

NO EXCUSE FOR NOT PROSPERING

Mr. T. Franks, a former resident of Emily township, but who for the last twenty-five years has been living in the West, in the Moose Jaw district, was in the city to-day, and to The Examiner he gave some interesting facts concerning the progress of that particular part of the West. Mr. Franks is home spending the winter with relatives in Emily, his last visit having been made four years ago.

Everyone Prosperous

No one, according to Mr. Franks, has an excess for not prospering in the West with the splendid crops and the attendant prosperity in all branches of activity. Moose Jaw is one of the most prosperous cities in the whole West now, with a population of about 8,000, and the number increasing considerably each year. Mr. Franks lives about twenty miles north of Moose Jaw, his nearest town being Tuxford, on the line of a new branch, which the C.P.R. is building to connect with Edmonton. The whole West, according to Mr. Franks, is being honeycombed with railways, the different railway companies racing with each other to get their lines laid first.

An Old Time Winter

The winter in the West, so far, has been a regular old timer, the kind that a recital of the severities used to frighten the people of the East into believing that the whole of the West was a frozen land, where one was taking his life in his hands every time he emerged from the house in the winter.

Already this winter about two feet and a half of snow have fallen in the vicinity of Moose Jaw, more than has fallen in the last three winters put together. The weather, however, has not been severely cold, and the coal famine has not affected that section as much as districts farther east. Moose Jaw has, at times this winter been short of fuel, and on one occasion it was found necessary to unload lumber for fuel, but, on the whole, this city and section have come off fairly well, and, with the re-opening of the mines at Lethbridge, no further trouble is anticipated.

Horse Ranches

Mr. Franks has not been farming for a number of years now. During the last few years he has been in the ranching business, raising horses, for which there is a big demand in the West among the farmers, and for work on the many railways which are being constructed. This business is a most profitable one, and Mr. Franks has had no reason to regret, from a material standpoint, his action in leaving the East for the West to make his home. Mr. Franks will spend the greater part of the winter in this section, visiting with relatives.

BENEFIT SOCIETY GIVES $75.00

Generous Action of the C. G. E. Mutual Benefit Society—Makes Grants to Deserving Members

The Executive Committee of the Canadian General Benefit Society met last night and decided to grant $75 additional benefits to members of the society whom the committee considered worthy of it. In the case of each of those to whom assistance was given to-day, the persons had received the full amount for the 13 weeks' illness, provided by the bylaws of the society, so that, so far as obligations were concerned, they are under none, the action being purely a voluntary one. The cases, with the names of the recipients blanked, are as follows:

Miss ———, ill for some four or five months, has drawn 13 weeks' benefits; $20 extra benefits, and was was voted $10 additional benefits.

Mr. ———, has been ill for over a year. Has a wife and two children. Was voted additional benefits of $20.

Mr. ———, has been ill for 25 weeks with typhoid fever; is married and has family. Was voted additional benefits of $20.

Mr. ———, has been ill for 12 months; has wife and seven children. Was voted additional benefits of $25.

JAMES COLLINS WAS TAKEN TO CAMPBELLFORD

A Local Plasterer Wanted in that Town on a Serious Charge

Constable Lynn of Campbellford was in Peterborough to-day for the purpose of conducting James Collins to Campbellford. Collins is a plasterer by trade and lived in Percy township. He was arrested by P. C. McGinty, on a charge of a breach of the criminal code in respect to a young woman. The Campbellford policeman took charge of him, and conducted him on the afternoon train to that town. His case will likely be heard later on, or a settlement arrived at.

It Was Only A Little Hat Pin But See The Damage It Did Wielded By Woman

Bride Arrested, Charged With Having Murdered Her Husband First Night After Marriage—With Hat Pin Girl Held at Bay Five Highwaymen—Seven-year-old Girl Swallowed Hat Pin

KILLED HUSBAND OF DAY WITH A HATPIN

(Examiner Special.)

New York, December 18th. — Chief of Police Ritca, of Greenwich, Conn., late last night arrested at her parents' home up-town Mrs. Joseph M. Neil, whose husband's sudden death in Greenwich on Friday night was proved yesterday to be a homicide.

The fact that Neil's death was due to a wound in the brain inflicted with a hat pin was made known by an autopsy at Greenwich yesterday. A hat pin was found on the floor of the room in the Greenwich hotel, where Neil died.

Neil and the woman appeared at 9.25 o'clock on Friday night, at the Greenwich hotel with the same woman, whom he introduced as his wife. He carried a suit case, and told the landlord, David Allenby, that he wanted the bridal chamber.

Ten minutes after the couple had entered the room the woman went downstairs and asked that someone telephone for a doctor. Her husband, she said, was ill.

Dr. L. O Thompson, on going to the room found Neil lying on the floor fully dressed. He was dead. A hasty examination showed one small dark spot under the eye as if the skin had been pricked. There was some blood on the floor.

GIRL WHIPS FIVE THUGS WITH ONLY A HAT PIN

(Examiner Special.)

Chicago, Dec. 18.—Battling with a hatpin against five highwaymen who attacked her in broad daylight on a crowded street, Miss May Gates, cashier of a confectionery company, held her assailants at bay to-day until the police came to her rescue. Her resistance saved her employers $5,000, which she was bringing from the bank to meet the company's payroll.

Five Attacked Her

Miss Gates left the bank at noon, took a street car to within a block of the company's office, and was almost in the doorway when the five robbers, masked and armed, attacked her, struggling to wrest from her the handbag in which she carried the money.

Bystanders rushed to the young woman's rescue but the highwaymen drew their revolvers and fought so desperately that they were not only defying capture, but seemed in a fair way to overpower Miss Gates.

Attracted to the spot by the commotion, a half-dozen bluecoats and detectives at last entered the fight.

GIRL WITH A HAT PIN LODGED IN STOMACH

(Examiner Special.)

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 18. — Suffering no pain and daily at play with her school mates, little Lucelle Lavole, the seventeen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elzear Lavole, of No. 135 Oxford street, Lewiston, who has a large hat pin lodged in her stomach, is attracting the attention of the leading physicians here. It was while amusing herself with an ordinary tin tube pea shooter or blower, that little Miss Lavole invented the scheme of using a round-headed hatpin instead of peas, as the hat pin when blown from the tube served as a dart and would stick to the target.

The sport became exciting and each time the little girl blew harder. Finally she put the shooter to her mouth, drew an unusually deep breath, and sucked the pin head first into her throat. She coughed violently but the next moment she had swallowed it. Physicians were powerless to remove it without performing a most serious operation. She was in no pain, but coughed almost continuously. It was submitted to the X Rays, and the black hat pin could be seen in her stomach.

WILL TAKE COLLECTION FOR MEMORIAL

To the Late Alexander Muir, the Man Who Wrote "The Maple Leaf"—School Children to Contribute to Fund

At the last meeting of the Board of Education a communication was received in regard to enlisting the cooperation of Peterborough with other public school centres in the provision of a fund for a monument of some kind to the late Alex. Muir, the author of the immortal Canadian National song "The Maple Leaf." This idea naturally commends itself with great force to every Canadian mind and heart. The man who made a song like that which is a source of pride and of national glory, more enduring than brass is deserving of national recognition. A monument to the author seems a superfluity, for any memorial whether of marble or brass will be less lasting than the undying monument the song itself has raised in every patriotic Canadian heart. For this reason the school children of Peterborough, who will, to-day or to-morrow, be called upon to contribute to a monument fund will be expected to do so with recognizant memory of the association of the late Mr. Muir with the educational activities of Canada. They will also be expected, especially at this season of peace and good will, to remember a far more important object of their contributions—to provide a fund for the widow and invalid daughter of the late ipso facto poet laureate of Canada. The dependants of a man who has done so much to quicken and perpetuate the thrill of patriotism in the hearts of Canadians and to place before the world so prominently the name and glory of this blessed land of plenty, deserve at the hands of the people that they be placed beyond the possibility of want or suffering or of solicitude in respect of to-morrow's loaf. It is to be hoped that the school children of Peterborough, aided and abetted as strongly as may be by parents, will, in the hope of what Santa Claus will do for them, take on the spirit of sacrifice if necessary and contribute liberally to the Muir monument fund, especially keeping in mind and heart the widow and invalid daughter, and especially remembering the beautiful sentiment of Lord Byron which cannot be too often impressed:—

They who joy would win
Must share it; happiness was born a twin.

WHERE IS JOE STEWART?

Editor Post Card Column:

Dear Sir,—Some time ago Mr. Hanna the Provincial Secretary, had the records searched and found a second Daniel, named Joe Stewart, on our police force, and induced him to become license inspector for the west riding of Peterborough. Some of us simple folk expected that the law would be enforced and the town become sober, but of late there seems to be an awful amount of drunkenness. On a late busy Saturday evening one drunk sat in the doorway of my store for half an hour, until I could get a cab and send him home, and last night a young boy not nineteen years old came home dead drunk.

CHRISTMAS ATTRACTIONS AT TURNBULL'S

Appropriate Holiday Decorations and Presents Suitable for Everybody.

Experienced shoppers who have made it a general practice to start their Christmas lists at the J. C. Turnbull Company's stores on George and Simcoe streets, will find no difficulty in making suitable selections from the great diversity of beautiful and costly goods on exhibition. The reliability of every article is so well understood, the store service so courteous, diligent and attractive, the prices so agreeably low, that many shoppers all but complete their lists before leaving the store.

An ideal spot to buy your Christmas gifts is located in the china department. One glance at the array of interesting Japanese fancy hand-painted goods will clear away any doubts in your mind as to what to buy. On the opposite side of the store samples of the newly opened section of furs may be inspected. Nearby is a pretty display of bear-skin coats, touques and other comfortable wearables for children. The glove and handkerchief displays are features of much interest to ladies. The fancy goods section is strongly reinforced with a great showing of leather handbags, silk opera bags, etc., with prices all strikingly low. Then when one roams alongside the glass cases where the fine waves, ribbons, hosiery, and other allied goods are shown. There is much to take up one's attention. Then there is the Teneriffe doyles, and other pieces of this exquisite needge work; the fancy and hand-drawn linen in so many lovely designs, that make us think of duties that we can hardly reach, and deeds of gift-giving that we fain would do.

There is a fine showing of silk umbrellas, in a rack, easy of selection, and near these are steamer shawls, rugs, reversible Smyrna rugs, eiderdown comforters, cushions and cushion tops, etc., etc.

Nearly the entire carpet department has been transformed, and the showing of floor cloths, iron bedsteads and bedding, is quite extensive. The general staples are all in full blossom, and bristling with the newest novelties and close-cut prices.

The general scheme of decoration throughout the store, is characteristic of the well known taste always displayed at Turnbull's at Christmas time. The white and gold grille latticework wined with bright red rose buds and vines, produce a pretty effect along the upper rows of shelving. Another new and novel feature of the store decorations consists of old style lanterns suspended by logging chains. The electric light, as it is reflected through varied bright designs of fancy fabrics, casts a mellow light over the store, which adds to the charms of the displays.

ST. GEORGES' TEAM LOOKS BEST IN THE CITY

This is the Way the Toronto News Sizes Up the Hockey Situation There—Marlboros Have Fast Bunch

ARGOS ARE SCARCE OF SENIOR MEN

The Toronto News credits the St. George's with being the best senior team in the Queen City, with the Marlboros holding second place. The Dukes however, have a number of men who, from this distance look pretty good, and when they get going may be able to give a good account of themselves. Referring to the practices of the three senior teams in the Mutual Street Rink on Tuesday night the News says:—

Toronto's three senior teams again started to practice last night at the Mutual Street Rink. The Argos were the first to put in an appearance, but the only senior player out was Hamilton, who appears to be faster and trickier than ever. He is slightly heavier than last year.

The Argos have plenty of material for a good junior team, but there is a serious scarcity of senior players.

The St. Georges were the next to put in an appearance, and, judging from last night's practice, have the best team in the city. Harry Houser was out for the first time. Jimmy Cosgrave is going faster than last year. The other senior men out were Ardagh, McArthur, and Sale. There appears to be good material for a fast intermediate team.

Charlie Webster intends turning out at the next practice.

The Marlboros had Tyner, Roesler, Birmingham, Kent and a score or more of husky juniors. The seniors tried out a new man by the name of Edgar, who showed up very well for his first appearance, and with a little coaching should prove a good man.

ADDRESS TO THE ELECTORS OF THE CITY OF PETERBOROUGH

To the Electors of Peterborough:

Ladies and Gentlemen,—In compliance with the request of a large number of influential ratepayers, I have decided to offer myself as a candidate for the mayoralty of Peterborough for the year 1907. I assure you that, in aspiring to the position of Mayor, I appreciate the responsibility of being intrusted with the duty of promoting the interests of a city of whose position and progress, I, in common with every other citizen, am justly proud.

Identity of Interests

All my material and business interests and their betterment and advancement are centred in, and bound up with the good government, good standing and progress of Peterborough. Therefore, to put the matter upon no higher ground, if I receive the honour of being elected Mayor, it will be to my interest to do all in my power for the growth, up-building and general welfare of my home City, in which I received my education in the Public Schools and Collegiate Institute, and in which, as remarked, my present and future are centred.

Systematize Municipal Work

As a member of the Council for the past three years I have endeavoured to serve the interests of the ratepayers faithfully, and the knowledge gained by service on all the committees of the Council, and, for the past two years, respectively, as chairman of the Manufacturers' Committee and Board of Works, and the careful study I have devoted to all municipal questions, give me such experience as will place me in a position to so systematize the operations of the machinery of municipal government as to give the best results for the least expenditure of money.

General Policy

My policy for the coming year can be briefly stated — promoting the interests of the general mass of the ratepayers which is the first consideration — a liberal and prudent attitude of encouragement to industries to establish themselves in Peterborough, and the adoption of a general policy looking to making Peterborough the industrial and commercial centre, and the rallying point for the Midland District and Eastern Ontario. This would involve the provision of accommodation, within reasonable limits, for conventions — gatherings — district, Provincial and Dominion—dealing with the agricultural, dairying and other interests of the district of which Peterborough is the natural centre.

Exemption Conditions

My policy in regard to the improvement of conditions in the City will be a continuance of that I have advocated in Council and which has been adopted in principle by the Council.

In regard to the exemption of, or fixed assessment for, industrial establishments, I have advocated, and still advocate, the adoption of conditions which will require such establishments, not to obstruct local improvements, such as sidewalks or sewers, but, on the contrary, require them to bear their proportion of the cost.

Permanency of Improvements

With regard to pending street extensions, I shall continue the policy, adopted by the Council and put into motion by myself, till Aylmer street as well as George street (which is practically open now) is extended to the southern boundary of the city.

I firmly believe that all expenditure of money upon streets should be, as far as possible, for works of a permanent character. In the building of permanent pavements, I hold that the policy I advocated (which was adopted by the Council,) of building crossings at street intersections at the same time as the general work is done, should be continued.

With a full appreciation of the great injury done to our streets by promiscuous disturbance of the surface, I introduced a bylaw providing for the laying of connections to the street line at the time of sewer construction, thus avoiding the necessity of digging up the streets at frequent intervals. In this connection I will, if elected, use my influence to make financial and executive provision to restore the streets disturbed by sewer, waterworks, gas, and other excavation operations to their original condition, with the least possible delay and at the minimum of expense to the general ratepayers, so that the public for whose use the streets are intended will have the advantage of the best street conditions.

Surface Drainage

In the interests of the business men and citizens generally, I regard the proper care of our streets as of the utmost importance, and as proper surface drainage is one of the easiest and most essential means of maintaining them in good condition, and as this can be effected with comparatively trifling expenditure, I shall, if honoured with your confidence, make it a point to provide the best condition of surface drainage possible.

Municipal Ownership

In regard to the question of municipal ownership and operation of public utilities in general use, I am in favour of the principle, subject to the condition that, as Mayor of the city, if elected, I must be convinced beyond the shadow of a doubt that the acquirement and operation of any public utility will be in the interests of the citizens at large and reasonably certain of yielding satisfactory results. This covers my position, in regard to the general principle, as well as to the electric lighting, gas, and power propositions now before the public. The acquirement of such utilities should be done on purely business principles—the city should not, because it is a corporation, pay one cent more or one cent less than their carefully ascertained value.

To Get Good Advice

To this end I would advocate the constitution of an Advisory Board, to consist of representatives of the Trades and Labour Council, of the Manufacturers' Association, of the Board of Trade and of the Water Commissioners, such Advisory Board in consultation with the City Council, or Manufacturers' Committee, to pass upon the details of any proposition before its submission to the people.

In respectfully soliciting your votes and influence, I might say in summary, that in addition to what I have specified, I shall use my best efforts if elected, to so discharge my duties as to promote the best interests and progress of the city, and to creditably and satisfactorily represent the citizens, without distinction of class or interest.

Yours very faithfully

ROBT. HICKS

THE REGULATIONS GOVERNING THE CONDUCT OF O.H.A. CLUBS

The following notice was issued yesterday by Secretary W. A. Hewitt to the secretaries of the clubs of the O.H.A.

Certificates are issued at the discretion of the Executive, and are revocable without notice. All players must have certificates.

O.H.A. clubs are warned not to play with or against professionals or teams suspended by the association.

Players eligible to play in the Junior O.H.A. this season must be under 20 years of age on the 1st of January, 1907.

Any club convicted of having in its membership professionals of any kind shall forfeit its membership in the association.

Any club using players not qualified under the residence rule will be summarily suspended. The date this this year is August 1.

No player can play in an exhibition match with any club but his own without first receiving a permit from the O.H.A. Executive.

No player is eligible to play in the intermediate series who has played in more than one senior match this season, and no player is eligible to play in the junior series who has played in a senior match or in more than one intermediate match this season.

Club secretaries should see that the players have their certificates on hand early to show to the referee, so that there will be no delay in starting the game.

No player shall play in an O.H.A. scheduled match who is, or has been in the current season, a member of, or has played with, in the same association year, any other club in a recognized hockey association—city and town leaues excepted—without special permission of the Executive.

In the event of two competing clubs failing to agree upon a referee, either club shall notify the secretary at least 36 hours before the schedule time of their match. In the event of no such notification, both clubs shall be considered to have lost the tie.

Each club shall pay half the expenses of the referee. It shall be $5 for all distances up to 30 miles, and he shall be allowed at the rate of 10 cents per mile one way for all distances above 50 miles. When a referee is away from home over night and the mileage is below 30 miles, he shall be allowed mileage for 30 miles at 10 cents a mile.

The expenses of the traveling club are at the rate of 10 cents per mile for one way for eight men, which expenditure must be guaranteed and paid by the home club.

When the home-and-home matches are played in the same city or town, the home club is to take the net proceeds of the gate.

Any club intending to default a match must send to the secretary of the opposing club and also to the secretary of the association at least three days' clear notice, exclusive of the day on which the match was to have been played. Unless the Executive shall otherwise order, any club failing to send such notice shall be subject to a penalty of $25, together with all legitimate expenses incurred by the competing club in connection with such match. The penalty is expulsion.

FAST GAME IS LOOKED FOR ON CHRISTMAS

In the Mutual Street Rink, Toronto, when Peterborough Team Play Marlboros

The Toronto Globe to-day says:—Two big games will be played at the Mutual Street Rink on the holiday nights. The Marlboros are slated to play Peterborough, the holders of the intermediate championship on Christmas night and a great game should result. The Dukes will be stronger than ever this year, and Peterborough, who are aspirants for senior honours, will have to be pretty good to beat them. On New Year's night the Toronto pros. will probably play Ottawa. Manager Mlln has not heard definitely from the Capital City crowd, but if they cannot come a game with some other eastern team will be arranged.

2.25 CLASS AT WINTER RACES OF TURF CLUB

In the programme of the winter races of the Peterborough Turf Club, as given in Tuesday's issue of the Examiner, a mistake was made. Instead of a 2.13 class it should have read 2.35, the provision for the fast ones being made in the free-for-all class.

YOU FELLOWS—I have some rare snaps for men who leave their measures before the holiday rush. Take stock of your wardrobe—count up what you need to complete your outfit—then call on ED. BUFF, tailor and draper, Hunter street, for an estimate.

HOCKEY

The hockey team had another rattling practice and are rapidly rounding into shape for their first game of the season with the Marlboros in Toronto on Christmas Day. Nearly all the seniors were out last night and showed better combination and team work than they have at any other time during the season. Goals were scored frequently during the practice game in which which the teams lined up as follows:—

	Goal.
Hurlubise		Lang
	Point.
Winch		Glover
	Cover Point.
Crowley		Myers
	Rover.
Whitcroft		Ferguson
	Centre.
Parnell		Rose

CURLING

Of the four games at the curling rink last night, that between the Scotch and Welsh skips was the important one. John Cameron captained the former and R. M. Waddell the latter rink. The curling was so keen that the game ended a tie. The following were the scores:—

John Cameron, 7,	R. M. Waddell, 7.
C. N. Brown, 6.	D. Davidson, 10.
J. Stanger, 14.	R. Hicks, 6.
J. Stanger, 8.	D. Hall, 13.

Stratton & Co.

Peterborough Men Abroad

—St. Luke's Parish Magazine in the following terms refers to two former young Peterborough men who are now making names for themselves in other places: "It is always a pleasure to hear good reports from our old boys. We learn that our good friend, Mr. George Mackey, is taking an active interest in the work of the church in the great Northwest, where he helps his clergyman as Sunday school superintendent. A letter from Mr. G. G. Pratley to the rector states that he is getting on well at Clinton, but that he misses his church and his old friends at St. Luke's.

A WINDOW DISPLAY THAT IS MOST ARTISTIC

Schneider Establishment Has a Clever Dressed Window

The window of Schneider's jewellery establishment is attracting widespread attention and admiration, and is one of the most artistically dressed windows in the city. The design is chaste and beautiful, and the window is one that will attract and hold the eye of the passerby. The display reflects great credit upon Mr. Gordon Miller, to whose clever work its success is due.

THE LUCKY WINNERS AT THE KERMESS

Those Who Won in the Draws for the Smaller Articles Offered

Yesterday a number of the articles at the Yuletide Kermess upon which chances had been sold were drawn for and the lucky winners resulted as follows:—

Centre piece, won by Miss Darcy.

Hardanger centre piece, won by Mrs. M. Halpin.

Fancy sofa pillow, won by Miss McPherson.

Silver butter dish, donated by W. A. Sanderson & Co., won by Mrs. T. Ritchie.

Axminster rug, won by Mrs. Cunningham, Lake street.

Hardmade handkerchief, presented Miss Knittel, of San Francisco, won by Irene Lawrence.

Don cushion, presented by Miss Annie Simons, won by Mr. J. McDonough.

Other of the smaller articles are being drawn for to-day and the grand drawing for the larger articles will take place to-morrow night.

In the first list of committees given several names were inadvertently omitted. They were Miss Mona O'Shea, of the cigar counter; Mrs. John Coughlin, Mrs. Dr. O'Sullivan and Mrs. O'Brien, of the fancy work table and Mrs. Bruce Law, of the Religious table.

The Kermess is still in full swing and last night a vast amount of business was done. The hall was thronged all evening and the sales and receipts were correspondingly large. Plenty of seasonable gifts are, however, still on sale and the Kermess is well worth another visit.

To-night the T.A.S. Band will make its first appearance since its reorganization, under the leadership of Bandmaster Miller, and will render an enjoyable programme which should greatly add to the interest of the affair.

The dining room remains a popular feature, a very large number of people taking meals there. To-night at 9 o'clock an oyster supper will be served.

NEW BRANCH TO THE POPULAR RESTAURANT

Mr. W. J. McCallum Secures New Chef and Adds Cooked Meat Branch to His Business

Mr. W. J. McCallum, proprietor of the well-known restaurant, has added a new branch to his business, and in future anyone who so desires, can secure a nicely dressed and well roasted chicken, duck or turkey, all ready for the table. Mr. McCallum has been able to meet this long felt want of the people by having secured a first class chef in the person of Mr. John Jenvery, of London, Eng. The need of a capable and experienced chef has long been known to Mr. McCallum, and he has now secured a good one.

This man comes very highly recommended from several of the best known cafes and restaurants in London, where he has had extensive experience. He is a specialist on meats and poultry of all kinds, and the public will undoubtedly appreciate the fact that they can secure a roast fowl for their dinner, and at a reasonable price, and

Furnished by J. R. Heintz & Co.)

New York, December 20.—Developments this morning were favourable to extension of recovery in the stock market, including no advance in the Bank of England rate, and the active list showed the beneficial effect of further short covering. The market was heavily oversold, and gave evidence of a good technique.

The active issues gained from one to four points. Money was much easier, loaning as low as 3 per cent. in the afternoon. There was quite a lot of profit-taking in the late trading and the market sold off about a point and closed firm, although under the best prices of the day.

MANY THOUSANDS OF IMMIGRANTS FOR THE S. A.

Commissioner Coombs Has Made Preparations for the Reception of no Less Than 25,000 New Comers to Canada Next Year

THE GENERAL MAY VISIT CANADA

Commissioner T. B. Coombs of teh Salvation Army, says the Toronto Star, has returned to the city after two months in the west, in connection with the organisation of the Army's immigration department. Accompanied by Brigadier Howells, he has visited every province in Canada, from Prince Edward Island to British Columbia, as well as Newfoundland, and in the course of his trip he has arranged to distribute the 25,0000 or 30,000 colonists whom the Army intends to bring out from the Old Country. Nearly half of this number will be located in Ontario.

The Commissioner stated yesterday that the Army expected to get reasonable consideration from the transportation companies. The railways had always lent a listening ear to rational propositions, and would, moreover, find it a profitable investment to aid in the work of getting people into the Dominion. Should the General come, as is expected, it will give a fillip to the immigration propaganda for 1907.

THIGH WAS BROKEN IN TWO PLACES

Havelock Brakeman Falls Off Slippery Car and Was Severely Shaken Up

Havelock, December 19. — Last night at the Central Ontario Junction, John Armstrong, a C. P. R. brakeman of this town, while turning a brake on the top of a car coated with ice, slipped and fell over the edge of the car, injuring himself severely. His thigh was broken in two places, about six inches apart. His head and face were badly bruised and two of his back teeth were knocked out.

Mr. Armstrong was brought up to Havelock after the accident on the engine. Drs. Holderoft and Wade set the limb this morning Mr. Armstrong is doing nicely.

UNHAPPINESS DISPELLED

Men and Women Unanimous About It.

Many women weep and wail and refuse to be comforted because their once magnificent tresses have become thin and faded. Many men incline to profanity because the flies bite through the thin thatch on their craniums. It will be good news to the miserable of both sexes, to learn that Newbro's Herpicide has been placed upon the market. This is the new scalp germicide and antiseptic that acts by destroying the germ or microbe that is the underlying cause of all hair destruction. Herpicide is a new preparation, made after a new formula on an entirely new principle. Anyone who has tried it will testify as to its worth. Try it yourself and be convinced. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich. Ormond & Walsh, special agents.

HONOURED BY FELLOW TEACHERS

Staff of Collegiate Presented Mr. Jeffries with Handsome Chair

The teaching staff of the Collegiate Institute made a presentation yesterday to Mr. John Jeffries, B.A., who has severed his connection with the local Institute to accept a position in Toronto. Mr. Jeffries has been a member of the Collegiate staff for seventeen years, and is greatly esteemed and respected by his fellow teachers.

The gift of the staff was a very handsome oak Morris chair, which was sent to Mr. Jeffries' residence yesterday, accompanied by the following letter:

Dear Mr. Jeffries,—Your colleagues cannot allow you to sever your connection with this school without an expression of extreme regard and of the high esteem in which you are held by the whole staff. There is no difference among us in this respect, unless it be that those who know you best respect you most.

As something to remind you of former associations, we ask you to accept this chair, and hope that when the labours of the day are over and you are resting in the same, your recollections of us may not be unpleasant.

Very faithfully yours,
C. Fessendon.

NOVEMBER'S DULL WEATHER AND ITS RESULTS

Toronto Wholesale Florists will be Short of Blooms for Christmas and as a Result Prices will Soar

PETERBOROUGH IS MORE FORTUNATE

It is a mighty fortunate circumstance for those Peterborough people to whom cut flowers are a Christmas essential, that it will not be necessary to depend upon the Toronto florists entirely for the supply, for, according to the Toronto Star, the rose culturists of that city are, to use a slang expression, up against it pretty hard this year. Referring to the scantity of flowers and the cause, the Star says:

A comparatively rare and costly Christmas token will be an offering of flowers this year. Lack of sunlight is the cause, and florists all over the country are in the same predicament as Toronto florists — away behind in their orders and with no prospect of developing the blooms to supply the holiday demand.

"We are away behind," remarked Mr. John H. Dunlop to-day, "so far behind our orders that I doubt if we can supply much more than 25 per cent. of our wholesale demands. The source of the whole trouble is the lack of bright, sunshiny days. During the past five weeks the general percentage of sunlight has been so small as to be hardly worth counting. We have had more sunshine in the past week almost than we have had during the last month. We can't develop the blooms without sunlight.

"It is the character of the weather in November which determines the quality and quantity of the flowers for Christmas. Light is one of the uncontrollable factors we have to deal with in this business. We can supply the heat and build the right buildings, but we cannot overcome lack of sunlight. Artificial light will bring along fruit, but it will not develop flowers. It may produce some growth, but blooms so influenced lack colour and life."

FRY—McCALL

A very interesting event took place yesterday afternoon at five o'clock, at the residence of Mr. J. McCall, of Cavan, when Miss Maggie, daughter of Mr. W. J. McCarrell, of Emily, was united in marriage to Mr. Samuel D. Fry, son of Mr. T. J. Fry, of Emily. Mr. Elsworth Kinnee, of Smith, supported the groom, while Miss Maggie Fry, acted as bridesmaid. The bride was charmingly attired in cream serge with suitable silk trimmings, and the bridesmaid in muslin.

The gift of the groom to the bride was a handsome gold bracelet, with garnet setting, and to the bridesmaid a gold ring with pearl and ruby.

The number of guests present reached over Sixty, while the popularity of the young couple was evidenced by the numerous valuable and useful presents received.

After the ceremony, which was performed by the Rev. J. G. Potter, B.A., of St. Andrew's church, Peterborough, a most sumptuous dinner was served.

The tables which were heavily laden with good things, was tastefully adorned with carnations, while the dining room was beautifully festooned.

Miss Stella Fry played the wedding march.

Mr. and Mrs. Fry will reside in Emily township.

DENCH—HUNT

A wedding of considerable interest in Peterborough, by reason of the fact that the bridegroom is a brother of Mrs. W. R. Morris, of this city, took place in Cobourg on Tuesday. A despatch from that town gives the following report of the event:

A fashionable wedding took place at Cobourg on Tuesday, when Rev. Canon Spragge married Miss Alice Hunt, daughter of Mrs. H. C. Hunt, of Cobourg, to Mr. Frances Edward Denet, of the New York branch of the Canadian Bank of Commerce, son of Mr. Thomas Q. Dench, of Windsor, Ont. The happy event took place in St. Peter's Church in the presence of some sixty guests. The bride was attired in a robe of Limerick lace and wore a veil of the same material. The bridesmaids were Miss Nora Hunt, sister of the bride, and Miss Jessie Dench, of Windsor, sister of the groom. The best man was Mr. W. Hogg, of the Bank of Commerce staff, Toronto. The ushers were Mr. Homer Smith and Mr. W. Leggot, of Toronto, and Mr. W. R. Morris, of Peterborough.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Dench will reside in New York.

The guests present from Peterborough were Dr. and Mrs. Greer, Miss Borradaile, Mrs. Geo. Rubidge and Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Morris.

CELEBRATED THEIR 20TH WEDDING ANNNIVERSARY

Pleasant Function at Home of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Gould, Who Are Related and Well Known in Peterborough

The many friends in Peterborough of Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Gould, of Bowmanville, will be interested in the report in the Statesman of the celebration of their 20th wedding anniversary which follows:—

Mr. and Mrs. N. E. Gould were pleasantly surprised by their relatives and a few friends Saturday night, it being their China Wedding or 20th anniversary of their marriage. After taking unopposed possession of the cozy home, Mr. Jas. Devman on behalf of the mothers, sisters and brothers presented Mrs. Gould with a pretty Limoges China dinner set. Mr. Gould fittingly acknowledged the appreciative words of donors and thanked them for such a useful expression. An oyster supper was greatly enjoyed by the company. Mrs. Jas. Gordon, Mrs. Geo. L. Stevens, Peterborough, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. McMurtry were among the guests.

KOP'S CELEBRATED English Wines and Liquors (non-alcoholic). Just arrived for Christmas and New Year's. These are the finest in Wines put on the market to-day. WAS INJURED IN A TOBOGGAN ACCIDENT

Boy Received Painful Cuts when the Crafts Upset

Harold Meldrum, son of Mr. W. H. Meldrum was painfully injured as a result of an accident while tobogganing on Tuesday night. He was coasting down Sheridan street with a companion when the toboggan slewed and he struck his head on the road and was thrown off into the snow. As a result he received some painful cuts and bruises around the head.

MANY ARTICLES DONATED FOR XMAS DISTRIBUTION

Among the Poor by the People of George Street Methodist Church

At the George street Methodist church last night the annual collection of articles to be given to the poor was held. Each person coming to the prayer meeting brought something to be distributed. The result was that a good many homes will be made brighter by some of these gifts. The congregation responded most liberally to the call.

This afternoon a committee of ladies met to superintend the distribution of the numerous gifts.

Roses, Carnations and other Cut Flowers for Christmas Decorations at MASON'S, Florist

MUSIC AND DRAMA

WHOSE BABY ARE YOU?

The above was the title of the comedy put on last night at the Grand by the Morris-Thurston Company, who are filling a week's engagement here. There was a fair sized audience present, which, no doubt, would have been larger, had Christmas been farther away. As with the two preceding evening's entertainment last night's programme was one of mirth in which everyone present heartily indulged. The Company as a whole were at home in the play and brought out the laughable parts in splendid style. The specialties by J. R. Field and Grace Thurston were loudly applauded, and the moving pictures of the Russo-Japanese naval fight were particularly good. For the fine entertainment provided the Company are to be congratulated, as all their numbers, including the illustrated songs, by Miss Russell, are A1 and up-to-date in every respect.

To-night's bill of fare is the sensational comedy "The Hand of Man," claimed to be a very stirring melodrama. On Friday evening "Mr. Raffles."

PRIVATE CHRISTMAS CARDS

The EXAMINER has the most complete lot of samples of Private Christmas Cards that has yet been shown in Peterborough. They do not cost any more than stock Christmas Cards, and you have your name and greeting printed on the card. Call in and see samples and leave your order so that you may have same in time to mail to your friends. tf

BROKE INTO OFFICE FOR HAUL OF 10 CENTS

Persons who Entered Peter Hamilton Company's Premises Not Enriched

There must be some disappointed amateur cracksmen in Peterborough just now, as the result of a burglary which was committed on Monday night in which the sum realized did not come near equalling the amount of work involved. Some person or persons after much difficulty succeeded in forcing an entrance through a window of the office of the Peter Hamilton Manufacturing Company on George street and rifled the till, in the expectation, evidently, of getting a haul. Fortunately, however, the money with the exception of 10 cents had been taken out of the drawer and the bold burglars had to be contented with that sum. Their feelings can be better imagined than described.

OBITUARY

MARY A. ARMSTRONG

The death occurred yesterday evening of Mary A. Armstrong, relict of the late Thomas Armstrong, at the ripe old age of 79 years. The deceased was the second daughter of the late Jos. Carew, and was born at Wodenston Castle, in the County of Tipperary, Ireland, on August 12, 1827. She was married in 1847, a few years after her arrival in Canada. She has been a resident of this city for over sixty years, and has made many friends during her long residence in Peterborough.

The marriage was blessed by six children, all of whom are still living. They are Mrs. Jas. Walton, Mrs. D. Hunter, Mrs. A. Lang of this city; Jas. D. Armstrong, W. W. Armstrong and B. S. Armstrong, of Cincinnati. The deceased was a faithful member of St. John's church.

The funeral will take place on Friday, at 2.30 p.m. from the family residence, at 467 Water street, and proceed to the Little Lake cemetery.

SOME TALL SHOUTING FROM THE RIVER

Police Heard Young Man "Hollerin'" From Vicinity of the Locks

Some people in history have spoken at times, and their words are heard yet, but that is not, literally, true. But when it comes to real "hollerin'" William Godfrey has them all distanced. According to the police they heard him shouting from the vicinity of the Locks last night, while they were up town. A cab was sent for him, and he was brought to the station, where he rested until this morning. He was very drunk and thinks that he was thrown from a cutter while returning home. He was fined $5, which was paid forthwith.

The Necessity For A Building Permit System In The City

While in Brantford It is Possible to Tell Within a Few Dollars the Amount of the Building Operations for the Year—Impossible in Peterborough

CAUSE IS LACK OF ENTERPRISE

During 1906 Building Permits for $407,925 were Issued in Brantford and 337 Bridges were Erected—Means of Making Progress in the City

By reason of the failure of the City Council to adopt a system of issuing building permits, no correct, or even approximate, idea of the amount of building being done in the city in any year can be gained.

Peterborough's System Obsolete

Compared with Brantford and other progressive cities, Peterborough, in this respect, is still in the village stage. This fact is exemplified in a recent issue of the Brantford Expositor, in which the record of building permits for the year 1906 is given, showing that, during the year now closing, 377 permits were issued for buildings, the erection of which cost according to the estimates in the permits, no less than $407,925, or well on to half a million dollars.

Whether Peterborough beat this record or fell below it, no one has anything but a general hazy idea, and it would be impossible to get two men in the city to make an estimate of the building operations of the year within thousands of dollars of each other.

Only Way To Judge

There is no way by which the progress of the city may be as correctly judged as by the amount and the value of the buildings erected, and, with the system, or, rather, lack of system, in Peterborough, this is an absolute impossibility.

It seems pertinent to ask if it would not be a good thing to be in a position at the end of the year, as Brantford, for instance, is, to present figures showing the exact amount of building done in the city during the twelve months.

Brantford's Growth

Referring to the record in Brantford, the Expositor of yesterday said:

The year of 1906 in building operations has been the greatest on record. The total value of building permits already amounts to $407,925. Of this amount, $139,015 was for factory extensions, including building operations on several local factories. The total value of permits for factory extensions falls far behind the value given for the erection of private residences. The total value in this regard is $268,910, the only large values in this amount being the two additions to Huron and Darling street schools, which totalled $40,000, and the Y.W.C.A., $7,800. The remainder was made up of permits issued for residences and stores. As compared with last year, the record for 1906 is a remarkable one. Last year the total value was $175,310, as compared with $407,925 for this year.

How Live Board Of Trade Can Attract New Industries

The beneficial results of the establishment of a live Board of Trade are told of in an interesting article in a recent issue of Canadian Machinery. A concrete example of how a live manufacturing town has been built up very largely through the work of the Board of Trade is given. The article is as follows:

It is not because they do not wish to grow. Nearly every town and village has a sleepy desire to expand and grow big and outrival its neighbours. People there would like to see industries coming, the town's limits expanding and property values increasing, but, of course, with no effort on their part whatever. Then why do all the municipalities in Ontario where a future for manufacturing is assured, and where opportunities are so numerous, not enlarge as would a well regulated and healthful business in times of prosperity? Apart from natural advantages, the reason and solution lie with the citizens themselves. In most instances, those who could and should help to build up the places in which they reside, and which holds their business interests, are either too engrossed in their own affairs or else entirely indifferent. Take town after town, and municipality after municipality in Ontario, and this is found to be the case. The growth of the town is found to be in direct proportion to the public spiritness of the men who mould opinion and who take the lead in public affairs. This might be laid down as an axiom, and holds in the case of Ontario towns to-day.

Since our last issue we have had an excellent opportunity of finding out how interested the various towns in the Province were in their own growth. In the November issue an editorial reference regarding a United States manufacturing firm intending to come to this country to manufacture was supplemented by a post card sent out to about fifty cities and towns calling attention to the fact. Of these, at the time of going to press, thirty-seven showed no interest in the subject whatever. This being all the more surprising, since the industry in question was not looking for a bonus. It was noticed that, of the thirteen who did reply, the quickest and most businesslike responses were from places having a live Board of Trade. Before the issue had been many hours off the press and before the card calling attention to the opportunity was sent out, the secretary of the Board of Trade of one of the most progressive and enterprising towns in Canada was in our office to get full information. The spirit displayed by the Board of Trade in this instance has been characteristic of its policy for years past. The result is that a manufacturing town has been built up, the result of the citizens' own efforts that, for stability and general beauty, is not surpassed anywhere in Canada.

In direct opposition to this spirit was that shown by another town whose reply came in about two weeks after their attention had been drawn to the matter. It was answered by the town clerk, who, of course, had to bring it before the town council before even making a reply or even asking for further information. Had there been in that town a live, up-to-date Board of Trade the matter could have been taken up immediately, the information secured, and, if necessary, a representative sent to interview the manufacturers in question. The local newspaper comes out announcing the fact that the town is just the place for that industry, and then everybody falls asleep and no further action is taken.

The town whose Board of Trade secretary was first to seek the information has a splendid opportunity of securing this industry. The leading men of this latter town have at all times joined hand in hand for the town's welfare, have sought at all times to build up the town in every legitimate manner possible and have themselves created, for the most part, the town's many promising and flourishing enterprises.

About two years ago, the town of Welland hardly realized that it had a future. One happy day in the town's history the town folk woke up to the fact of the town's possibilities and realized its advantages for industrial concerns. They lost no time in getting together, and within eighteen months worked with such success as to create a record in industrial progress in Canada.

The citizens of many a town may say, and it is often heard by those unwilling to make an effort in their town's behalf, that inasmuch as we have nothing to offer, what is the use of trying to compete with places having greater natural advantages. If those same citizens spent only a fraction of the time, now spent in gossiping in the back room of the local drug store, in planning for the town's future and in themselves creating industries, they would have no complaint to make regarding their town's progress and development.

A POPULAR LEADER HONOURED BY THE MEMBERS

Miss Clarry Presented with Address and Pearl Ring by Members of Charlotte Street Methodist Choir Last Night

EFFICIENT SERVICES WERE RECOGNIZED

There was a special significance attached to the practice of the Charlotte street Methodist church choir last night, other than the fact that it was the last before Christmas. After the work for the evening was concluded the members spent a social hour together and enjoyed refreshments which the ladies had provided in profusion. The feature of particular interest in the gathering, however, was a presentation of which Miss Clarry, the efficient and popular organist and leader, was the subject. On behalf of the members of the choir Miss McCoy presented her with a pearl ring, introductory to the presentation of which was the following address:—

Dear Miss Clarry,—As members of the Charlotte street Methodist choir permit us to recognize the faithful and efficient manner in which, during the past three years you have struck the keynote of harmony in relation to both the musical services of the church and your relationship to the personnel of the choir, and all you have done in these relations.

If our work has been effective in a musical sense, and satisfactory to the congregation, a very large share of the credit for this condition is due to your skilful and patient training.

Your gentleness and tact, conjoined with kindly firmness have served not only to keep us alert in the discharge of our duties, but have made the work of training under your direction a pleasure as well as a profit, and established a professional and personal relations that justify us in regarding you with respect as a musical mentor and with affection as a friend.

We have had the benefit of your instruction as a leader, and we all can and do most heartily bear witness to the conscientious and capable faithfulness with which your work has always been done. Therefore, we take this opportunity of tendering you a slight acknowledgement of our obligation which we ask you to regard as an emblem of the esteem and affection in which you are held.

With this ring go our best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year.

May happiness wait on your days,
And all bright blessings with you linger;
May God's strong arm fence in your ways,
Even as this ring surrounds your finger.

On behalf of the members of the Charlotte street Methodist church choir,

CLARA BELLEGHEM,
MYRA MOORE,
SYDNEY LEE,
J. LEBAR,
C. W. HARMER,

Peterborough, Dec. 20th, 1906.

Miss Clarry was genuinely surprised by the turn which events took, and, in a few earnest words expressed her pleasure at receiving such a handsome gift, and her appreciation of the action of the members of the choir in thus honouring her. To her, she said, the work had also been a pleasure, and she thoroughly enjoyed her associations with the choir.

WAITED UNTIL HIS EMPLOYEES WERE SECURE

Heroic Action of Former Peterborough Man Whose Buildings Were Burned in City of Winnipeg

HUNG TO WINDOW SASH UNTIL RESCUED

A great fire occurred in Winnipeg recently entailing the destruction of a saddlery company's warehouses which was owned by former Peterborough men, the Billington Bros.

A Winnipeg despatch tells of the heroism of Mr. James Billington, who, together with a number of his employees, were in the building at the time of the fire. He hung courageously to an outer window sash until the firemen could bring to safety his employees.

Mr. Billington is a brother-in-law of Mr. A. J. Johnston, of Nugent's drug store, and for many years while in Peterborough was a member of the fire brigade band.

The despatch says:—

Two floors of the Winnipeg Saddlery Company's warehouse on Market square were gutted by fire shortly before noon to-day, entailing a loss of $30,000, which was covered by insurance. James Billington, one of the proprietors, had a narrow escape from being suffocated, as he stood in the window of the top floor waiting for the big aerial ladder to reach him, that he might descend to safety. The remainder of the twenty workmen on the upper floor fled to the roof, as the other avenues of escape were cut off, and stood there in the freezing atmosphere until ladders were placed for them to descend.

Like a captain on a ship, Mr. Billington waited until his employees had reached the roof and then he found his escape shut off. He clung to the outer sash of a six-story window until the big ladder was raised, and although the firemen worked rapidly, it seemed like hours before he was rescued from his perilous position, and the pent up excitement of the crowd found vent in a great burst of cheers.

DOURO COUNCIL HELD BUSY MEETING SATURDAY

Many Accounts Were Ordered to be Paid—Other Business Done

ALL THE MEMBERS WERE PRESENT

The Douro Council met on December 15th pursuant to adjournment. The members were all present.

AUTHOR KILLS HIMSELF TO BOOM HIS WORK

Tries to Crucify Himself on Top of New Zealand Volcano

Wellington, N. Z., Dec. 19th.—Charles Pollard, an Irish author and a native of Belfast, wrote the following directions, it has been ascertained, before he committed suicide on the summit of Rangitoto volcano, a towering island peak overlooking Waitemata Harbor, Auckland, in order to advertise a book which he had written:—

"On the top of Rangitoto will be found my dead body. Please deal with it as your laws direct. Charles Leigh, alias Charles Pollard."

Two police constables upon receiving the note set out at once for the island and proceeded to the top of the volcano. There they found a rude wooden cross five feet six inches high, had been erected on which were carved the words: "Ecce homo, behold the man"—a quotation from the well-known hymn, "Nearer, My God, to Thee."

The cross was dyed with blood, and at the foot lay the dead body of Pollard. A length of rope tied in the form of a shackle hung from the cross and it was evident that Pollard had first tried to tie himself to the cross, and, failing in this, had cut his throat with a razor.

On the ground near Pollard's body was found a screw driver, which he had used to fasten the cross together and also to carve upon the cross the words of the hymn.

Pinned to Pollard's waistcoat the police found a letter explaining his object in committing suicide.

"For a considerable time past", he wrote, "I have devoted my energies to the productioon of a work which deals with vital issues affecting human welfare. Each of these three sections of this quasi-scientific work treats separately of the different aspects of the human personality, corporal and psychic, and of the nature of the relation between these.

"If then you ask, 'Why adopt this eccentric singular course to proclaim these truths?' my reply is because that portion of the work I offered for publication, both in Europe and America, was rejected by the publishers, so that it is only by this extraordinary means that I can hope to succeed in getting it published eventually."

Pollard had been in New Zealand three years and had been receiving remittances regularly from his home in Ireland.

"I understand, sir," said the judge, addressing the husband, "that one of the indignities you have showered upon your wife is that you have not spoken to her for three years. Is that so?"

"It is, your Honour," quickly responded the husband.

"Well, sir," thundered the judge, "why don't you speak to her, may I ask?"

"Simply," replied the husband, "because I don't want to interrupt her."

GLIMPSES OF THE MODE.

Marquisette Makes Some Stunning Frocks This Winter—Ball Gowns.

Marquisette, one of the new materials, a cross between grenadine and gauze, is often trimmed with hand embroidered broadcloth bands or some of the alluring motifs in cloth combining velvet and gold.

Among the most fascinating of the season's buttons are large plaid ones, with a smaller size to match, having chased gold rims and rich, lustrous colorings crossed in red, green and gilt.

Black jet embroidered robes are worn again this year, but with a difference. Glittering paillettes in close curves and scrolls have made way for floral garlands and panel effects. Most of these jetted robes have flounces, which give a fine flare at the foot.

A delightful trimming for a chiffon cloth ball gown is large colored flowers, embroidered directly on the material, surrounded by scrolls of lace insertion and ruffles through which narrow ribbon the same color as the material is woven.

There are pretty little scarfs for theater and card parties of silk in old fashioned oblong shape, rather narrow and edged with one row of silk fringe. A girl in one of these scarfs looks like a copy of a civil war belle.

Square and round necked waists are very fashionable for theater wear this winter. They are not as low as a regular evening bodice; still they are frankly low. The finishing touch is a band of black velvet ribbon worn round the neck just under the ears.

The theater gown illustrated is a charming example of the new style in square necked effect. It is of gray marquisette, trimmed with a number of tiny ruffles put on in festoon fashion and further adorned with steel sequined passementerie.

FRICTION AMONG GUARDS.

Investigation Regarding Governor Van Zant of Toronto Jail Continued.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—Testimony relating to disputes and quarrels amongst fifteen guards of the Toronto jail was heard from witness after witness at the investigation into the conduct of Governor Van Zant before Commissioner Judd in the Court House yesterday. William McIntosh expressed the belief that the guards who were Orangemen did not desire Guard Connolly among their number because the latter was a Roman Catholic.

There were denials that the differences in religious beliefs had anything to do with the enmities which admittedly existed, but that did not prevent a number of questions from lawyers hinting at religious prejudice as the real root of some of the trouble. Almost every guard called had had a dispute of more or less importance with Mr. Connolly, who had a lawyer present looking after his interests.

Further evidence was given to the effect that prisoners were given tobacco in violation of the rules, while the regulations regarding visitors had not been enforced on many occasions. It was stated that some guards had been favored by the Governor, among them being Connolly. Regarding evidence against Mr. Van Zant, it was stated by Mrs. Jennie Ingram, an ex-assistant matron of the jail that the Governor had attempted to embrace her, but she had resented his approaches.

Commissioner Judd adjourned further hearing of the evidence till January 15, but this morning he will make a personal inspection of the jail premises.

CHIC STYLES.

The New Blouse—A Neat Shopping Suit—Magpie Effects Smart.

Some of the newest blouses are very simple in shape, the entire front being worked all over with open embroidery and alternate rows of lace and stitchery. Italian lace as a trimming has the preference. Elbow sleeves are used, and collars grow higher and higher.

A neat little shopping suit is of tweed or dull, indistinct check or plaid, made with a plaited skirt and short basqued coat.

Little Scotch caps in millinery, with funny feathers and outstanding quills, lead all the rest in everyday serviceable millinery.

Stripes and checks and plaids are all echoed in the novelty velvets. Plenty of black and white effects are seen in them, rendered subtle instead of startling by the soft, deep pile of the stuff.

RUSSET BROWN HAT.

For a pretty round face nothing could be more becoming than a little hat with slanting brim moderately wide and a crown formed of soft folds of rose colored cloth. The brim is almost concealed beneath a wreath of large roses, shading from deep to light red.

The charming hat in the cut is of russet brown suede felt. Around the crown is an artistically arranged twist of brown chiffon, and tumbling over the upturned brim are shaded brown ostrich feathers.

Red Tape Dispensed With.

Directness and simplicity are found in the Canadian law courts, says The Penny Magazine. A magistrate will not disdain to call out the names of prisoners and administer the oath himself to save time. There is no red tape. Not long ago a Canadian magistrate, after disposing of forty cases in as many minutes, explained to a visitor that he never allowed a point of law to be raised, his court being a court of justice and not of law! "Not long ago," said he, "a young attorney wanted to quote law against me—he wanted to quote Matthews. 'Well,' said I, 'Matthews may be a great authority on law, but I guess he hasn't got as much authority in this court as I have. Your client will go to prison for six months.'"

A Sound Sleeper.

Burglars who entered a provision shop in Lea Bridge road, Clapton, stole the day's takings from underneath the pillow on which the proprietor was sleeping.

SNAPSHOTS OF FASHION.

Street Frocks Divided Into Two Classes—Footgear to Match Gown.

Street frocks are divided into two classes, either one of which represents an accepted style. The first comprises the strictly man tailored trotteur frock and the second the semidressy, much trimmed wool costume, whose skirts just touch the ground and are accompanied by jackets generally built with vests.

A plain tight fitting short jacket that is particularly becoming to a short woman is made without trimming, even plaits in the back. In front the coat is finished with a vestlike effect of white serge, over which is a pattern done in fine soutache braid.

Color schemes in dress are much in evidence, and even kid footgear is dyed to match the frocks. Lace is often dyed to match the color of the cloth, and the effect is very exclusive.

The French costume pictured is a creation of Laferriere's carried out in black velvet. The skirt is inset with a deep band of guipure lace, and the kimono sleeves are of the same lace. About the guimpe of white Irish lace is a chain of black silk cord and jet dangles.

Australia Prosperous Again.

Australia is in the flood tide of prosperity. Her revenue is nearly half a million sterling in excess of the estimate, and for the coming year the various states will receive back from the Commonwealth Government more than £300,000 above the minimum to which they are entitled. The distribution would be larger still but for the very right decision of the Government to establish penny postage at home and with the rest of the Empire. Australian trade is booming. Exports exceed imports by nearly £20,000,000.—London Saturday Review.

Electrification of Steam Railways.

It is reported that the Canadian Pacific Co., says The Scientific American, has decided to await the outcome of experiments by the New York Central and New York, New Haven & Hartford Railway Companies before taking steps for the electrification of any part of its system. Both the latter railways are spending enormous sums upon experiments, the former with a direct and the latter with a single-phase alternating current. The line from Montreal to Quebec will in all probability witness the first installation. All the electric power necessary can be obtained from the Shawinigan Falls.

WANKS WIFE PRESENT AT WEDDING

When the Aged German Married a Girl As a Blind.

TO RELEASE HER FROM HOME

Remarkable Case of Bigamy Develops In Ottawa—Matilda Haybecker, Wife No. 2, Secured Employment as a Domestic, But Denoument Came and Subsequent Arrest When Wooer Came to Marry.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—A remarkable case of bigamy has developed in this city. August Wank, a German, aged 60, married a girl named Matilda Haybecker for the purpose of securing her release from the Home for Friendless Women, and Wank's wife was present at the wedding as witness.

The girl was under contract to serve the home for two years and the Wanks resorted to this device to help her out. After the marriage she secured employment as a domestic and the Wanks returned home pleased with having freed the girl.

The revelation came when a street car conductor and South African veteran wooed the fair Matilda and was to make her his wife. By some means the Lutheran clergyman heard of the Wank escapade and refused to marry them. The police were then informed and Wank was arrested. He is on remand for a week.

FORCE WAS EMPLOYED.

Teachers and Students of the Famous St. Sulpice Expelled.

Paris, Dec. 21.—The teachers and students of the famous St. Sulpice Seminary here were expelled yesterday.

The superior formally insisted that a policeman lay a hand on his shoulder as proof that violence was used. A number of English, Irish and Scotch students, and one American read an energetic protest. The foreign students also announced their intention of calling the attention of their embassies to the action of the authorities.

In several interior places yesterday troops were compelled to use force in entering the seminaries.

Vatican Says: "Just as Bad."

Rome, Dec. 21.—A semi-official note, issued by the Vatican yesterday, says that the text of the new French Government bill, amending the church and state separation bill of 1905, is as bad as the former regulations, "being a maximum of oppression with a minimum of appearance," and aggravates the position of the church in everything without this being apparent to the general public.

REV. ROBT. KERR'S PLAN.

Kept Railway Fares Which Servant-Hunters Were Pleased to Send.

Montreal, Dec. 21.—Another petty swindling operation has been exposed in this city, this time the alleged swindler being a man passing under the title of Rev. Robert Kerr.

He advertised in the Toronto papers that he had two Scotch girls to place in positions, and received many enquiries, to all of which he agreed to send the girls. All that was necessary was to send railway fare. This was done by many people.

It is believed he took in between $400 and $500 on the plan.

VENEZUELA TROUBLED.

Castro Dying and Situation Is Becoming Very Strained.

Port of Spain, Trinidad, Dec. 21.—Latest Caracas advices indicate that President Castro cannot live more than a week longer. Should he die First Vice-President Gomez will assume the presidency, and will be supported by a large section of the army.

A large element of the country, however, will oppose him.

President Castro has been making strenuous, but ineffectual, efforts to secure peace in the country.

Rioters Sentenced.

Hamilton, Nov. 21.—The four prisoners found guilty of charges arising out of the street car riots, were sentenced yesterday morning by Judge Snider. They were dealt with as follows: John Seamens, a Greek candy merchant, two months for assaulting a soldier; Alex. Thompson, rioting, one year; Judson Ryerson, assaulting Sergt.-Major Dore, eighteen months; James Morin, a member of an unlawful assembly, one year.

Prince Likes Canadian Apples.

London, Dec. 21.—(C.A.P.)—By the request of J. H. Turner, agent-general of British Columbia, Lord Strathcona communicated with the Prince of Wales, asking his acceptance of a barrel of British Columbia apples. The prince, replying, said he had noticed luscious apples at the exhibition the other day, and would be pleased to have a barrel.

Killed on the Track.

Komoka, Dec. 21.—Harry Taylor, nightwatchman of steam shovel at G.T.R. gravel pit, Komoka, while walking on the track west of the station was struck and instantly killed by a freight train. He came from Manchester, England.

Imprisoned In Mine.

Bakersfield, Cal., Dec. 21.—Hicks, the entombed miner, is still imprisoned. The rescuers are now working on a new level and expect to reach him. He continues cheerful.

Jap Show of Power.

San Francisco, Dec. 21.—Consul K. Uyeno yesterday said that, despite contrary reports, Japanese warships will visit this port within the next few months.

Rebellious Opium Dealers.

Berlin, Dec. 21.—A despatch from Tientsin, published yesterday, describes the situation as critical owing to the agitation of the South Chinese opium dealers and owners of gambling houses, who are discontented as a result of reforms and the suppression of the opium traffic. Several depots of arms have been discovered.

Foreigners Make Money.

Winnipeg, Dec. 21.—The Hebrew residents of Winnipeg have remitted to their old homes in Europe during the past year the sum of $500,000.

Three thousand dollars in cash has been sent by the Chinamen of Winnipeg to the Orient during the past six days.

Appointed Liberal Organizer.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—Mr. J. F. M. Stewart, general secretary of th Canadian Manufacturers' Association, has been appointed to superintend the work of organization for the Liberal party in this city.

LOSES HIS MEMORY.

Sad Affliction Overcomes the Right Hon. Joseph Chamberlain.

New York, Dec. 21.—A despatch from London says: The long retirement of Joseph Chamberlain owing to gout and other ailments has led to constant assertions and contradictions regarding the gravity of his condition.

The Chronicle states that he greatly overtaxed his strength at the celebrations in honor of his 70th birthday at Birmingham, with the result that he lost his memory completely.

The past became a blank to him, and he could not remember what had taken place even a few hours before, and although his other faculties were and are uninjured, his memory is gone.

NEGRO AND WHITE DIE.

Freak Fatality as Result of Ship's Boiler Explosion.

New Orleans, Dec. 21.—Details of the Packet-Scovell explosion place the number of dead at 12, four whites and eight negroes.

A part of the boiler, after cutting through a mast, continued on its flight for 200 yards, plowing up the earth for 50 feet.

The body of Lavell Yerger was found on the bank beneath a log, which had crushed out his life. Under this same log was the body of a negro, with whom Yerger had been talking.

Ship and Cargo Total Loss.

Victoria, B.C., Dec. 21.—The steamer Salvor returned last night from the wreck of the steamer Tasmis, which struck on Carnigan rocks, Halaclava Island, last Friday, having found salvage impossible. It is not expected that any of the cargo of 1,500 tons of ore and 600 tons of salmon will be saved.

Ontario Bank Report.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—The Ontario Bank returns in yesterday's statement shows assets amounting to about $200,000 over liabilities. The loans for other banks amount to $6,000,738, and the current loans by the Ontario Bank are $5,618,955. The overdue debts are $1,171,307 and the circulation of notes $479,936.

The U.S.'s Opportunity.

London, Dec. 21.—(C. A. P.)—Henry Chaplin, at Eastbourne, referred to the Canadian intermediate tariff and said it seemed unlikely that the United States would neglect so great an opportunity.

As regards Germany, the matter was of immediate urgency. In view of this consideration they must make it clear to Canada that as soon as the Unionists come into power they will be prepared for reciprocity. No one recognized the importance of this branch of fiscal reform more than Mr. Balfour, whom Chaplin urged to make a pronouncement.

Sent to the Penitentiary.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—Joe Kavanaugh and Mike Hough were sentenced to the penitentiary for three years by Magistrate Denison yesterday. They were "nailed" in the attempt to rob the Wreyford store on the night of Dec. 12. John Daly, a "pal," got off with six months in the Central.

CATTLE MARKETS.

Cables Unchanged—Sheep and Cattle Steady—Hogs Lower at Chicago.

London, Dec. 20.—Canadian cattle in the British markets are quoted at 10c to 12½c per lb.; refrigerator beef, 8½c to 8¾c per pound.

TORONTO LIVE STOCK.

Toronto, Dec. 20.—The receipts were large again, upwards of 100 loads, counting Wednesday and Thursday. There have been more cattle than were required. This caused trade to be bad, with prices much lower all round.

Exporters.

There were none, excepting a few bulls, which sold at $3.50 to $4 per cwt.

Butchers.

Trade in butchers' cattle was slow, the best picked lots selling at $4 to $4.25, with a few odd cattle at $4.40 and $4.50, but the cattle bringing the latter prices were mighty scarce. Good loads sold at $3.75 to $4 per cwt.; medium, $3.50 to $3.65; common, $3.25 to $3.40; cows, $2.50 to $3.25; canners, at $1 to $1.75 per cwt.

Feeders and Stockers.

Few offering and not many wanted. One load of good short-keeps, 1180 lbs. each, sold at $4.25 per cwt.; feeding steers, $3.25 to $3.75 per cwt.; stockers ranged from $2.50 to $3 per cwt., with one lot at $3.10 per cwt.

Milch Cows.

Trade fair at a little easier quotations. Prices ranged from $35 to $55 each.

Veal Calves.

Veal calves sold at about the same prices, ranging at $3.50 to $6.50 per cwt.

Sheep and Lambs.

Sheep sold at about steady prices, but lambs were easier, selling at about $5.00 to $5.80 per cwt. Export sheep were quoted at $4.75 per cwt.

Hogs.

Receipts were light, with prices unchanged, at $6.15 for selects and $5.90 for lights and fats.

EAST BUFFALO CATTLE MARKET.

East Buffalo, Dec. 20.—Cattle—Receipts, 250 head; light demand and steady; prices unchanged.

Drinks Carbolic Acid.

Magnetawan, Dec. 21.—Patrick Langane, foreman in Burton Bros.' camp No. 3, near here, took a dose of carbolic acid Wednesday night, mistaking it for cough mixture, and died in less than 10 minutes. His brother, John Langane, who was working at the same camp, left yesterday for Victoria Harbor with the body, where the deceased will be buried.

Dreaded Insomnia

"I was afflicted with nervousness, and dreaded insomnia so that I never knew for three years what a full night's sleep was. Heart pains and headaches almost drove me wild. I had spells of weakness and cramps in my stomach and limbs. Finally Dr Chase's Nerve Food was brought to me and eight boxes cured me." — Mrs. Jas. Wesley Wever, , a veteran of the Fenian Raid, Port Dalhousie, Ont.

House Must Change.

London, Dec. 21.—In the House of Commons, Herbert Gladstone, replying to Mr. Watt, said the Premier could not promise legislation for the free importation of Canadian cattle. The House had decided against it and the matter must remain as at present unless the House saw fit to change its views.

Will Die From Fall.

London, Dec. 21.—Henry Bruce, a caretaker at the car barns, accidentally fell into a pit over which the cars are run for cleaning, and sustained injuries to his head, and back which are likely to be fatal.

Synopsis Of Canadian North-We HOMESTEAD REGULATIONS

Any even numbered section of Dominion Lands in Manitoba or the Northwest Provinces, excepting 8 and 26, not reserved, may be homesteaded upon by any person who is the sole head of a family, or any male over 18 years of age, to the extent of one-quarter section, of 160 acres, more or less.

Entry may be made personally at the local land office for the district in which the land is situate.

Homestead Duties.—A settler who has been granted an entry for a homestead is required to perform the conditions connected therewith under one of the following plans:—

(1) At least six months' residence upon and cultivation of the land in each year during the term of three years.

(2) If the father (or mother, if the father is deceased) of any person who is eligible to make a homestead entry under the provisions of this Act, resides upon a farm in the vicinity of the land entered for by such person as a homestead, the requirements of this Act, as to residence prior to obtaining patent may be satisfied by such person residing with the father or mother.

(3) If the settler has his permanent residence upon farming land owned by him in the vicinity of his homestead, the requirements of this Act as to residence may be satisfied by residence upon the said land.

Application for patent should be made at the end of three years, before the Local Agent, Sub-Agent or the Homestead Inspector.

Before making application for patent the settler must give six months' notice in writing to the Commissioner of Dominion Lands at Ottawa of his intention to do so.

CAREY MURDER CASE AT BRAMPTON

All the Evidence For Crown and Defence is Now In.

MRS. CAREY ON THE STAND

Only Witness Called For Defence Was the Prisoner, Who Bore Strain For Three Hours—Denied Ever Being at Scene of Murder Except When Taken In Connection With Case—Husband Fooled.

Brampton, Dec. 21.—The evidence in the Carey murder case was concluded last night and counsel will address the jury in the morning. The prisoner, Mrs. Carey, was upwards of three hours in the box and stood the strain with remarkable courage. Mr. Godfrey rested his case on the evidence of the prisoner.

Several witnesses told of seeing a strange woman at Port Credit on March 17. Two young men, Harrison and Hare, told of following the woman, seeing her go into the shed, and in a short time come out again. They then went into the shed, but found nothing. When they looked for the woman she had disappeared. Neither of them swore that the prisoner was the woman.

Detective Greer, who had charge of the case for the crown, was placed in the box. He told of the prisoner's arrest in Parkdale. He was acquainted with a Mrs. Snow, who had a baby farm. The prisoner, known as Alice Carey, then as Mrs. Foster, had been brought into touch with Mrs. Snow, through a decoy advertisement. Mrs. Foster had replied to this advertisement, and Mrs. Snow, on instructions from witness, wrote a letter to Mrs. Foster, stating that she had a child for adoption. Detective Greer had the Port Credit child murder case in hand, and thinking that Mrs. Foster's tallied with the description given of the woman wanted in connection with that crime, she was arrested.

Applied for Children.

Mrs. Snow, Northcote avenue, Toronto, in her examination-in-chief, was shown a letter from the prisoner's house, signed by her and addressed to Mrs. R. Foster. Mrs. Snow was asked to give some account of this letter, when she replied that the prisoner, whom she knew by that name, had on various occasions applied to her for children to adopt. Feeling somewhat suspicious, she mentioned the matter to Detective Greer. Acting on his suggestion she inserted an advertisment in The Telegram, asking the lady who had called some time previously, giving the name of R. Foster, to call again. The prisoner called one Monday evening in July. The accused saw the child, and Mrs. Snow said she had another child for adoption, when the prisoner replied, "Would it not be as well to take them both as twins?" This suggestion was agreed to and $25 was mentioned as the amount for each child. Presently Detective Greer appeared and was introduced as the father of the first child. No definite arrangements were then made, but Mrs. Carey left the house, taking one of the children with her. Later Mrs. Snow saw her again at the police station, she having been arrested on a charge of vagrancy.

Denies Payment by Detective.

In cross-examination Mrs. Snow admitted having talked the circumstances of the Port Credit mystery over with Mr. Greer and having been told that the description of Mrs. Foster corresponded with that of the woman who was wanted for the crime. She positively denied that she had received money or promise of money from Greer.

Mrs. Johns, 105 Grange avenue, Toronto, swore that Mrs. Carey had called at her house the first Tuesday in April, asking if Mrs. Johns had in her maternity home a baby that she could adopt.

A slight sensation was caused in court when Mrs. Johns, with a theatrical wave of the hand towards the prisoner, as she was describing the way she was dressed when she called upon her, said: "I think I can hardly be mistaken that the hat that person has now is the same hat she wore then."

This called forth the remark from the prisoner, "You are a splendid actress."

Confession to Police Matron.

Mrs. Whiddon, police court matron, related how the prisoner, after being warned, had said to her that she would give her $100 if she would help her to get away, as she felt herself in a bad fix. She also asked the witness if she could tell her how it was that the police had got on to her, as she had been taking babies everywhere, and had never before been interfered with. Yet another question she put to the witness was whether the woman making money out of this business was to go free while she was to be punished.

Witness related how she supplied paper and envelopes to write a letter, and how the prisoner had told her that if she said anything about what she had told her she would get her into trouble for having supplied the writing materials.

Mr. Godfrey failed to shake this evidence. This ended the case for the crown.

Prisoner Testifies.

There was a ripple of excitement as counsel for the defence called Mrs. Carey to testify in her own behalf. The prisoner entered the box with an air of confidence. She said she was 40 years of age, was born in England, went to Australia a few years ago, where she married her present husband. They returned to England in 1904, and after a short stay there came to Canada in October of that year, bringing with them a child adopted in Australia, which is still alive, and which is now in a children's home in Toronto. Two other children, born in Princess Charlotte Hospital, in London, were also brought out to Canada, and died in Toronto when five weeks old. These children, she represented to her husband, were born to her, and she further surprised the court with the statement that her husband had never known the contrary until he had heard it in court during her testimony.

History of Mrs. Carey.

In cross-examination, Attorney Field led the prisoner through a history of her life. She had been on the stage as a singer, dancer, and actress until she married Carey. She never had any children, except by adoption. Although she had adopted five, she never got anything for so doing.

She denied ever being in Port Credit, except when brought there in connection with the hearing of this case. She admitted having gone under various aliases, and when asked to explain why she had done so, failed to give any satisfactory answer. She denied Mrs. Whidden's statement, and quite explicitly contradicted Mrs. Johns, saying that she had never seen the woman, except in court on this occasion.

"SLEEPING SICKNESS" CURE.

Third Section and An Extra Wire to Cobalt Authorized.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—An order-in-council was passed yesterday authorizing the extension of the T. & N. O. Ry. from its present terminus to the junction with the G. T. P. This will be the third section of the road, and will be from 37 to 40 miles in length, from the junction of the Abitibi and Black rivers northward.

The second section, which is nearing completion, is 100 miles in length.

Hon. Mr. Matheson said yesterday that he expected the Government would finance the project, without further borrowing, out of the ordinary reserves.

"We expect the Dominion subsidy, of course," he added.

The total cost of the road has been $12,000,000. The first section, to New Liskeard, averaged $45,000 per mile; the second section, to Lake Abitibi, $40,000. The branches, 15 3-4 miles, totaled $450,000. Rolling stock is valued at $850,000.

Another telegraph line from North Bay to Cobalt will be constructed without delay at a cost of $8,000. There are already three Government wires to the camp.

NOBEL PEACE PRIZE.

Washington, Dec. 21.—President Roosevelt announces the acceptance by John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, as a representative of labor, and Marvin Hughitt, president of the Chicago and Northwestern Railway Co., as a representative of capital, of the positions tendered them by the President, as members of the board of trustees, to whom he will convey the amount of the Nobel peace prize.

According to the President's plans, the chief justice of the Supreme Court, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Secretary of Commerce and Labor will be the other members of the board. The fund amounts to over $37,000, and its income is to be expended in bringing together in conference at Washington representatives of labor and capital to discuss industrial problems.

Patrick Escapes Electric Chair.

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 21.—Governor Higgins yesterday commuted to imprisonment for life the sentence of death under which Albert T. Patrick has remained nearly five years, since his conviction of the murder of William Marsh Rice, the aged and eccentric millionaire of New York City.

Strathcona Gives 1,000 Guineas.

London, Dec. 21.—(C.A.P.)—Sir Robert Cranston announced at Edinburgh that Lord Strathcona had subscribed 1,000 guineas to the Scottish National Exhibition of 1908, at which he anticipated a good exhibit from Canada.

80 Carloads of Fuel.

Superior, Wis., Dec. 21.—The Great Northern is making up a train of 80 coal cars to be rushed through to Grand Forks, N. D., on passenger train schedule, in order to relieve the fuel famine in the northwest.

OBJECTIONABLE BILL IS WITHDRAWN

Premier Announces the Exit of the Education Bill.

PEOPLE'S WILL TO PREVAIL

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, In Announcing Government's Decision, Says a Way Will Be Found to Neutralize Lord's Opposition—Says Lords Have No Right to Lecture House of Commons.

London, Dec. 21.—The education bill was buried by Premier Campbell-Bannerman in the House of Commons yesterday afternoon. After a speech defending the course of the Lower House in rejecting the House of Lords amendments and repudiating the claim of the peers, that they have the right to lecture the Commons on the subject, the Premier announced that the Government had decided to withdraw the measure.

Lords' Action Intolerable.

"Is the general election and its result to go for nothing?" he asked with warmth. "It is intolerable that the second chamber, while one party is in power, shall be its willing servant, and that when that party is emphatically condemned by the country it shall still be able to thwart and distort the policy which the electors approved. It may be necessary to submit for the moment, but neither the resources of the British constituencies nor of the House of Commons are yet wholly exhausted, and a way must and will be found whereby the will of the people, expressed through their elected representatives in the House of Commons, will be made to prevail."

Prolonged cheering followed the speech.

King Receives the Premier.

King Edward yesterday received the Premier at Buckingham Palace. It is understood that His Majesty wished to be fully informed regarding the Cabinet views on the political situation, as affected by the education question.

MR. BECK ON POWER.

Minister Tells What Cheap Electric Energy Will Accomplish.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—At last night's public meeting in Association Hall Hon. Adam Beck gave reasons why the power bylaw should be carried on Jan. 1st next.

Mr. Beck gave a cogent and succinct resume of the work done by the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, substantiated the absolute reliability of the figures submitted as to cost of power, etc., urged the immense advantages that would accrue to the city through cheap power, and finally answered most conclusively a score of questions tending to induce the electors to doubt the wisdom of committing the city to so great an undertaking.

The chief objections offered to the scheme, which have been urged during the past few weeks, were embodied in a series of questions proposed by Mr. Robert McKay, a local lawyer, and were answered seriatim by Mr. Beck, assisted by Mr. A. F. Lobb, counsel to the Commission.

The Price of Power.

Mr. Beck also made an important announcement bearing upon the price at which power was to be delivered to the municipalities. The question put was:

"How would the Hydro-Electric Commission get this power if required by the municipalities?" He replied:

"The Commission called for tenders from the power companies at Niagara Falls, and the figures that we have given are based upon the maximum prices asked by the power companies themselves for power delivered for transmission at the Falls.

"And this contract will be a benefit to the power company. It will secure a good customer—the Province of Ontario—at a good price. Yes, a high price. And yet they cry that we are driving capital from Ontario."

Express Cars Burned.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—Three Dominion Express cars have been burned at Powassan, on the C.P.R., between North Bay and Winnipeg, and officials will make a rigid investigation. The cars contained a number of Christmas presents from the east. One surmise is that a package of highly combustible material, probably flashlight powder, has ignited. Although the company will not knowingly receive such stuff, it is frequently shipped.

Government Printers Ask More.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—A delegation from the linotype operators of the Government Printing Bureau waited on the Secretary of State yesterday and asked for an increase in the wages paid. The arrangement in 1903 was to give what was paid in Toronto and Montreal. The linotype men say that they are only getting the minimum, and want the average rate. Mr. Scott asked them to appoint a committee.

Visited the Jail.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—Commissioner Judd visited Toronto jail yesterday in connection with the Van Zant enquiry. Property Commisioner Harris, Inspector Bruce Smith, J. D. Bain and City Solicitor Chisholm accompanied him. Governor Van Zant explained the jail and its inner workings.

Premier at Brother's Side.

Ottawa, Dec. 21.—Sir Wilfrid Laurier left yesterday afternoon for St. Lin to attend the bedside of his half brother, Charlemagne Laurier, M.P. for L'Assomption, who is understood to be dying.

Killed By Fall.

Welland, Dec. 21.—John McAllister, a young man, was instantly killed here yesterday by a fall from a scaffold on Beatty & Sons' Works. Alex. Brown was also badly injured.

TO DISSOLVE "ICE TRUST."

Attorney-General Begins Suit In New York Against American Ice Co. to That End.

Washington, Dec. 21.—The House yesterday adjourned until Jan. 3, 1907.

Edmonton, Dec. 21.—The Alberta Legislature has been called for Jan. 14.

St. Paul, Dec. 21.—Reports of a food famine in North Dakota are denied by railroad officials and wholesale grocers.

London, Dec. 21.—At the last university examination of St. Andrew's, Mrs. Rea of Calgary gained the degree of LL.A.

Torpnto, Dec. 21.—Nine prominent bakers are summoned to appear in court this afternoon, charged with making short-weight bread.

Hollidaysburg, Pa., Dec. 21.—Mrs. Elizabeth Stalker of Williamsburg celebrated the 100th anniversary of her birth Wednesday night. Among the telegrams of congratulations she received was one from President Roosevelt.

Galt, Dec. 21.—Chief Gorman yesterday morning arrested John Brown, wanted in Guelph on a charge of passing a forged cheque. Brown admitted he was the man wanted in Guelph. He said his home was in Cainsville, near Brantford.

Albany, N.Y., Dec. 21.—Attorney-General Mayor, in the name of the people of the State of New York, yesterday began an action against the American Ice Co. in the Supreme Court of New York County for the dissolution of the so-called "ice trust."

Chicago, Dec. 21.—At a meeting of creditors of Zion City estate Wednesday night, Receiver John C. Hateley announced that conditions demand that immediate arrangements be made for selling the entire property. Many of the creditors, he said, are in absolute poverty.

Toronto, Dec. 21.—The executors of the estate of the late William McCabe, formerly managing director of the North American Life Insurance Co., have sold two farms comprising 340 acres, situated one mile west of Bronte, on the lake shore, to E. B. Osler, M.P., of Toronto, for $40,000 and $50,000. Mr. McCabe had developed these lands to a higher stage of cultivation than any other fruit farm in that district.

Kidney Disease and Gravel

"I was afflicted with kidney disease and gravel in its most severe form, having often a stoppage of water accompanied by the most dreadful agony. By using Dr. Chase's Kidney Liver Pills the disease was eradicated from my system in less than six months. I have gained in weight, sleep well and feel better than I have for twenty years."—Mr. W. Smith, Port Dalhousie, Ont.
